FIREBLIGHT CONTROL!

Thousands of apple and crabapple trees are lost every year from fireblight. Removing the infected parts of the tree and spraying the blossoms with a disinfectant are the measures for dealing with this disease recommended by P. D. McCalla, Alberta's Supervisor of Horticulture.

Fireblight causes the blossoms and leaf clusters of susceptible apple varieties to turn brown and wilt after which the twigs turn black and shrivel up. Often cankerous areas of shrunken and discolored bark appear on the parts of the branches where the diseased twigs are attached. This disease as nofars be quite successfully controlled by removing the diseased parts while the tree is still dormant when only the odd tree is affected and the variety is not very susceptible. The cuts should be made well back from the edge of the infected area andthe tool sterilized between each incision with lysol or a solution of bichloride of mercury (1 part to 500 parts of hot water).

In cases where there are other diseased trees in the neighborhood, as often happens in a city or town, Mr. McCalla recommends spraying all the blossoms with a weak Bordeaux mixture (2-4-40) or an antibiotic such as Agristrep. This method of approach may not entirely eliminate the disease because bees carry it from other infected trees, but it will considerably reduce the infection. During the growing season it may also be necessary to keep removing flower clusters, leaf clusters, cankers twigs and even branches which become diseased.

GARDEN SLUGS!

Slugs are grey, soft-bodied, slimy creatures, legless and with no apparent head. They are not insects but belong to a group of animals known as Molluscs. This group includes such things as oysters, clams and other shellfish. This snail-with-out-a-shell has become a serious pest in gardens in many pests of Albert. Although its diet is chiefly foliage it also includes ripe strawberries, potatoes, carrots and other crops.

Slugs feed mostly at night, rasping holes in their food with a horny filelike mouthpart. They move from plant to plant leaving a trail of slime that dries and glistens in the sun — a sure indication that slugs are in the garden. During the day they hide under rubbish of all kinds, thus protected from dyicication and natural enemies such as birds. Slugs may be kept to a minimum i nthe garden by denying them places to hide. In doing this do not think only of boards, leaves and plant trash, but also of overplanted areas especially where the soil surface is continually wet. In such situations the slugs will often continue feeding on the lower leaves during the day as well.

Metaldehyde is the only chemical avvisable in small quantities that will attract and kill slugs. Baits have been on the market for some time but it must be fresh stock to be effective and products containing metaldehyde are now available. These retain their strength longer in the container as well as after being applied. It is important to read the directions for application and follow them carefully.

Hardisty Voters Approve Paving

Ninety-one Hardisty voters turned out to the poll on July 19th to vote 95 percent in favor of the money by-law to borrow $40,000 to be used in paving several blocks of the steets in the town.

Of the 91 who voted, 87 were in favor, 4 against, none spoiled.

It is expected that the preliminary arrangements will be completed in a short time, allowing work to be completed before the cold weather.

Ralph Gordon Killed In Accident

Mr. Relph Gordon, well known electrician of Killam was electrocuted last week when high tension wires became ensnarled during a wiring job on the R. Kinzer farm.

Mr. Gordon was stringing a line for additional facilities o nthe "Dick" Kinzer farm when the accident took place. Assisting him was an employee on the farm, who also suffered severely from the shock, and is a patient in the Killam Hospital.

It is believed that death was sudden since the voltage in the line was near the 22000 capacity.

Mr. Gordon, a native of the Hughenden area, attended high school in Sedgewick, and received his training as an electrician there. He was recently employed by Killam Electric, until he branched out into business for himself under the firm name of Gordon's Electric and Gasfitting.

Funeral services were held from the United Church in Killam on Sat. July 21st.

F.U.A. Newsletter

● Unless rains come fast and in abundance, the grain crop of Southern Alberta can be about written off. Due to the drought conditions of the last two years there are absolutely no sub-soil reserves left to carry the crop through the most difficult period of their growth. Though in quite a few places more rain has fallen this summer than last or even than the long-time average, these rains have done nothing at all to create any subsoil reserves. If no rains are forthcoming it will be a calamity for the farming community in a huge area stretching from the foothills northward to Olds, Stettler, Coronation, Wainwright and eastward to the Saskatchewan border. The moisture situation is also critical in an area from Olds to Millet and westward to the mountains. The 1961 crops in these districts found some sub-soil reserves to carry them through the most critical period, preventing total loss. These reserves are now gone, and the lush growth, resulting from the surface moisture provided by the good June rain, has made the crops much more vulnerable. Only a few days of hot weather can mean disaster.

● Crops in southeastern Alberta are slowly turning brown, particularly on stubble. Summerfallow is holding up somewhat better, but a definite pattern of drought has been formed. Only the hoariest rains could be of some assistance in this area. Showers can't provide any relief. The grain crop situation here is worse than last year. The feed situation in this district however, will not be bad, and it is estimated that only 1/4 of the amount of feed will have to be shipped in compared with last year.

● Elsewhere in the province the situation appears to be good with the exception of some areas of light soil in Central Alberta. Too much rain north and east of Edmonton has had some damaging effect.

● From August 5-11 and FU and CDA Young People's Camp will be held in the 4-H club rooms at the Edmonton Exhibition Grounds. Age limits are 16-24. This camp is organized for PUA districts 3 and 5.

● At Gold Eye Lake Camp, about 110 miles west of Red Deer, an FU and CDA Young People's Camp will be held for Central and southern Alberta from July 29 to August 5. Age limits are 16 to 21.

● In 1961 Canadians bought for an amount of $1,112 million on time. At the end of the year they owed $1, 162 million. This means that they went into debt about $50 million more than they were able to pay. In 1953 the total purchase on time were $948 million, but by the end of the year the amount owing was only $701 million. Thus nine years ago Canadians were paying off faster than they were buying.

Lightning Strikes Feed Stack On Harry Munro Farm

A violent electrical storm last week caused extensive damage to stacks of baled hay on the Harry Munro farm, south of Sedgewick. Lightning struck a stack of bales near the barn, setting it afire. For a time the safety of the barn and house were in doubt, but the arrival of a downpour of rain plus the Sedgewick Fire Brigade and help from neighbors, put the blaze under control with a minimum of loss to the stacked feed.

THIS IS NOT A BAD PLACE TO LIVE!

The other day I was talking to a man from the Peace River country and the discussion got around to the crop conditions and farming in general. He told me that last year they had bumper crops up there, and that this, combined with the government opening up big blocks of new land for homesteading and farming, had no doubt been the reason for another big influx of settlers into the area, especially from Saskatchewan where conditions recently have been anything but ideal for agriculture. This recalled a statement made by my father 40 some years ago, when he said that nowhere else had he found such ideal natural conditions for vegetation growth as he found in Alberta. This in turn of course brought me back to thinking of our own locality, this section of the province, and I realized, as many others have, that this section of the country is not a bad place at all to live and work in. During my time here since 1915 I have seen good and bad times but on the whole have experienced no real hardships. The more you read of conditions elsewhere and the more you see by travelling around of the adversity visited upon other areas, the more you realize that this area has been blessed with far more riches than many of us appreciate.

THAT JUNE 18TH ELECTION!

Over a month has passed since the June 18 election and so far as we can learn, the only people happy over the mess are the Social Creditors. They feel that their showing will be indented further in the next election which they think will be forthcoming in 1963. But even in their joy they must feel in a peculiar position with their leader in Alberta and their support in Quebec.

I don't think there has ever been an election which has been less satisfactory than the last one and at this point it is indeed difficult to see what the outcome will be. Another election next year certainly will not be a repetition of 1958 when Diefenbaker turned a minority into one of overwhelming strength. Mr. Diefenbaker fully realizes this, and so will delay an election as long as possible, and just how long, will depend on the two smaller opposition parties. Social Credit leadership says the party will not support the Conservative austerity program, which is a must if we are to get back on our feet and out of the sorry mess created by the Conservative government. It's all very well to blame the previous administration for our aches and pains, but four years was enough to straighten it out. The fact it that conditions became progressively worse.

Elections cost a lot of money. There is cost to the party organizations, cost to the candidates, and cost to the public. Party treasurers and members will be inclined to hold off an election as long as possible. However, Mr. Diefenbaker is not likely to perform a marriage with either the S. C's or the N. D. P's, unless he is willing to abandon all his party principles, and unless the others are willing to adopt soce Conservative qualities. As this seems highly improbable, anything may happen when Parliament gets down to business — probably in September.

The financial crisis in Canada is not getting any better, and if these problems (we say problems because it is not a crisis, but a series of crisis we face) come into view very quickly this fall, anything could happen. The dollar might be held at its present level, or it may be turned loose to decide its own level. This could mean 60c, and could be followed by a new financial appreciation.

The crux of the situation is that the government has been spending too much money, and the people have been "living too high on the hog" for some years, and I think the average citizen has now depeloped more financial sense than the politicians are going to give them credit for in any future election.

CANADIAN YES, KHRUSHCHOV KEEP QUIET!

An amusing sidelight of the election was the fact that Khrushchov had the Soviet embassy in Ottawa deliver a not of protest on Canada's nuclear warfare policy. Mr. Diefenbaker quite properly showed his indignation, and in veiled language asked Mr. Khrushchov to mind his own business and stay out of Canadian affairs. It also gave the Premier the opportunity to belabor something else besides the opposition, a welcome respite for the public, no matter who the speaker is or what his party.

While still on the subject of elections, there is another saying that rises me up. It is "Vote as you like, but vote". The wording indicates that it doesn't matter how one votes so long as he remembers to vote. To me this is not good enough. The admonition should be "Decide how you should vote, and then vote".

In the southwestern part of this area showers and fair rains have maintained good moisture conditions. In the central and northern portions, heavy rains of up to 5 inches have provided excessive moisture which has caused some lodging of crops & flooding of fields. ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

KEEP YOUR EYES UPON CHRIST

Once there was a boy who wanted to be a great musician. He studied earnestly at the feet of many great music professors until finally there were none available to teach him more than he already knew. Then he heard of a great music master in New York City. He went to him, but when he found him he learned the old gentleman was retired. "Sir, would you take me and teach me?" the boy asked.

The old, white-haired man replied, "No, Son, I am retired."

The boy asked, "May I attend just a few chords on your piano there?"

"Certainly," the old man answered.

The young man's playing moved the old gentleman so that after listening to him play a few minutes, he walked over and tapped the lad on the shoulder and said, "Son, I'll take you."

For months and years the old music master poured his soul into the soul of the young man, teaching him that great music is the real story of the human race translated into the realm of the script of life.

One day he finally said, "Son, you are ready." They then left for a large music hall and announced his debut. That night the great auditorium was filled. As the boy played the great pieces of music, waves and waves of applause came from the multitude.

Then came the grand finale. There was a hush over the auditorium. The young boy leaned over the keyboard and pursued his very soul into it. Before he had finished, great strong men were crying like babies; women were taking their purses and flinging them at his feet. But not once did the young man ever look at the crowd. He kept his eyes focused on the balcony where the old white-haired music master sat. He was nodding his head and whispering, "You're on the right track, Son. Just keep it up; just keep it up."

Christ stands on the balcony of the heavenly world today keeping a watchful eye on us. Just keep your eyes on Him. Don't look at the crowds; don't look at the world; look at Jesus. As long as you keep your eyes on Him, you will not go astray. He's whispering to you: "You're on the right track, Son. Just keep it up."

Keep your eyes upon Christ. He will guide and direct you in His loving care. Your life will be a success if you yield your life to Him. Let Him pour His love into your soul.

The Bible Today

A world-wide research project, currently is trying to assess the effective use being made of the Scriptures. Organized by the member groups of the United Bible Societies, the project has been issued in Bible Weeks in Germany, Great Britain & the United States. More than 200 participating churches in the U. S. are answering questionnaires designed "to discover the most effective ways in which the Bible is being used to deepen the spiritual life of the local church". HAY SHORTAGE POSSIBLE!

O. G. Brzozoski, Supervisor of Alberta's Crop Improvement Service advises farmers to put up all the hay they can this summer. Despite excellent hay crops in northern and in central Alberta, there could be an overall shortage because reserves are very low. The demand last winter from the southern part of the province and also from Saskatchewan for hay is responsible for these diminished reserves which should be built up again. Also a demand for hay from the south and eastern parts of Alberta is expected again this year although it may not be as heavy as in 1961. Mr. Brzozoski also stressed that he would like to see farmers pay more attention to the quality of their hay. Any hay crops which have not already been cut will only deteriorate in quality from now on.

Storage is an important aspect of hay quality. Stacks of hay should be protected to prevent moisture penetrating the hay and spoiling it. There has been a considerable increase in hay sheds, particularly in the Edmonton area. These are relatively inexpensive to build and afford very effective protection. A heavy grade of polythene also provides good protection from moisture so long as it is tightly held down with loose hay or extra boards.

HAWKSBEARD REMOVAL!

W. Lobay, Supervisor of Soils and Weed Control with the Alberta Dept. of Ag., urges farmers in this province to cultivate all land now where hawksbeard is present. This operation must be performed immediately if seed setting is to be prevented. As far as roadsides and the other uncultivated areas is concerned, mowing the weeds now is one way of coping with the problem. With forage stands it may be possible to lift the cutter bar on the mower high enough to clip the tops of these weeds if they are above the grass and legumes.

Hawksbeard was handled in the same way almost as stinkweed and other winter annuals, so should become their seeds get their start in the fall rather than the spring. The aim of cultural control is to prevent new seeds from setting but to grow out those that are already in the ground. The herbicide 2,4-D has gone depressing effect on hawksbeard when spraying is done in the week's early stage of growth but this chemical cannot be used on forage stands when a legume crop is present, Mr. Lobay reports that a number of trials, conducted this year, indicated that a butyric formula of 2,4-D was known to 2,4-DB, gave good control in an alfalfa crop. Sixteen ounces of active ingredient per acre was used in 20 gallons of water. Although there were some depressing effects on the alfalfa, it seemed to regain its vitality and growth again. Further assessments are continuing to determine whether this butyric formula has a place in hawksbeard control.

MORE VARIETY IN PROGRAMS!

The first major departure from uniformity in educational programs at Alberta's Schools of Agriculture will start with the opening of the 1962-63 term. In announcing these innovations J. E. Hawker, Supt. of Agriculture & Schools, pointed out that the needs of young farm people change with the times. Those needs are not the same today as they were 50 years ago when the schools were started, nor are they the same as they were even 10 years ago. To meet these changing needs new programs have been arranged at Fairview, Olds and Vermilion. In addition to basic agricultural courses, the foundation will be laid at each school where specific training in agricultural agriculture and "off the farm" employment. Agricultural specialization will be particularly stressed at Olds and Fairview, where a general introductory three-month session will enable students to choose their area of specialization. This introductory session will include four one-hour periods a week in Animal Science, Plant Science, Agricultural Mechanics and Farm Management. During the second and third three-month sessions, students will be this to specialize in one of these subjects or continue in a general course.

At Vermilion, students will have two choice of courses but they will be given a balanced program of studies in all major aspects of the farming industry. Post-graduate courses are being planned for those who wish to take specialized training for specific types of farming or "off the farm" employment. All three of the schools are introducing new courses in secretarial training to prepare girls for employment in the commercial field. Olds is offering a combing design course featuring specialized training for those interested in employment in the clothing field. Fairview has a similar course in dressmaking and one in food service management which is also open to boys. Vermilion will continue its present home economics course. This includes all aspects of homemaking such as foods, clothing and home management as well as general education and social relationships. The girls' courses are organized on a one-term basis, opening in September and finishing in June.

Further information on any of the courses can be obtained from the principal of the school concerned.

The Letter Box

Editor Community Press
Sedgewick, Alberta.

Dear Sir:—

I have been asked to comment on an advertisement appearing in the Press calling a public meeting by the Home and School, Killam.

To Discuss High School Survey Recommendations.

Regional High School for Towns (b) Individual High Schools for Towns.

I am surprised at this meeting being called, as the matter has already been dealt with by the Board.

The Survey Report was thoroughly discussed by the Board with Mr. Bliss and Dr. Jonasco present. It was submitted by the Commissioners that individual high schools for towns would be a backward step.

The Board has decided to erect a Modern Senior High School at Sedgewick.

Yours Very Truly,
Thomas Clouston Sr.
Vice-Chairman Killam School Division No. 22.

A. P. Crop Report

In the southwestern part of our local area moisture supplies have been somewhat depleted and rain would be welcome to protect the pres ent good outlook. Throughout the rest of the area moisture supplies are good and hot weather is bringing crops along rapidly.

OBITUARY

On Thursday afternoon, July 19th the town of Killam was shocked to hear of the tragic accident in one of its local citizens, Mr. Ralph Gordon.

Mr. Gordon was born in Hughenden 32 years ago. He attended school there and then moved to Edgerton, residing in the dormatory. After finishing school he started to work with Cosine and Clarke, electricians, before moving to Killam with Mr. Clarke. A few years ago he branched out into his own successful business.

In July of 1960 he was married to Miss Irene Zeniuk and two sons were born to the union, Perry and Blair.

He leaves to mourn his passing, besides his wife, two sons, his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Gordon of Hughenden, one brother Lowell of Hughenden, two sisters, Mrs. Joe Kozanecki (Gloria) of Edmonton, and Mrs. M. Humphrey (Arla), Calgary, besides a host of friends. Also surviving are an aunt Mrs. Dora Ballmer and a cousin A. Allbaan of Vancouver.

On Saturday afternoon a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the Knox United Church for the funeral service conducted by Rev. Fast of Sedgewick. There was a full choir, of which Ralph was a member. Pallbearers were Mr. Bob Wm. Clarke., Grant Davis, Evert Black, Stewart Otte and B. Baxter. Fee and Sons Funeral Directors.

F.U.A. Newsletter

● In comparison with 1961 the over-all drought picture in Alberta seems to have improved. The area involved in South-Eastern part of the province is not nearly as large as a year ago. Still, relief in the form of freight assistance will be necessary, but only to a portion of what was allocated in 1961. Through reduction of the cattle population the feed situation is much less serious than one year ago. The FUA has reason to believe that the Provincial Government considers for the coming winter season an assistance plan very similar to last year's.

When movement of cattle will be necessary, cows and calves and bulls will be eligible, and a government assistance of 8c per mile one way for each bull or cow with calf at foot, is under consideration. The maximum assistance will be $10 per head. For a complete lagging outfit the government plans to pay 35c per mile, one way toward, minimum of 50 miles. For hay and grain fodder a maximum assistance of $12 per ton is under consideration. The maximum for straw will be $6 per ton. In both cases the minimum will be 5c per ton mile over 50 miles. The farmer will have to buy and ship the fodder in himself, paying the charges after the M. D. has given prior approval. The M. D. will also reimburse the farmer for the transportation charges. The M.D. in turn will bill the Dept. of Ag. for 80 or 90 percent of the payments made to applicants. The Dept. of Ag. will try to collect 80 percent of its expenditures from the Federal Government. However, the Federal Gov. has not indicated any willingness to assist in the program, and it seems likely the province will maintain this assistance alone. When assistance will be forthcoming is not known but it will be given from July 1, 1962.

There are indications that Grazing Lease Refunds will be made on all leases that could not or have not maintained their established grazing quotas. Assistance will be forthcoming for all fodder shipped to the drought area on trucks with a P.U.C. license.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL HELD AT KILLAM

The Baptist and United Churches held a successful Joint Vacation Bible School recently with an enrollment of 85. Seven denominations were represented. The Nursery was in charge of Mrs. A. Grymaloski; with Velma Young, Shirley Rott and Mary Smolnik assisting. Mrs. R. Mercer led the Beginners class with helpers Myrna Sorenson, Anita Erickson and Darlene Monroe. The Primary class was instructed by Mrs. H. Heartberg and Lenore Grymaloski with Mrs. T. Rest assisting. Juniors were led by Mrs. Dick White and Marlene Berg-ersen.

Each day echoes and a cold drink were served by Mrs. Coyne and Mrs. Hermann Erickson. Prizes for bringing the most children to classes were won by Dwight Grymaloski, Barbara Coyne and Dennis Prosen.

A splendid program on the Friday night was much enjoyed and handicraft exhibits brought many comments. Rev. Grymaloski of the Baptist Church and Mrs. H. Wilson from the United Church expressed commendation of the work done and thanked the leaders and all who assisted. Much credit was due to Doris York who supervised the entire project. The sum of $10.26 was sent for the Mission Project.

WEDDING BELLS

A pretty wedding was solemnized in the Gleichen United Church when Miss Carol Wylie became the bride of Frederick G. Wylie, son of Frank Wylie at a double ring ceremony performed by Rev. F. M. Peel.

Carol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Weeks, was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a gown of nylon chiffon featuring portrait collar, lily-point sleeves and a full lanped skirt. Her headdress was a tulle crown of pearl and sequin beads, from which flowed a chapel veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses and ferns.

Mrs. Fred Drummond of Camrose acted as bridesmaid. Her dress was a street length model of blue cupioni with white accessories. She carried sweetheart roses.

The bride's reception was held in the banquet room of Champion's Cafe in Chestermere. Mr. Gordon Rencher proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom suitably responded. Later an open reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where the bride's sister Arlene and Mrs. Jim Lee were in the dining room. Mrs. Weeks, wearing a printed blue Corylene dress featuring a box pleated skirt and short jacket, received the guests. She wore a red rose corsage.

A FEW HARDISTY FLAKES

(By Pusie)

Well, here I am after a very long holiday. It would appear that with golf course construction, followed by annual leave, there have been very few spare moments conducive to the writing of this column.

I would like to thank Janice & Joe for a very good job of keeping things going while yours truly took it easy; and I did just that — no long trips, and plenty of rain to keep one indoors. It would appear that the end of my holidays was the signal for summer to begin. Speaking of rain, wasn't that a gawdy? It certainly changed the crop outlook in this area and in the other areas to the east & south so much is need of a soaker. The hail in some areas to the north and east this week were not so welcome though, and it is to be hoped that the damaged area was not too extensive.

News about town is very scarce. Maybe it's because of the fact that I put most of my time at the Lakeside shack, out of the high rent district, where it costs more to live. The more I think it over the more I think that a cabin is designed to make you appreciate the comforts of home all the more. It does break the routine though, and I guess that's the idea.

Golfing is still gaining interest, & we are slowly getting the fairways in playing condition. The greens require more work, but for a first year effort I'm more than pleased with the progress made. I would like to point out in some of the out-of-towners at the lake that I am aware that there is no green fee receptacle yet, but I would be pleased to accept any contribution on behalf of the golf club at the post office. It is only by your financial support that we can improve the setup and thereby make your next year's golfing better.

The town is making sewer & water installations preparatory to laying the hard surface, so we would ask you to drive with care, keeping in mind this the future holds more enjoyable driving when coming into the town.

The hour glass shows that the mind is quickly collapsing here, so I'll better sign thirty and get this in the outgoing mail. Postie Joe will be away on holidays while the Press is observing their holiday, so happy holidays to you all.

GREEN ACRES

By
A. E. EDWARDS
Dist. Agriculturist

GRAIN APHIDS!—
This fall the heads of all the grain crops are found to be swarming with small wingless oranges or green aphids. Scattered among them will be a few individuals that are darker in col or and with fine transparent wings. It is not known how these plant aphids pass the winter in Alberta. They probably migrate into the province from farther south early in the year. They increase in numbers very rapidly. All reasonable numbers unless they become so numerous on a single plant that they are overcrowded. This is when aphids appear and fly to new plants. They feed by sucking sap from the heads and stems of plants. However abundant the aphids may be on maturing grain, they do surprisingly little damage. Mostly they are disagreeable & look bad. On late seeded crops aphids or fall seeded crops the aphids can cause extensive damage. If left alone up to normal patches of yellow appearing grain. Within a few days time these patches turn brown and die, while the yellow streak continues to survive the aphid infestation until its first frost at which time the insects will be killed. Nothing further can be done to prevent infestations. Infested crops can be sprayed with Mal athion at about $1.00 per acre. Aphid infestations rarely occur two years in succession.

SICK SPRUCE TREES!
In July I had a few words to say about the sick looking spruce trees in the country. Don't stop checking the spruce trees yet. Spider mites are still very prevalent. Many of the evergreen trees are looking unhealthy this year and some are dying. The have winter set dry weather been blamed, and may be this is partly true, but take a close look at your trees. Spider mites, pine needle scale and aphids are very prevalent this year. Spider mites are so small they can hardly be seen. Most of the nesules take on a yellowish mottling color with fine silk webbing around the twigs between the needles then the trees are probably infested with spruce spider mites. The mites suck the needles at the base sitting out the sap. They can be controlled by spraying them with Malathion (50 p. c. liquid concentrate — 1 tablespoon per gallon of water). For best results the mixture can be twigs bro k n penetrated and so a high pressure spray is recommended.

HIT THISTLES HARD NOW!
Don't let your good cultural efforts go to waste by neglecting your summerfallow now. Much of the summerfallowing in Alberta this year is being done to eradicate Canada and perennial Sow Thistle, both bad weeds which have been spreading through out this province. W. Lobay, Supervisor of fields and Weed Control with the Alberta Dept. of Ag., says good cultivation is very effective in controlling thistle if it is done not later than a week or so after the thistles emerge and is cultivation is continued until frosts-up. If however, you are short of time due to other work, use a herbicide to keep the thistles under control until you can cultivate cultivation again in the fall. It does not take much time to go over a field with a regular low volume sprayer on a wet day when hay making or harvesting is at a standstill. The boom on one o fthese sprayers is usually about two rods wide. About 16 ounces of 2,4-D applied now will keep thistles in check by stopping them setting seeds and preventing them from manufacturing and storing the food reserves for maintenance and growth. This chemical, which is very effective, costs $1.00 per acre. Herbicides are very effective in controlling thistles in fields where frequent cultivation causes too much soil pulverization.

STARTING DATES CHANGED!
The opening dates for all the girls' courses at the Olds and Provincial Schools of Agriculture have been changed to September 24th and Oct. 22nd at the Vermilion School. Girls courses will now start at the same time as the classes in agriculture. J. E. Hawker, Supt. for Alberta, says the starting dates for the girls' courses have been deferred because of difficulties in connection with establishing them in the three schools.

Society Honors Local Hospital Administrator

Chicago, Ill. — Sister Mary Lourdes (Theresa), Supt. of the General Hospital in Killam, will be admitted to the American College of Hospital Administrators, a professional society, as a nominee at its 29th annual convocation ceremony held on Sunday afternoon, September 16th, in the Arie Crown Theatre at McCormick Place in Chicago. The college, now in its 29th year, was founded for the purpose of providing recognition to men and women who are doing outstanding work in their professional careers as hospital administrators.

At the same ceremony, the College will confer its highest accreditation, Hon. Fellowship, upon those three distinguished leaders in their fields: Mother Anne Dorgel, M.D., founder of the Society of Catholic Medical Missionaries, Bonn; Robert Wood Johnson, Chairman of the Board of Johnson and Johnson, New Brunswick, New Jersey; and Foster G. McGaw, founder and chairman of the Board, American Hospital Supply Corp., Evanston, Ill.

The Convocation ceremony is an annual event that precedes the yearly meeting of the College, held in conjunction with the convention of the American Hospital Association.

New Bank Being Built at Dayaland

The Bank of Montreal is to greet new premises for its Dayaland office, V. J. Harney, the manager, has announced.

The new B of M office will be located on the store site as the present office at Main street and Alberta avenue, and will cover an area of near by 2,500 square feet. The old office will be torn down when the new one is completed and the site will be paved for a parking lot for customer's cars, Mr. Harney said.

Plans for the new building were prepared by Rule, Wynn & Rule of Edmonton, and the work will be started out by C. Stevenson Construction Ltd., of Camrose. Construction is scheduled to start immediately and the building is expected to be completed in November.

The office will have a new streamlined counter with three tellers wickets, one more than before, while, for safety-deposit-box customers, two more private booths will be located close to a steel-and-reinforced-concrete vault. Additional fireproof storage space for the bank's books and records, will be situated in the basement.

The new office will be fitted with fluorescent lighting, walnut woodwork and colorful rubber-tile flooring. It will be decorated in a light, pleasant color-scheme.

OPENED IN 1906

The bank was established in Dayaland on March 6, 1906, as an office of Merchants Bank of Canada which later merged with the B of M. It first opened for business in an alcove at the top of the stairs of the Angus Hotel with a plank serving as a counter. A month later, it moved to the simple rooms of the hotel, which opened onto Main street, and, the following year, occupied a frame building on the east side of Main street, where it remained until 1931.

Half Year Report On Alta. Accidents

Albertans ended the first half of the year with a mounting accident rate a trend toward multiple fatality accidents and a high proportion of traffic deaths among persons in their late teens and early twenties.

Dr. Hugh Allen Wellsmiby, the Alberta Safety Council said this at the 73,233, the accident toll for the first half of the year was running 23 per cent ahead of last year.

In the same period, 1,731 injury cases were reported for an increase of five per cent.

Despite multiple-fatality accidents, the six-month toll stood at 88, or 16 per cent less than a year ago.

"It is the only sign of improvement in an otherwise black picture", said Council Manager, Paul Lawrence. "But since, reports show an ominous trend. The 24 fatalities in June, for example, occurred in 18 accidents. In other words, there is a trend toward greater loss of life in single accidents".

And, he continued, the loss of life is heaviest among persons between the ages of 15 and 24. Of the 88 fatalities to the end of June that group accounts for 34, or almost 40 percent of the total.

In a further break-down of the teen-and-twenties death toll, a Council review shows 22 were aged 20 to 24 and 16 were aged 15 to 19. The next largest category was in ages 35 to 39, where six deaths were recorded.

F.U.A. Newsletter

This winter from 80 to 100 "Co-op Talent Nights" will be organized in Alberta. This will be done to make Albertans aware of the program "Co-operatives Everywhere". The Co-op Movement in Canada has made plans to start helping the people of one of the South American Countries by showing them how in lieu of money they can help themselves. Though the definite choice hasn't been made yet, it is very likely that the country where this self help program will start, will be Ecuador. The "Talent Nights" to be held this winter in the province are arranged to help provide funds for this project. This does not mean that the idea of self-help will be pushed to the background. The national program Committee realizes that it isn't based on charity. When necessary help will be needed — and it is now likely that some will be necessary to enable the people to get started on different kinds of small projects — It will be given in the form of a loan. A revolving fund will be created to be used over and over again in the same country or in any other country that may need the same kind of help.

Albertans in the rural districts can look forward to these "Talent Nights' where youthful entertainers will get a chance to demonstrate their talents and at the same time own one of the prizes which are offered. Plans are also under way for district finals where the winning contestants of the "Talent Nights" will compete against each other.

The Young People's Camp held at Gull Eye Lake, west of Edmonton, on the initiative of the F.W.U.A. from August 12 - 18, has been an unqualified success. So far as we could find out this has been the first time in Canadian history, that a combined camp for young Native and Indian Canadians has been held. The Indian Affairs branch sponsored some of the students,as did the F.W.U.A., Alberta Wheat Pool, U.G.G., U.F.A. and Credit Unions. Two students from each of this group is to spend their next year in Ottawa as an exchange. Plans are already made for the same type of camp in 1963.

Changes are taking place in the meat packing industry. There is public pressure for a standardized meat inspection there are fewer outlets for unInspected killing. In mid 1962 than there were at the beginning of the year. A large scale move is about among registered poultry killing and eviscerating stations to bring their operations substantially under the federal meat inspection service.

Trans-Canada Stamp Issued

The Hon. Ellen L. Fairclough, Postmaster General, today announced that the postage stamp marking the opening of the Trans-Canada Highway will be released for sale on August 31st and not on September 4, as previously announced.

Mrs. Fairclough explained that the date of release has been advanced because of the change of date for the official opening of the Highway to September 3rd. The opening is to take place at Rogers Pass in Glacier National Park, British Columbia, but originally was planned to be on the 4th and the stamp was to have been issued on that date to coincide with the opening. Many postal offices are closed on Labour Day, the day for the release for the stamp has been advanced to August 31st.

The Postmaster General stated that in view of the short notice given for the change in release date, all "first day covers" received by the Postmaster, Ottawa, before September 4th, will be processed.

TOWNS ALONG HIGHWAY 13 SHOWING SIGNS OF PROGRESS

In the month's lapse since the Community Press has not been published, we return from our holidays to find the communities served by this paper making giant strides of progress in the way of public works and recreational facilities. In our first trip "up and down the line" we found the following factual evidence of this.

OBITUARY

John Thraisen went to be with his Lord on July 18th, 1962. He was born in Iceland, Norway in 1886. In 1925 he came to Canada and settled in the Camrose area.

John came to an important step in his life when he gave his heart to Christ on the night of Dec. 31, 1927.

The first marriage ceremony to be performed in the Killam Pentecostal Assembly was held on Nov. 10, 1935, when John Thraisen and Agnes Kirk were united in holy matrimony. It was at this time they moved to their farm six miles south of Killam. In 1955 John was appointed to the office of board member in the Killam Pentecostal Church, and later was appointed Elder in the same Assembly, serving in this capacity until his passing. In 1963 John and his wife gained a special burden for the Indians in the northland and for a large portion of the next 5 years working with them at McMurray. At that time he was provided a home for 35 Indian children from the north. They affectionately regard him as "Pa" Thraisen. Ten of these children proudly reside at his home at Killam. John will always be held in the memory of those who knew him well as a man who could pray and see the hand of God moved by his prayers. He was a strong supporter of the missionary program of the church.

He leaves behind, but for awhile, his wife Agnes, two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Hansen of Pt. St. John, and Doris of Prescot; two sons, Thimage and Harold of Killam; 12 grandchildren; three brothers, Jens of Killam, Harold and Harris of Norway; two sister, Rosali and Olina of Norway.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son and brother Roy Lorne Hobson, who passed away September 6, 1960.
Gone is Roy so loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear.
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet is remembered who he came was here
And who though absent is just as dear.
Dear God forgive a silent tear,
A constant wish that he were here;
Others have sisters, and brothers
But he was ours and we miss him so.
Dear God please take a message
To our Roy above,
Tell him how much we miss him
And give him all our love.
Always remembered and sadly missed by — Mother and Brother Loren. 23 1 p

GREEN ACRES

A. E. EDWARDS
Dist. Agriculturist

MERT MURRAY WILDE!

I take pleasure in introducing to the readers of Green Acres, Murray Wilde. Murray and family are from Brooks and are moving to Sedgewick the middle of September. He has been with the Department of Agriculture for five years at Brooks, and will take over the D. A's. office while I am away at school from Oct. 15th through to Feb. 5th. Mr. Wilde will be pleased to meet the farmers of the M. D. of Wainwright, and I wish you this winter. Feel free to contact Murray if you have any agricultural problems that need help. I'm sure he will have a good fall as you can get the harvesting and fall work done in fine shape. See you in February.

L.H BEEF CLUBS ORGANIZE!

The 4H Beef Clubs will be organizing in October. 4H club members planning to join a Beef Club should be selecting their calves now. If there isn't a 4H Club close to you, you should be thinking of organizing one now. When you have 15 or more members wishing to join a club and a club leader in mind, just contact your district agriculturist. Beef Clubs are not the only type of 4H club work are though. How about a Swine Club, a Poultry Club, Dairy Club, Garden Club, Clothing Club, etc.

HOUSEFLY CONTROL!

With the large number of insecticides on the market today, it is often hard to know which one to use for a specific purpose and what form will be the most effective. F. J. Procter, Asst. Supervisor of Crop Protection and Pest Control, says insecticides for fly control come in five forms.

These are aerosols, fly baits, oil solutions, wettable powders and emulsified concentrates. Aerosols are for use as space sprays in the house or in other enclosed areas. Most of them have a short residual or killing life but are less conspicuous than the old fashioned fly traps & ribbons. Be careful to avoid contaminating food with aerosols. Fly baits are also effective in house and other enclosed places such as stock barns. They usually contain sugar to attract the flies and either a sticky liquid, solid and saturated portion. Do not leave them within reach of the children. Oil solutions are effective when used on screens, window frames and entrance areas in both houses and barns. Their effectiveness is mainly due to the fact that they do not wash off readily. Oil solutions and aerosols are usually more expensive than other forms of insecticides.

Wettable powders consist usually have a longer residual life than the other sprays. This form, which is mixed with water, is more suitable for livestock buildings than houses because it leaves a white powdery film. The film is useful as a visual guide of the area already covered. Wettable powders are an economical and effective form for covering large areas.

Emulsified concentrates are also good for large areas. These concentrated liquids, which are mixed with water, are widely used because they are very easy to apply.

Mr. Procter pointed out that the residual effectiveness of an insecticide is very important. Pyrethrun & Diborn bill quickly but have short killing time of one to seven days. Although Malathion and Methoxychlor do not produce such spectacular results when first applied, their residual effectiveness lasts from two to four weeks. Diazinon and Korlan both have killing time of from four to six weeks. Cygon, Bayrex & DDT are recommended when residual effectiveness is required for more than six weeks. Sometimes the flies become resistant to DDT when it is used consistently. In such cases it is advisable to change to another insecticide or Antiresistant DDT. Best results will be obtained by following manufacturers instructions because all these insecticides have been tested under various conditions. Avoid contaminating humans, livestock & their food supplies. Remember the most effective way of keeping the fly population down is to eliminate their breeding areas. These include manure piles, rubbish heaps and garbage dumps.

FACTS FOR THE FARMERS!

One of the usual causes of white scours in baby pigs is bacteria. They should be injected against this condition soon after birth or given received iron by mouth.

WEDDING BELLS

CHEVRAUX , SAUNDERS

A pretty fall wedding was solemnized at Knox United Church in Killam on September 1st when Shirley May Saunders, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Saunders, became the bride of Stanley J. Her fingertip veil hung from a white satin rose headdress edged with pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses and fern with a white orchid centre. A pearl necklace with earrings to match, gift of the groom, completed her ensemble.

Goalie Dale Gaume Signs Pro Contract

(Ron Glover: Edmonton Journal)

Members of the Dale Gaume Fan Club stand up and cheer. Your hero hasn't been overlooked after all and will receive a long-overdue shot at making the grade in pro hockey.

Things have never come easy for the pint-sized goaltender, but Dale Pelle is so confident he can handle the job he's signed Gaume to a contract with San Francisco Seals.

Gaume, in case you came in late, is the mischievous lad who earned his fiddle in Rum Gillen and Paul Seaworth during his junior days with Oil Kings, but came into his own last year while guarding the twine for the weefs' Red Deer Rustlers.

Dale is well known here, as a hockey goalie and also his prowess on the ball diamond. He is the son of Mr. & Mrs. Chester of Killam.

Friends here join in wishing Dale good luck in the pro ranks.

"WHAT IS A CUSTOMER"

1. A customer is the most important person ever in this office — in person, by mail, or by telephone.
2. A customer is not dependent on us — we are dependent on him for our business.
3. A customer is not an interruption of our work — he is the purpose of it. We are not doing him a favor by serving him — he is doing us a favor by giving us the opportunity to do so.
4. A customer is not an outsider to our business — he is part of it.
5. A customer is not a cold statistic — he is a flesh-and-blood human being with feelings and emotions like our own, and with biases and prejudices.
6. A customer is not someone to argue or match wits with. Nobody ever won an argument with a customer.
7. A customer is a person who brings us his wants. It is our job to handle them profitably for him and for ourselves.
8. That is what a customer is —— in your business, in our business, in any business. Some people seem to have forgotten a few of these basic truths in recent years, but it is high time to be remembering them again.

Tomorrow may be too late!

The Bible Today

Moncton's Citizens Membership Committee in the province of New Brunswick, going from door to door selling Bibles and New Testaments. Last year he called on 8,000 homes and was able to sell only 739 copies of the Scriptures. Of the total sold, 314 were in French, 422 in English, and 3 in Italian. Many of these were Roman Catholic editions. Most of the calls mose were in the villages of the French Canadian sections of New Brunswick. "In some of these sections the people were cool and suspicious" writes R. Membourquette, "but in spite of this copies of the Word were placed in lots of homes".

The Roman Catholic Churchauthorities for the most part were helpful in the matter of distribution. Some parish priests stock editions of the Scriptures for their people.

Monsieur Membourquette is a colporteur of these New Brunswick District of the Canadian Bible Society. He travels among the French speaking communities of that province. His text, as he goes about his work, is: "Be strong and of a good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed, for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest."

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

THE COST OF CHRISTIANITY

Tommy was admiring Roger's new streamlined bicycle. "It's a real beaut!" he exclaimed.

"Yes. But it sure cost a lot. I saved my money for two years to buy it," Roger answered.

Anything worthwhile costs something, and if we want to build a worthwhile Christian life and have the peace and joy that only Christ can give, we must be willing to pay the price.

For a long moment Christ and the rich young ruler stood facing each other. "What good thing should I do, that I may have eternal life?" the young man asked. "Go and sell that thou hast . . . and follow me," Jesus answered.

All that I have? My wealth, goodness, a great future? he puzzled. At Jesus' words, the young man's eager smile quickly died as did his desire for eternal treasures. A great sportie could have been born, but instead a nameless young man went his way.

There is an old saying that you don't get something for nothing. This is true. We must get something in, if we are to get something out. We must give, if we are to receive. To receive the blessings and ministries of God, we must be willing to surrender ourselves to Him. A life surrendered to Christ is the way to personal and eternal triumph and joy.

Jesus Christ paid the price for our salvation by His crucifixion on Calvary. All we need do to receive this salvation and eternal life is to accept it and be willing to obey God. We must yield our lives completely to Him. We cannot decide what we are going to do and then ask God to bless our plans, but we must put Him first and self last. God knows the future and what is best for us. Therefore, we should faithfully follow the plan He originates for our lives.

One of the great rewards in being a Christian is to know that our lives are in God's care and that they are being used to His glory and to help others. In Christ our examples are turned away from the unimportant things of life and directed toward worthy goals. No matter what we may have accomplished with our lives in the past, God can do still more with them. When we surrender our lives completely to Him, we can draw upon His ability and upon the abundance of His spiritual wealth.

A special message to all parents of boys and girls now in high school

UNIVERSITY EDUCATION PROGRAMME

A comprehensive, life-insured plan for financing a college education for boys and girls now in high school

If you are like most parents with children in high school, you are probably wondering how you are going to meet the costs of financing your youngster's college education. To help parents solve this problem, the Bank of Montreal has introduced its University Education Programme—the first life-insured plan of its kind in Canada.

Under this comprehensive programme, parents, grandfans and sponsors of high-school students can spread the cost of a university education over periods of up to nine years, thus keeping monthly payments to amounts they can afford without hardship. And the cost to the parent is only a fraction of the interest paid on a straight loan programme.

HOW THE PROGRAMME WORKS

Under the basic plan, the parent agrees to make monthly payments to the Bank starting, say, two years before the student enters university, and terminating one year after graduation. In return, the parent receives an annual sum from the Bank at the start of each of the four university years.

VARIANTS OF THE PLAN

Several optional plans are available under the programme, and these vary as to the number of years in which the parent wishes to make monthly payments, as well as to the amount required annually for university expenses. Plans are based on objectives ranging from $1,000 to $6,000 payable to the parent in four annual instalments.

OBJECTIVE: $4,000
To be paid in four annual instalments of $1,000 each

OPTIONS	YOU PAY FOR UNIVERSITY	PAYMENTS OF YOUR CONTRIBUTION	YOUR CONTRIBUTION
Plan A	$49.55	7 years	$4,160
Plan B	42.78	8 years	3 years interest-free, 5 years interest-bearing
Plan C	37.56	9 years	4 years interest-free, 5 years interest-bearing

LIFE-INSURANCE FEATURE

If the parent concerned should die after the start of the programme, the funds for education specified in the agreement will be advanced by the Bank each year without any further payments being made by the family or the estate.

HOW TO JOIN THE PROGRAMME

See the people at your neighbourhood B of M branch. You will receive a warm welcome from a staff who will be pleased to give you further details and to help you select a plan suited to your needs. Ask for your copy of the Bank of Montreal University Education Programme folder.

P.S. If you need help in financing a student already in University — or planning to register this year — talk to your B of M Manager. Chances are he can arrange a tuition loan with extended payments adapted to your circumstances.

Farm Safety

When in the legal responsibility of a farmer in preventing injury to employers, guests and animals and in preventing damage to equipment and buildings belonging to others?

Alberta's Agricultural Solicitor Alex Weir, points out that a farmer is responsible for damages caused as a result of his own negligence. In other words he is responsible for most injury caused by his doing something which a reasonable man in his position would not have done, or by omitting to do something which a reasonable man in his position would not have done.

It is interesting to note that a farmer who has a degree in agriculture from a recognized university is required to exercise a higher standard of care than one who has not had this training. Although a higher standard of care is expected of an agriculturist than an ordinary farmer, it does not necessarily mean that it is the highest standard possible. It simply means that the agriculturist would have to exert a standard of care that any reasonable man with his professional training would exercise under similar circumstances.

A fair and reasonable standard of care is demanded by the law. Therefore, for example a farmer stops his combine on his own land which is near a school and fails to put the safety devices on, he would probably be responsible for damages if one of the children, by pressing the lever, dropped the table on another child. It would be assumed that a reasonable farmer, if he knew children were playing in the vicinity, would always lower his combine table before leaving the machine unattended.

A reasonable farmer would always have a safety shield for a power take-off when it was in motion because this presents many reasons in stressed by the machine manufacturers. Therefore, if he did not have it on when the power take-off was in motion and somebody was hurt, he would probably be liable for any damage.

There are some circumstances, according to Mr. Weir, when a farmer would be liable even if he had taken many safety precautions. If, for example, he had stored large quantities of gasoline or explosives on his farm and these caused damage, he would be responsible for having stored these dangerous materials. Therefore, he would be responsible for all damages sustained by his neighbour's property. In other words a farmer keeps dangerous articles on his farm at his own risk.

What can the farmer do to protect himself against such perils? Mr. Weir says he should first take all reasonable steps in all phases of his farming operation to avoid injury to anyone or anything. Then, because one careless incident could mean financial ruin, it is advisable for every farmer to have adequate insurance to protect him against accidents.

Treating Posts

Did you know that ordinary poplar fence posts will last up to 25 years when they have been treated with pentachlorophenol? According to W. Ulrich, Alberta's Assistant Extension Engineer, posts, the common abbreviation of pentachlorophenol, makes it possible and practical to treat a small number of posts quite economically.

Posts is available under various trade names in ready-to-use forms and as a 50 percent concentrate. The 50 per cent concentrate should be mixed at the rate of one gallon of penta to ten gallons of number 1 fuel oil. Twenty gallons of this solution is enough for a standard 16 gallon barrel full of posts.

The posts, whether they are poplar birch, maple, fir, pine or cedar, should be peeled and seasoned in a shady place for four to six months before they are treated. The posts method of treating posts entails putting them, butt - end down, into a metal barrel containing enough solution to reach six inches above the proposed ground line of the posts. Depending upon the type of wood, the posts should be left soaking for four to twenty-four hours. From 25 to 40 posts can be treated in 24 hours if each batch is soaked for 12 hours.

Mr. Ulrich says posts will meet all requirements for preventing decay if the fence posts are properly seasoned and treated. In addition, penta is easy to apply, non-poisonous can be painted over with ordinary paint, does not have to be bossed if the posts are treated during warm weather and will not leach out because penta is almost insoluble in water.

Detailed information on the posts and other methods of treating fence posts is contained in a pamphlet entitled "Fence Post Preservation" which can be obtained from district agriculturists or from the Extension Service of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

23 Central High Students Graduate In First September Ceremony

Twenty-three students graduated from Central High School at Sedgewick on Friday last in a September Graduation Ceremony held in the Sedgewick Community Hall.

The annual event commenced with a banquet in the United Church Hall, and following the turkey dinner with the list of toasts and speeches followed "The Queen". Mr. Brian Rawluk paid high tribute to Mr. Fred Sparrow, long-time janitor, friend and councillor to the students, to which Fred jokingly replied. The toast to the School Board by Doris Hoffman, was replied to by Chairman H. Grant. Mr. Hill, Letcher, replied in the toast to the Staff by Shari Dreger. Doug Fee proposed a toast to parents and Mr. Edward Fee responded. A timely toast to the graduates by Mr. Stave, principal, was replied to by Faye Storbakken.

In the evening the Exercises got under way with the traditional Processional March, singing of O Canada, and Invocation Prayer.

In his opening remarks Principal Stave stated the reason for changing the Exercises from June to September. He also gave a rundown of Central activities during the past few years, and stated that steady improvement is being made in marks obtained and numbers graduating.

A duet by Beverly Forster and Myrna Schweizer and a solo by Ingrid Perrier were enjoyed by the overflow crowd, before the guest speaker Mr. Marken of Camrose was called upon.

Mr. Marken, with a rich and enjoyable mixture of bright humor and sage philosophy, used "ferrier" as his basic theme, and urged students to make something of their lives.

Mr. Stave and Mr. Johnson presented the scrolls and pins to the graduating students. Honor student for the 1961-62 class year was Miss Faye Storbakken, who received the honor pin. Miss Storbakken also received a $100 award.

The evening's Valedictorian was Miss Ingrid Nordheim.

A chorus by students, and singing of God Save The Queen, was followed by the Benediction. March. A dance followed the Exercises.

HORINEK - LARSON

Trinity Lutheran Church was the scene of a pretty summer wedding when Patricia Marie Larson became the bride of Edward James (Jed) Horinek. Patricia Marie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lazson of Lougheed, and Edward is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Horinek of Sedgewick. Pastor Newman of Provenburg conducted the ceremony before the altar banked with bouquets of summer flowers. Mrs. Knute Bergseth was organist and Mrs. Evelyn Lackie, cousin of the bride sang, "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

Entering the church on the arm of her father the bride looked charming in a princess styled gown of nylon organza over satin net, featuring lily-pointed sleeves and lace appliques on bodice and skirt. Her chapel length veil misted from a crown of crystal and seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and lily-of-the-valley. Her only jewelry was a cultured pearl necklace, gift of the groom.

Mrs. Norma Probst and Roxanne Larson attended their sister, and little Bonnie Marie Simpson, niece of the bride was flower girl. The bride's sister and bridesmaids were identical gowns of pink nylon chiffon and lace with long slim sleeves and full skirts. They wore white hats of flowers and net, and carried identical bouquets of pink and white carnations. Bonnie's frock was of pale blue nylon chiffon, styled with puffed sleeves, wide sash and short and full skirt. She wore a blue band in her hair and carried a gaintly white basket of mixed flowers.

Attending the groom were Evert Wayne and Ernest Bouchard, Usher-ing were Mr. Donald Heckbert and Mr. Kenneth Aldridge.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Larson chose a champagne-toned sheath with matching jacket, white accessories and pink rose corsage. Mrs. Horinek wore a beige-toned dress and jacket with white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

A reception for 160 guests was held in the church basement. The bride's table was centered by a beautifully decorated 3-tier wedding cake flanked by bouquets of summer flowers. Mr. Conrad Ingvaldson was toast master and Miss Joan Odegard was in charge of the guest book. During the reception Mrs. Evelyn Lackie sang "I'll Walk Beside You," accompanied by Mrs. Knute Bergseth at the organ.

Nomination Day Set For Sept. 26th

The day set for nominations of Mayors and Councillors in Towns and Villages of Alberta is September 26. On that day secretaries will receive each nomination during the regular hours set by statute. Elections where required will be held in October.

In Hardisty, the only Town covered by this paper, nominations are to be received for the office of Mayor, and for three Councillors. Mr. Matson, who has resigned, and Mr. Des Wilder and Mr. U. Gossnack, whose terms have expired.

In Lougheed, Sedgewick, Killam, and Strome, all Villages, there will be nominations for one Councillor.

A. P. Crop Report

Level — Cold weather has prevailed through the week with intermittent rain. Some swathing has been done on odd days, but the weather has been too damp for combining.

Alberta — Cold, wet weather has prevailed over Alberta during the past week, preventing any progress with harvesting operations. In the south 75 to 100 percent of the crops have been harvested except for flax, and operations could be completed in a few days. In the Central area the swathing is well advanced but only a small percentage of combining has been done. In the north and the Peace River about 50 percent of the crops are swathed but little or no combining has been done. Wind, rain and snow have caused some lodging and heavy frosts in some areas will result in lower grades of grain.

Next meeting to be on Oct. 10th. Every member to attend.

Rathwell - Robson Wedding At St. George's Anglican

White and yellow chrysanthemums banked the altar of St. George's Anglican Church on Saturday, August 4th when Miss Jean Gail Robson of Killam became bride of Mr. Lloyd A. Rathwell of Red Deer. The beautiful double-ring ceremony was solemnized by Rev. Robert Calderwood of Sedgewick. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherston Robson of Killam, while the groom is the elder son of Mrs. Pearl Rathwell of Winnipeg and the late Mr. Rathwell.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in a floor length gown of nylon organza with fitted embossed bodice and lily-point sleeves. The very simple waistline was set off by a beautiful lace-edged skirt with a front panel embroidered with tiny white flowers. The bride of the gown featured a large bow and scoop-train. Her crown tiara of seed pearls and elbow-length studded veil were complimented with cultured pearl earrings, a gift of the groom. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses with cascading rose buds, satin and lace streamers.

The bridesmaid, Miss Sharon Sabin-on of Killam, sister of the bride, wore a street length dress of sheer pink nylon over taffeta, with shirred bodice an short puffy sleeves. The groom's mother, assisted by the bride's mother, entertained the bridal party at a dinner at the home of the bride's parents on their farm south-west of Killam. After visiting and the opening of gifts, everyone enjoyed dancing in the Community Hall.

For her going away outfit the bride chose a wool coat of white and navy blue with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses. After a honeymoon trip to Jasper and North-ern Alberta the happy couple are residing in Red Deer where they are both employed.

SAVE THAT STRAW!

In many areas of western Canada farmers are going to be faced with the problem of heading a heavy crop of straw during their 1962 fall tillage program. Some may take the easy way out and simply "bench a mouth" in this valuable crop residue. Where good equipment is available burning of straw is unnecessary.

Straw is Organic Matter —Many of our prairie soils are none too well supplied with organic matter at the present time. This vital material helps prevent erosion, enables the soil to absorb and retain moisture, & is food for the micro-organisms in the soil which change inert material into a form which the plant can use as food. Without organic matter soil is only a mixture of clay and sand which cannot produce profitable crop

Soil Protection Important — A good trash cover is also vitally important. We have all seen the results of water erosion in areas where heavy rainstorms occurred this year. Water erosion was serious. Trash cover is also, of course, a proven protection against soil drifting.

Handling Heavy Straw Cover A Problem — It is not easy to handle the straw remaining from a heavy crop and still do an efficient job of cultivation. Farmers in Western Canada, however, have developed methods which go a long way toward the solving of this problem. A good stubble mulcher on the combine will reduce the problem considerably, while a straw cutter will practically eliminate it. Harrowing at right angles to the direction of travel of the combine (on a hot, dry day, if possible) is also recommended. This will break up a good deal of the straw and spread it more evenly over the field.

Shallow Cultivation Important — This is particularly true where the disser or sea, why is used. Don't bury the straw deeply on fields to be seeded next year. If seed is placed in a mixture of soil and straw the obstacles are that germination will be seriously reduced. In addition, the organisms in the soil, which rot down the straw, will compete with the crop plants for the nitrogen that is in the soil. This will result in reduced yield. Bury that straw, it will protect your soil and give increased yields in the years ahead.

WHY FARMERS LEAVE

(From the Wheat Pool Budget).

In the past two decades there has been a heavy migration of farmers from the land all across the North American continent. In Alberta the number of farms has dropped from close to 160,000 in 1941 to a little over 72,000 at the time of the last census in 1961. In view of this big reduction in farm numbers, a survey as to why farmers leave the land conducted in Illinois, is of particular interest. In 1960 and 1961, researchers questioned 200 farmers who were quitting farming. One-third of them said the financial squeeze between rising costs and declining prices was the most important reason. They were not making enough money to meet expenses and family needs, the return in capital and labor was low or they had the ability or training to qualify for higher paying jobs. Another 20 percent left because of some problems relating to ownership of land. The land had been sold or the lease terminated, etc. About 35 were 65 years old and older and had retired the age at which they wanted to slow down, or health required it. Another 11 percent of those under 65 also reported some health problem was the reason they were leaving. Family or other sociological prob, lems were listed as the important reasons for another 10 pc. leaving.

Government price support questions prior to their departing had only minor influence on their decisions to leave farming. A similar survey in this province would no doubt produce interesting results. It is safe to say that low income would be the main factor here just as in Illinois.

IT PAYS TO CONTROL CATTLE GRUBS!

The systemic insecticides Co-Ral and Ruelene are safe and effective for controlling cattle grubs and lice in beef animals and non-lactating dairy cows. Timing and methods of application are essential considerations in the effective use of these compounds. Co-Ral and Ruelene are sprayed under high pressure, but Ruelene is used also as a pour-on.

Treat animals early in the fall, as soon after September 15 as practical and according to instructions. Spraying the orally accessible parts of the animal, is just as effective as spraying the whole animal, as long as care is taken to wet the skin and not just the hair. Habitually leary animals may not respond to pour-on & should be sprayed, or possibly called from the herd.

With systemic insecticides and simplified methods of their application, it is advisable to organize some control of cattle grubs. In one such project at Forestburg, Alberta, about 12000 cattle were treated in three consecutive years in an area 15 x 20 miles, resulting in a significant reduction in grub population. The effect was most marked in those cattle in the central parts of the area that were at a distance of five miles from untreated herds. In three animals the grub population dropped from 14 grubs per animal to zero. In that area farmers received as much as $3 in one percent per pound extra for warble-free animals sold during the warble season.

The Bible Today

"Will we still they need?" is a question on many lips in the Western World as one thinks of the millions in Asia, Africa, and elsewhere who are learning to read. "These are days for giving out literature in shops and prisons," writes a missionary in Costa Ghana, Guinea, Chad, Cameroons as well as India. Thailand and Japan have the same cry, "We want to read. We must read. We will read."

The popularity of Bible Correspondence Courses in underprivileged areas indicate the thirst for reading materials. There are 1200 bookstores in Tokyo, all going business.

The literacy explosion has led thousands to read the Bible for the first time. The fact that the Word of God appears in 1186 languages means that it is not looked upon as a foreign Book. The Bible speaks today to every man's need. Man is hungry for the Written Word. One of the greatest challenges in the Christian Missionary enterprise is providing Christian reading material — books, pamphlets and magazines by the millions. copies of the Word of God in the languages needed.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

NEARING THE "HOME STRETCH"

With the crack of the referee's pistol, the Yale mile began. At the first turn, an unknown runner was knocked down. He was badly shaked and cut. As he rose to his feet, everyone was surprised to see him begin to run again. With pain plainly showing in his eyes, he began to give the race everything he had. Slowly, he began passing runners. Each man was giving his best. Still painfully suffering, with only ten yards to go, he moved into first place. As he crossed the finish line, a mighty yell went up. The unexpected had happened—"nobody" had won the Yale mile.

The unknown runner, whom no one had expected to win, won because he had determination and perseverance. His desire to win was foremost in his mind and it gave him the additional strength he needed.

A person who really desires to be a Christian will stay in the race and run in spite of every discouragement and trial. Living a Christian life isn't easy, but it brings a deep peace and contentment that only Christ can give. He fills the emptiness and gives abundant life Christ gives strength and courage as He guides us day by day.

Jude 3 says that we should "earnestly contend for the faith." We can never be successful trying to get in with a minimum of consecration. It takes everything we have. With our hearts centered on God in wholehearted consecration, we will be winners in this heavenly race.

We're very near the end of our race here on earth. In fact, we're in the "home stretch" of the last lap.

Jesus is coming soon! Will you be ready to meet Him? If you do not know Him as your personal saviour, accept Him today. You, too, will know the happiness and joy of being a child of God. There is great satisfaction in knowing you are on the winning team and that you have a wonderful coach like Jesus Christ.

He is by your side now. Put your hand in His. Feel Him and show you the way. By putting your faith and trust in God and committing your self wholly to Him, the heavenly race will be won. Victory will be yours.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of a loving husband and father, Joseph Hamberg, who passed away September 19th, 1961.
Sorely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the House of the Lord forever. Psalm 23-6.
Willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord, 2 Corinthians 5-8.
Ever remembered and sadly missed by his loving wife, Hanka and family.

In memory of Joseph Hamberg, who passed away September 19, 1961.
We thought of you today Dad,
But that is nothing new;
We thought about you yesterday
And the day before that too.
We will think about you tomorrow,
And through all the years to come,
For no Dad was more wonderful
Than you were to us.

DON'T WASTE CHAFF

CHAFF MAKES LOW COST CATTLE FEED

Grain cheff, fed with or without a supplement, makes it possible to winter cows and calves for less than 10c a head a day.
The FOSTER BLOWER AND DUMP WAGON attaches to most popular combines and saves cheff only while harvesting. (Or, at the operator's choice both cheff and straw can be saved)
The solid dumps of cheff saved with the FOSTER BLOWER AND DUMP WAGON can be fed in the field or easily loaded on a truck with a hook rake and then moved to stack.

In nearly every case, the FOSTER BLOWER AND DUMP WAGON will pay for itself in one year with savings made in cattle feed.

Jacobsen - Eldey Vows

(Westaskiwin Times)

Bethlehem Lutheran Church was decorated with white and purple gladioli recently when Miss Lyla Noreen Eldey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nils Eldey of Sedgewick, became the bride of Mr. Gert Jacobsen of Nordic and Mrs. Chris Jacobsen of Edmonton, in a ceremony conducted by Pastor J. Arvidson. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Don Daily of Edmonton and soloist was Mrs. Ralph Pocock of Wetaskiwin.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was in a street length gown of white brocade with bridal rose pat tern. The bodice of the bride's gown was sandcrafted with seed pearls and styled with a rounded neckline with scalloped edges and lily point sleeves. The flared skirt buttoned down the back. A short bouffant veil misted from the bride's pearl and rhinestone crown and she carried a cascade of pink snapdragons roses and white stephanotis with ivy tendrils.

Mrs. Sonja Beairsto of Red Deer was her sister's matron of honor and Mrs. Helen Smith was bridesmaid. Both were dresses of white cotton lace over champagne taffeta fashioned with bouffant skirts. They carried crescents of bronze mums with sprigs of copper wheat.

The groom was attended by Mr. Olaf Eldey of Sedgewick and Mr. Norman Smith of Ponoka. Guests were ushered to their places by Mr. Brian Beairsto of Red Deer.

The bridal party received at a reception at the banquet room of the Driard Hotel. The mother of the bride was in sheath and jacket of coffee brown rayon cord. The groom's parents were represented by Mrs. Hilda Oakes of Sedgewick. Bride's table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake and white candles. Baskets of white and purple gladioli completed the table arrangements.

For travelling to Northwestern U.S.A. the bride wore a green knit knit suit with a dark beige cloche felt hat. The couple will reside in Seattle, Washington.

Facts For Farmers

Hydrochloric acid in a 25 percent solution may be used for roughening slippery cement floors. Remember, however, when using an acid you must always add the acid to the water and not the water to the acid. Water added to acid can cause an explosion.

F.U.A. Newsletter

The FUA Membership Drive which will be held in November, seems to be off to a flying start. Requests for canvassing kits are flowing in to the Calvet Office, and it appears that the total number of canvassers will be larger than in previous years. The explanation for this early and growing interest seems to be that more and more farmers realize the need for a strong Farm organization, and also that the first step necessary in building such an organization, has to be made at grass root level by individual members working hard for a much increased membership.

FUA members will be pleased to know that Mr. Ed Nelson, president, who has been in the hospital for two weeks, is now convalescing at home.

Harvest has been seriously delayed by cool, damp weather over most of Alberta. Frost has been its toll, but how serious this is, only time will tell. In northern and northeastern Alberta including Peace River, there seems little chance of closing the harvest before mid-October, even with ideal weather from now on. Wet fields and rapidly shortening days mean very few hours of combining each day. A tragic situation could easily develop.

WEED ESSAY

A 1000 word essay on "How We Control Weeds On Our Farms," could earn a $300 scholarship to you if you live on a farm and are between the ages of 12 and 16. W. Lobay of the Dept. of Ag., pointed out that the best provincial essay, written by a boy or girl, will receive a $25 prize and automatically be entered in the competition for the scholarship. The scholarship can be used at any recognized agricultural or home economics college provided the courses chosen lead to a degree or diploma in either. The successful competitor can use the scholarship any time up to three years after he has graduated from high school.

All essays must be completed in October. Details and rules can be obtained from your D.A., field supervisor or Field Crops Branch of the Department of Agriculture.

GREEN ACRES

(By M. F. Wade, D. A.)

HELLO FOLKS!

I better you greetings from the farmers of the Brooks District Agricultural area, a district of irrigated crops and ranching. I feel at bit lost coming from an open prairie to these beautiful tree lined-green fields. By the look of the good grain crops and lovely farm homes, observed so far, I can't imagine there being too many farm problems here this year.

I would like to publicly thank Mr. Edwards for his introduction. With my limited experience in the area I cannot hope to give the novice that Art has given but I will certainly do my best to pinch hit for him. Please feel free to call at any time.

There has been a couple of items come my desk recently that may be of interest:

FALL SEEDING OF FORAGE CROPS!

According to D. H. Heinrichs of the Swift Current Station, now is the time to plan the seeding of grass alfalfa mixtures. The day is past when we consider oats to be the king of fodders. It is alfalfa, especially now that we have the drought resistant Rambler variety. With all the moisture available now clean stubble fields are ideal for seeding into this fall (Oct. 15 is a favourite). For hay, use Rambler alfalfa with crested wheat grass, brome grass or intermediate wheat grass. For pasture use Rambler alfalfa with Russian wild rye grass, Crested Wheat or Slender.

CONSUME CAPACITY!

Just a word to the wise on harvesting heavy crops. A.M.A. says combines capacity should be measured in terms of grain loss and not plugging or engine power. There are 4 measured losses:

1. Pick-up — Over 4 or 5 miles per hour ground speed will give excessive losses.

3. Shoe — Free grains, cracks and partial heads containing grain.

4. Walkers — Free grain passed over the back of the walker.

Combine sizes have changed and shoe have sufficient capacity to handle the capacity of crops at a rate that the combine power will handle. On the other hand, the width are could be very readily overloaded before maximum motor power is reached. This is typical of most combines and so it is important to check the walked losses in determining a suitable feed rate for the machine. Usually there is little shortsitive but to slow down when walker losses are excessive. It is very important to appreciate that losses, particularly from the walkers, increase very greatly for a small increase in the feed rate.

* * *

A. P. Crop Report

Favorable weather has prevailed during the last few days and swathing has gone ahead rapidly, being well advanced throughout the area, and completed at some stations. Very little combining has been done so far, but the grain is getting dry and combining is expected to become general this week.

GUEST EDITORIAL

U. S. Editor Lashes out Against Decline In Morality and Ethics!

(This is the text of a speech made by Jenkin Jones, Editor Tulsa Tribune, before a group of newspaper editors. Because many of the criticisms of Mr. Jones could easily apply to Canada, his full speech will be reprinted here). Taken From the C. P. S. Sponsor.

This afternoon I am about to inflict upon you a jeremiad.

Long before the prophet Jeremiah uttered his lamentations about the evil behavior of the children of Israel, the world had seen many calamity howlers. We have cuneiform tablets describing the moral decay of Babylon and Chaldea. We have hieroglyphics inscriptions predicting that Cheops and Ra will smite the Egyptians for their wickedness. And so, when I rise today and make some comments about the moral climate of America and about our responsibilities therefore as temporary custodians of America's press, I speak in a very old tradition.

The calamity howler! It is customary to dismiss such fogyrium as I am about to display with tolerant laugh. For, while it was freely predicted all through the ages that the world was going to hell, it hasn't gone to hell yet.

Who can deny that in practically all the crafts and certainly all of the sciences we are further ahead than we ever have been? Why not we cheer-fully optimistic?

I think I can tell you why: Human progress has never been steady. It has washed back and forth like waves upon a beach.

Happily, there has always been an incoming tide, so the waves have washed higher and higher as each great civilization came on.

But the pathway of history is littered with the bones of dead states and fallen empires. And they were not, in most cases, promptly replaced by something better.

Nearly a thousand years elapsed between the fall of Western Rome and the rise of the Renaissance, and in between we had the Dark Ages in which nearly all of man's institutions were inferior to those which had gone before.

I don't want my children's children to go through a couple of centuries of dialectic materialism before the sun comes up again.

So the Jeremiahs haven't been so wrongafter all. It is and to witch the beginnings of decay.

It is and to see an Age of Pericles replaced by the drunken riots of Alcibiades. There was, indeed, just cause for gloom when into the palaces of the Caesars came Nero and Caligula, and when the once-noble Praetorian Guard became a gang of assassins willing to sell the throne to the top bidder.

Alaric's Goths finally poured over the walls of Rome. But it was not that the walls were low. It was that Rome itself was low.

The annual life of Pompeii, the orgies on Lake Trasimene, the gradually weakened fiber of a once-self-disciplined people that reduced them at last to seeking solace in mercenaries and the payment of tribute — all these brought Rome down. She went down too early.

She had much to teach the world.

And so, ladies and gentlemen, I look upon our own country and mark that I see distortion me. But we are a great people. We have a noble tradition. We have much to teach the world, and if America should go down soon it would be too early.

NOT CENTURIES

One thing is certain. We shall be given no centuries for a leisurely and comfortable decay. We have no sooner — remorseless, cynic, brutal and cocky. However much the leaders of the Communist conspiracy may lie to their subjects about our motives, about our conditions of prosperity, about our policies and aims, one thing they believe themselves implicitly — and that is that we are in an advanced state of moral decline.

When Nikita Khrushchev visited Hollywood he was shown only one movie set, that of a wild dance scene in "Cleopatra." He said it represented decadence, and I am sure he really thought so. It is a dogma of current Communist faith that America is Sodom and Gomorrah, ripening for the fall.

Do you know what amuses me about the Communists? It is not their economic system, which works so badly that progress in a few directions is purchased at the price of progress in all the rest. It is their Puritanism. It is their dedication and self-sacrifice.

It does no good to comfort ourselves with the reflection that these are products of endless brainwashings, of incessant propaganda, of deprivation by censorship and jamming of counter-information and contrary arguments. The dedication is there. The confidence that they are morally superior is there.

The naive questions of your Internet guide reveal only too quickly that she thinks she is talking to a self-indulgent fop from the court of some latter-day Louis XIV.

In the school yard the children rush up to show you not their yo-yos, but their scholarship medals. And when you offer them new Lincoln pennies as souvenirs they rip off their little Young Pioneer buttons and hand them to you, proud that they are not taking gifts, but are making a fair exchange.

The Russian stage is as austere as the Victorian stage. Russian people and Russian culture exude optimism and promise. Russian art is stiffly representational, but the paintings and the sculpture strive to depict beauty and heroism — Russian beauty, of course, and Russian heroism.

And what of us?

SNAIL'S PACE

We are now at the end of the third decade of the national insanity known as "progressive education." This was the collective where everyone passes; where the report cards were non-committal, lest the failure be faced with the Dot of his failure; where all moved at a snail pace like a synchronistic convoy, so that the slowest need not be left behind; and all proceeded toward adulthood in the lockstep of "togetherness."

Thus the competition that breeds excellence was to be sacrificed for the benefit of something called "life adjustment."

With what results? We have watched juvenile delinquency climb steadily. We have produced tens of thousands of high-school graduates who move their lips as they read and cannot write a coherent paragraph.

While our Russian contemporaries — who were supposed to be dedicated to the mass man — have been busy constructing in cities, we have been engaged in the wholesale production of mediocrity. What a switch!

When was the last time you, editors and publishers, examined the curricula of your local schools? How did your schools rank on the standardized Iowa tests? When were you last asked to explain your schools' report cards and the philosophy behind their grading system? Have you asked to examine any senior English themes? Have you offered any recognition to your schools' best scholars to compare to the recognition you accord your schools' best football players?

For the funny thing about "progressive edurcses" is that theory vanishes when the referee's whistle blows for the kick-off. In the classroom they pretend to grade subjectively, against the student's supposed capacity, but to be humiliated by natural inadequacy.

But on the football field they never put in a one-legged halfback on the theory that, considering his disability, he's a great halfback. They put in the best halfback they've got, period.

The unpitied sit on the bench or back in the stands even though they, too might thirst for glory. If our schools were as ruthless in turn out failures as they are, in turn out winning football teams, this strange contradiction wouldn't exist.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

GOD'S STRENGTH CAN BE YOURS

"Here's one I can't lift, Daddy," the boy cried. "I've tried with all my might."

The father stopped working, looked down at his boy, smiled and said, "Son, you didn't really try with all your might, for I was here as a part of your might and you didn't ask me to help you."

Jesus of Nazareth wants you to count Him as a part of your might. He knows your limitations, and He stands beside you to minister to your needs. He stands beside you when the burdens are too heavy to bear.

He stands beside you at the busy intersections of life, when you are bewildered by the rush and tumult of all that's going on. He takes your hand in His and leads you safely across. He stands beside you when nerves are frayed, or when you are discouraged and lonely. He has a way of calming frayed nerves, of reassuring you and of putting you back in order.

Christ's strength is placed at your disposal to be utilized. If you give up easily, if you are prey to lingering fears, it is because you have not learned to place your hand in His. You have only to reach out in faith and make His strength a part of your strength.

It often happens that life makes demands of you beyond your own powers. Such demands work for your good! Only that which seems impossible is really worth doing, for this is the law of growth and progress. But to succeed at these tasks, you must learn how to utilize God's help. For no one, of course, can go beyond human limitation without His help. Phillips Brooks used to pray, "Lord, I ask not for tasks equal to my powers, but I pray for powers equal to great tasks."

When you know that Christ's strength is a part of your strength, you need not be afraid of any situation or task that may confront you in the future.

God gives just the right amount of strength for every need. Saturate your life in faith and face undaunted the challenge of living each day victoriously.

Pause For Thought

We were Happy in our Rut until some Definter showed us these Figures:

100 men start out at age 20. At age 65 — 1 is rich; 4 have enough to retire; 5 are still working; 36 are dead, and 54 are broke. Makes one Wonder and Question such Generalized Statistics. What with inflation; mounting National Deficits; Cost of Living and Income Taxes; we are ALL broke whether we appear to be or not. Our descendants, to whom we arrogantly Will our Accumulated and Expanded National Debts, will be Even Broker.

A FEW HARDISTY FLAKES
(By Pestle)

With the appearance of the fine weather again Pestle also makes his appearance in the Press. My intentions are always good but the other involved in something else or the spirit that moves me refuse to cooperate, and before I know it the old deadline for news is past.

The town is very quiet these days with the farmers putting in long shifts in an attempt to get in their crop while the sun shines. Here's hoping that your long shifts continue for awhile and then you can take it easier like us.

The street work is progressing very well in spite of the bad weather we had. I guess that is one blessing of this rock pile we are situated on. Some other spots would bog down under such wet conditions. I do hope that with the completion of the hard surface program in the near future, that it is followed up with a get-tough campaign with some of the drag-strippers which it is bound to attract. I'm told this idea is going to be enforced, as some of the offenders can take prior warning. Nuff said!

I would suppose that most of the Press readers are aware that we had found it necessary to make some changes in the car bingo to be held October 22nd. The date remains the same, but the place is now the arena and the time 8.30. So please make a note of the foregoing changes.

I had the pleasure of attending the graduation exercises at Consort High last week, and was very pleased with the programme. I think a fall graduation idea is a fine one, & yours truly hopes that the practice will be continued. Congratulations to you and lots of luck in the future. A few thanks is also due Mr. Storer and his staff for making the evening an enjoyable. I was very impressed with Valedictorian Diane Mendelsen's address. I would rate it one of the best that I have heard.

Well the golf course is in fair condition with the exception of the approaches to some greens. They will have to wait until next year. Fairways are good considering the type of ground they are laid out on and the amount of brush that was taken off since spring. I am pleased to report that a visitor to the course shot a par 34 his first time around. I was touch for the score as I was with him and was keeping score. This golfer, Doug Stuart, who is soon to become a son-in-law of the club president Ben Rempel, makes the game look so easy, but I still go on dabbling around the fifty mark.

The clock says that it is time to cut this off and get some into the evening post. Maybe that is where Benjamin Franklin got the idea of Saturday Evening Post for his mag.

Please don't forget to help Art with his harvest by taking care of those red X's you saw a week ago.

ROSYTH RIPPLES
(Mrs. Ralph Mossing)

Mr and Mrs Wilfred Devitt had a welcome surprise when Mr Devitt's sister, husband and daughter, Mr & Mrs Wm. Rose and Ruth of Perth, Ont. dropped in for a few days visit. Wilfredo Devitt hadn't seen his sister since 1927. Mr and Mrs Rose brought a gallon of maple syrup and some maple sugar. They had supper and saw films at the home of Gerald Cloe and Clair Metz.

Miss Mary Crone of Edmonton and Mrs Ava Crone and Maureen from Leduc were week end visitors at the Fritz Crone home.

Kathleen Devitt spent a week in Edmonton with her aunt and uncle, Mr and Mrs Stephen Harris.

Mr and Mrs Fritz Crone motored to Leduc on Sunday to visit Mr and Mrs Tommy Crone and family, and then to New Sarepta on business.

Mr and Mrs Nick Petegal of Edmonton spent the week end at the Pete Jacobuta home.

Mrs. Emma Brodiere of Edmonton spent a few days visiting Mrs. Marie Plande and other friends and relatives in the district. Mrs. Brodieere and Mrs. Plande went to Lucelend, Sask. to visit Mr and Mrs Ryber.

Alice Manning was admitted to St. Anne's Hospital in Hardisty.

Mr and Mrs Wilfred Devitt and family went to Camrose to visit the Optometrist.

The Bible Today

The demand for the Bible rises dramatically during periods of political unrest, the annual report of the Board of Managers of the American Bible Society revealed.

"Once again it is important to note the astonishing increase in Scripture circulation in areas of political tension and revolution," the report says. "Cuba and Congo are cases in point; in the former, distribution increased during 1961 from 611,283 to 806,630 Scriptures, and in Congo there was an increase of over 75,000 Scriptures. The Bible clearly brings God's power to men who are seeking freedom from oppression, whether it be political or spiritual".

During 1961, the Society distributed over 34,000,000 copies of Scriptures in over 100 countries on six continents. It was the largest annual total since the Society was founded.

The 23 members of the United Bible Societies, to which the Canadian Bible Society belongs, helped to bring about a distribution of more than two million copies in three countries and more than a million in two others. They were India, 3,791,297; Japan, 2,505,386; Argentina, 2,041,120; Brazil, 1,668,312 and Korea, 1,020,647.

In Memoriam

HAWKINS — In loving memory of a loving husband and father, Waldie Hawkins, who passed away on October 3rd, 1961.

Instead of side by side,
But to everyone there comes a time
When the ways divide.
Heavenly rest is yours my dear,
The loneliness is mine;
Yet when we are sad and lonely
And everything goes wrong,
We seem to hear you whisper
"Cheer up and carry on".
When shades of night are falling
And I sometimes sit alone,
There comes a longing in my heart
If you could just come home.

Sadly missed by his loving wife

Course Of The Canadian Dollar Since 1926

Following the success of Canada's emergency action to support the dollar, the way is now open for longer-term measures, according to the Bank of M's Business Review for September, just issued. Tracing the history of Canada's foreign exchange picture since 1926, the review says establishment of a par value of 92.5 U. S. cents was a return, after some 12 years, to a system similar to that of other major trading nations who are members of the International Monetary Fund. Against a background of improved foreign exchange reserves and a Canadian dollar now well above parity, the B of M says, "it is evident that the emergency program has been successful in restoring stability and confidence in the Canadian exchange market.

"The way is therefore clear to undertake longer-term measures designed to overcome the underlying balance of payments difficulties which become apparent when the Canadian dollar was overvalued in relation to other currencies."

The bank says that linked as Canada's economy is to that of an exceptionally large neighbor "subject to ebbs and flows of capital in great volume" the nation always faces major difficulties in choosing an appropriate exchange regime and rate. However, the B of M points out that other countries have operated successfully under a fixed rate system for many years with only occasional changes in par value. Thus the review continues, "the period of difficulties faced by Canada should not be inoperable, given appropriate domestic measures for internal and international co-operation that are now available."

In any event, there can be no argument that it will benefit Canada & the rest of the world alike for foreign exchange dealings in this country to be conducted in "an environment of stability and confidence, free from undue speculative influences."

And, the B of M review concludes, the maintenance over extended periods of a stable par value for the currency can certainly contribute to this end."

NEW HOSPITAL CONSTRUCTION TO START SOON AT KILLAM

Mr. J. D. Campbell, Director of the Hospitals Division of Alberta's Department of Public Health, announced on Friday that construction would commence shortly on a number of 30-bed active treatment hospitals in Alberta, including the new General Hospital at Killam.

Also included in the tenders now being called, is a 60-bed Auxiliary Hospital for the Flagstaff-Hughenden Auxiliary Hospital District No. 20, to be built at Killam.

Tenders for the two new hospitals at Killam will close October 19th and it is expected that a start on construction will be made soon thereafter.

Three two units will form the Killam Hospital "Complex" with the Auxiliary receiving its kitchen, laundry and other services from the General. The architects, Diamond, Clarke and Associates, estimate that construction will 'cost about one [illegible]

Hunting Season

Curt Smith, Director of the Fish and Wildlife Division of the Alberta Government, says that hunters must always ask permission from a farmer before shooting on his land. In addition to being a common courtesy this permission is actually required by regulations of the game act. A farmer may post his land for "no shooting" which used to mean that neither he nor his family could shoot on it. However, this section of the Act has been revised and a sign may now post his land without being prohibited from shooting on it himself.

The Division receives reports every season of livestock damage. These cases are considered criminal offenses and as such are not followed-up by the Wildlife Division. They are investigated by the RCMP.

Hunters are not allowed to carry loaded guns in vehicles and cannot discharge firearms within 300 yards of farm buildings. No hunting is permitted on Sundays in this province and shooting hours are limited to 1 half hour before sunrise and 1 half hour after sunset.

Insurance to cover crop damage from game birds may be obtained by farmers which is administered by the Hail Insurance agencies. The actual claims are paid from a fund raised by assessing bird and big game hunters an extra dollar on licences.

A. P. Crop Report

Crops in this area have been slow in drying and curing due to second growth caused by heavy rains late in July. About 60 percent of the crops have been combined with some grain being tough and damp. Yields range from light in the south to good in the northwest. Range of yields are wheat, 10 to 40 bus; Oats 25 to 80; Barley 25 to 40 bushels.

The past two weeks have been ideal harvesting weather and crops are now being quickly gathered in.

F.U.A. Newsletter

Mrs. C. E. Braithwaite of Red Deer and Mrs. F. A. Hanson of Lacombe, president and Vice respectively of the FWUA, have left for Australia. They are the FWUA delegates to the conference of the Associated Country Women of the World. It is expected that Mrs. Braithwaite and Mrs. Hanson will be back Oct. 20th.

The membership committee of the FUA finished its plans for the Membership Drive at a meeting held last week in Edmonton. General attendance at the 1st District Directors' meeting was considered very good. This is seen as a sign that more and more women are becoming aware of the benefits of belonging to an organization which gives them an opportunity to discuss opinions about the problems facing the farming community of their province. In the November Drive special attention will be given to retaining the membership the Units already have, as well as to an increase through a thorough job of canvassing. From 1949 on not a single Western Canada has steadily gone down. At the end of 1961 it was 16.6 percent lower than in 1949, when returns for farm operators were deemed fair. Farm operating and living costs rose over the same period 36 percent. Compared with the western farmer, the eastern farmer is much better off. His net income was 85.5 percent in the same twelve years. These figures alone clearly the need for a strong farm organization in Alberta.

A new printing of the FWUA cook book is on the press. This book was first published in 1952 and since then 80,000 copies have been sold across Canada and the U. S. Due to rising costs the price of the books had to be raised to $1.50.

This winter the National Farm Radio Forum will resume its broadcasts. The first one can be heard on October 22nd. This program has proved to be a vital force in Canada and to provide leadership in other countries.

Two issues of The Organized Farmer, the monthly publication of the Farmers' Union of Alberta, will be published in October. Plans are completed to start publishing The Organized Farmer in 1963 regularly twice a month.

Enrollment And Exam Results Show Gains At Central High School

(By our Staff Writer)

While it is somewhat difficult to give an accurate picture of examination results for the Central High at Sedgewick, our inquiries have shown that while the above is different, it is however possible to classify the percentage of students who obtain the "50" (50) or better. We found that in 1960 through a combination of varying circumstances the percentage was low. The 1962 results showed a substantial improvement, with 1962 raising the average until the result was 40 percent with B or better. In addition to those students who gained 50 percent or better, a large number achieved 45 percent or more that enabled them to secure a high school diploma but not allowing University entrance. There were six students who obtained a clear matriculation last June, which requires that no mark be less than 50, and the average be 60 or better. In examining the results, we found that this is a rather high proportion of matriculation students when considering that only four students even attempt matriculation, and that the total number of grade 12 students was only 15.

By making a landing question on the principle of promoting students, we learned that Central operates on the theory of encouraging hard work honestly and learn something of the course, even though they are likely to fail in grade 12. We agreed that the theory was acceptable if not carried too far, for while such a tendency is bound to make exam results look bad, it is our thought that such a school should be operated for the benefit of students rather than to simply obtain a high percentage of passing marks. Higher standards could be obtained by failing more students in grades 10 and 11. Another course would be to channel students into various academic courses, which we found were not available in most of our high schools outside of cities.

At Central last year, four of the grade 12 subjects written brought results equal to the provincial average; some were better and some lower (60 percent). Three subjects fell below, but were subjects where the requirements were lower.

However we discovered that the teaching staff was quite delighted with the improvement in 1962 and is hopeful of better results in 1963.

ATTENDANCE

We remember only a few years ago the enrollment at Central High was just barely over the 100 mark. The current 1962-63 enrollment is 220. Grade 10 this year has 88 students enrolled compared with 48 in 1961 only a few years ago. It has been the habit in past years for many students to drop out of school at the grade 10 level, and even more at the grade 11 level, but we discovered this year fewer are dropping out, and continuing on to grade 12, even though they find it difficult.

SUBJECTS OFFERED

Today a student will find that the courses available at Central are advanced as accomodations and staff will permit. There is a full grade 12 program which this year includes Math 31 (Trig.), enabling a student to qualify for say faculty at U. of A. It also offers all compulsory and academic subjects in grades 10 and 11; Commercial Typing 10, 20, & Shorthand 10; Math 11 and 21; Bookkeeping 20; Business Fundamentals 10; Record Keeping 20; Home Ec. Food and Nutrition 10 and 20; Fab. and Dress 10 and 20; also Electives, Geography 20, Physiology 20, Biology 20 and Economics 20.

The demand apparent for the commercial subjects might indicate the addition of another instructor, and include Industrial Arts Wood 10 & 20, Metal 10, and Arts and Crafts. Of course this could be revised or extended on demand and enrollment warranted.

The staff at Central now totals 13.

GRADUATION

One of the results of holding the graduation in the fall this year, was that more students than ever, wrote and passed supplemental exams, thus raising the graduation class to 32. We were pleased with the fall graduation because we feel that it is bring more realistic.

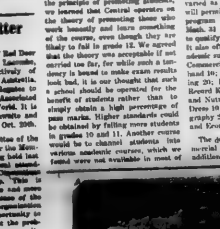
Killam Finds Good Supply of Water

Some months ago a petition from ratepayers of Killam requested the Village Council to investigate the possibility of serving the community with a modern water supply. Council accordingly, with the assistance of the Alberta Research Council, undertook a survey of the town and around town. It would now appear that they "hit the jackpot" in a well situated south and west of the old graveled site. In its report the Research Council says, "the safe yield from this well, based on 20 years of continuous pumping, may be 80 imperial gallons per minute. The maximum pumping rate though, for this well completed with a 10-inch diameter No. 12 slot screen, is 60 imperial gallons a minute. There is ample water available for Killam.

Also well No. 2, now a standby well for the Village, should produce 30 gallons per minute."

Chemical analysis of this water was made at the University, and has been found very suitable.

Nielson - Bartusek Vows



Baskets of gladiolis and carnations decorated the Baptist Church, Killam for the afternoon wedding, when Margaret Bessie, only daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Walter Bartusek became the bride of Douglas James Anthony, only son of Mr. and Mrs. James Nielson of Hesketh. The wedding Prayer was sung by soloist Mrs. Jean White just after the bride was escorted by her father to the front of the church. Rev. Grymonpre performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white nylon organza over taffeta with full length lily-petal sleeves & sweetheart neckline. Her veil of nylon net was sequinned bandeau gradually fully to the floor over back panels. A cream of coral posies held the bride's shoulder length flowing elbow veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of deep red roses accented with white trailing ribbons and love knots. The bride's only jewelry was a single strand of cultured pearls, gift of the groom.

Miss Fay Rowe attended as maid of honor and Valeen Bartusek and Lillian Bartusek as bridesmaids. All were identical floor length gowns of silk shrimp organza over taffeta with rounded necklines. Their headpieces of organza and crinkovene are quite unlike any shown before. They carried cascade bouquets of variegated white and yellow pompons.

Attending the groom as best man was Wilson Ridgwell of Hesketh. The groom's ushers were Gwynne Bartusek and Gordon Bartusek. Wedding music was played by Miss Doris York and during the signing of the register Mrs. Jean White sang, "I'll Walk Beside You."

The wedding reception was held in the Killam School Auditorium for 140 guests. Bride's table was centered by a lovely 3-tier wedding cake. Mr. Ralph Rowe proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded.

U. S. Editor Lashes out Against Decline In Morality and Ethics!

NEGLECTED

Having neglected discipline in education, it was quite logical that me should reject disciplines in art. The great painters and sculptors of the past studied anatomy so diligently that they often indulged in their own body-something, indeed, after many centuries, we discovered on the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel or at the walls of the Reichsmuse and marvel at their works.

All he needs is pigment and press agent. He can throw colors at a canvas and the art world will discover him. He can stick bits of glass, old rags and quids of used chewing ingness on a board and he is a social critic. He can drive a car back and forth in parts of print and "Life" magazine will write him up.

Thiant is for squares. What you need is vast effrontery. If you undertake to paint a cow, it must look something like a cow.

That takes at least a sign painter's ability. But just you can claim to paint a picture of your psycho sad, no matter what the result, who is to say what your psycho looks like?

So our museums are filled with dauba being stared at by confused citizens who haven't the guts to admit they are confused.

But the Age of Puberty in art is a valid cross that American people must bear. More serious is our collapse of moral standards and the blunting of our capacity for righteous indignation.

Our Puritan ancestors were preoccupied with sin. They were too preoccupied with it. They were long-thinker and guilt-ridden and theirs was a repressed and neurotic society. But they had horsepower.

They wrested livings from rocky land, built our civilized colleges, started our literature, caused our industrial revolution, and found time in between to fight the Indians, the French and the British, to hunt for witch-crackers and bloomers. They were a tremendous people.

Man was the master of his soul. You didn't have to be bad. You could and should be better. And if you wanted to escape the eternal fires you damned well made sure you were good.

In recent years all this has changed in America. We have decided that sin is largely imaginary. We have become enamored with "behavioristic psychology."

This holds that a man is a product of his heredity and his environment, and his behavior is a large degree is foreordained by both.

He is either a product of a happy combination of genes and chromosomes or an unhappy combination.

If moron is an environment that will tend to make him good or that will tend to make him evil. He is just a chip tossed helplessly by forces beyond his control and, therefore, not responsible.

Well, the theory that misbehavior can be cured by pulling down tenements and erecting in their places statewide public housing is not holding water.

CRIME RISING

The crime rates continue to rise along with our outlays for social services.

We speak of underprivileges. Yet the young men who swagger up and down the streets, boldly flaunting their gang symbols on their black jackets, are far more blessed in creature comforts, opportunities for advancement, and freedom from drudgery than 90 per cent of the children of the world.

We have seen the dragon's teeth of pseudoscientific sentimentality, and out of the ground has sprung the legion bearing switch-blade knives and bicycle chains.

Clearly something is missing. Could it be what the rest of the world's children have been given: the doctrine of individual responsibility?

Relief is gradually becoming an honorable career in America. It is a pretty fair life, if you have neither conscience nor pride. The politicians will weep over you. The state will give a mother a bonus for her illegitimate children, and if she neglects them sufficiently she can save enough out of her ADC (Aid to Dependent Children) payments to keep herself and her boy friend in wine and gin. Nothing is your fault. And when the city fathers of a harassed community like Newburgh suggest that able-bodied welfare clients might sweep the streets, the "liberal" editorialists seize as one man and denounce them for their medieval cruelty.

HIGH LIVING

I don't know how long Americans can stand this erosion of principle. But I believe that some of my starry-eyed friends are kidding themselves when they pretend that every plimsoll of Puerto Rican that puts down at Idlewild is equivalent in potential to every shipload of Pilgrims that put into old Plymouth. Nations are built by people capable of great energy and self discipline. I never heard of one put together by cha-cha-cha.

The writers state that takes away the rewards for responsible behavior so that it can remove the age-old penalties for irresponsible behavior is building on a foundation of jelly. It is time we stopped this elaborate pretense that there is no difference between the genuinely underprivileged and the mobs of roisters, who start throwing bottles every time the cops try to make a legitimate arrest.

Finally, there is the status of our entertainment and our literature.

Can you deny that movies are dirtier than ever? But they don't call it dirt. They call it "realism." Why do we let them fool us? Why do we not unfeignedly when they tell us that filth is merely a daring art form, that licentiousness is really social commentary?

Isn't it time we recognized Hollywood's quest for the foul bank for what it is? Isn't it plain that the financially harnessed movie industry is putting gobs of sex in the darkened driveins in an effort to lure curious teen-agers away from TV sets?

Recently the screen industry solemnly announced that henceforth perversion and homosexuality would no longer be barred from the screen provided the subjects were handled with "delicacy and taste." (end Lord!

PARTY TO CRIME

And we of the press are a party to the crime. Last year the movie ads in our newspaper got so salacious and suggestive that the advertising manager and I decided to throw out the worst and set up some standards. We thought, that due to our straitlaced readers might be some interruption in advertising some shows. But no, within a couple of hours the exhibitors were down with much milder ads. How was this matter accomplished? We'll, it seems that the exhibitors are supplied with several different ads for each movie. If the publishers are dumb enough to accept the most suggestive ones, those are what they get. But, if publishers quarrel, the cleaner ads are sent down. Isn't it time we all squarfened? I think it's time we quit giving page-1 play to the extra-marital jaunts of crooners. I think it is time we stopped treating as glamorous and exciting the human stench-ups of screen tramps. I think it is time we asked Broadway and Hollywood columnists if they can't find something decent and inspiring going along their beats.

And the stage. They raided Minsky's, so Minsky's has opened all over town. Brassieres has put on a dinner jacket, and seats in the orchestra that used to go for six bitsai the Old Howard and Nichol's Gayety are now added at $5.50.

Oh, yes. And we have lots of "realism." Incestuous Americans. Perverted Americans. Degenerate Americans. Murderous Americans. How many of these "realistic" Americans do you know?

The Bible Today

Venezuela means "little Venice". The Italian community in this South American Republic is second in size to that in Spanish. Speaking of conditions in Venezuela, the Rev. K. Bystrom, Secretary for the Bible Society work there writes: "On every hand there is evidence of change; the old being replaced by the new. In keeping with this revolutionary mood the Bible Societies are constantly seeking to develop new techniques & improved methods of distribution, and encouraging a wider use of the age-old Book whose message can revolutionize a man's life and make him a new creature in Christ."

Carrying out this new approach Mr. Bystrom describes the work in the University city of Merida, high in the Andes Mountains. "With the help of several evangelical university students, hundreds of homes were visited with Scriptures," he writes. Special efforts were made to read verses from the Bible at each home and to leave a Scripture portion if the family did not possess a copy of God's Word.

Adult illiteracy is being aggressively attacked in Venezuela, having reduced from 38 percent to 25 by the recent Government action.

GREEN ACRES

(By M. F. Wilde, D. A.)

MOISTURE CONTROL!

With the good crops of green feed in the district this year and the possibility that some of this feed might be stored for a year or more, serious thought should be given to moisture control.

Outward signs of mow damage are not apparent until the stacks are opened. If left for long periods of time a large proportion of the grain can be consumed. This can easily be prevented by care fal placement of Warfarin. Place a bait in the outer ground level of the stack when it is being built. Bait should be placed in half pound covered plastic bags, every 10 feet from inside the outside of the feed stacks. Harmful mice entering the stack bottom, will quickly detect, and begin feeding on the poison bait. Should a mouse get baiting at the time of building can be effectively treated by removal of the outside bait or handfuls near the ground every 10 feet or so around the edge. When the bag of bait has been placed inside, the hole should be closed to keep out light and drifting snow. One pkge Warfarin dry-mix bait can be obtained in my Municipal Office at Sedgewick.

REMEMBER FALL IS SOIL SAMPLE TIME!

The good reserves of subsoil moisture throughout the M. D. this fall should produce more interest in fertilizer use next spring. Without a soil test it is impossible to know how much nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium will be available, from the soil, for next year's crop. Thus in order to know the amount of fertilizer amounts to apply, a soil test should be taken. Soil samples can't be taken after freeze-up, and samples taken in the spring will not likely be processed before seeding time. Thus samples must be taken between now and freeze-up in order to have accurate information next spring.

Soil tests also give information on soil acidity or alkalinity, lime content, pebble soils and organic content to well as plant food elements.

Soil testing kits, include instruction sheets and sample containers, can be obtained from our office at Sedgewick. The analysis costs $2 per sample.

Protection Means Production!

"Protect Prairie Soils" published by the Line Elevators Farm Service in Winnipeg, is an excellent illustration of a booklet on protecting soils from wind and water erosion. It outlines the causes, effects and control of erosion. One section describes long term and emergency measures for wind erosion while another gives the best methods for dealing with sheet, hill and gully erosion. In addition there are two short sections on summer farming and maintaining soil fertility. The booklet can be obtained from your D. A., or the Extension Service of the Dept. of Agriculture.

HOME VEGETABLE STORAGE!

(Kathleen Carney, Home Economist)

It is often necessary to store vegetables for a period before use. The keeping quality a fibe vegetables depends upon its nature. Although with a few exceptions, vegetables are at their best immediately after they are harvested, most roots, bulbs, tubers and seeds may be stored for varying periods of time without serious injury to quality. Only vegetables of maximum quality that have reached full maturity should be stored. Careful handling to avoid damaging is important. Root vegetables should be as clean as possible but not washed.

The staple vegetables were often stored in an outside pit, or storage cellar, but today a basement room is generally more convenient. For storage, root crops such as beets, carrots and parsnips, etc., should be of fair size but not too old. These keep well at a temperature just above freezing point and keep best when the humidity is high and there is little circulation of air. To insure this condition the vegetables may be packed in boxes of sand, peat moss, vermiculite, etc. Cabbage, onions, squash and pumpkins keep best when fully mature. Cabbages keep well in an atmosphere of medium humidity with little circulation of air; on the other hand, onions, squashes and pumpkins keep well when there is little moisture present and considerable circulation of air. Potatoes that are to be stored should be harvested after the vines have died. A storage temperature a few degrees above freezing generally preferred and a rather high humidity. Potatoes when stored at a low temperature increase in sugar content to such an extent that the potato may taste sweet. The increase in sugar content also affects the desirability of the potato for making potato chips, for the sugar caramelizes and gives an undesirable dark color. The high sugar content diminishes if they are left in a warm room for a few days. Parsnips, also, become sweeter when left in a cold place. In this instance, the increase in sugar is desirable, and there is a general preference for parsnips which have been exposed to the cold for a period of time.

Ears of corn can be kept for a few days if the temperature is low and the humidity high. However, the sugar in the kernels soon begins to change into starch, causing the quality to deteriorate rapidly

B of M Again Wins Advertising Award

Top rating among Canada's eight chartered banks has been given to the Bank of Montreal for its advertising, according to a survey of financial advertising conducted by Vincent Edwards and Co., New York.

The B of M also ranks sixth among the 15,500 banks in North America, as reported in the annual "Bank Advertising" review of Canadian and U.S. financial advertising. The Bank of America (San Francisco) placed 1st among all North American banks.

With the exception of only 2 years in the past 17, the B of M has been rated first among Canadian banks in the survey, and has received a "Gold Seal" each year. In 1946 and 1964, the bank ranked first in North America and received the "Northern High Award of the Year."

The B of M's new advertising award follows the winning of an "award of excellence" in the "PR in Print" awards program of the Canadian Public Relations Society, for its current guide prepared for use of travellers to the Caribbean area.

Central Football

The Central High School football team opened its 1962 season against a strong Camrose Lutheran College team on Saturday. Harvest commitments enabled Central to bench only 17 players of whom 11 were rookies. The score was 42-0 for Camrose but is not a true reflection of the run-of-play, and it was interesting to see Camrose being unable to make much headway against the Central line; their scoring plays came from two interceptions, and one runs.

Central is playing in an expanded North East Central League, and the remainder of their games are:-

October 1st (at 4.15) Provost at Sedgewick (8 man exhibition).
Oct. 6th (2 p.m.) Drayton Valley H. at Sedgewick (League).
Oct. 13th (2 p.m.) Central at Wetaskiwin (league).
Oct. 20th (2 p.m.) Sedgewick at Alberta College (league).

Drayton Valley and Sedgewick are newcomers to the league and should provide interesting opposition. We hope they will attract some support at games, which up to now has been sadly lacking.

Coaching Central is Clyde Clark of the Bank of Montreal.

Mr. Clark has done a grand job with the ten or so in the short time he has guided the team.

NEW MEAT REGULATION!

A new regulation, designed to ensure that consumers get the quality of meat they expect, came into effect in Alberta on July 1st. Only carcasses that have been "Canada Approved" for health and graded by federal or provincial graders can be branded. Also the brand has to contain the grade name designated by the grader and in the color attached to that particular grade. Prior to this time, some dealers used ribbon brands of a color associated with Choice Grade on carcasses not having been graded by a federal grader. Customers will now know when they see a red or blue brand of beef, veal, lamb or mutton that it is "Canada Choice" or "Canada Good" in that order. In the case of beef and veal, brown has been designated for the "Canada Standard" grade and black for "Canada Commercial", "Canada Utility" and "Canada Manufacturing".

MISCONCEPTIONS ABOUT DRY CLEANING!

The question is frequently asked, "Are my clothes cleaned with those belonging to other people? If so, won't their dirt get on my clothes?"

Modern dry cleaning equipment is designed so that the solvent is pumped continuously out of the cylinder, through a filter and back into the cylinder at a rate of 1000 to 10,000 gallons per hour. In addition the solvent is filtered, clarified and distilled to keep it in constant condition. This prevents dirt from being redeposited on garments. Properly dry-cleaned garments do not smell of dry-cleaning solvent. Statements have been made that dry-cleaning wears out clothes. Actually this is not true. Abrasion through wear is the first cause of fabric deterioration.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

YOU NEED A LITTLE MORE FAITH

As I was talking to a friend of mine one day, I inquired as to how he was feeling. He shrugged his shoulders and said, "Oral, there is nothing wrong with me that a little more money wouldn't cure."

I could not forget my friend's statement. It kept praying upon my mind. Later I was praying and reading my Bible. The Lord spoke to my heart that I should tell that man: "Friend, there is nothing wrong with you that a little more faith won't cure."

Many people say they have faith, but why is it that they find it difficult to get out of their troubles? It is simply because having faith is not enough. You must make your faith a living faith. It must live in your heart. It must be felt in your spirit so that you can let it go out to God. You can have all the faith in the world, but if you do not make your faith an active faith, you might as well not have any at all.

How does a person get evidence for his faith? He gets evidence, not through wishing, not through presumption, but through the written, literal promises of the Word of God.

We have promises made by God to us in the Holy Bible. These promises are so faithful and sure that God has sealed them with the blood of His only begotten Son. We have evidence for our faith, and we can stand upon the Word of the living God.

Jesus said, "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly." Jesus speaks of a larger quantity. Also He speaks of an inexhaustible supply. Jesus promises us life over and beyond the ordinary. Salvation is life. Healing is life. The supplying of our needs is life. All these things God has promised us in His Word. And we can have them when we claim them by faith.

When you are tormented by fears and doubts, your body is full of aches and pain and your life is full of needs, open your Bible. Read God's promises to you. Put your name in the place of the people in the Bible and say, "Lord, this promise is for me. This is the evidence for my faith."

Many of us frantically try to solve life's difficulties on our own. Some by our own limited efforts while God's love waits to sustain us and to give us unlimited strength. Our part is to have faith and let Him have us up.

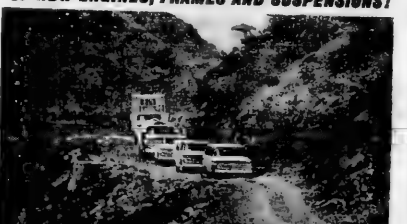
HERE NOW!

Tough new '63 Chevrolet Trucks

...THE ONES THAT WHIPPED THE BAJA RUN... TOUGHEST UNDER THE SUN...TO SHOW THE WORTH OF NEW ENGINES, FRAMES AND SUSPENSIONS!



Nature created the world's toughest proving ground for trucks – the Baja (hah huh) California Peninsula, Mexico. It's thousand miles of torturous trail that defies travel.

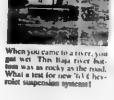
Chevrolet trekked this route with a forty-mile, a ½-ton pickup with new 230 cu. in. 6-cylinder engine, a ½-ton pickup with new 292-cu.-in. 8-cylinder engine, a medium-duty unit with refrigerated van, a medium-duty diesel tanker and a heavy-duty tandem.

Rocks, ruts, washboard and washout racked the trucks from bumper to bumper. Sand, dust and rivers tried to swallow them. Hour after hour was spent in low gear at temperature up to 122 degrees F.

It took 17 days to go the 1,066 miles, and not one Chevrolet truck dropped out! Each day's run was finished on schedule!

Trucks that can take this kind of beating can take on your toughest truck jobs. See these tough, quality-built '63 Chevrolet trucks with all their new improvements at your Chevrolet dealer's.

*Optional at extra cost.



When you came to a river, you got wet. This Baja river bed soon was as rocky as the road. What a test for new '63 Chevrolet suspension systems!

Sometimes the caravan crept along for hours in low gear. There was no traffic — just an occasional traveller on burro or horseback. It's that kind of route. It took 17 days to go 1,066 miles!

Temperatures as high as 122 degrees F. burned the land in the desert area around Dry Lake — one more ordeal any truck that goes to Baja has to shrug off.

ARNOLD - ARMSTRONG VOWS AT HARDISTY

At a recent double-ring ceremony in St. Paul's United Church, Hardisty, wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Heather Mae Armstrong and Mr. Kenneth James Arnold. Rev. Alan Craig conducted the ceremony for the eldest daughter of Mr. & Mrs. A. H. Armstrong of Lougheed, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Arnold of Hardisty.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a floor-length gown of silk organza over peau de soie, with a bandeau designed to complement her gown. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace and earrings, a gift of the groom, and she carried a bouquet of red carnations and roses.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Ethel Pedersen, and bridesmaids were Miss Lorna Armstrong and Miss Linda Arnold. They were gowns of deep blue peau-de-soie with matching headpieces, and carried nosegays of white carnations.

Wedding music was played by the organist Mr. Hugh Keahn, and soloist was Mrs. Ruth Peacock.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Armstrong chose a navy blue dress with a white bolero and pink accessories. Her corsage was pink roses. Mrs. Arnold, mother of the groom, wore a two-piece sky blue dress with white accessories and pink roses corsage.

Mr. G. H. Normiston, uncle of the bride, proposed the bridal toast at the reception which followed in the Community Hall. Following a dance in Lougheed, the couple left for a honeymoon in the Island of B.C. For travelling the bride changed to a beige three-piece Italian knit suit with a green ostrich feather hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold will make their home in Edmonton. — Alliance Enterprise. Photo by Ben Wilder, Hardisty.

NEW JANUARY CLASS AT OLDS SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE!

Under the new 3-month session system at Olds this year there will be another agriculture session beginning on January 7th and running to April 5th. This should be particularly interesting to those that could not attend the September session due to harvesting.

HOT BULLS OF A FESTIVAL KIND THEY MAKE!

From a group of equally appealing bulls it is possible through performance testing to select bulls that will produce yearling feeders 100 lbs heavier and a half grade higher than the poorest bulls of the group. According to Sid Love, Supervisor of Beef Cattle Performance Testing in Alberta, a test conducted at Pt. Robinson Station, the top bull of a group of 12 was worth $653.60 more than the bottom bull on the basis of the difference of their steer progeny alone in one year.

ARE NEW PECKS TOO HIGH?

According to Pam Economics Branch of the Alberta Dept. of Ag., the cattle producer is still not on the "gravy train" even with the high prices of today. It's a fact that the price of beef has not kept pace with the cost of producing it, nor with the general cost of living index, notwithstanding that the housewife mutters to herself when she goes into a store these days.

Comparing 1949 price levels with those of January 1st, 1962 the cattle producer's dollar was only worth 55 percent as much in purchasing the things he must buy (equipment, dietaries, taxes, interest, wages, etc.). In only two years, 1950-51 were cattle dollars worth more than 100 percent comparatively, and in one year (1957) they were worth 89.5. The average for the 13 years was 82.5 percent. A majority of consumers are wage and salary earners. On the same basis, the "industrial composite" of wages and salaries index compared with the general cost of living index shows that the wage earners wages will buy 87 percent more than they would in 1949. While the recent increase in the price of cattle has only increased the cattle producer's buying power up to 1 p.c. less than or approximately the same as it was in 1949. In other words the cattle producer's buying power is still 43 percent less than the wage earner.

Banff-Jasper Road To Remain Open

The Alberta Government Travel Bureau has received official word that the Banff-Jasper highway will be open during the coming year five days out of every week. The road is to be open between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Thursday through Monday, and closed Tuesday and Wednesday. Control gates will be located at Camp Colemen in Banff Park and at Pobelman in Jasper Park. The area will be checked daily before 5 p.m. each day the road is open.

Park officials said that there is always the chance that the road may be temporarily closed due to heavy storms. Travellers are urged to enquire at the park office concerned before planning to use the road.

During the afternoon and evening congratulations were read from H.M. Queen Elizabeth II, J. Percy Page, Lt.-Gov. of Alberta, P. M. Diefenbaker, Premier Manning, and the Village of Lougheed. Toasts were proposed by Rev. E. Pedersen of Sedgewick, and Mr. E. Wylie of Lougheed. Several musical selections were given.

Market to Take All Canadian Oil by 1970

Unless more oil is found in Canada's domestic and foreign markets by the year 1970 will be taking just about all the oil Canada can produce, says the October issue of the Imperial Oil Review. With oil production at an all-time high this year, the industry is now producing at 55 percent of its potential. At the present rate of discovery, it will be producing 80 p.c. of its potential by 1970. Percent developed (Canadian producers) oil eight years hence is one million barrels a day, while the forecast productability is only 1,200,000 barrels a day.

Because it usually takes six to ten years before exploration work results in new oil production, it isn't a moment too soon to begin building up reserves for 1970, Le Review warns. To do this, the oil industry must boost its present annual exploration budget from the $250 million now being spent, to $300 millions by 1970. Although a temporary oversupply showed exploration following the rapid oil discoveries of the 50's and early 60's, exploration is being intensified this year the Review says. The geologists, geophysicists, the wildcat and development drillers are busy.

During the last century, the industry has drilled more than 60,000 holes wit: half of them producing oil. Today there are 17,500 Canadian oil wells and 6,500 natural gas wells capable of production. By 1970, the article says, there will be many

McDougall - Reeve Autumn Ceremony

On Saturday, September 15th, the United Church in Camrose was the scene of a lovely wedding when Miss Carole Anne Reeve, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Reeve of Hardisty, became the bride of Mr. Larry Neil McDougall, second eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken McDougall of Camrose. Rev. Frank A. McPhee officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, looked lovely in a floor-length gown of white shot-rayon taffeta and net, styled with fitted bodice and full skirt trimmed with sequins and seed pearls. The bride's two-tiered bouffant veil, trimmed with pearls, was held in place by a crown of pearls and sequins, and she carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Miss Linda Reeve, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Shirley Clark, cousin of the bride and groom, Jean McDougall, sister of the groom, and Darla Fagan. Linda Reeve wore a pink street-length nylon over taffeta dress and the bridesmaids wore identical aqua street-length dresses of nylon over taffeta. All four girls were matching headpieces. Peggy McDougall, sister of the groom, and Sherry Clark, cousin of the groom, were flower girls, wearing identical printed aqua organdan dresses, with matching headpieces. Ring bearer was Donnie Clark, cousin of the bride and groom.

The groom was attended by his brother, Hughie McDougall, David Clark, cousin of the groom and bride, Edward Murray, and Charles Zamelo, cousin of the groom. Ushers were Bob Broughton, cousin of the bride, and Fred McDougall, brother of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Reeve chose a floor-length blue honeydew dress with pink accent areas, and a corsage of pink tea roses. The groom's mother chose a beige ribbon silk dress with dark brown accessories and wore a corsage of rust tea roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Moose Hall for 160 guests. The three-tiered wedding cake was baked by the groom's aunt Mrs. Elmer McDougall, and was beautifully decorated. Mr. Ken McDougall, father of the groom, was M. C., and Larry throughout proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded.

The bride's going-away ensemble was a black sheath dress with black and gold cracked jacket. She wore rust accessories and a corsage of red roses. Following a honeymoon trip to Banff and down through the States of Idaho and Montana, the young couple will reside in Red Deer.

IN NURSERY:

Several months ago an American touring company, sponsored by the State Department and paid for by your tax dollars, presented one of Tennessee Williams' more approved efforts to an audience in Rio de Janeiro. The audience booed in disgust and walked out. And where did it walk in? High across the street a Brazilian ballet company was putting on a beautiful performance of the glory of Russia! How dumb can we get?

We are drowning our youngsters in violence, cynicism and sadism piped into the living rooms and even the nursery. The grandchildren of the kids who used to weep because the Little Match Girl froze to death now feel cheated if she isn't slugged, raped and thrown into a Rumsher convertor.

And there's our literature. The old eye-poppers of the past, which tourists used to smuggle back from Paris under their dirty shirts, are now issue stuff.

Compared to some of our modern sleuth, "Ulysses" reads like the minutes of the Spanish Lovers. "Lord Chatterly's Lover" has been draped with the mantle of art and it is now on sale in the corner drugstore to your high-school age son or daughter for 50 cents.

Henry Miller's "Cancer," which resembles a collection of unsanitary items taken from privy walls, is about to join Lady Chatterly. The quick-buck boys have apparently learned over bean-fended judges that there is no difference between a poop show and a moral lecture.

And, of course, we have our latest-day historical novels in which the romance of man's upward movement from savagery is lost in a confused welter of bundling and gunslings. The foreign reader of one of these copies on the development of the American West must marvel that our forefathers found time to quell the Comanches, plow up Kansas and build the transcontinental railroad, while spending practically all their time in the hay.

Ben Mevrell of the Chicago "Tribune" has recently asked his book department to quit advertising sex-historical literature by including it in the list of best sellers. The critics and the book publishers have denounced him for tampering with the morals. I would like to raise a somewhat larger question: "Who is tampering with the soul of America?" For nations do have souls. They have collective personalities. Perhaps a high veil of themselves collectively exhibit clean and enthusiasm and morale.

LIBERTY SURRENDERED:

When nations cease believing in themselves, when they regard their institutions with cynicism and their traditions with flippancy, they will not long remain great nations. When they seek learning without effort and wages without work, they are beginning to stagger. Where they become hedonistic and pleasure-oriented, when their fiber reveals on their 11-mile hikes start in black, there's trouble ahead. Where payola becomes a way of life, cynosure-second cheating common, and noise passes for a fiercely defended "right" that nation is in danger. And where police departments attempt to control burglary by the novel method of making it a department monopoly, then the climax yawns. — Ladies and gentlemen: Do not let me overdraw the picture. This is still a great, powerful, vibrant, able, optimistic nation. Americans — our readers — do believe in themselves and in their country.

But there is rot and there is blight and there is rusting out and filling in he done if we, as the leader of free men, are to survive the hammer blows which some people are in store for us all. We have reached the stomach-turning point. We have reached the point where we should re-examine the debilitating philosophy of permissiveness. Let this not be confused with the philosophy of liberty.

The school system that permits our children to develop a quarter of their natural talents is not a champion of our liberties. The healthy man who chooses to loaf on unemployment compensation is not a defender of human freedom. The playwright who would degrade us and the author who would profit from pandering to the worst that's in us are no friends of ours.

CAN BE HELPED!

It is time to hit the sawdust trail. It is time we revived the idea that there is such a thing as sin — just plain old wilful sin. It is time we brought self-discipline back into style. And who has a greater responsibility at this hour than we, the gentlemen of the press? So I suggest:

Let's look to our educational institutions at the local level, and, if Johnny can't read by the time he's ready to get married, lets find out why.

Let's look at the distribution of public largesse and if, far from alleviating human misery, it is producing the sloth and irresponsibility that betosselfes it, let's get it fixed.

Let's quit being hallowed and bedazzled by self-appointed long-haires. Let's have the guts to say that a book is dirt if that's what we think of it, or that a painting may well be a daub if you can't figure out which way to hang it.

And if some bearish weirdo together a collection of rusty engo-heels and old corset stays and dubbs it's a greater sculpture than Michelangelo's "David," let's have the courage to say that it looks like junk and probably is.

Let's blow the whistle on plays that would bring blushes to an American Legion stag party. Let's not be awed by movie characters with barnyard morals, even if some of them have been photographed climbing aboard the presidential yacht. Let us pay more attention to our own opinions to the decent people everywhere who are trying to do something for the good of others.

In short, gentlemen, let's cover up the cesspool and start planting some flowers.

Well, that's the jeremiad. I thought I'd deliver one of these. I never dreamed I'd get around considering the advance sale for the Wrath and Word Society. I used to consider myself quite a liberal young man. I still think that on some people hitchin hook fine.

But I am fed up to here with the edueticianists and pseudosocial scientists who have underrated our potential as a people.

FED UP

I am fed up to here with the medicine men who try to pass off pretense for art and prurience for literature.

I am tired of seeing America debased and low-rated in the eyes of foreigners.

And I am genuinely disturbed that to idealistic youth in many countries the fraud of Communism appears synonymous with morality, while we, the chief repository of real freedom, are regarded as being in the last stages of decay.

We can learn a lesson from history. Twice before our British cousins appeared heading into a collapse of principle, and twice they drew themselves back.

The British court reached an advanced stage of corruption under the Stuarts. But the people rebelled. And in the wild days of George IV and William IV, it looked as though Britain were rotting out again. But the people banged through the reform laws, and under Victoria, went on to the peak of their power.

In this hour of fear, confusion and self-doubt, let this be the story of America. Unless I misread the signs, a great number of our people are ready.

Let there be a fresh breeze, a breeze of new honesty, new idealism, new integrity.

And there, gentlemen, is where you come in. You have typewriters, presses and a huge audience.

In Memoriam

KORITSCH — In loving memory of our dear son and brother who passed away on Oct. 6th, 1957.

In tears we saw you sinking,
We watched you fade away,
Our hearts were almost breaking,
He fought so hard to stay.
But when we saw you sleeping,
So peacefully, free from pain,
We would not wish you back
To suffer that again.

Ever remembered by his Mother, Father, Sisters and Brothers. 28 1 p

Pearson's Call For Gov. Defeat

(From the Letter Review)

Mr. Lester Pearson's call for the opposition parties to unite and throw out the Conservative government of Mr. Diefenbaker makes newspaper headlines, but will not necessarily carry conviction to any but members of his own party. A new general election is not wanted at this time by the smaller parties, who might find it difficult to raise the funds for advertising, television time, meetings and all the other activities that go to make elections extremely expensive proceedings. They may well feel satisfied in holding the balance of power, being wooed by the whips of the two major parties, but retaining their independence of action.

Even some of the Liberals may be content to leave matters as they are for the time being. Not all of them could afford to plunge into an election campaign before they have collected their sessional indemnities and expense allowances. Naturally they will vote as Mr. Pearson wants them to when he seeks a want-of-confidence motion, but they may vote with a secret wish that the motion will be defeated.

Mr. Pearson may be technically correct in saying that 61 percent of the voters last June voted against the Conservatives, but this does not imply that they voted for Liberals. Neither does it mean that they would increase the Liberal vote if another election were to be held now. The independent voter prides himself on making up his mind on political issues. He may have decided the Conservatives, with their huge majority in the last parliament, needed taking down a peg. Now that has been accomplished, he may be willing to see that party running the country for a while longer, particularly if the political announced in the speech from the throne strike him as sound.

Mr. Diefenbaker's fortune now depends on his skill in administration for the next few months. He has to win back Ontario, which as the most industrialized province, is the province hardest hit by unemployment when there is a depression or recession. Whether he can please the Ontario voter without sacrifice of his voting strength on the prairies remains to be seen, but he may do it. At least he has five years, experience as prime minister, which Mr. Pearson lacks, and he now has the Gbanaian commission's report as a guide to what needs to be done quickly to recover the taxpaying of that their money is to be spent economically and wisely.

Alta. Gun Toll

How many Albertans lose their lives in gun accidents? Where do the accidents occur? The Alberta Safety Council has some tentative answers, among the first in the province, based on a survey of fatalities and accidents extending over 1956-1960.

An average of 11 fatal gun accidents was reported in each of those years and nearly half the victims were children under 16 years of age. In 12 cases of a three-year toll of 55, death was attributed to children having access to guns and ammunition. Nine were attributed to adults mishandling firearms. In five cases, adults were mistaken for game. In four cases, death occured when hunters were carrying loaded firearms in cars. In three cases the victims were in line of fire of other hunters.

Here are some typical cases: children around 12 years playing with a loaded gun which discharged; Man mistaken for moose or deer is hunt. A boy of 13 hunting gophers when he probably tripped and discharged his rifle; A man of 29 was killed in one of three loaded rifles in the back of a truck discharged; A girl of 14 was killed when her older brother picked up a loaded rifle to oil it.

Fire Prevention Week Oct. 7 - 13

October 7th to 13th is Fire Prevention Week. This week is observed each year in an attempt to educate citizens in the ways of fire safety, and thus cut down the annual toll in life and property. Fire in Canada in 1961 cost Canadians over $127,000,000 in property loss and over 400 lives, of which 200 were children.

Learn all you can about Fire Safety and put what you learn into practice every day.

With the approach of cold weather thoughts must be directed to the safe operation of furnaces, space heaters, fire-places and other heating apparatus. Them usty not have been used for some time and, being suddenly put into use without being properly cleaned and adjusted, present fire hazards. Poor housekeeping is high on the list of potential causes of fire hazards. Rubbish and waste materials should not be allowed to accumulate and other materials stored safely in safe places.

People living in rural areas without nearby fire-fighting facilities, must be extra careful to prevent fires. The house should be located at least from 100 to 150 feet from any barns; an emergency water supply of more than 2000 gallons should be available at all times; use non-flammable materials such as tile, asbestos or cinte for roofing. Before additional electric installations are made, careful analysis must be made of the capacity of the existing wire. Metal or asbestos should be used to cover walls close to heating units (leave a passage for air between the wall and covering). Coal brush and grass clean to farm buildings, or place a bread strip around them.

Large storage tanks of flammable liquids should be at least 75 feet from any building. Lightning rods should be grounded to a depth of 8 to 10 feet.

REMOVE THE BLINDFOLD!

Why do men react differently in times of danger or difficulty? Some go all to pieces, get panicky, lose their heads and act most erratic. Others keep calm, cool, collected and are unperturbed while under fire. Why the big difference? What do some men have that others lack?

An enlightening example of such a contrast is found in the Prophet Elisha and his servant. Early one morning the servant arose to find, to his horror, that the city was completely encircled by the hordes of Syria. The sight of so formidable an enemy, posing a current danger, frightened him. Panic-stricken, he rushed to his master asking frantically what they should do. The bad news had a different reaction on Elisha. He remained calm and even admonished his servant to have no fear.

Elisha's servant saw nothing but the invading army. His vision was limited. He saw circumstances only and forgot about God. He saw the foe but not the guardian host which was also surrounding them. He saw the danger but not the protectors. Elisha saw the guardian angels and knew nothing could thwart the plan of God. He rested confidently on that assurance and said, "Fear not: for they that be with us are more than they that be with them."

By faith we see the unseen. Know the unknowable and attain the impossible. Those who have no faith live in a very limited world. He whose knowledge comes only through his five senses is extremely restricted. Those senses which are supposed to be the means of our knowledge actually conceal more than they reveal. The person without faith is in a worse plight than he who is physically blind. Faith opens our eyes to new vistas and understandings.

Faith holds us steady. He who has faith recognizes the presence of God and that He is sufficient for all things. He sees Him as overruling the most adverse conditions. He knows he has a God who is bigger than his enemy.

When a host of enemies surround your camp, look to the Lord and His commanding angels. See Him who is greater than circumstances. You will be a paragon of calmness. Just ask God to remove the blindfold so you can see the ever-present help at hand. If doubt creep in, then say with the Psalmist, "Open thou mine eyes."

Egg Price Support

The federal egg price support program was renewed Oct. 2nd for a year on the same basis as for the last 12 months. The Agricultural Stabilization Board has been authorized to continue the deficiency payment program for the 12 months of Oct. 1st, 1961 to Sept. 30, 1962, at a national average price of 34 cents a dozen to producers for Grade A large eggs. This is the same as last year's support price and is approximately 90.7 percent of the 10 year average.

Payments on claims by any one producer will be limited to a total of 6000 dozen eggs and confined to the grades Grade A Extra Large, Grade A Large and Grade A Medium. Producers must be registered with the Board and must have marketed their eggs through registered grading stations, or through retail outlets as producer-graders in order to be eligible to claim deficiency payments.

Final returns for the 1961-62 support year are not yet available but it was estimated the national weighted average market price for the 12 months just concluded would be 32c a dozen, one cent below the support price for Grade A Large. The exact amount of the deficiency payment is to be announced shortly.

1962 Deadliest Year On Canadian Roads

The year 1962 is turning into the deadliest ever on Alberta highways, the Safety Council reports. A block August, de daaths, the most ever reported for that month, pushed 1962's 8-month toll to 167.

At 18,256, the number of reported accidents is rising 16 percent above last year's record levels, and the injury toll of 4,323, is up 6 percent.

During August there was an injury in every 3.1 accidents, and a death in every 69.4 accidents. The month also was marked by a surge in multiple fatality smashes. Almost a quarter of the fatal accidents took up to four lives each. Altogether, the 40 highway victims died in 29 crashes. A total of 456 accidents occurred for the 778 injuries reported for August, making a trend toward multiple injury crashes as well.

The bill for the year to date has passed $6,750,000. A breakdown of the month's fatality list shows that 20 were drivers, 16 were passengers and four were pedestrians.

FAITH SEES NO OBSTACLES

A minister was on his way to the West Coast by train. He was a devout Christian and lived by the Scripture, "Delight thyself also in the Lord; and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart" (Psalm 37:4).

Although the minister was a busy man, he was never too preoccupied with life's responsibilities to notice the beauties and wonders of God's creation. As the train sped westward, he was enjoying the ever-changing scenery. The weather was extremely cold. As night slowly covered the sky, the moon came out in full glory.

The train pulled into the station at Salt Lake City, Utah. In his heart the minister thought, Won't it be a beautiful sight to see the Great Salt Lake with this full moon shining upon it!

The little desire grew into anticipation as the wheels of the train began to turn again.

But slowly, frost and fog formed on every window in the train. A heavy cloud covered the full moon. It seemed impossible that anyone would be able to see the glistening beauty of the lake. The minister opened his Bible and began reading and praying silently.

Suddenly, the train stopped. The cold night air fogged thicker on every train window—except one. One window was right in front of a pipe from which hot air was escaping—the window beside the minister. The ice melted on his glass. Slowly the train began to roll across the bridge that ran over the great lake of salt. The clouds lifted, revealing a full, yellow moon beaming its silver light down on the beautiful lake. For the entire distance of the bridge, the minister drank in the panoramic splendor he had desired to see.

As suddenly as his window had closed and the moon had emerged from behind the cloud, his window frosted over again and the clouds drifted over the moon. But the Lord had given the minister his heart's desire. God delights to reveal His greatness and love, in ways big and small, to those who love and trust Him.

John 11:40 tells us, "Said I not unto thee, that, if thou wouldest believe, thou shouldest see the glory of God?" As you apply Christ's teaching of believing to your daily life, you become aware of God's glory and power in everything that touches you. Your faith sees no obstacles which cannot be overcome by God's omnipotence. You know that nothing is too great or too small for Him to accomplish.

F.U.A. Newsletter

...Mr. Ed Nelson and Mr. Clare Anderson of the FUA will attend a joint meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and the National Farmers Union in Saskatoon on October 2nd to discuss farm organization.

The Canadian Wheat Board has dropped the price of durum wheat by 15c a bushel. At the same time the U. S. price dropped by 15c. The move of the Board must not be considered as competition with the U. S., but as only a reflection of the much enlarged stock of durum wheat available for export this year. Last year there was a shortage of this kind of wheat, and world prices moved sharply up.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported that personal incomes in Canada during the second quarter of this year advanced 3.4 percent, "due mainly to exceptionally large payments to prairie farmers by the Canadian Wheat Board." To avoid any misunderstanding, the payments by the Wheat Board were larger than usual as a result of larger grain exports and the devaluation of the Canadian dollar. This was in no way a subsidy or any payment of that kind made by the Wheat Board to farmers in Western Canada. Usually these payments have been made at a later date in the year. This year they were sent out to the farmers in the second quarter. The payments referred to were final payments for grain delivered earlier. They were not subsidies.

The Federal Government has announced that the subsidy paid toward storage of above normal carryover of grain will be discontinued, in keeping with the austerity program. This will mean an additional cost to the prairie farmers for storage of about $12,800,000. The FUA considers this action unnecessary and unfair. From 1949 to 1961 net farm income in the West has dropped by 18.6 percent. At the same time living and operating costs have gone up by 35 percent. The net farm income of 1949 was considered to be only fair. This income in 1961 could only be classified as poor.

The new printing of the Cook Book published by the FWUA will be available November 1st at $1.50 a copy. This has been a very popular cook book and 60,000 copies have been sold.

'63 MONTEREY is the biggest Mercury

The '63 Monterey is a big new approach to motoring—an imaginative car! Its name and money saving habits are borrowed from last year. But its roadline is new. Its power is new. Its very nature is new. You can equip your choice of fourteen new models as lavishly as any car in North America. Or you can buy one for little more than a compact. The price is your choice. The quality is ours. We choose to make Monterey our quality—and mean it! This is probably the best Mercury ever built—Monterey. Until you see your Mercury dealer, here are some of Monterey's fine features for '63.

Cooling you "Temporay" cushion. Schedule! Last year cushion keeps car cozier close in all weather. New cushioner design increases seat heat heat. New cushion can be lowered for extra room. Optional.

Ride you "Jump Jump" steering wheel. "Jump Jump" steering wheel moves out of your way as it heads for easy out and in. Tilts up when automatic transmission gear selector is moved to Park. Optional.

Right you power choice. Choose a 223 hp. 292hp, or a 300 hp Marathon V-8. All powerplants economical. So is cruising power. Engines feature hydraulic valve lifters for quiet operation, aluminum cam, high performance.

Safe to keep life. Glass Monterey says quality, stops it with such length traveler buttons at 30,000 miles between major chassis lubrications; oil changes 5,000 miles apart. Brakes designed to adjust themselves automatically.

The Bible Today

Assuming "outstanding significance for Christian witness in the Communist sphere of influence" is how Poland and Yugoslavia are described in the recent Popular Report of the Bible Society. A light on the Society's Depot in the heart of Warsaw reads "The British and Foreign Bible Society".

Mr. Ernest, the Agency Secretary in Poland reports "satisfactory" the work being accomplished from that centre, where, in the last year, nearly 80,000 copies of the Scriptures were circulated, 12,536 of these being whole Bibles. It is envisaged that an additional outlet for Scripture distribution will be arranged at Cracow. This is a very busy city and would be a strategic centre of Christian Witness. Annual but steady supply of Scriptures continues to enter Yugoslavia with the permission of the authorities there. This needs to a limited extent the needs of the Orthodox Church in Croatian, Serbian, Slovenian and Macedonian. The Reformed Church receives copies of the Hungarian Scriptures. A few copies of other languages are allowed to enter for minority Protestants in Yugoslavia, who are quite vital, the Society's recent Report "Heirs and Successors" states.

PRELIMINARY PLANNING!

Farmers interested in learning electrical and acetylene welding should contact our office at Sedgewick in the near future. Preliminary plans are being made to arrange for these winter courses which have proven extremely popular during the 7 years they have been held in various parts of the province. Organized by the Alberta Dept. of Ag., the courses are held for one week and can accommodate a maximum of 24 students. If there is sufficient interest there is a possibility that two Clinics could be held this winter in Flagstaff M. D.

CLUB SEALS BEAUTIFUL TIMES

October is the time for re-organization of 4H Beef Clubs. Canada's present enrolment in 4H continues to grow and reached a new high in 1961 of 81,967, an increase of 3,761 over 1960. A total of 4,556 district clubs were organized in the ten provinces during the year. The average age was 15.7. The annual dollar value of the 4H club movement is widely recognized. The steadily increasing enrolment is one measure of the popularity of this form of voluntary training in the young people of Canada. Mr. Gerald Thompson, 4H has made significant growth, not only in enrolment but also through the development of leadership and in the application of improved practices in farming and homemaking.

"Our 4H clubs are the most effective agency in the improvement of farming that I have seen". This is the opinion of Mr. Ed Bender, proprietor of a grain and feed business in Peterborough, Ontario. "It is 15 years or more since I began to notice the influence of 4H clubs, and I can see the difference in the boys who carried on in 4H and are now farming on their own". Opinions such as that of Mr. Ireas are being expressed across Canada and are most gratifying to the local club leaders and directors of the movement. I feel that the 4H club program can do a great deal for youth in this community, and would appreciate any help given to the R. D. of Flagstaff encouraging their young people to participate in 4H work.

TURKEYS TO BE FOR SALE SOMEDAY

The 4H Turkey Project is one in 4H work as with every other voluntary organization. 4H must provide its own leadership if it is to continue to expand. Where better can these leaders be obtained than from members who have gone through and know its rules? In order to develop leadership and at the same time give older members added incentive to continue in 4H work, the 4H branch has developed Junior Leader projects. There are three phases of 4H work where junior leaders can assist:

The first phase is "Project Work" such as teaching feeding rations, grooming, showmanship and judging. The second is helping with "Club Activities" like demonstrations, recreation, public speaking, sing songs and many others. The third is "General Program Work" which includes planning programs, parliamentarian, club records, getting new members. This new program should be a real challenge to older boys and girls.

THE 1962 HARVEST!

If I were to say at this time of the continuing harvest season that all is safely gathered in, there would be a denial from some sections of the area served by this paper, but it may be said without dispute that most is safely tucked away in bin or elevator. On the whole we have been favored with good harvest weather. To be sure some areas have had too much rain this year, while others have not had sufficient; the harvest season itself was interrupted in some places with showers, and there was some frost. This resulted in lower grades for most grains and a lower income, but this has been taken care of by the exceptional yield per acre. Over the area we have found that wheat has been "running out" at from 25 to 50 bushels, oats up to as high as 100, and barley up to 80. Besides the nowpopular crop known as rape, there was a considerable increase this year in acres sown to flax and mustard. While yields of mustard have not been made known to us to any extent, the results are said to be satisfactory. Flax has been going up to 20 bushels as far as we can learn. Most wheat in the area is grading No. 5 and 6, which of course means a lower price to the farmer, but this has been compensated for by the above average yields. Taking it all in all, the year has been a good one for agriculture locally.

MORE PEOPLE SAW CANADA!

If there is any one thing that can be said about the value of the recent devaluation of the Canadian dollar, above any other thing, it is the fact that lowered exchange rate encouraged more Canadians to see more of Canada this past summer, and consequently spend more dollars here. That is if they had any left after taxes. A holiday outside Canada this year cost the average Canadian about ten percent more than in 1961, so he concluded that the wise thing to do was spend it here and at the same time see more of the beauty spots right at home. Again many Canadians will decline planned excursions to shop for Christmas and will instead spend more with local merchants at home. The devaluation also brought in more foreign tourists where their dollars went further than at home. This should have stimulated the resort trade, and may result in such caterers raising the tone of their establishments to the level demanded by tourists. If some of them even discover how to make a decent cup of coffee it will be a big improvement.

THIRD DOWN AND INCHES TO GO!

Sometimes I feel that if we could get some of the T V announcers to sit in our front rooms and listen to and watch a few broadcasts, they would soon change the system to one more acceptable to viewers. The most objectionable feature of TV that I can think of at the moment is the inserting of commercials at the wrong time. Fully realizing that under the set-up programming of many of the events would be impossible without paid advertising, I still object to the timing. For instance, take a good rousing, hard-fought and close football game. There are two minutes and 13 seconds left in the fourth quarter; the Eskimoes have the ball on the Calgary 14 and a half yard line; third down and a yard to go. What will the Eagle call for? Field goal, full shot, kick for a single? Well, let's see. And then on comes the guy, explaining why no and so got over the track ahead of the train because he used a certain brand of super-goosed-up gasoline; or how a particular brand of duper-sudsy-lined-with-blue-granules detergent gives out with a wash even you will not be ashamed to hang up in front of the world. — In case you are interested, Eskimoes kicked, but Calgary kicked it back out.

THE VALUE OF COWARDICE!

While the Russians are keeping the West uneasy with their threats of atomic warfare, it is more than likely that much uneasiness is being generated by the West on the farther side of the Iron Curtain. It is profitable to recall a remark of Dr. Johnson's in 1787, when the French were enemies of the British and there were fears in England of a French invasion. One gentleman having remarked after a visit to Dunkirk that the French had the same fear of the English, Dr. Johnson said: "It is thus that mutual cowardice keeps us in peace. Were one-half of mankind brave and one-half cowards, the brave would always be beating the cowards. Were all brave, they would lend a very uneasy life; all would be continually fighting: but being all cowards, we go on very well." — Printed Word.

Canada, it is generally believed, is self-sufficient in all kinds of food that can be grown in the north temperate zone. But if the food is put in a can, the chances are that the can must be opened by a device made in Japan or U. S. A recent bride who found that the buy-in-Canada policy was a religion with her husband, almost starved before she remembered that her grandmother rarely, if ever, bought foodstuffs in tins.

In a recent football game Central High School trimmed the Camrose High School squad by the whopping score of 32 to 0. It was the first win for Central, and the players are understandably feeling a bit proud.

by ORAL ROBERTS

THE LOVE IN YOUR LIFE

There is a fruit in Africa called the "taste berry." It is called the taste berry because it changes a person's taste so that everything eaten for hours afterward tastes sweet and pleasant. Even sour fruit eaten several hours later becomes sweet and delicious.

Love is the taste berry of Christianity—love for others and love for God. Love conquers and defeat. Love sweetens the bitter. Love endures.

It enables us to show a Christian attitude no matter what situation confronts us, to show kindness rather than harshness. With the taste berry of love in our lives, sorrow is turned into joy, weakness into strength, and discouragement into confidence and hope. The love of God sustains us in the sunshine and in the shadows of life.

The love of God is the strongest, most manifest, most constant power in the world. In time of sorrow or in time of joy, His love remains firm and strong.

This love reached its highest degree of perfection when God showed a sinful, burdened world just how much He cared by giving His only Son, Jesus Christ, to die on the cross of Calvary. No greater token of His love could be given than His beloved Son.

Many people think of love as a weak, passive thing, but actually it is a positive, powerful, motivating force in human lives. We feel the glow of its flame on the inside and see the beauty of its touch on the outside. Love conquers. Love sweetens. Love never fails. Love is a cure for many things—heartaches, bitterness, hatred, confusion, misunderstanding.

If a person is shown love and kindness, he reflects warmth and friendship. If he is met by hatefulness and disrespect, that same feeling rebound from his heart toward others.

David could have killed King Saul when he found the king sleeping in a cave. Instead, David cut off only a piece of Saul's robe and spared his life. By showing mercy and love, David relieved Saul's heart. Saul lifted up his voice and wept, saying: "Thou hast rewarded me good wherein I have rewarded thee evil" (1 Samuel 24:17).

Christ teaches us to turn the other cheek, to render good for evil and to pray for those who despitefully use us. His way is the way of love.

Noise Threatens Public Health

Noise threatens our health, reduces our efficiency, and costs billions and incalculable huge sums of money, says the October issue of Imperial Oil Review. The researcher, for example, subjected to a barrage of commercial and household noises, expends more energy shutting out unwanted sounds than she'd use on a hike in the Rocky Mountains. The average worker, it is estimated, spends one-fifth of his time fighting noises. Experts say that all noise is sound but all sound isn't necessarily noise. Noise is only an unwanted sound. Acoustics measure sound by intensity and pitch, both of which are measured in decibels. The tick of a man's watch, for example, measures five decibels while subway train noise pushes the measurement to 100 decibles. According to one German scientist, all sounds over 70 decibels "should be regarded as noise we can't control our physical or mental reactions to them".

Besides anti-noise laws, much more could be done to cause our after-hours noise quiet. Acoustical consultants suggest that airports could be designed with a one and one-half mile tree-studded buffer zone. More parks and tree-lined boulevards could be developed to absorb sound.

While community noise is irritating, it is never constant enough to affect one's hearing permanently. In door noises of industry are more dangerous because they are liable to damage a person's inner ear over a period of time and a worker can experience a great deal of hearing loss before realizing what has happened.

Industry is working overtime to cut down on noise for the benefit of employees and the community. Jet manufacturers have already spent $80 million designing and building noise suppressors for their aircraft, and it will cost the air lines another $50 million payload loss over a 10-year period as a result of installing these mufflers.

Although the petroleum industry isn't as noisy as some others, Imperial Oil devotes hundreds of man-hours and thousands of dollars just to keep its machinery quiet.

Several cities of the world have taken dile offensive in the battle against noise. Moscow and New York ban unnecessary horn blowing and St. Louis restricts the hours for noisy power mowers. Other cities are campaigning against noisy motorcycles, trucks and even the loud use of radio and television sets.

A. P. Crop Report

Though still hampered by green second growth, fair progress has been made locally with harvesting. Average amount thrushed: wheat & oats 80 percent; barley 85 percent. Some grain is still being harvested in a tough condition.

Alberta — Except for some light showers in the Peace River, mostly fine weather has continued to prevail over most of Alberta and harvesting is nearing completion. In the main body of the province operations are completed or nearly so except for the eastern half of the central and northern portion where 7% percent of the crops are harvested. In the Peace River harvesting is now 85 to 90 percent finished Due to the frost early in September, extensive grain losses have occurred, mostly in central and northern areas.

F.U.A. Newsletter

A joint meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and the National Farmers' Union was held on October 2 and 3 in Saskatoon. Representatives of nine of the ten provinces were present. The meeting was held to discuss farm organization in Canada. It was decided to have a follow-up conference early next year. Mr. Ed Nelson and Mr. Chris Anderson, and Mr. Jim Bentley, represented Alberta at the meeting.

Dr. A. F. Laidlaw, National Secretary of the Co-operative Union of Canada, left Canada Oct. 9th, for a 3-week Latin American tour to lay the groundwork for the Union's aid program to underdeveloped areas. The program is called Co-operatives Everywhere, and the first phase of it is assistance to a Latin American country. One of the purposes of Dr. Laidlaw's trip is to gather information that will help decide which country it will be. The next phase will be to engage an expert to further a broad program of community development among Indians and Eskimos in Canada. Before he left, Dr. Laidlaw stated that many international bodies, churches and U. N. are unanimous in their conviction that co-operatives are needed in newly developed areas. Federated Co-ops in Alberta is already organizing more than one hundred "Talent Nights" this winter to start the fund raising for this Co-op Foreign Aid Program.

F. U. and C. D. A., the arm of the FUA and the Co-ops in Alberta that has as one of its aims to encourage and assist rural people to undertake development projects, is making plans to expand its work next year. In two more FUA districts, district teams will be set up. At the moment FU and CDA is active in District 1, in the Peace River Country, District 4, north-east of Edmonton, District 5, west of Edmonton, and District 9, south west from Leduc to Oberlin.

Four FUA districts have already set the dates for district classes to start off the Membership Drive. They are, District 2, Oct. 29; District 3, Nov. 5; District 8, Oct. 26; District 10, October 29th.

Stuart - Rempel Wedding

On the afternoon of September 29, St Paul's United Church was the scene of a fall wedding when Miss Jane Kathleen Stuart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rempel of Hardisty, became the bride of Pt.-Lt. Douglas Stuart of Norquay, Sask. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. J. W Peat, uncle of the bride. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Leroy DeHard of Calgary, sister of the bride, & Mrs. Murray Innes, London, Ont., sang "The Altar Prayer" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white chantilly lace over a simply-styled formal of chiffon over rayon satin. A chapel-length veil misted from a tiara of seed pearls and crystals. Cultured pearl earrings and pendant, gifts of the groom, completed her ensemble. She carried a bouquet of yellow centered orchids, bordered with white stephanotis.

The groom was attended by Flight Lieut. Rene Bergue of R.C.A.F. Station, Cold Lake. Both the groom and best man were attired in ceremonial uniform. Ushers were Mr. Cecil Rempel and Mr. Robert Challoner from Norquay. The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Stuart, received from Norquay to attend the ceremony.

The bridal party received at the I.O.O.F. hall following the ceremony. The head table was centered with a 3-tier wedding cake and arrays of Tuah cut flowers.

For their honeymoon trip the bride chose a pale blue silk knit with white accessories. A corsage of red roses completed her ensemble. The couple will reside at R.C.A.F. Station Baggottville, Quebec, where the groom is currently flying the P101 Voodoo Interceptor.

NEW STAMP TO HONOR POLISH CANADIAN

A new five cent postage stamp honoring one of Canada's most outstanding citizens of Polish birth, Sir Casimir Gzowski, will go on sale at Canada's Post Offices on March 5, 1963, according to a recent announcement by Hon. Eldon M. Halbrough, Postmaster General.

Mrs. Pairclough said the Gzowski issue is intended to honor not only Canadians of Polish extraction, but those cities of many other races and origins who have contributed to the growth and development of the Canadian nation.

Sir Gzowski was an intimate friend of many of the Fathers of Confederation. An engineer of great ability, he took part in the building of the Grand Trunk Railway and the International Bridge across the Niagara Falls. He was the first chairman of the Niagara Falls Park Commission, one of the early officers of what is now the Engineering Institute of Canada, and one of the founders and a early president of Wycliffe College.

The Gzowski stamp will form a part of the Canada Post Office program of special issues for 1963. Details of the complete program will be released in a short time.

F.U.A. Newsletter

In the week of November 5 to 9, a five day F.U.A. anniversary will be on the road again to solicit memberships for their farm organization. The date for which is called Membership Day has been set for Nov. 8th.

The Lacombe bureau of Immigration has again given the Canadian Press a chance to put the farmers in the limelight. C. P. telephoned to all daily newspapers and radio stations a news item which stated: "Canadian farmers are a whole half a cenner high cash income from their farming operations in the first half of this year". As soon as the full text of the thought is added: "The figure does not take account of production costs". The item was mentioned the following: The gain in Alberta was nearly nine percent. — In addition to the $1,000,000 in Canada's export sales to western provinces received $66,200, 000 in acreage payments and from the Prairie Farm Assistance Act, in contrast, a year earlier $7,000,000 in this way." The FUA wants to add the following footnote to this news item: Despite this "record high income" hundreds of farmers have left the farm! A laborer's job in the city gives them apparently more security and a higher income than they have as a farmer.

A simple explanation of this "record" is: faster movement of grain, thanks to the aide of large amounts of grain to Red China; the mailing out of final payments on Deficiency sales, to the Wheat Board; drought conditions forcing farmers to sell cattle, and increased prices for same. Consideration should also be given to the fact that Canadian farmers have never taken so many days of holiday. They were chosen by the government as a way to raise the price of domestically used wheat to a level in line with the standard of living.

Duration and final payments by the Wheat Board are nothing else than payments made from farmers' money, because he delivers his products to the elevators and receives at that time only a partial payment. The Federal Minister of Agriculture decides when they will be made. This year the cheques were mailed out shortly before the election. They were larger than usual due to larger grain sales and the fact that the Canadian dollar fell below par compared with the U. S. dollar.

Payments under the PFA Act are not subsidies. They are monies returned to the farmer from funds to which he makes yearly contributions.

GREEN ACRES

1962 GRAIN SITUATION!

A more than adequate supply of all the major grain crops in Alberta in now evident despite the fact that earlier estimates tend to be scaled down due to widespread frost.

O. G. Bratvold, Supervisor of Alberta's Crop Improvement Service, reports that Canadian wheat production this year will be over half a billion bushels; with a substantial proportion in the lower grades. Increased production in other countries will probably tend to reduce export sales of the higher grades, but this may be offset, at least partially, by a market for the lower grades which we have not been able to supply during recent years. Also, the movement of some lower grade wheat into feed channels is anticipated.

Feed grains of all kinds had reached a record low by the end of last July, according to Mr. Bratvold. Now over, even if 1962 production figures are only average, the supply should be adequate, particularly in view of the large quantity of low grade wheat likely to be available to feeders. Barley exports, which normally exceed all other kinds per year, may have to be trimmed.

The flax picture is not at all clear at the moment because a good deal of the crop is still in the ground. The Manitoba crop, which represents a half of the estimated Canadian production, is very late and consequently far from matured. This, in the face of the investment pressure in some years, could develop into a short supply situation in flax seed.

Rape seed, on the other hand could easily be in over-supply. Prices are lower than they were this time last year despite a substantial decrease in production and a devalued Canadian dollar, which should have the effect of boosting up prices. Mr. Bratvold said the two main factors which have contributed to this situation are Canada's vast supply carryover, reported to exceed 100 million pounds & an abundant world supply of oilseeds of all kinds. It is pointed out that rape seed prices would almost certainly have been disasterous this year if exporters had not cut their 1962 acreages by 63 p.c.

The fall edition of "Agricultural Outlook for Canada" is now available for showing, according to Mr. Bratvold, the national situation regarding economic conditions, wheat, feed grain, and livestock prospects and marketing outlook, should call at our office at Sedgewick and pick up one of these publications.

Avoid the Delay

A. W. Goettel, Alberta's Asst. Supervisor of Soils and Weed Control, strongly advises farmers to collect their soil samples now. A considerable delay in obtaining results may be encountered if soil testing is left until the spring which is a very busy time of the year at the Laboratory.

A soil test is one of the best ways of finding out the fertility needs of your soil. It also determines the organic content and shows whether the soil is acidic, alkaline or saline. The soil should always be taken from several locations in each sample area. Adjoining fields which have had different handling and grown different crops should be sampled separately. Never collect frozen or wet soil as a representative sample.

Soil sample kits can be obtained free of charge, from D. A.'s. or from the Field Crops Branch of Alberta. They contain sample boxes, instructions and cropping history sheets. Information sheets should be filled in carefully as they are necessary for an accurate analysis.

Dental Auxiliary Capping Exercises

A first for Western Canada, first for Alberta, first for the University of Alberta's Faculty of Dentistry.

On October 19th nineteen young Dental Auxiliary students received their caps at the Wauneeta Lodge Student Union building. This indicated the successful completion of one year of a two-year course. This is the first class to receive caps in the new course for Dental Auxiliaries, started one year ago by the Alberta Government, with the co-operation of the Faculty of Dentistry.

The caps were attested 14 Alberta girls, four from Saskatchewan, and one from Ottawa. The idea of training women as Dental Ass. has met with great success, according to Dr. Hector MacLean, Dean of the Faculty of Dentistry.

Graduates were greeted at their ceremony by Dr. Walter Johns, president of the University, and their caps were presented by Miss Mary Berry, director of the school.

Dr. H. W. Reed of the Council on Education of the Canadian Dental Assn., with headquarters in Toronto, addressed the class. Miss Carol Stuart of Clive, Alberta, received the class pin for proficiency.

An informal reception was held for the students and their friends following the ceremonies. Invited to the reception were, Mrs. C.W.H. McPhail, wife of the chairman of Dental Auxiliary committee, and Mrs. Jeanne R. Hallam, 2nd vice president of the P. W. U. A., committee member.

Strome Hospital Auxiliary Meeting

Strome Hospital Auxiliary meeting was held Oct. 11 at home of Mrs. Gordon Loesch with 12 members and 1 visitor. The Auxiliary will sponsor a dance in Strome in Dec.

The November meeting will be held at home of Mrs. Don Hayes on the 8th of Nov. The attendance prize was won by Mrs. A. Eriksen. After the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. Loesch and Mrs. Seiferman.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

GOD IS CONCERNED ABOUT YOU

You cannot move or breathe or open your eyes without seeing God, for He is near you with ever-active concern and care. He is ever-here present in His matchless love and sweet compassion. I once thought that God was so busy with the immensities of the universe that He could not take time to consider such trivial affairs as mine or give me any attention. All I ever hoped for was a passing glance from the all-seeing eye of God.

But one day I saw Him, believed on Him and drank deeply from His love fountains. I then knew Him to be too wise to make a mistake, too good to do wrong and too kind to overlook even an insignificant person like me. I came to the knowledge that He put us into His universe to glorify Him and prepare for each of our lives—to bring every good and perfect gift to us day by day. He follows us. He cares for us. He plans and prepares for us with personal, watchful, daily attention.

God has become much more to me than just the one who welcomes me into church each Sunday and bows me sing of His love and care. He has become my Liberator from the enemies of my soul, mind and body; and He keeps me in the "quiet center" of life. His angels of strength and defence have set up their tents around me. His everlasting arms support me. His Spirit overshadows me. His goodness and mercy overtake me at every bend of the road. I have my place of peace and contentment and happiness within the circle of His good will.

If we do not believe in a good God, a powerful God, One who is concerned about the most minutes and minute details of our lives, we go to pieces when trouble comes. Today the hospitals are full of helpless wrecks of humanity, many of whom are those immune of less stature and fame. Calmly, psychiatrists wait for the answer to people's ills. But the solution will come only as people believe with a plan and a purpose for each of our lives—to bring every good and perfect gift to us day by day. He follows us. He cares for us. He plans and prepares for us with personal, watchful, daily attention.

God has become much more to me than just the one who welcomes me into church each Sunday and bows me sing of His love and care. He has become my Liberator from the enemies of my soul, mind and body; and He keeps me in the "quiet center" of life. His angels

All Provinces Join ARDA

All 10 provinces have now signed agreements to participate in the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act (ARDA).

The agreements clear the way for approval of a wide range of individual projects which would be carried out jointly by federal and provincial governments or by a province with federal assistance.

Nearly 40 types of projects are outlined in the general agreements, and new projects which would be marginal and submarginal farm land, rural development, and soil and water conservation measures.

Large Wheat Crop

World wheat production this year is forecast at 6.4 billion bushels by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. This figure has been exceeded only by the 1958 crop when production reached the high of 6.7 billion bushels. The 1962 crop on the basis of present estimates should be about 7 percent larger than last year. With regard to the larger wheat supplies and aspects possibilities, the U. S. Dept. of Ag. comments as follows:

"Total wheat supplies in Nor. America for the current marketing season are large but about 250 million bushels less than in 1961-62 because of reduced supplies in the U. S. Supplies in this country, although still large, are the smallest since 1956. Both production and carryover stocks are somewhat smaller than a year ago. Canada's supply is slightly larger than a year ago, with larger production more than offsetting greatly reduced carryover stocks.

"Competition will be strong for existing markets. Larger supplies will be available in exporting countries outside North America this season. France is expected to have over 200 million bushels for export. Australia will have a larger surplus than last year. Syria is also expected to have a substantial surplus, after several small crops. Argentina seems to be the only foreign exporter with poorer prospects. Any foreseeable reduction there, however, would be more than offset by larger supplies in other exporting countries".

Best Ever!

WHAT'S ON TAPP?

Comedian-singer Gentle Tapp has a busy season ahead. He's back for another year on the Friday night T V show, Country Headcorn, and will be heard twice a week, Tuesdays and Thursdays, on the CBC Radio network program What's On Tapp?

The Bible Today

In 1962, the second complete Bible in a North American Indian language was published. This was in the Western, or Plains Cree, for the Indians in the Prairie Provinces. There will be celebrations in Canada this year to observe the 100th anniversary of this event. The first translation in this tongue was the Gospel of St. John by the Rev. William Mason. Following this Mr. Mason, in collaboration with others, completed the translation of the New Testament. This was published by the British and Foreign Bible Society, London, England in 1880.

Two years later, Mr. Mason, with his wife and several Indian Christians, finished the Old Testament in Plains Cree. The completed Bible was published by the Society in 1908.

In 1961, the Plains Cree Bible was reprinted, as there continues to be a demand for these Scriptures in spite of the inroads of the English language. The annual distribution in all Cree dialects is about 500. Copies are sold for $2.50, which is $1.25 below production cost. The Rev. James Evans invented the Cree syllabic script in 1841.

Cumberland - Thompson Wedding

Autumn flowers in shades of yellow and mauve were used in profusion in the Okanagan Falls United Church to create a lovely setting for the ceremony uniting in marriage Alma Yvonne Thompson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kenneth Thompson of Okanagan Falls, and Bertram Bryan Cumberland, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. John Harrison Cumberland of Sedgewick, Alberta, on the evening of Saturday, October 6th at 7.30. Rev. Alan Rainer, rector of St. Edward's Anglican Church, Oliver, performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white nylon net over taffeta in bellerina length. The softly moulded bodice showed a straight neck line studded with rhinestones and long filly point sleeves. The full nylon skirt displayed lace points sprinkled with rhinestones. Her chapel length veil of illusion net was held by a tiara of pearls and she carried a shower bouquet of yellow roses and mauve carnations.

Miss Joyce Thompson, younger sister of the bride was maid of honor. The bridesmaid was a cousin, Miss Sheila Schneider of North Vancouver and two young cousins, Beverly Diamond and Kathy Schneider were flower girls. Attendants gowns were styled alike, the maid of honor and the bridesmaid's wore pale green ruffled nylon dresses with pale green net headdresses held in place with green nylon bows, and carrying bouquets of yellow mums.

Best man was Kenneth Thompson, a brother of the bride. Another Brother Morris Thompson of Keremeos and the groom's brother Colin Cumberland of Sedgewick, Alberta, were the ushers. While the couple signed the register, Chris McIvor, accompanied by his mother Mrs. Clifton McCall, sang "The Wedding Prayer."

The wedding reception attended by 150, was held in Okanagan Falls Community Hall which was decorated for the occasion with a profusion of cedar boughs and many shades of fall blossoms. As the parents of the principals, the grand parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Reiche, assisted in receiving. The mother of the bride chose a blue silk crepe dress with a white stole and a white hat, and white accessories. Her corsage was of St. Arthur carnations. The mother of the bridegroom chose a dress of beige satin, with overlay of brown. Her hat was a brown velvet model, and accessories beige. She also wore a corsage of St. Arthur carnations.

The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake, made by her grandmother, Mrs. A. Reiche, & decorated by Mrs. Fay Wilson. This was flanked on both sides by candelabra with green and yellow tapers. M. C. was an uncle of the bride, Mervin Thomas. H. Hoskens of Oliver proposed the toast to the bride with the groom responding. Kenneth Thompson, the best man, proposed a toast to the attendants and also read a number of telegrams. Lorna Bank was in charge of the bride's youngest brother Donald. Servitours were Mr. and Mrs. Morris Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Angus Duncan, Lloyd Thomas and Peter Thomas of Penticton, all relatives of the bride. Serving the bride's table were three of her grand-aunts, Mrs. M. C. Hall, Mrs. A. J. McEwen, and Mrs. F. S. Kenneavon.

The young couple left for a honeymoon in Banff. For travelling, the bride chose a green wool suit with white accessories. They will return to Okanagan Falls for a few days, before leaving to make their home in Sedgewick, Alberta. A welcoming reception will be held in Sedgewick on October 22, to honor the newlyweds.

Among other out-of-town guests, were, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Herlock of Sedgewick; Mr. and Mrs. D. Gilmour and Sheila, of Kirkpatrick of North Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dewdney and Carol and Brad; Mr and Mrs. Alden Nelson and Mervin Nelson of Midway; Mrs. Sheila Aberle and James Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hampton of Penticton; Pete Topham and his son Tommy of Punchland, and Gordon Webster of Vancouver. — Penticton Herald.

Al Oeming Speaks To Killam B. of T.

Approximately 125 people sat down to the banquet at the annual Killam District Board of Trade meeting, at which Mr. Al Oeming of the Alberta Game Farm was guest speaker. Following the banquet, Dr. MacQuarrie, president, introduced the head table, including Tomas the pet Cheeta of Mr. Oeming. In his remarks he complemented past tributes to the work of his executive during the year. He stated that tenders had been let for the erection of hospitals in Killam, and informed the meeting that due to his duties as secretary of the Auxiliary Hospital Board, Mr. Edmund Fox had resigned as board secretary.

Retiring President Bill Booth welcomed the visitors and brought greetings from the Village of Killam. Mr. Jim Scott introduced Mr. Oeming, as a well known Naturalist, Conservationist and Animal Trainer.

Mr. Oeming gave a lengthy & very interesting address on the conservation of animals which are becoming extinct. He pointed out that there are only 60 Whooping Cranes left in existence, and that in the early days these birds were known to have nested in the Killam area. He also mentioned the Trumpeter Pigeon, Kit Fox, etc., and said that if no change is made in our present attitude toward conservation, there will be very few animals left in 50 years. The speaker mentioned his visit to Banff and the Prairie Grizzly Bear which for years was thought to be extinct. Now after nearly 40 years the Bear and the Grizzly has been proven to be that same Prairie Grizzly species.

During the business meeting of the Board, the president gave a resume of the year's activities, mentioning the success in a welding school, the bingotop bonanza, auxiliary hospital.

Treasurer's report showed a total income of $10,416. The report of the Medical Centre showed the after attendance for the year had been met, a 5% per cent reduction had been made on the outstanding debt.

Tenders had been let for the new General Hospital and the Auxiliary Hospital, and work is expected to be started soon Nov. 1st. The present General Hospital will be converted to a staff residence.

St. Johns W. A. Holds 50th Anniversary

Sunday October 28th was a proud day for the members of the St. John's Anglican W. A., when fifty years of active and dedicated work as an organized group was celebrated with a church service followed by a social gathering and buffet dinner.

Mrs. Wesley Richmond, president, welcomed those present, and introduced The Rev. Ramsay Stuart, the guest speaker.

In his opening remarks Rev. Stuart commended the W. A. on their sincere efforts down through the years, and paid tribute to their activities. He very aptly chose as his subject, "Loving The Brethren", and stated that really loving your brother requires more study than most of us are willing to give it. Rev. Stuart is the founder of, and willing worker in the project of Oshkill Boys Ranch, that is being established at Ben Accord, Alberta; a non-denominational Ranch where boys who have suffered at the hands of society may be given an opportunity to live as God intended. Rev. Stuart has resigned from the ministry to give full time to the Boys Ranch, which after four years of pioneering has now reached the building stage. Rev. Stuart stated that he was not satisfied with social welfare as it is now administered and felt there was a need for Christian Social Welfare.

During the afternoon letters were read from former members of the W. A. in other parts of Canada, and one from the Village of Sedgewick. Mrs. F. Weber gave an interesting history of the W. A., bringing out many items on the formation of the group in 1912 with Mrs. Mills as president and Mrs. Oldfield as secretary. She gave an impressive list of the activities & achievements of the W. A. over the past fifty years. Greetings were brought from the W. A. Diocesan Board, Rev. Mansfield, Rev. Fast and the Killam & Lougheed W. A. groups and Vestry. Mrs. W. J. Haynes, now of Edmonton, visited long-time members of the group, was present and spoke to the gathering.

Mr. E. Lash gave a history of the church from the time of its building in 1913 in the west end of town, to the present year. The first service in the present church was held in 1922, and in 1928 the building was moved to its present location. Hubert Johnson and Elmer Thin Bones, following which a buffet dinner was served by W. A. members. An interesting sidelight was the cutting of an anniversary cake, a replica of the church, made and decorated by Mrs. Elmer Johnson.

Hon. Gordon Taylor Speaks At Opening Of Paved Streets

An estimated crowd of 900-1000 people from Sedgewick and surround ing areas paraded the streets of Sedgewick on Oct. 27th, to take in the official opening of the new paved streets, and to attend the dance later in the evening.

Some 300 pounds of beef was barbequed "as a treat" by Ray Cosgrove and Walter Dambrosky of Czar, and before the evening was ended, the beef shrank half a pound. Members of the Kinsmen were in charge of serving the meat, along with hot coffee, while the ladies of the Anglican W. A. served salads, and the N. A. Dairy Pool donated ice cream for cones to all the kiddies.

A reception for special guests was held at the Legion Hall earlier in the day, T.-a Bank of Montreal put on a balloon barrage, each containing a life piece, for the kiddies, and business places held draws to give away free prizes.

Acting as M.C. for the official ceremonies was "Art" Keasly, who after a few opening remarks, called on Mayor Howard Smith, who gave an outline of events leading up to the paving of six blocks of village street and the road leading into town from highway 13. Mr. Murray Hall, M. L. A., congratulated the village on its enterprise and progressiveness, and introduced the Hon. Gordon Taylor, Alberta Minister of Highways.

Mr. Taylor expressed his delight in having been able to approve the paving of the road leading to town, and commended the village on the fine job of paving it had received. He said he hoped the paving would aid the economy, and bring happiness & safety to the people, but he warned against making the streets a place for speed and resultant danger.

Other dignitaries on the platform included Mayor Milner of Killam, Mayor Brian Smith of Lougheed, Mayor Pryor of Daysland and Mr. N. Weller of Daysland, and Mr. Clyde Clark, president of the Sedgewick Board of Trade.

Following the street ceremonies, a dance was held in the hall, with the Viking Jives playing for a packed house.

MARY BOADWAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Boadway, long-time resident of the Sedgewick district, were held from the Sedgewick United Church on Saturday, October 27th with Rev. J. Fast officiating, and burial was in the Sedgewick Cemetery. Pall-bearers were Messrs Leif Odland, Cliff Marvin, Ray McCracken, Calvin Beairsto, Art Falk and Art Keasly.

Mary Boadway was born in Michigan in the year 1880, being in her 82nd year at time of death. In 1911 she was united to Bert Boadway, and 4 a couple moved to their homestead North of Sedgewick where Mr. Boadway resided until 1961 when she moved into Sedgewick. She was active in the church until 1960. Mrs. Boadway passed away in the city of Edmonton after a short illness.

She leaves to mourn her passing, two sons, Jack and Jim both of Edmonton, andtwo daughters, Georgina of Red Deer and Helen (Mrs. Iven Mears) of Innisfail. Also surviving are nine grandchildren.

During her earlier years Mrs. Boadway was a school teacher, and while laboring in the district as an early pioneer took an active part in community centered social activities. She created and maintained a host of intimate friends and neighbors during her long and energetic lifetime, who were unstinted to learn of her passing. The floral tributes and memorial donations were a fitting testimony of the esteem in which she was held in the community.

CATTLE IMPROVEMENT POLICY

The Hon. H. E. Strom, Minister of Agriculture, today (Oct. 23) made the following statement in connection with the Cattle Improvement Policy:

It was previously announced that the section of Policy A which provided for an applicant to select a bull directly from a local breeder subject to Department approval, would be discontinued January 1st, 1963. This change will go into effect as scheduled. The other section of Policy A, which provides for a farmer to apply to the Department for a bull to be purchased for him, will be retained. Section B of the Policy, which applies to regular contributor bull sales will operate unchanged from its present form.

TALL AND LOW GROWING FRUIT BUNDLES!

As an additional feature of the Department's tree planting for 1963, it is intended distribute a low and tall growing fruit bundle.

It is suggested that these could be used in place of the low and tall growing bundles for an inside row of the farmstead shelterbelt; as a row in an existing or proposed farm orchard or in some other area in the farmstead where a hedge or living screen is desirable.

The Low Growing Bundles contain 10 Sandcherry, 10 Nanking Cherry, 10 Chinese Bushcherry, 10 Ground Cherry and 10 Flowering Currants. All fruit of these shrubs are useful in making Jams and Jellies.

These bundles are available for 1963 planting and can be ordered from the D. A. office in Sedgewick.

F.U.A. Newsletter

Mrs. Braithwaite and Mrs. Simons, president and vice president of the FWUA, here returned from attending the Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World which was held in Australia this time. The Conference is held every 3 years.

Protests against the lowering of the $3.00 premium on grade A hog carcasses are still reechoing here. They all point out, as has been done before by the C.P.A. and the U.F.A., the favorable effects of the original premium on the hog industry in Canada. Through better care and better feeding methods an increasing number of grade A hogs came on the market, providing the quality of meat asked for by the public and export trade. Farm organizations everywhere in the country fear the lower premium will take away the incentive offered by the original program and adversely affect hog quality.

Mrs. I. M. Taylor, executive member of the FUA, is speaking on the Provincial Government Seminar on government-public relations and responsibilities, next week, suggested that campaigns to get people out to vote during elections were not sound. It was more important she felt to see that the electors were well informed on the issues of the election. An informed voter will be anxious to vote. An uninformed one is not interested, and therefore cannot vote intelligently. She felt that there is little value in urging people to the polls if they do not understand what they are voting for.

Mrs. Kay Dowaniuk, director of PU and CDA, and representing the FUA, is in Ottawa attending a conference about vocational training needs, organized by the Federal Department of Labor. Out of this conference may eventually evolve a vocational training program. During her stay in Ottawa Mrs. Dowaniuk will also meet with Mr. A. I. Davidson, director of ARDA, to discuss the ARDA program.

The Bible Today

Bible Study in Canada is on the increase, reports Rev. F. E. Vipond, Director of the Canadian Council of Churches project on the Use and Understanding of the Bible. Fifty-six workshops have been held across Canada in churches of many denominations reaching 4000 people. Mr. Vipond believes from his experience that relevant and thorough Bible study will feed and strengthen our Christian people. There is need for Bible Study", states Mr. Vipond, "and should be closely linked with the Church's Missions of Evangelism".

Defining effective Bible Study as "that study of the Bible in which men meet with God, and answer in responsible decision to the Word addressed to them", Rev. Mr. E. H. Robertson, the Study Secretary of the United Bible Societies, has recently written a book on Methods of Bible Study. "The real search" writes Mr. Robertson, "is to find a way to talk to God in study of the Bible".

Encouraging reports are being received of a new interest of the Bible for study in Germany, Britain and North America. Some branches of the Christian Church are emphasizing Bible Study projects through 1962.

A FEW HARDISTY FLAKES

(By Postie)

I would say that after three days of fine sunny weather, even old Postie has thawed out enough to rattle out a few lines for the Press. Must admit I have had quite a holiday and have just gotten for not hitting this column before.

The open fall has assisted us and others in the completion of the various hard-surfacing programs. Must say it does add to the appearance of a town. I wonder if Hardisty will have a celebration this time. Sounds it should tie in with some sort of a harvest celebration. Any takers?

Speaking of harvest, reports have it that most of the urgent work, in this area at least, is completed. Hear there are some areas not too far from us that still have a considerable bit left to combine, so here's hoping it stays dry for a time yet. It's actually been a nice fall though. Had the preceding seasons been more stable, I guess the late rains brought a lot of the feed as that is one consolation.

Am told that plans are completed for the new extension to Central High in Sedgewick, which is to get underway next spring. Might say it is about time the matter was acted on as improved facilities are long past due. I often wonder why it wasn't done when a survey of upcoming high school students indicated that more space would be needed in 1962. Guess better late than never though.

Well readers, this is short. Most of you haven't time to read anyway. Maybe next time I'll do better, but in the meantime don't log too many sacks, and please don't litter the lea when your favorite player gets the gate — it will soon be 1963 time.

The Letter Box

Dear Sir:—

Have we, as citizens of Hardisty, ever stopped to consider what an asset a hospital to a town this size, especially, is? We are so apt to take these blessings for granted, and accept them as our just due. This is more or less thoughtlessness on the part of most of us, but when we do take time to think about it, we have to admit that a hospital in the community is a most wonderful institution in any town or district. I want to especially mention the Hardisty Saint Anne's Hospital. Truly this is a outstanding hospital, known for miles around not only for its efficiency of staff (Sisters, Nurses and Attendants, but also our own Doctor Perverneff), but for the personal interest which is shown to each and every patient, young and old alike.

When one is ill it means so much to know that they do take such interest in your welfare, and Lo! is just where our hospital staff is so outstanding. So I would like to say on the people of Hardisty and District: Let us stand behind this wonderful institution 100 percent, and give it our every support. — Mrs. Cheelen, Hardisty, Alta.

PROV. GOV. SPONSORES SEMINAR

The recognition by citizens of their duty and responsibility in maintaining the democratic way of life and the need for a close and continuing communication between government and the public were points most frequently raised at the first two - day seminar held at the Northern Alberta Jubilee Auditorium at Edmonton.

Purpose of the government sponsored meeting attended by 186 delegates from all parts of the province, was to develop a fresh and objective discussion of the proper relationship and responsibility of government to the people and the public to the government with a view to strengthening and improving the operation of the democratic process on which society depends for the conduct of public affairs.

The delegates representing municipal, civic and other organizations throughout the province heard leaders in their several fields present the viewpoints of the provincial government, education, business, agriculture, labour, religion, women, professions and municipal government.

Two panel discussions and two open forums afforded the opportunity for delegates to question any of the speakers or members of the government on matters related to the seminar theme.

WEDDING BELLS

An autumn wedding in St. Mark's Anglican Church, Hardisty, united in marriage Sylvia May, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hurp - n of Killam, and Gary Elden, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Elden Bone of Hardisty. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. C. Mumford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a cocktail length gown of white satin, sequin embroidered, with overskirt of nylon net. Her veil was held in place by a Swedish crown hand-dress and she carried a bouquet of red roses. Her only jewellry was a necklace and ear rings of pearl, gift of the groom.

The mother of the bride chose a navy blue two-piece dress with yellow hat and corsage of yellow flowers. The groom's mother wore a 2-piece suit of beige with matching accessories and yellow corsage.

CANADIAN INDUSTRY SHOWS GROWTH

In considering the patterns of Canada's future trade, it is important not to overlook the widespread changes and steady growth in Canadian industry of recent years, according to the Bank of Montreal Business Review for October, just issued.

These, any traditional view that Canada's economy depends largely on the production of primary products and on the export of food and industrial materials in a relatively unprocessed form is no longer accurate.

Certainly, "Canada's" natural resources remain, and will continue to be the foundation of its wealth" the review continues. "However, the possibilities for processing healthy and growing markets are boundless. And for adapting commercial policy to the international environment, have been immeasurably enhanced by substantial growth and diversification of the industrial base."

Measured by the industrial production index, which records changes in volume, not value, Canada's total industrial output showed an overall increase of about 73 percent between 1940 and 1961, the book says, although annual rates have varied widely from year to year. Further more, there have been wide variations in the rates of growth of individual industries, attributable to many different influences. For example, the expansion of gross manufacture, is closely related to population growth and income trends. Thus, in the period 1940-61, when Canada's population rose 35 percent and "adjusted real income per capita rose by almost a quarter, the output of non-durables rose over 50 percent.

In sum, the B of M review states, the picture that emerges is one of expansion, diversification and growing efficiency, providing a broad base of industrial strength as a foundation for future economic growth.

Camrose District Home for Retarded

Bob Burgess, president, and John Cary, public relations officer of the Camrose and District Assn. for Retarded Children, have had a busy time spreading information of the work of the newly formed Assn.

The Assn., which only came into being on June 11th of this year must still be unknown to many and so are the problems of retardation. To explain what is being done, these two busy workers have been putting on a program consisting of a recording of a speech by Harry "Bud" Ferrier entitled "The Lady on our Branch". This most moving address which has brought tears to the eyes of more than one person, is accompanied by a short talk by Mr. Burgess during which he details the progress of the Assn. Following this Mr. Gray shows a film entitled "The Eternal Children." This is a fine example of the work of the Notcourt Film Board, & has been well received.

"The Eternal Children" give a general outline of the problem & shows the way most of the retarded can be helped and trained independently. It goes on as a great shock to most people to find that the retarded represent 3 percent of the population and that 3 may fail to any patient, even the most intelligent, to love the mother-to have a retarded child in the family.

The Bible Today

Creole was originally the language used by European settlers and their slaves on the West Indies. It is spoken and read today in Haiti as well as several other Islands of the Caribbean. Putting the whole Bible into Creole for the people of 1961 has been a long, slow task. The first book ever published in Creole was the Gospel of Luke, shortly after World War I by the American Bible Society.

In 1937 Reymond A. Joseph, a Haitian and a graduate of Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, was appointed to oversee the translation of the whole Bible into Creole.

The New Testament & the Psalms were published in 1948. Genesis, Exodus and Proverbs have been translated and are now being checked for publication. Mr. Joseph is now at work translating Isaiah into Creole.

"I only be encouraging too much," he writes for the Caribbean Challenge magazine, "but I believe in attempting great things for God. God willing, we in Haiti will also have God's Word in our own language, because many have cared."

Annoncement

Congratulations.

GREEN ACRES

MAKE YOUR BOOKING NOW!

Farms of the M. D. of Flagstaff should book next year's seed for cleaning and treating at their local municipal seed cleaning plants just as soon as possible. Every year these plants are doing a larger volume of business in the early fall and winter months because farmers want to avoid disappointment in the spring when the plants may be too busy to accommodate them. Grain which has been t rough the cleaning equipment is virtually weed-free and the seed is more uniform in size t an is often the case with farm cleaned grain. This uniformly large seed produces more even ripening and higher yields.

Similarly when seed has been treated with a fungicide or insecticide, the farmer can be sure these chemicals have been uniformly applied which again results in more even ripening and better yields. The benefits derived from wireworm control are becoming more apparent every year.

DOES BURNING STUBBLE CONTROL WILD OATS?

Although some farmers believe that burning stubble destroys seed breaks the dormancy of wild oats, experimental work has definitely proved that that is not true. In one experiment, weed seeds on the ground were only very slightly affected by fire, even though the area had been sprayed with oil and distillate. Under these conditions the land would obviously be much greater time in ordinary stubble burning. Also, by leaving the stubble standing, more snow would accumulate for moisture conservation and the ground which will not be touched by fire. The small percentage of wild oats destroyed by stubble burning is more than offset by the loss of organic matter that could be added to the soil.

Cub and Scout News

A regular meeting of the First Sedgewick Cub and Scout Pack was held Oct. 30th with president Mr. R. Galletly presiding, and 11 members present. Election of officers was as follows: Pres., S. Galletly; Vice Pres., Grant Cherum; Sec., Percy Peirce; Treas., Margaret Peterson; Public Relations Officer, WeVince; Chaplain, A. W. Easely.

Several means of raising funds were discussed, and it was decided that a bottle drive would be held on November 17th.

Cemetery Assn.

The final meeting of the Killam Cemetery Assn. for the year was held on Oct. 19th with 18 present. Another 50 loads of dirt had been filled into the cemetery and levelled, making a total of 200 loads levelled, cultivated and seeded to grass. This sod germinated well and was making satisfactory growth. The president reported enhancement of the cemetery by headstones. This was deplored, but no immediate solution found.

It was noted that a number of the organizations had neglected to make their usual donations this year. A request for a new mower was tabled until next year.

Remembrance Day 1962!

This year Remembrance Day falls on Sunday, November 11th. It is of course the day set aside by the people of Canada to honor and pay tribute to those men and women who gave their lives in war, for their country. Business places and organizations will be displaying poppy wreaths and individuals will wear the emblem of the day. Made by wounded and crippled in an effort to remain somewhat independent, the poppy is worthy of proud display by the people of Canada. Wear a poppy on November 11th, and make an especial effort to attend the service of worship in your locality.

No Sales Tax Please!

The sales tax kite is again being flown by provincial authorities; flown at low level to be sure, but nevertheless hoisted in an obvious attempt to "keen the public atmosphere." It is to be hoped that the government will make a careful analysis of the mood of the people before they go any further with the idea. In my experiences with sales taxes throughout Canada and the U. S., I found them more of a nuisance than anything else as far as the purchaser is concerned. But the peculiar thing about sales taxes is that in introducing the levy, it nearly always starts out at two percent but seldom remains there. Two percent seems little on a one dollar purchase, but on an 11c purchase it comes to a pretty high percentage. Aside from this, there is another angle of equal importance, and it is that every time something new is invented by a government, such as a sales tax, it adds to the cost of government. Collectors are needed, additional clerks required and enlarged staffs necessary to administer the thing. They all get paid, and quite a percentage of the revenue is absorbed in additional costs of administration. (The only one not paid is the business man forced to act as government bookkeepers). That is why the levy seldom stays at two percent. However I don't think the people of Alberta need worry about this tax at present. I too have been keening the air and I smell an election next year. The Manning government is too clever to annoy the people at a time like that. It just could cost it the provincial leadership.

Canadian Trade With Cuba!

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's suggestion that the U.N. appoint a special committee to visit Cuba and report on what they found there, came, if nothing else, as an anti-climax to President Kennedy's address. At least it was a change from the appointing of a Royal Commission. The U. S. implementation of a quarantine on shipping to Cuba could worry Canadian shipping. Canada has been trading with Castro, which of course is her right so long as she maintains diplomatic relations with the Castro regime, but it would be interesting to learn what would happen if the U. S. should consider some of the items Canada is selling to Cuba as contraband and turned such vessels back. Canadian ships are subject to the quarantine and turning any away might cause further strained relations between Canada and the U. S. We can ill afford any further disruptions in friendly reintions with any of the western nations, more particularly with our biggest customer. It is to be hoped Mr. Diefenbaker will take a closer look at his foreign policy.

GREEN ACRES

FEWER FARMS WITH HOGS!

The proportion of Canadian farms that raise hogs has been steadily declining over the years. In 1951 there were 64 percent of all farms that reported keeping hogs. In 1961 there were only 46 percent with hogs. During the past ten years, the percentage of farms raising hogs dropped from 58 percent in 1951, to 50 percent in 1956, to 46 percent in 1961. In 1951 there were 8.6 million hogs on 711,000 farms, while only seven later in 1961, there were 8.3 million hogs on 238,000 farms. It seems the day is gone when most farmers liked to always have a few hogs around, regardless of the nature of the other farm enterprises.

HOG PRODUCTION COSTS!

"Hog production costs in Alberta 1961-62" is the title of a revised study on this subject by A. J. Chartrand, Livestock Supervisor with the Alberta Dept. of Ag. Hog producers in this province can use these reports, which are obtainable from B. A's. at the Extension Service, for estimating their own approximate cost profits during the same period.

Changes in prices of feed grains, building materials, equipment as well as mechanical advancements in hog feeding and management make a periodic revision necessary. Originally the figures were gathered on an actual 42 head sow unit which was operated for the production and sale of weanling pigs.

After taking into consideration costs for labor, feed, bedding, interest on investment, depreciation on buildings and equipment, medicine & miscellaneous items, $11.27 was the approximate average cost per weaner pig of the 600 produced in a year.

Production costs of these weaner pigs from birth to market weight were estimated at $30.32 each. This figure was derived from production costs per weaner pig, plus feed expenses, labor, pig losses and other incidentals. Returns from the 600 market pigs, based on 1961 average prices at Edmonton plus $2.00 government bonuses on grade A's with 35 percent grading A, 55 percent B, and not over 10 percent C, was $8.58.

DAVISON — INNES

Sedgewick United Church was the scene of a recent fall wedding when Beverly Marguerite, youngest daughter of Mr. Robert Innes and Eva Innes became exchanged marriage vows with George Humphrey, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Davison all of Sedgewick. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Jack Frei. The church was decorated with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride looked lovely in a traditional white gown of silk brocaine featuring lily-point sleeves, a bustle back and semi-train. The petal-l neckline was enhanced by pearls and brilliants. A juliet cap trimmed with orange blossoms, held in place her fingertip veil, and she carried a crescent bouquet of red roses. A single strand of pearls, gift of the groom, was her only jewellery.

Attending the bride were her sister, Mrs. Audrey Ushbrith of St. Albert as matron of honor, and bridesmaids, Miss Margaret MacKinnon of Hardisty and Miss Janet Isaac of Edmonton. They were identically styled street length princess line gowns in shades of yellow with scarlet red velvet, with matching pill box hats. Their cascade bouquets were of white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Einar Brandinger attended the groom as best man, and ushers were Mr. Robert Cassell and Mr. Robert Jackson. During a-b signing of the register Mrs. Ann Ferrier sang "The Wedding Prayer." Mrs. M. Wilson was organist.

Following the ceremony an open reception was held in the church basement. The bride's table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake baked by Mrs. Ruth Davidson of Killam. Miss Gene Abbott was in charge of the guest book, and Mr. Roderick MacKinnon ably proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded. Mr. Robert Cassell acted as master of ceremonies, and telegrams of congratulations were read by Mr. Einar Brandingen. Soloist, Mrs. Ann Ferrier rendered two Scotting love songs, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. M. Wilson.

For travelling bride chose an olive green Italian knit suit with green and brown accessories, and a corsage of tallonia roses. Following a motor trip down the happy couple will live in honeymoon in the West Coast and points in the U. S. A. They will reside at Sedgewick.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Mr. isn't it nice to be pure? Isn't it satisfying to sit back and deplore? Isn't it great to be a clean-cut, liberal-minded, unprejudiced, tolerant Canadian, when racial strife breaks out in another country?

I couldn't help congratulating myself when I read next the ugly display of race hatred at the University of Mississippi, on being a citizen in the land of the Maple Leaf, the ryn whisky, the devilled duffer and the ordeal Doukhobor. If there's one thing we Canadians are, it's completely tolerant of races, religions and colors different from our own. It's pretty heart-warming, I can tell you, to be a member of a nation that is utterly without prejudice. I don't know why the rest of the world can't be like us. Look at those South Africans. Many of them just hate black people. Look at those Congolese. Many of them just hate white people. We don't hate anybody.

Oh, we have our little peccadilloes. After all, we're human. I mean, you can envy this junk too far. We recognize the fact for example, that the even Roman Catholics (or the heretical Protestants) are out to get us under their thumb, that they've gone too far, at last, that they've got to be stopped somewhere. We realize that, while Negroes are definitely human beings, there's no point in arresting our American tourists by letting the black people stayed our tourist resorts. After all, business is business.

We know perfectly well that Jews are as good as anybody. Smart, too. But let's keep them in the clothing business. They seem to like it. Let's not allow more than a few of them into medicine or dentistry. Let's not have any of them in our big national banks or insurance companies. They are too dang smart for their own good.

Speaking of foreigners, of course, we don't call them foreigners, as some people do; they're ethnic groups, or New Canadians, or bloody Europeans — I don't think there's another country in the world that gives them a warmer welcome. About [illegible]

I must admit that it's rather annoying that some of these comparative newcomers to our country don't seem to get into the spirit of the thing. Some of them seem to think that a Mikveki is just as good as a McCloskey. Not that he isn't, of course. But — well. You know.

A lot of these people don't seem to realize that our ancestors didn't come out here just to get out from under the thumb of some old czar or king, or just to find a new place to make a living. They came out here because there was a potato famine in Ireland, or they were on the dole in England, or the porridge was mighty thin in Scotland, or something worthwhile like that.

But I think the one thing that high lights the tolerance and lack of racial prejudice of Canadians, above all others, is the way we have treated our native Indians. This is where the true benevolence of the broad-minded, liberal thinking Canadian stands out like a — uh — leprous sore.

Did we crowd them into tiny reserves, as the Americans did, after we'd proved we could lick them? Well yes we did, actually. But we paid them cash for the lands we took. Well, not exactly cash, maybe, but a good, long-term promissory note. And do you know some of those Indians still receive as much as $4.77 a year, in interest alone? And is wasn't that we took away their good land. We just took a lot of old cattle pasture and crop land that they were not using anyway, and we bribed over to them some dandy high rocky land, and some good, virile swamp, for their reservations.

Do we deny the Indians their rights? Not for a minute. Every time we get involved in a war, we let them join the army, just like white people. Why in some of our more enlightened provinces, Indians can go in the pubs and get drunk, just like white people. And — a final mark of our interest in their welfare — we are now letting them go to school with our own children. This will probably finish them off quicker than whisky or smallpox.

Yes sir, it makes you feel pretty downright warm all over, when you realize that we Canadians don't have a prejudiced bone in our bodies. Except, maybe, our headbone.

Calgary, which had a population of 279,082 in its metropolitan area at the time of the 1961 census, nearly doubled its population in the 1951-61 period and in the words [illegible] the largest proportionate increase of any of Canada's major cities.

Toister's First Air Travel Booking

A new dimension has been added to the ease and speed of jet travel. On August 8, 1962, Air France, the world's largest airline, transmitted the first message over the "live" telephone call originated from the airline's Paris headquarters on the Boulevard Augusta Haussmt. It was placed at 8:25 p.m. Paris time, and confirmed a booking for a French businessman en route from Paris to Mexico City via New York.

Transmission was clear and uninterrupted. The call was received at the Air France reservations center, New York International Airport, at 2:35 p.m. EDT, by Mlle Edith Dreon, a general sales reservations agent.

How Call Was Relayed

The first trans-global reservation was transmitted on the regular continental telephone networks of France and the United States. From the point of origin in Paris, the call was channeled through the facilities of the French Poste Telephone et de Telegraphe system. It was then relayed to the satellite ground station in Pleumeur-Bodou on the Brittany peninsula. From there, the call was re-transmitted to the 34½-inch sphere which has been circling the earth every 128 minutes since its initial launching last July.

The telephone signal was bounced back to earth from Telstar and picked up at the Andover, Maine, ground station. It was then relayed by telephone again from Andover to the Air France offices at New York International Airport.

Sharing the momentous event with Mlle Dreon was Rene Costa de Beauregard, Assistant Commercial Services Manager of Air France, who commented: "Air France is proud to be the first airline to link the French and American business communities by Telstar. It is a great and efficient step forward, and certain to make [illegible] ever sooner than [illegible]

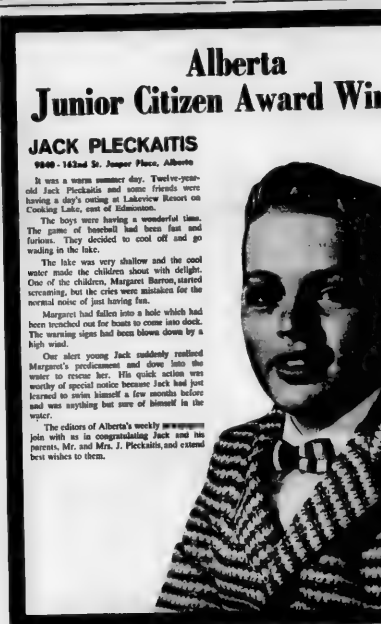
Alberta
Junior Citizen Award Winner
JACK PLECKAITIS
9849 - 143rd St. Jasper Place, Alberta



It was a warm summer day. Twelve-year-old Jack Pleckaitis and some friends were having a day's outing at Lakeview Resort on Cooking Lake, east of Edmonton.

The boys were having a wonderful time. The game of baseball had been fast and furious. They decided to cool off and go wading in the lake.

The lake was very shallow and the cool water made the children shout with delight. One of the children, Margaret Barron, started screaming, but the cries were mistaken for the normal noise of just having fun.

Margaret had fallen into a hole which had been trenched out for boats to come into dock. The warning signs had been blown down by a high wind.

One alert young Jack suddenly realized Margaret's predicament and dove into the water to rescue her. His quick action was worthy of special notice because Jack had just learned to swim himself a few months before and was anything but sure of himself in the water.

The editors of Alberta's weekly newspapers join with us in congratulating Jack and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pleckaitis, and extend best wishes to them.

This is one of six announcements about the 1961-1962 Junior Citizen Award winners. Calgary Power Ltd. gratefully acknowledge the active participation of Alberta's weekly newspaper editors, whose enthusiasm has done so much to make the Alberta Junior Citizen program possible. For this winner our special thanks go to Mr. D. H. McLeod, Publisher of the Jasper Place Suburban Times and to Mr. H. E. Shacker, Principal of the Britannia Junior High School in Jasper Place who nominated Jack for the award.

A FEW HARDISTY FLASHES

(By Pootle)

This is really a "Flakon" edition, as it would appear that these flakers floating down could be a signal that winter is on its way. It is quite a record though, leaving our first snow on November 10th. This can be a wonderful country weatherwise, at times.

Well, this is the day after the annual big night for me. I guess the governor imposed by my short stay in hospital was just what I've been needing all these years to keep me in line. It was a very enjoyable evening though, with a very fine banquet, followed by the usual fine line of the better dances we have had recently. We of the Legion would like to thank everyone for their support.

Speaking of hospital, old "three-hole" family had to throw in the sponge and take a few days rest. I don't know whether it was too much golf course action or the Pin, but I ended up in one of those adjustable beds. I must say that the time didn't drag, thanks to the many visits from many of you, and the very fine treatment from the staff of St. Anne's. There has a tendency to accept the services of our fine institution without too much thought, until one has to use them, then the fact that we are fortunate to have them is driven home.

I do not wish to use up too much space this week as I also have some Echo news regarding Water Safety, kindly prepared by Jim Cavanagh. I would like to mention now that a lot of credit is due Jim, as Bert Hill for their work on this committee.

In closing I would once again like to express my thanks for the get-well cards, fruit, candy and smokes received while I was hospitalized, and also for the many visits and best wishes extended me.

Good sledding, I hope not.

CAMROSE ASSN. FOR RETARDED CHILDREN

June 11th, 1962 is a very important day for four children from the area around Camrose and for one from the city, although it is doubtful if they will appreciate the significance of the date. It was on this day the Camrose and District Assn. for Retarded Children came into being. In the short time that has passed since then, Bob Burgess, president, has spread his influence and enthusiasm in an ever increasing circle around Camrose. He has collected together a large group of willing helpers and before three months had passed, the executive had set a budget of $7500 for current expenses, and had hired a well qualified teacher for full time duties. Besides this, they had made plans for the future and had set $17,500 as a target for this year for the building fund, and they had set up a committee under the guidance of Phil Link to plan towards building a school and a dorm.

By the 4th of September the preliminary work had been done and five retarded children were able to take part with the more fortunate in the annual return to school. Together with thousands of others, these five found themselves in their new classroom — the only difference was that their classroom was the "Three Links Hall" in Camrose. In the eve when other children would be putting away books and looking for home, the children of the new school had to move their desks and equipment to a place where they would not interfere with the normal activities of the hall.

On Monday, Oct. 8th, the new quarters, kindly provided in the new separate school were ready. On the Sunday, Bob Burgess, Art Schau, Glen Smith and Fred Sukeroff moved the furniture and equipment into the new "Our Lady of Mount Pleasant" School and another of the Association's problems was solved.

FIRST OFFICE STRESSES NEED FOR CUSTOM DECLARATION ON CHRISTMAS PARCELS

Canadians who want their Christmas gifts to arrive safely in Britain will have to ensure that customs declarations are completely filled out & properly attached to each parcel, according to a recent announcement by the Customs General, the Honorable Ellen Fairclough.

The Post Office General said information has been received from the British Post Office that many parcels from Canada are being delayed at ports of entry because of faulty customs declarations. She said many Canadians use general terms such as toys, clothing, or Christmas gifts, on the declaration. This is not a proper description. The British regulations require that the exact nature of the contents be indicated as well as their value. If the declaration does not provide sufficient information the package must be opened by British officials or the addressee has to be asked to provide further details.

Mrs Fairclough expressed the hope Canadians will avoid delay by describing contents accurately, separately and in detail. By following the regulations, they can rest assured their parcels will arrive at destination without difficulty or delay.

Alta. Emergency

While the Cuba crisis has attracted the attention of the world, we who live in Alberta have an emergency on our own doorstep. The Alberta Safety Council issues a news release which reads in part as follows: "The year is turning into the deadliest ever on Alberta highways. A black August — 40 deaths, the most ever reported for that month — pushed 1962's eight-month toll to 107. At 18,258 the number of reported accidents is risking 18 percent above last year's record levels. And the injury toll, 4,285, is up 6 percent."

Many personalities for safety have been instituted, such as safer highways, better constructed cars with four-wheel hydraulic brakes, safer tires, lower center of gravity, steel bodies, trained drivers and better traffic control. When will the officials and the public wakken up to the fact that there is a missing cog in this safety concoction? The missing cog is Reliquent in the law of Intoxicants. An effective way to achieve this purpose is to legalize a chemical test to determine the alcohol content of the blood of drivers. The licensed-to-drive form should include a clause of implied consent to submit to such a test on demand by a traffic officer.

It is estimated that at least 40 percent of all fatal highway accidents have liquor involved. Reduce the use of intoxicants by drivers and save lives.

The Bible Today

Aneel J. Thisaingh, M. A., of Trinidad writes in the Caribbean Challenge of his impressions of a Christian Literature Sunday held recently in the Presbyterian Church in Trinidad.

"Approximately 2000 books were sold, about 300 of those being Bibles and hymn books. In the rural areas sales were brisker than in towns, indicating the need to reach our rural people with Christian material," he reports. Literature Sunday was started in the Presbyterian Church, Trinidad in 1958 with a view to circulating the Bible, hymn books and other Christian reading material for all age groups. Nearly 100 laymen in the church gave their assistance on this day as speakers, distributors & order-takers. The Bible is a best seller on Literature Sunday in Trinidad.

Since 1957 World Literature Sunday has been observed on the second Sunday in October, by churches in many parts of the world.

F.U.A. Newsletter

In Canada the first steps have been set on the road which will eventually lead to one farmers' organization, that will speak for the whole farming community of Canada. The same movement is afoot "down under". The leaders of the Australian farm organizations are discussing the possibility of forming one large organization. The first steps on the road towards unity have been successful and Australian farmers expect agreement between the organizations to be reached in the near future.

The discount store will very soon be followed by the discount supermarket. Seventeen firms have announced plans for the start of this new kind of business venture, and to some of them it looks like such a good one, that they are thinking about opening 20 of these new markets. For a few years we have been thinking that the country had more than enough supermarkets already. Apparently we have been wrong.

The story is now that existing supermarkets don't use shelf space efficiently enough. Discount markets will show how shelf space should be used and could result in lower food prices for consumers. It all sounds a little bit Dynamic, and we think that this new business venture could very well result in increased downward pressure on the price of farm products.

Australia's most shipments to the United States were $25 million pounds in 1960 - 1961 to 322 million pounds in 1961 - 62. Beef and veal shipments were almost double those of 1960 - 61, and amounted to 38 million pounds.

Arnold Hatchinson, Jr. P.U.A. President, is attending the Leadership Techniques Course at the Banff School of Fine Arts. Its aim is to charge of recreation.

The P.U.A. Annual Convention will be held from December 10 - 14 at the Macdonald Hotel in Edmonton this year. On Tuesday, Dec. 11, a panel discussion will be organized, which will take the bigger part of convention time on that day.

The P.U.A. Membership Drive will be held from Nov. 5 - 9. For 35 outstanding canvassers a bus tour will be arranged which will take them to Ottawa and Minneapolis. On the way down and back several points of interest in Ontario will be visited. The tour will last about 14 days.

P. F. A. A. ESTIMATES

Ottawa, Oct. 24, 1962 - Payments under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act are expected to total $11.2 million for the 1962 crop year, Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton announced today.

The estimated total represents a sharp drop from the 1961 drought year when payments for crop losses amounted to more than $54 million.

Bulk of the payments will go to farmers in Alberta and Saskatchewan where hail, drought, grasshoppers and the lack of adequate moisture being carried over from 1961 were the main causes of crop failure. Manitoba's crop losses were caused largely by hail and excessive moisture.

Estimates of financial assistance and of the number of townships affected, by province, are: Saskatchewan, 900 townships, $6.75 million; Alberta, 700 townships, $4.2 million; Manitoba, 50 townships, $250,000.

Of the $11.2 million, it is expected that some $6.4 million will be provided by the Prairie Farm Assistance Fund from the one per cent levy on grain sales during the crop year.

RMA OPPOSES SALES TAX FOR ALBERTA

The Retail Merchants' Association of Canada (Alta.) Inc., have in a resolution sent to the Provincial government today, gone on record as being unalterably opposed to the form of Provincial Tax being imposed at the retail level.

Honorable Sir:

The Retailers in Alberta are gravely concerned over the persistency of publicized statements and reports which indicate that your Government will probably introduce a Sales Tax within the next year.

This important matter was discussed at a meeting of the Provincial Board of Directors of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada (Alta) Inc., in unanimously opposed to any form of Provincial Sales Tax at the Retail level for the following reasons:—

1. They increase the cost of living and impose undue hardships on low income and low income family groups because they do not consider the taxpayers' ability to pay.

2. They are a costly form of taxation and highly unpopular with both the Public and the Retailers.

3. They place an unjust burden on Retailers and increase their cost of operation.

4. They make the Retailer become a Tax Collector and Record Keeper for the Government.

5. They interfere and interrupt the normal relationship between retailer and customer and create unnecessary problems and cause confusion and customer complaints.

We honestly and sincerely believe that there is no justification or need for a Sales Tax to be imposed in Alberta.

J. Robinson, General Manager.

MOBILE TESTING LAB

A mobile testing laboratory has been designed and constructed for use under the Highway Research Program being conducted co-operatively by the Provincial Department of Highways, the Alberta Research Council and the University of Alberta.

The Highway Research Division of the Alberta Research Council were instrumental in the design and construction of this portable testing laboratory. The unit measures 20 feet long by 8 feet wide and is covered by a light truck. Its principal use is to conduct on the spot tests on sampled roadway materials taken from a highway which is in use. Studies are conducted on performance of various types of highway construction and an evaluation is made of constructed surfaces performance in their age increments. Information obtained is utilized to improve the structural design of pavements in the Province.

The laboratory is completely equipped with equipment, storage facilities, sinks as well as propane and electric ovens for drying out samples. Electricity is supplied by a 5 KW generator mounted at the rear of the trailer. Compressed air and water supply units are installed; however water may also be pumped from other sources.

Equipment to prepare and test samples is built into the unit. A diamond saw is used to cut samples of hard concrete, soft cement or asphaltic pavement and two compression testing machines are used to test the strength of the cores. All necessary additional equipment is also available to complete the modern unit.

The use of a portable laboratory has eliminated costly time intervals between sampling and testing and has made possible immediate remedying when necessary. The laboratory has enabled the technician to use delicate and accurate testing equipment on the spot where sampling is being done.

COVERAGE FOR FARM HELP!

Have you thought about enquiring into the benefits of Workman's Compensation coverage for farm help? Accordingly Mr. Adkins and Chief Claims Officer at the Workmen's Compensation Board in Edmonton, this scheme provides complete protection for farm workers against accidents arising out of employment and illnesses directly attributed to employment. In addition, the farmer is safeguarded against his employees taking legal action for damages they may sustain during the course of their employment.

The Workmen's Compensation Act states that all necessary medical and hospital expenses, based on public ward rates will be paid if an accident or illness arises out of the insured person's employment. The injured party is eligible to receive 75 per cent of his average earnings as long as he is hospitalized. And, in the case of a fatal accident, his dependent widow gets $75 a month for life or until she remarries. Each child is entitled to $20 a month until he or she is 16. This age limit can be extended to 18 if the child remains in school.

A farmer can also insure himself under the Act when he applies for hired help coverage. If he has no employees he is not eligible. Members of the family employed on the farm but living apart from the operator, are automatically included with the other workers in this type of coverage. If, however, they are still members of the farmer's household, a special application must be made.

An applicant must employ one or more men to be eligible for Workmen's Compensation coverage. It does not matter whether the employees are temporary or permanent, providing the farmer's payroll comes to $3000 or more a year. Board and living expenses for hired help are considered as part of the wages. If the farmer is applying for coverage for himself, he must fix his wages at a figure between $2500 and $6000 a year and include this amount in his payroll.

At the present time the premium for general farming operations is 2 per cent of the total payroll. Thus the annual premium for Workmen's Compensation coverage for farm help on a $3000 a year payroll would be $60. This premium, which is revised annually, could probably be substantially reduced if more farmers adopted this type of coverage for their employees.

Information on Workmen's Compensation Coverage for farm workmen can be obtained from the Workmen's Compensation Board in Edmonton, Calgary, Red Deer and Lethbridge.

The Bible Today

Television is being used by the CBC to present the story of the apostles in action under the title "Paul of Tarsus". Written in contemporary speech and produced by the newest mass media the Bible comes alive across Canada on the program "Heritage". Television is also being used coast to coast in the USA to assist in Bible teaching, reports Religious News Service. The National Council of Churches is the U. S. recently sponsored a series of Sunday programs in an effort to make the Bible relevant to today's situation.

The Acts of the Apostles was the book used in this first series of T.V. programs under the title, "When the Church was Young". Maps, paintings, charts and figurines were all used to illustrate the Bible passages.

A second series, scheduled for network presentation early in 1963 will be based on the Gospel of St. Luke and include twelve programs under the general title "The Living Bible in Today's World".

Now that the big shooting match of the century appears to be pooped out, perhaps we can turn our attention to a more personal type of shooting that is no less lethal, but a lot more fun for all concerned. I refer to hunting.

Each fall I like to print some of the tips on hunting safely, especially for the reassurance of the wives. But I haven't had the nerve to do it for the last three years. Why? Because the last time I printed a safe-hunting column there were some rather peculiar results. One fellow shot another fellow out of a tree, taking him for a partridge. Don't ask me what he was doing up a tree. He probably was probably taking a load on another hunt or who, that same year, shot two more hunters out of a canoe, claiming they were moose. Hunters may have a few of the finer things, but there's nothing wrong with their imaginations.

However, I think a decent interval has passed, and instructions to instincts drive me to make one more attempt to preserve the human species as we do it at attempting to exterminate such a few other species. Here goes and every word from me himself.

The first and foremost rule of the bush is: never mix alcohol and gunpowder. Pardon me, I mean the devil. And use ginger ale, coke, or whatever your preference is.

Before you start off on a hunting trip, look down the barrel of your gun to make sure nothing has built a nest in it since last year. If you can't see through the barrel, put in a shell and fire the gun. This usually removes any obstacles. It sometimes removes the head of the hunter as well, but that's neither here nor there. It's probably a little of both.

Always have your gun loaded when driving to the hunting ground, if there's a collision and they can't cut you out of the wreck, you can always shoot your way out. Besides, you'll get a real belly-laugh out of the look on the driver's face when he hits a bump, the gun goes off, and he has suddenly acquired a no-top convertible.

You may find you have to climb a fence, when you get there. A lot of hunters are killed trying to get thru or over a fence while carrying their guns. Don't take chances. Grasp the gun firmly by the barrel, take a short run, and swiftly over, using the muzzle as a vaulting pole.

Now, how do we carry the gun? It should be held in the right hand, the barrel pointing forward to the ground. And of course, you always carry it with the safety catch off in case you have to get a quick shot away. If the gun is held in this way, and you stumble over a root, you'll merely shoot off a toe. If you hold it with the barrel pointing up, you might shoot your head off. And losing a toe, especially that one that's had an ingrown nail for years, is far more preferable to losing one's head. Ask anyone who's done both.

Don't wait until you see the whites of their eyes. If something moves in the bush, blaze away. It might be another hunter, but there's an even chance it's a partridge or a deer. Or a farmer.

It's odd fashioned to wear bright red clothing in the bush. Statistics show that 99 percent of the hunters who have been shot in the past 10 years were clad in red garments. So why not wear something that blends with the bush? You can sneak up on the quarry just much easier, and there's a fair chance you can sneak past the other hunters, without being spotted. If they do see you, get away your shot first, then drop to the ground and let them blaze away. They'll go home happy, telling everyone about the big buck they missed.

If you happen to become lost in the bush, don't panic. Just run about in circles as hard as you can, screaming at the top of your lungs and firing your gun as fast as you can. When you have run out of breath and ammunition, sit down quietly and take stock of the situation. If the sun is taking always the shelter to be pretty bare, there's one solution: it works best if there's a good stiff breeze. Just gather some brown birch, get it in a clump of dry branches and start a roaring bush fire. Where the fire fighters arrive, you are no longer lost.

One last word of caution. When you bag your first hunter, don't brag about it. It just isn't done, in hunting circles. Don't even allow yourself a small smirk of satisfaction as you carve that first notch in your gun. After all, there's nothing as unusual about your feat. Any dumbbell can shoot a hunter. And quite a few do.

Cards Of Thanks

We would like to thank our many relatives and friends for the lovely evening and gift given on our 25th wedding anniversary. Special thanks to Mrs. Andy Southon who made such a beautiful wedding cake for us. Mr. and Mrs. Pete Grove. 34 1 p

We wish to express our sincere thanks to Dr. MacKenzie, Dr. MacLeod, Sisters, Nurses and staff for the care we received during our stay as patients in Killam Hospital. Also to all our friends who sent letters, cards and visited with us. We do thank you all! Mr. and Mrs. Percy Burton. 34 1 p

We wish to thank most sincerely our many friends who helped us to celebrate our 25th wedding anniversary with open house, cards, gifts & a purse, with which we plan to purchase a chair. Special thanks to all those who helped in any way to make it an evening we will never forget.— Bill and Myrtle Larson. 34 1 p

Mr. and Mrs. L. Lien and Mr. and Mrs. Hans Lien all of Camrose were visiting here for the silver wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. P. Lieven.

Mr. and Mrs Andy Grieve, Margaret Ibenhan and Agnes Wright were in Edmonton on Dec. 12th for the funeral of Mrs. W. MacDonnell.

Mr. and Mrs. Vi Nelson visited with her mother Mrs. Maude Nelson.

Judging by the number of red cups and coats and overalls in town this past week it would appear that Killam was moving his missile bases to Alberta. But it's only the local police using the Queen's carpets, even mostly known as deers. According to reports there will be quite a quantity of both deer meat and deerment in the district this winter.

Judy and Roger Hall of Passkin were home last week end at the Geo. Potter home.

Mr. and Mrs J. Birchill visited at Stettler and Red Deer, and brought sisters-in-law home for a week.

The general meeting of the UCW was held recently with 12 members and 1 visitor. Mrs. Hill extended on behalf of the UCW., thanks to every one who had donated or helped with the annual turkey supper. The budget for the new year was read and passed. Letter of thanks read from Mrs. Carrico and Mrs. Matson, and letter from Leung Yah, Hong Kong. Mrs Craig reported that renewals to the Christian Home were now due.

Group 1 will cater to the banquet for the 21-C; group 2 will serve the Monday meal.

It had been planned to hold election of officers at this meeting but owing to the small attendance it was moved to the January meeting. The Christmas party will be held Dec. 13. Each member can invite a guest, and gifts will be exchanged. Each group is responsible for two items for the program. The annual bazaar will be held Dec. 6th.

Devotional was in charge of Mrs. Hayes and Mrs Wood. Meeting closed in the usual way, and lunch was served.

THE NEW RELIABLES

ONLY CHEVROLET OFFERS THIS PROVEN PAY-OFF IN POWER, PERFORMANCE AND DEPENDABILITY

1963 Chevrolet trucks proved their mettle before they went on sale. To do this, six Chevrolets were taken across the continent for a 2,000 mile shakedown run through some of the wildest terrain in North America — the Baja California peninsula in Mexico.

Chevrolet's power, performance and dependability pulled off — the cabins were accomplished without a breakdown, failure or delay; and with only normal maintenance! That's how '63 Chevrolet trucks got the name "The New Reliables".

This proven reliability is built into every '63 Chevrolet truck. Whether you run 'em cross-country or cross-town, '63 Chevies will deliver what they promise!

Get the facts today, from your local Chevrolet truck dealer, then you'll know — Chevrolet pays off!

NEW POWER for '63. Chevrolet has two new V-8's, a 327 (165 hp) and a 409 (409 cu. in. for 11,000 lbs.) Both are equipped with 7-bearing crankshafts, positive valve rotators, full-flow oil filter and new combustion chambers. They're the newest additions to Chevrolet's complete line of proven performance-tested engines.

TWO NEW SUSPENSIONS. Light Duty models have new independent coil spring front suspension for ride comfort and reinforced durability. Medium and Heavy Duty models have, in Chevrolet's new Variable Rate Auxiliary front suspension. Based on Chevrolet's famous Corvair Rear Suspension, it provides better handling and ride with reduced maintenance.

NEW FRAMES. Stronger, more durable ladder-type frames are '63 Chevrolet's backbone. Each frame, in each series, has been specifically engineered and built to meet the demands of load and road conditions. It's Chevrolet's way of making sure that every payload pays off in profits for you!

Alta. Shows Worst Driving Record

Alberta turned into the last quarter of this year with the worst driving record in its history, the provincial Safety Council said Wednesday.

The accident and injury toll has created to new heights while the death toll is riding even with 1961's record smashing levels.

To the end of September, the accident total of 39,179 was 1.8 percent ahead of a year ago. The injury total of 6,888 was up seven percent. And at 201, the death toll was even with a year ago. During September, 34 persons died in 28 accidents on Alberta roads. Thirty-one were reported by the RCMP, one by Medicine Hat police, one at Grande Prairie & one in Jasper Place.

The incidence of multiple-injury accidents continues to rise. In September for example, 434 accidents accounted for 707 injuries. There was an injury for every 2.3 accidents and a death for every 67.5.

Across the province in September, the RCMP reported a decline in accidents but a jump in injuries and deaths.

Alberta
Junior Citizen Award Winner
VERLIN RAU
Beiseker, Alberta

If you see a group of Grade Eleven high school students walking down the corridors of the large Beiseker Consolidated School, you will find among them a boy with the same load of books, the same happy smile as his companions. But this boy is different. You might even think that he has wandered into the wrong section of the school. For Verlin Rau is slightly built and only four and a half feet tall. But just ask the teachers about Verlin. They'll tell you that he is an outstanding student — that last June he won an award for the "best all-around boy student" and that he is now taking his Grade Eleven although he is only fifteen years old.

Life has not been easy for Verlin. He has lived his life with a serious heart condition which has caused extremely high blood pressure from his chest up and no blood pressure in his feet and legs.

Verlin, in spite of his handicap has performed some amazing heroic acts. He has saved his brother and mother from serious injury. He has assumed complete responsibility for harvesting when his father was seriously ill last fall.

Verlin is now recovering from a successful heart operation and can now look forward to living a normal life. We and the editors of Alberta's weekly newspapers extend to Verlin and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Rau, best wishes for the future.

This is one of six announcements about the 1961-1962 Junior Citizen Award winners. Calgary Power Ltd. gratefully acknowledge the active participation of Alberta's weekly newspaper editors, whose enthusiasm has done so much to make the Alberta Junior Citizen program possible. For this winner our special thanks go to Mr. and Mrs. G. Reddekopp who nominated Verlin for the award.

ABUNDANT LIFE

GOD WILL MEET YOUR NEEDS

I was deeply impressed by the story of a little boy who wanted to buy his mother a birthday gift. The present that he liked cost exactly $0.98.

So he saved and saved until he had 98 pennies in his piggy bank. When he started to pay for the gift, he just turned his piggy bank upside down and 98 pennies came tumbling out. All the pennies that the little boy had were poured into one single act.

To receive what you need from God, your faith has to come pouring out of your heart in one single act of faith. Do you want to be healed? Then all your faith must be loosed in one single act of believing God for the healing of your body.

In Mark 9:14-29 we read of a man who had a dreadfully afflicted son. We might diagnose his condition today as epilepsy. But it was something that would seize the boy and throw him violently into fire and water. The father brought his son to Jesus to be healed. But when he arrived, Jesus was on the Mount of Transfiguration.

When Jesus came down from the mount, He found a sorry state of affairs. The apostles had prayed for the boy, but he still was not healed. The father of the boy was very discouraged. When Jesus came, this man was ready to give up and go home. He had failed exactly $0.98.

SMOLSKI - McCARROLL

Knox United Church, Daysland, was the scene of a lovely ceremony on November 24th at 2.00 p.m., when vows of marriage were spoken between Rev. McNeil, by Margaret Gail McCarroll and Mr. Peter Sawiski. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David McCarroll of Daysland, and her husband is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Smolski of Killam. Following a honeymoon trip to Banff the newlyweds will make their home at Drayton Valley. — Dunrose Canadian. (Photo by Langdell Studio).

42 Receive Certificates At HARDISTY C. D. COURSE

A Civil Defence Orientation Course was held in the Legion Hut at Hardisty each night from November 19 to 23 inclusive. The course was arranged and directed by Mrs. M. G. Redman, director of civil defence for the Town of Hardisty, and the instruction was given by Mr. Davidson of the Alberta Emergency Measures Organization. Fifty-eight residents of Hardisty and district were enrolled, and forty-two of these received their course certificates and civil defence buttons.

A Civil Defence Orientation Course was held in the Legion Hut at Hardisty each night from November 19 to 23 inclusive. The course was arranged and directed by Mrs. M. G. Redman, Director of Civil Defence for the Town of Hardisty, and the instruction was given by Mr. David-son, of the Alberta Emergency Measures Organization. Fifty-eight residents of Hardisty and district were enrolled, and forty-two of these received their course certificates and Civil Defence buttons.

The course dealt with numerous subjects and gave considerable information on each, together with films on nuclear fallout, etc. Mr. Davidson pointed out that the geographic positions of Canada between U. S. A. & U.S.S.R. made it very important that Canadian people be prepared and informed in case of a third world war, especially as there would be no war committed to nuclear warfare. He also gave reasons for believing that Canada's cities would be only secondary targets and would therefore be subject to rmmned bomber raids and not missiles, thus giving a time element of warning.

The course emphasized the fact that even if a nuclear blast occurred in an Alberta city, there would be many survivors, and that organization and preparedness would be required to avoid panic, take care of survivors and defend our country against invaders. This organization and preparedness is the work of Civil Defence, which is not a separate organization but a continuation of our government. It is an amalgamation of government departments currently handling this type of work.

Mr. Davidson advised the group that the Town of Hardisty had met the first three steps of organization of Civil Defence, in that the Council had passed the required by-law, were acting as the committee, and had appointed a director, who was active in setting up a local organization. He further pointed out that this authority and organization could be and should be used in case of any local disaster or emergency.

Members of the course studied the effects of a nuclear blast, and were shown that even if a blast occurred, the whole of the province would not be contaminated by fallout; the area would be determined by winds. Effects of radiation are subject to 3 things, distance from source, shielding from source, and the rapid deterioration of radiation strength; thus the value of each family having a fallout shelter, properly equipped. It was of interest to learn that in 7 hours the strength of radiation was reduced to one tenth, and in two days to one one-hundredth.

Pamphlets and booklets were made available to the class on shelters designed to not withstand a blast but to protect occupants from fallout. It was of local interest to note that root cellars make a very good shelter provided care is taken regarding the entrance and the ventilation. The role of the army was brought out in the course; however it was pointed out that through necessity the army would be turning over evacuees and survivors to civilian authorities.

Mr. Miller, principal of Hardisty school, presented the tentative plan for the school and school children in case of an alert, and passed out copies of the tentative plan. Mrs. Redman, as director, gave a brief outline of the Hardisty Civil Defence which will be carried out as that Hardisty had had a fire course with a fire pumper truck and instructor on loan, some nursing courses, first aid courses, nurses sent to special courses, all through the Alberta Emergency Measures Organization. Further, that Hardisty was applying for a Central Rest Centre.

At the finish of the course, the group presented Mrs. Redman with a bouquet of flowers in appreciation of her work with the course.

It is understood that a similar course will be held in M.D. Flagstaff and M. D. Provost.

The Sedgewick Kinsmen Club Slave Auction which was held November 19th, was very capably handled by Auctioneer John Muirhead and Mr. Bert Cumberland as clerk. Both men donated their services for the evening. The sale got started with the auction of items donated by the local business men and residents.

Auctioneer Muirhead kept the items moved in a jolly mood with his descriptions of the Kinsmen Slaves, most of whom he had known since birth. The combination of a good auctioneer and genuine bidders afforded excellent prices, with the average being $12.80 a slave. Four members of the Club offered to do a day's work for the purchaser of Kinsman Rod Smith who is in hospital, and the Sedgewick Co-op Store offered $100 for the unbinding of fertilizer. The entire Club joined together to accept the offer.

Two slaves each were purchased by John Armitage and Arnet and Burgess, with single slaves going to, John Hopkin, A. McCracken, Community Press, Perdie Weng, Arthur Gaines, Bill MacLaren, Harry Fellow, Clyde Clarke, Tom Wilson, Jim Davison, Sedgewick Bakery and Jim Hallam.

The Club will use the proceeds of this sale to move in a hall from the North of town to the lake site, install facilities, and in general make further improvements to the lake grounds and swimming area. The lake, which is rapidly becoming a popular resort area, is a project of the Kinsmen Club.

Mary Anderson Receives Gov. Generals Medal

The Merna Home and School meeting was held Nov. 13 in the school gym. Following the opening there was an election of officers. Mr. Harry Anderson was elected president, Mrs. Geo. Dunsmore as Sec., and Mrs. Marvin Rombough as vice-pres. A vote of thanks was extended to the outgoing executive. The various committee members were chosen. Mr. Sparks, principal, was introduced, after which he spoke on the recent civil defence practices at the school.

A group of five was chosen to attend the district workshop at Camrose. It was decided that the Home and School group would join the local film society. Mr. John Anderson was selected to attend the film council meeting.

During the course of the evening, Mr. Bruce, Supt., presented the Gov. Gen. award to Mary Lou Anderson. This ward was won by Mary Lou, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson for obtaining the highest marks in the 1961 grade 9 finals in Killam inspectorate. Mary Lou also received honor student scholarships from the Division and the A.T. A. Sub-Local. The ATA scholarship for highest standing in grade 9 for girls was donated by the Oriental Hospital Auxiliary. Nelia Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allie Anderson also received two student award awards from the Division and A.T.A. Mr. Bateman was on hand to present the awards for the Division. Mr. Sparks presented Joyce and Nellie Anderson with crests won for obtaining top points in their age groups at the 1961 track meet.

Following these presentations Mr. Bruce spoke on the general improvement of education in Alberta. Drawing from his experience, Mr. Bruce pointed out the changes in facilities available for teachers, as well as the advisory knowledge in the past few years. NEWS GLEANINGS FROM AROUND THE WORLD

"BRITISH EMPIRE GAMES"

So far Canada has won two gold medals at the British Empire Games in Australia. Nineteen-year-old Bruce Kidd was the six mile race in runner-smashing time of 28 minutes and 38.6 seconds. Twenty-year-old Dick Pound of Montreal won the Men's 110 yard free-style swimming event for Canada's second gold medal.

"CONSERVATIVES AND LIBERALS"

Recently a comparison was made between Democrats and Republicans by an American writer. It hit a responsive cord in our Canadian hearts. It goes something like this: Liberals are people trying to get someplace — Conservatives are people trying to stay where they are. — It might help to picture them as Jack Sprat and his wife, with the country represented by the platter.

"ILLEGAL ENTERIES"

Alberta's 1962 accident total has reached 20,979, up 15 percent from a year ago, while the injury total stands at 5,000, up seven percent. There has been 294 deaths so far this year.

"THE MISSILE GAP"

Russia's ill-fated attempt to implant missiles in Cuba is explained as a move to eliminate the "Missile Gap." While the Russians have only 75 missiles capable of hitting U. S. sites, the United States has some 600, and is rapidly acquiring more.

"RED CHINA"

"AMERICAN U-2's"

"FARM INCOME"

Cash farm income will exceed three billion dollars in 1962. This will be the first year the three billion figure has been passed.

"CAR SALES"

Is Man Losing His Initiative!

In man losing his initiative? Or what probably is more apropos, is man willing to have his initiative taken from him? We boast of our high living standard as compared to that of the more "backward" countries of the world, and we smugly suggest that our economic superiority is due almost entirely to our western penchant to improve our lot, both personally and nationally; to brag that our position in life is due to a desire to raise ourselves above past standards. We even go so far as to suggest that we have, so to speak, raised ourselves by our own bootstraps, by showing initiative, by being ambitious, by laboring industriously, by being frugal when the "growing-up" period necessitated it. We blame our opposites for not showing a like quality, forgetting that they were never allowed to take the initiative, and we condescent, through pressure, to render them the economic assistance they require, and in doing so make them completely aware of the fact that it is a handout from the superior to the inferior.

But to get back to the point at issue. Are we not arriving too dreadfully fast to the point where the last bastions of man's personal pride are being willingly taken away from him? Is the day not quickly approaching when man will not be able to stand up on his own two feet and stride through life by his own accomplishments?

Although there may be other reasons for governments, in some aspects of our lives, taking the initiative away from us, it basically becomes a fact because we have asked them to do so, thereby relieving us of the responsibilities of looking after our own welfare, and forcing it upon society as a whole.

In the beginning man was endowed with the capacity of procretion, and it is reasonable to assume that in so doing he was expected to be responsible for the care and nourishment of that which he produced. But today we have let, and we expect society to help us do it. One government pays us, albeit indirectly, for creating, while another hands us cheques to help feed our creation. When he grows up and we find that we have bungled our responsibilities, we send him to school, Sunday school, Cubs and Scouts, etc. and expect society to make a man out of him. When he graduates into the stream of society and loses his job or position, we have trained him to expect compensation from society while he sits on his posterior until employment, suitable to his talents, is found for him. In many cases the longer he can sit the better he likes it, and the more he expects from society.

And so the welfare state has crept up on us, gradually and insidiously invading our self-reliance and destroying our personal initiative; whittling away at our sense of pride in accomplishment; a trend which with the passing of time will regiment the human race into a vast assortment of pigeon-holed numbers instead of individual personalities. Far fetched? Think it over.

Then if a man can come out of this mire of welfare assistance to the age of sound reasoning, and by himself, or by combining his talents with others of similar potential, and, by initiative, aggresiveness, stick-to-it tenacity and sound reasoning, raise himself above the economic level of the average, he may discover the tentacles of creeping socialism reaching out to strangle his enterprise and bring his little empire crashing down, to be cradled on the bosom of society. And so he loses his aggressiveness, he retreats from his initiative, and his only consolation is to take his recompense, sit back in his easy chair and clip his coupons. But the real danger lies in the fact that his treatment makes others wary, personal initiative is lost, giving new and greater life to the welfare state.

Safe-Driving Week Opens At Midnight!

Between midnight tomorrow, Nov. 30, and midnight of Dec. 7, the Canadian Highway Safety Council will be joined by provincial safety groups, industry, business, governments, police, clergy, legal profession and many more to promote Canada's national Safe-Driving Week. The Council fears 50 human lives will be snuffed out during that period on the highways and streets of Canada. While this is a large and needless slaughter, it would be less than the average for a week this time of year (77) and less than the seven-year average for Safe-Driving Week (53). C. E. Carson, CHSC general chairmnn, has called for the greatest possible co-operation by all motorists and pedestrians to make this the safest seven days of the year. His request is not complicated. All Mr. Carson asks is, "Drive safely, walk safely. Do that, and suffering and death can disappear from our roads."

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Noticed a letter to the editor the other day that suggested congregations should give their minister a hearty round of applause if they enjoyed his sermon. At first, the idea appealed to me. Many a time, in church, I've been completely carried away by the sermon. In fact, on several occasions, I've been carried right out of this world. To dreamland.

On second thought, however, the notion of applause for a sermon lost its appeal. Supposing the minister got a real storm of hand-clapping. There's always the chance that he would listen happily, hold up his hand like a TV comic, pull another sermon out of the sleeve of his cassock and give us a 30-minute encore.

With the knowledge that the roast was odorifcating at home, the gastric juices would flow like Niagara Falls, and the consequent rumbling of stomachs would be horrible to even imagine. Frightful to listen to, and destructive to any facade of holiness that we'd managed to erect.

Then, on the other hand, it would be only fair, if we were to applaud with gusto for stirring sermons, that we should be able to express disapproval in the customary manner by hissing, stamping and whistling. If we didn't like the tone of the preacher's mind. And the prospect of running some of our sweetest sleepers with such an outburst would be of the malice zones of the organ, is fraught with heart attacks, strokes, and epilepsy. We need a crop of refined and stricter-hearers in a day when you can hardly get them.

Can't you imagine the jolt you'd get as you sat there happily nodding if some hardened sinner who disapproved of the sermon on sin came out with a mighty "BOO-OO-OO" right in your ear? You might very easily fall off the bench, simultaneously uttering an expletive that would irrevocably consign you to the fiery regions from which the sermon had just tried to save you.

Nope, we'd much better to leave things as they are, and greet the end of the sermon with the same old lawking, coughing, snuffling and glove-smacking for as we go now.

I've often felt that being a preacher must be one of the toughest professions in modern society. He has enough problems to solve, anyone can take refuge in indifference, but he can't. He knows enough inside stuff to blast the parish wide open, but he has to keep mum.

Some of his parishioners get sore if he doesn't visit them regularly. Others turn out the lights and refuse to answer the door when they see him coming. Still others lurks him in, which is probably the worst fate of all.

He can sit down and wait until the television show is over. Or he can drink a gallon of tea with some old grid who's only too willing to get the knife into him the minute he leaves. Or he can sit by the bedside of some old reprobate who hasn't been out in church for 50 years, but is thinking better of it to the pearly gates loom.

People want their parson to be a leader in the community, but, if he expresses a firm opinion on anything outside the doors of the church he is a professional troublemaker or an interfering busybody, and "He'd better remember where his money comes from."

For a salary a little above that of a laborer he is expected to be a public relations expert, physiotrist, big brother, visiting nurse, youth leader and building inspector on week days, and Thunder Against on Sundays. "Tut, but he gets a free house," how! his parishioners. The free house is usually a vast, drafty barn, which the minister has half enough furniture to fill and half enough furnace to heat.

There are a lot of dunderheads, crashing bores and outright incompetents in the ranks of the clergy. But, on the whole, they are men with a high purpose in life, harmonized and frustrated by the thorny perversities of human nature among their flocks. Most, in their modest way, are heroes and I salute them, if not with reverent awe, at least with a hearty respect.

PROCEEDING POOR HAY IMPROVES FEED VALUE!

Left with a lot of poor quality hay? Before feeding it in its present form this winter, give some thought to chopping, grinding, or pelleting it. This technique paid off in tests at a muskie experimental farm of the Dept. of Ag. Steer calves ate more of the poor quality hay and got more out of it. Actually, calves fed just the baled hay lost weight.

Poor quality hay used in a feeding trial at the McGill, Sask. Experimental Farm contained only 6.6 per cent crude protein, reports staffer Dr. H. E. Bowman. It was first-cut hay and containing stubble from the previous crop. The hay was fed over an 8-week period in long (baled), chopped, ground and pelleted form to four groups of steers, each containing six animals. The results:

Calves fed long hay consumed an average of 6.5 pounds each daily and lost an average of 0.14 pound of body weight per head daily.

With chopped hay, consumption was 7.1 pounds per head and gains 0.22 pound per head daily.

A third group ate an average of 10.2 pounds of ground hay daily and chalked up gains of 1 pound a day.

Consumption of pelleted hay by a fourth group crept up to 11 pounds daily and average gains of 1.3 pounds per day were recorded.

When ground or pelleted, the hay was handier to digest. This was more than offset by increased consumption which allowed the calves to gain a pound or more daily.

Dr. Bowman ran a second trial in which good quality hay of 17.5 per cent protein was fed. Calves in all groups gained on this feed, ranging from 1.33 pounds per day on the long hay to 2 pounds per head daily on pelleted hay. Pounds of feed consumed per head daily ranged from 10.4 to 12.7.

In both trials, steers fed the pelleted hay required a week to 10 days before they would accept feed readily.

CUBANS RESPECT U. S. POLICY MORE THAN CANADA'S

Many Cubans are far more impressed by the tough line taken by the U. S. against their country than by Canada's policy of trade with Cuba, Ralph Allen writes in the current Maclean's. Allen was in Cuba three weeks before President Kennedy announced the U. S. blockade of the island. "The average Cuban just does not hate the Yanquis" Allen writes. In Washington he talked to Jose Miro Cardona, former chairman of Castro but now head of the Cuban Revolutionary Council. "The Americans are the Phoenicians of America", Cardona said. "Their ships and their cargoes go where there is business to be done."

Allen reports that trade officials in both the U. S. and Cuba are convinced that Canada's trade with Cuba, even after Kennedy's announcement of the missile bases on the island, "will turn out to be a very bad business for us indeed." U. S. businessmen, he writes, have already threatended unofficial boycotts of Canadian goods in the U. S. market. "But for many Canadians in these last weeks the issue has been one not of economics but of conscience," Allen says. "In the Diefenbaker home, whose aide are we on?"

Ken Lefolii, editor, says "To suspend trade with Cuba now that we know the Cubans are pointing missiles at us is simple horse sense that will be doubly useful if it stands as a reminder that for Canada neutrality is a dangerous fiction. Canada is not a neutral nation and the fast buck is not the highest goal of Canadian policy."

CHOPSTICK TREAT. Prime Minister John Diefenbaker took to chopsticks like an Oriental master at a luncheon in Toronto's Chinatown. Good news for 30,000 Chinese Canadian citizens, he announced that investigation into smuggling of Chinese immigrants into the country is being

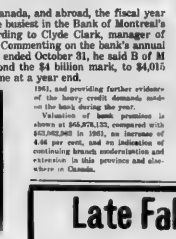
B of M Has Busiest Year

Coast to coast in Canada, and abroad, the fiscal year just ended has been the busiest in the Bank of Montreal's 145-year history, according to Clyde Clark, manager of the Sedgewick branch. Commenting on the bank's annual statement for the year ended October 31, he said B of M resources climbed beyond the $4 billion mark, to $4,015 million, for the first time at a year end.



Clyde Clark, Manager
Bank of Montreal

Loans of all kinds, to individuals, businesses and municipalities, set a new record at $2,360 million, 17.33 per cent above the 1961 figure, and deposits reached a new peak of $3,718 million, the manager said. The deposits figure includes $1,834 million of Canadians' personal savings, also a new high.

Earnings Up

The bank's earnings set a new record, too, the manager reported. Net profit for the year was $16,013,512 for operations of the local branch & more than 300 other offices at home and abroad. However, this amount was earned only after payment of income taxes of $18,253,442, 14.6 per cent more than the net earnings.

22,000 Shareholders

The B of M's 22,000 shareholders are being paid dividends totaling $2.10 per share, for a total of $12,757,500, or $5,500,942 less than the tax bill.

The B of M manager said quickly available resources are $1,820 million, or 47.35 per cent of the bank's public liabilities of $3,903 million, compared with $4.56 per cent in 1961, and providing further evidence of the heavy credit demands made on the bank during the year.

Valuation of bank premises is shown at $66,976,133, compared with $63,982,983 in 1961, an increase of 4.66 per cent, and an indication of continuing branch modernization and extension in this province and elsewhere in Canada.

F.U.A. Newsletter

The Hon. Alvin Hamilton, Federal Minister of Agriculture, will address the annual convention of the FUA in the Macdonald Hotel in Edmonton, on Monday evening, Dec. 10th.

After the delegates to the annual convention of the FUA have decided on Tuesday morning, Dec. 11th, two or three of the main problems which face Albert farmers today, a panel discussion about these problems will be held in the afternoon. Members of the panel will be Dr. Eric Hanson, Political Economist, U. of A., Dr. H. Lester, Sociologist, U. of A., Dr. A. D. McTavish, president of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, Dr. T. W. Manning, Agricultural Economist, U. of A., Ed Nelson, president of the FUA, W. H. Drummond, Federal Dept. of Ag., Ottawa, and R.M. Putman, Deputy Minister Dept. of Ag. The panel will be chaired by Dr. Grant Davey, political scientist U. of A. in Edmonton.

On Wed. Dec. 12th, a panel discussion about public ownership of electric power corporation will be held at the annual convention of the FUA. The discussion will take place in the afternoon. Members of the panel will be F. T. Gale, general manager of Calgary Power, and Henry Young, member of the executive of the Farmers' Union of Alberta. Chairman is to be Ed Nelson.

In speaking to the annual meeting of the Alberta Assn. of Municipal Districts and Counties, Mr. Ed Nelson, president of the FUA, made the suggestion that the whole question of taxation is important enough to warrant a special effort being made to have people at the local level study this. Mr. Nelson called the Councillors to help the FUA prepare such a program and to take an active part when these studies are being made locally.

The convention of the FWUA will be held during the week of Dec. 10 to 14. The women will meet jointly with the FUA on Mon. Dec. 10, but will conduct separate sessions Tues. through Friday.

The Homemaker

It's time to get out the sweaters you have stowed away if you are going to buy some new ones, here are a few pointers. Wool sweaters may be labelled "worsted" or "woolen". Worsted yarns are tightly twisted and give a smooth finish. Sweaters of worsted yarns are firm, strong and resistant to pilling, which is the formation of tiny balls on the surface. They are a good choice for the men's work sweaters or for children.

A "sayhry" yarn is a type of worsted yarn. It is spun from very fine wool and gives a soft, fine knit.

Woolen yarns are made from short fibres and are not tightly twisted. This makes a sweater soft and lightweight. But they tend to pill and are not as durable as worsted knits. A sweater labelled "Shetland" wool means that the wool came from the Shetland Islands. This is a soft, and lightweight wool.

Cashmere is a very soft, and silky yarn made from the fleece of cashmere goats. This is imported and supply is limited. Cashmere is often blended with other fibres to give more durability and lower cost. Angora rabbit hair is used in sweaters, often as a blend with wool or nylon.

A full fashioned sweater is one that is knit to shape, rather than cut to shape. This leaves marks along the armhole seam where stitches have been decreased. The more expensive sweaters are full-fashioned. Often stitches are put in along the arm seam to imitate a full-fashioned sweater. A type of knitting commonly used is ribbed interlock. Both sides of the fabric appear similar.

Necklines may be finished either with a single or double thickness of ribbing. A double-looped neckline can lose stretch but keeps its shape better. This is an advantage in nylon or cashmere sweaters that are soft and tend to lose shape.

The front band should be faced with a ribbon or knitted band. This should be wider than the buttonholes so they do not tear. The buttonhole stitches should be close together and deep enough so they do not pull out. Buttons and buttonholes should be evenly spaced so the sweater does not gap or pull.

Alberta Junior Citizen Award Winner

LINDA BOCHEK

Strathmore, Alberta

Imagine you have complete charge of a household. You're cooking, cleaning, washing and ironing and keeping a big household garden. You're getting your brother, your father and yourself off to school and work each morning . . . and you're only thirteen years old! This is what our award winner Linda Bochek did this year, while her mother was sick in the hospital for two months.

Yet during this time Linda was also taking her first year of music lessons and she advanced so quickly that she passed her Grade Four Royal Conservatory examinations with honors.

She also found time to win first prize in an art contest. And not to ignore her sports activities Linda took part in the annual school track meet and passed her Red Cross Senior swimming test.

Now you'd think with all these activities and responsibilities something would suffer — but not so! She achieved outstanding scholastic success too, passing Grade Seven at Samuel Crowther School with honors in every subject.

We join with editors of Alberta's weekly newspapers in congratulating this girl and her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. Bochek, on her outstanding achievements under adverse conditions — truly a "Junior Citizen of the Year."

This is one of six announcements about the 1962-1963 Junior Citizen Award sponsored. Calgary Power Ltd. gratefully acknowledge the active participation of Alberta's weekly newspaper editors, whose enthusiasm has done so much to make the Alberta Junior Citizen program possible. For this winner our special thanks go to Mr. K. Q. Bergh, Editor of the Strathmore Standard and to Mrs. Mary Mercer of Strathmore who nominated Linda for the award.

United Nations Youth Pilgrimage

An all-expense paid educational tour to the United Nations sponsored by the Odd Fellows and Rebekah Lodges of Alberta is being planned for next June 30th with nine high school students from Alberta travelling by Greyhound bus from Alberta to the United Nations, along with students from other provinces and across the U. S. States. The tour will pass through many American States and cities on way to and from, through Canadian Provinces and cities the other way. At New York the tour will see the workings of the United Nations, sit in on any meetings or committees in session at that time built as Trusteeship Council, U.N.I. C.E.F., etc., meet delegates from the other countries. This will be the experience of a lifetime for the successful contestants.

Students must be at least 16 years of age and have not reached 18 by August 1st, 1963 and must have one more year in high school. Applicants to qualify, must stand high in character, be of above average ability, interested in community, church and school activities, as well as possess qualifications of co-operativeness and leadership. Successful contestants will be required to fulfil the necessary health and physical requirements.

How to participate: Compete in a local public speaking contest, speaking for ten minutes on one of the following topics: The Problem of Food and Population; the work of F.A.O.; 2. UNICEF; The U.N. Children's Fund (what it is and how it works); 3. Dag Hammerskjold, Soldier of Peace; 4. The Specialized Agencies (choose one), what has it done?; 5. Atomic "Pollion", what is it? What is the danger?; 6. The Colombo Plan and Canada's participation in it; How the U. N. Technical Assistance Program Co-operates with it.

Austin Arntzen Back From "Royal"

Austin Arntzen recently returned from attending the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, where he acted as showman for Sid Walker of Killam, and Art Link of Forestburg.

At this, his first visit to the Fair, Austin had the distinction of placing, with Mr. Walker's Jr. Yearling, second in its class, and with a Summer Yearling by the same breeder, placing fifth in its class. This, considering that the competition is Canada-wide, is surely indicative of top-flight showmanship, and Austin is to be congratulated for his achievement.

He also placed Art Link's Sr. Heifer Calf well up in its class. Asked as to his impressions of the Fair, he replied that "the scope of the Show was so tremendous that, I being so occupied with the animals we were exhibiting, could get but a worm's-eye look at it. But for sheer gigantic, the heavy draft teams really had it. Six perfectly matched teams to the team, and each horse well over a ton in weight; sure something to watch."

Austin did manage to slip away from his duties to see a game at the Gardens between the Leafs and the Canadiens.

Winter Arrived - Last Saturday

THAT WINTER LOOK. Canada's countryside changes with each season. In the spring Canadians delight in the lush yellow-green of new vegetation bursting from the soil, followed by the vibrant greens under the summer sun and the brilliant red and gold tints of autumn. Winter, too, offers the countryside a change of dress, coating the trees with the silver sparkle of ice and blanketing the fields with the fluff of white snow.

F.U.A. Newsletter

Mr. Ed Nelson, president of the FUA, attended the Federal-Provincial Agricultural Conference held in Ottawa on Nov. 26th. The conference is called annually by the Federal minister of agriculture and is attended by all provincial ministers and their deputies together with the prominent agricultural leaders. The purpose of the conference is to examine the possibilities for farm production and marketing during the forthcoming year, and to provide such advice and direction to farmers as may seem useful in planning their next year's program. The first of these conferences was called during World War 2 when food was urgently needed. Since that time it has been found helpful to co-ordinate the production efforts of farmers across Canada as much as is possible, and the conferences have continued from year to year for this purpose, and to assess marketing prospects.

The Hon. Alvin Hamilton expects an upward trend in personal income which should maintain a stronger demand for farm products. Figures from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show farmers realizing 27 million dollars less net income during 1962 than in 1961, though the physical output of Canadian agriculture increased by one third.

Butter storage is estimated to reach 287 million pounds at the beginning of 1963 compared with 197 million at the beginning of 1962. Milk production of 124 billion pounds is expected to be the same as 1961, although the number of milk cows has decreased. Mr. Hamilton doesn't think that present price support policies can be continued.

The minister estimates 470 million bushels of wheat will be sold, 50 million bushels on the domestic market and the balance for export. This would leave a carryover of 462 million bushels on July 31, 1963. Supply of durum wheat on hand is twice as large as the normal market needs. Barley stocks are also high. The carryover on July 31, 1963 is expected to be not more than 54 million bushels.

Meanwhile reported on their crop insurance plan and made a strong plea for re-insurance by the Federal Government. The National Farm Union and the Canadian Federation of Agriculture presented briefs, in one of the meetings the matter of feed grain supplies to Eastern Canada was discussed and the possibility of some changes in the marketing of these grains. Some new and interesting ideas were developed.

It is expected that a record number of delegates will attend the Annual Convention of the Farmers' Union of Alberta, which will be held on Dec. 10-14 at the Macdonald Hotel in Edmonton. In the past the FUA conventions have been the largest ones held by any organization in the province, and it appears that more delegates next month will appear at this year's affair than ever before.

LENNY BERG ELECTED FIRST VICE PRESIDENT

Hereford Club To Meet At Sedgewick In '63

Sedgewick was the unanimous choice of the members of the Northern Alberta Hereford Club for their 1963 annual meeting. The Club met in Tofield on November 28th, and accepted the invitation which had been tendered by the Sedgewick Board of Trade. Several members of the Board attended the meeting.

Lawrence Kallal of Tofield was elected as the new president, with Lennie Berg of Lougheed named as first vice-president. Mr. Berg was also returned as a member of the board of directors.

Jack Duggan of Ft. Saskatchewan, programmist, and new representative to the Alberta Hereford Association, in his report, said that more than one delegation to Canada had purchased 280 head of Hereford cattle. Mr. Duggan also stated that preparations are under way for the 1963 five-day Spring Show and Sale of purebred cattle. The Edmonton Exhibition Assn. is willing to make next year a Hereford feature year at the Exhibition.

Reports were given by H. Paul for the A.H.A., and J. Duggan for the Cattle Committee. Other officers elected were, Oscar Petersen of Marwayne as 2nd vice president; Fernand Bel of St. Paul, as secretary director.

Judges for the Hereford Show in Edmonton, were chosen. Tom Scott of Nisga, Man. will be the stock judge, and George Bintz of Sherwin, Wyoming will judge the spring bull show and Futurity show. Stu Fenton of Irma will judge the Hereford Show at the Exhibition.

A Hospitality Hour and banquet preceded the meeting at which time Mr. Jack Stothart of the Lacombe Experimental Farm was the guest speaker.

The ladies also held a meeting to consider forming a Ladies' Auxiliary. Mrs. Duggan, Tofield was organizational chairman. Mrs. Duggan was chosen as president, with Mrs. Adby as secretary. A name for the group will be chosen at a meeting in Edmonton on December 13th. The main activities of the group will be social.

IT COULD BE A RURAL PROBLEM!

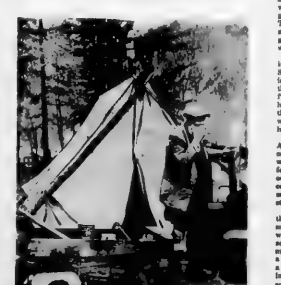
The veil of gloom that hangs over many people when the subject of nuclear warfare comes up for discussion, was somewhat removed recently when a speaker stated that if such a thing should come to pass, many people will be killed, "but many more will survive." His opinion coincided with mine, for I have never been able to go along with the theory that a nuclear war would end it all for the whole population as some will have us believe. There will be survivers, many of them. The speaker said also that so much attention is being paid to non-survival that he wonders if enough is being paid to the question of feeding all those who remain. Well he may present such a problem, and we in the rural areas might well conaider his statement, for in the case of such an outbreak it will become the responsibility of rural areas to undertake such a mission. It has been said, and I presume rightly so, that a five megaton bomb would disable the city of Edmonton. If so, then there is no point in using one of larger capacity on such a target. But such bomb explosion would not be disastrous to many outlying communities, and those who were able to escape the city would become the responsibility ofthose areas. They will have to be fed.

It invariably happens that whenever anyone attempts to write about the weather conditions he takes the risk that before it gets into print the elements will make a liar of him. However it is safe to comment on what has passed as that cannot be taken away or altered. Up to now, that is November 30th. Up to that time this has been an almost ideal fall. Just enough crispness in the air to make you aware that you're alive, and just warm enough to make you glad you are. Produce of field and garden have long since been gathered in and safely stored in bin and cellar; road work for the year is nearing completion; storm windows are in place, and all is ready for winter to spread its white mantel over the landscape. The open fall has been especially beneficial to the stockmen who find themselves with ample supplies of feed as yet relatively untouched. Yes, it's been a nice fall, and when winter sets in we'll be ready for it — well, as ready as we ever are.

Postscript — You see what I mean? The above was put into type on Nov. 30, and Dec. 1 brings six inches of snow.

PEOPLE WE CAN DO WITHOUT!

Drivers who tailgate at any speed but particularly at 60 mph on a highway — refuse to signal before they turn — signal a turn after they've started it — drive astraddle of the white line — take up both lanes while waiting to turn — turn left from a right-hand lane or right from a left-hand lne — screech their tires on a take-off or turn — refuse to fasten the seat belts in my car — drive with parking light on when lights are called for.



FREEDOMITE CAMPSITE. More than 1,000 Freedomite Doukhobors have been living for the last two months in make-shift homes such as above at Hope, B.C. Trekkers are waiting court settlement on legality of their entry into Agassiz Mountain prison area. Worst shortage at camp is not food—but empty oil cans to make chimneys over the tents.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Had an interesting day in the city on Saturday. Met an old friend that I hadn't seen in years, took a long look at a lady with no clothes on and was mistaken for a wealthy executive by several waiters, a cab driver and an art dealer.

It all come about because of my new winter outfit. In the clothes department, I had been Canada's best bedded against fashion. Ever since the end of World War 2, I had been waiting for the day most of man's clothing is to drop back to a sensible level, so that I could buy an overcoat.

Not that I haven't had an overcoat in all these years. I've had several, each of them looking like something the Salvation Army had refused to accept.

When I come home from overseas in '45 I had an overcoat, and my old air force trenchcoat was held together by safipaper and a few discreet safety pins. One guy it fell apart literally. A large lady who had been sitting beside me on a streetcar got up and walked away with half my coat dangling from her purse which caught in one one of the rents.

My landady of the day came to the rescue. A widow, she possessed me with the late husband's 1925 model overcoat. A six-footer, he had filled it out nicely with his 220 pounds. A five-sighter, weighing in at a solid 127, I had room for a small family in there with me. But it was a warm overture, so I wore it, looking as though very day was Hallowe'en. That's one was swiped at a New Year's Eve party. It's the only one that ever gave me the happened to me at one of those affairs. Anyway, a few days later, I met an old flying pal who had given shit alcoholic and had two overcoats. I got his second-best for $9.95. It lasted for a couple of years until we got a pup.

After the beast hitchhem thoroughly lambed, and had ruined every old blanket in the house during the process, I let him sleep on my overcoat, just for one night, until we rounded some more bedding for him. Apparently nobody had told him that he was thoroughly trained.

My last coat was given to me by an uncle. It just looked like somebody's cousin's overcoat, and I just looked like somebody's uncle in it.

The other day, sick of looking seedy, I hauled down the flag of resistance and hied me to a gent's emporium. It didn't take long to discover that those sombre rags known as men's overcoats are about three times as much as they were in 1945.

However, I plunged. The weeta. Imported, latest style, British tailoring. The price staggered me, but the modesty of my down payment rather staggered the clerk. Then, as some mad whim, I picked up a hat, an item I've never owned, and charged it on. I looked in the mirror. Don't ever tell me again that clothes don't make the man. The baggy-kneed teacher had been replaced by a baggy-eyed executive. The down-at-heels columnist had given way to a well-heeled stockbroker. The only giveaway was below the knees. There were the same old shapeless shoes, with the broken laces that is granny knots. Otherwise, a veritable whiskey ad model.

And that's how I came to be standing in this art gallery in the city on Saturday, gazing at this nude painting. Judiciously. Backing a bit on the heels. Pursing the mouth thought fully. Squinting ca-refully with the head cocked to one side. I figured that was what a man of distinction would be doing while he waited for his wife.

The waiters hovered discreetly. Asked him how much it was. He said seven-fifty. Told him I'd take it. He wanted to know if I'd like a cheque form. Told him I'd pay cash. Pulled out a ten-spot. Still discreetly discovered that he meant seven hundred and fifty smithst my wife was that standing in front of that picture.

I was still trying to convince her that I was interested only in the remarkable tone of the painting when we ran into old John Meinel. Hadn't seen him since the days when the mob used to arrive at our place with a case of soda, a bottle, a guitar and a number of ridiculous but refreshing ideas. He's a university professor now.

What did we talk about? Old times? Our teaching jobs? World affairs? The new book he's written? Nope. He has squirrels in his attic too, and we spent a happy and profitless two-hour lunch discussing means of eliminating the little brutes without being cruel.

An interesting day. And all because I bought some new winter outerwear. It's the first time my wife has let me go to the city in the winter for four years.

GREEN ACRES

COWS NEED VITAMIN "A" FOR CALVING!

A deficiency of vitamin A in beef cows can result in losses at calving time. But feeding the dam a vitamin supplement two months before calving time can prevent such losses.

Beef cows require a daily intake of 30,000 international units of vitamin A per 100 pounds of body weight. They obtain it from good forage in the form of carotene, which they are able to store in their bodies for use as needed. However, attention must be paid to the condition of the forage. Dried-out pastures and hay that was badly weathered when cutting contain little carotene. In such cases vitamin A supplement is needed. The amount required depends on the condition of the forage.

In tests at Canada Department of Agriculture's research station at Kamloops, B. C., a stabilized, synthetic vitamin A concentrate containing 10,000 international units per gram was used with iodized salt and steamed bone meal. The result: symptoms of vitamin A deficiency were eliminated. The amounts used in the mixture were: six pounds of vitamin A concentrate, 25 pounds of bone meal and 69 pounds of salt.

Just how much concentrate to use is determined by the amount of the mixture consumed by the herd. At Kamloops the animals ate about two pounds each per month, giving them approximately one-half of the vitamin A requirements. The remainder apparently was provided by carotene stored in their bodies and in the feed.

The Letter Box

Sedgewick, Alberta.

Dear Sir:

I would very much like to express on behalf of our Association, our thanks to the people of Sedgewick for the opportunity to present our programmes at the meeting of the Home and School Assn. on Wednesday last. Mr. Burgess and I were minerally pleased to be able to spread news of our Assn. & what is being done for retarded children in the district. It was also a great personal pleasure to us to receive such a warm and friendly welcome and to have the chance to enjoy meeting members on an individual level after our formal presentation. We were most impressed with the way the members remained until long after the adjournment for friendly discussion.

In expressing our thanks Mr. Editor, we should also record a debt of gratitude to the Community Press, for it was your kindly treatment on the front page of your November 5th issue that brought about this engagement. I would also like to express my own appreciation of the cordial reception I received in your office when I visited you on November 3rd. Please believe me that such co-operation is very heartening and it makes this voluntary work, spoken of, as it is between other items on a full schedule, so much easier.

Once again, sir, our thanks to yourself and to the good people of Sedgewick. -- Yours sincerely, John Gray, Public Relations Officer, Camrose and District Association for Retarded Children.

"Tides in the WEST"
A WHEAT POOL STORY

If he was a pioneer, he'll relive all the trials and tribulations of growing and marketing grain in the early days. And he'll feel once more that sense of pride and achievement gained when he and his neighbors joined together to build the Alberta Wheat Pool.

If he is a younger man, he'll still want to read of the events and circumstances leading up to the pioneer farmers' decision to organize their own marketing organization and the achievements of this farm co-operative on behalf of farmers over the past four decades.

LINDA HERON

Elnorlo, Alberta

At a recent Downtown Kiwanis Club luncheon in Calgary, the guest speaker announced special notice. She was only fourteen years old!

A popular student at the Okotoks school she won awards in Mathematics and Language and honorable mention in Literature and Science.

The poem she wrote won a place in the school your book and a story she submitted received high commendation.

Linda entered the 4-H Public Speaking contest for Southern Alberta where she won first prize over eleven other contestants,one of whom was a second-year University student.

A neighbor of Linda's, Mr. David Lewis, had a serious accident this spring. Public spirited Linda trimmed, sheared and took charge of his large flock of sheep. Later she showed them in the annual Sheep Show at the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede.

Before and after school each day Linda helped at home by milking seventeen cows. This past summer she helped to bale 200 tons of hay for her father and a neighbor.

We, and the editors of Alberta's weekly newspapers congratulate Linda on her well deserved Junior Citizen of the Year award

This is one of six announcements about the 1962-1963 Junior Citizen Award winners. Calgary Power Ltd. gratefully acknowledge the active participation of Alberta's weekly newspaper editors, whose enthusiasm has done so much to make the Alberta Junior Citizen program possible. For this winner our special thanks go to Mr. C. A. Clark, Editor of the High River Times and to Mrs. R. S. Sears of Okotoks who nominated Linda for the award.

The Bible Today

Canada and much of the world has been awakened to needs in Hong Kong. The population has jumped since the last war from 600,000 to over 3,000,000. Overcrowded conditions are everywhere. There is great need, not the least is the supplying of the Word of Life. Scriptures are liberally distributed to the poor; free copies in eight languages are presented to libraries for study and tests, and grants of Bibles are made to the Leprosariums. To those who are blind, Scriptures are made avail able in the Braille.

Mr. Ko Chung Wo, in charge of the Sales Depot for the Bible Society in downtown Hong Kong is reported as doing "an excellent job getting the Scriptures to the people".

To Kenya Bible for those in Hong Kong and China has been printed in a simplified form, in order that the Word of God might reach a wider constituency. Often called "the Bread of Life", the Scriptures are bringing Spiritual nourishment to multitudes in Hong Kong and thro' South East Asia in many languages.

KILLAM LEGION TURKEY BINGO ON MON. DEC. 10, 8:30 P.M.

Canadians Must Meet Challenges

In today's fast changing world, Canadians must meet new challenges with new receptivity to new ideas, according to R. E. president of the Bank of Montreal, G. Arnold Hart. Mr. Hart told the bank's 145th annual meeting today that the period of tough trade bargaining ahead will offer new opportunities in terms of broader markets. "And in the vigorous pursuit of opportunities which new and growing markets will provide, lies the great challenge to Canadian adaptability," he added. Shareholders also heard R. B. Mulholland, vice-president and general manager, report a record year's business up to October 31... It was a year of intense competition for deposits among all financial institutions, with the chartered banks operating under conditions of monetary restraint for a large part of the time... Mr. Hart said that although there were weak spots and despite the mid-year foreign exchange crisis, in general, the level of economic activity in Canada has been high and rising, so that, on the whole, this has been a year of progress and it now seems certain that total output in 1962 will reach a record high.

Speaking out in favor of a stable exchange rate, in the interests of orderly business conditions, Mr. Hart said an atmosphere conducive to an inflow of capital from abroad has now been re-established. However, while Canada is thus financing its current international deficit, when we have and succeeded in doing so yet is to eliminate or even to reduce materially the deficit itself.

To do so the B of M president advocated qual action to expand trade and at the same time to provide a better growth at home. "We must develop a new adaptability, facing a period calling for hard thinking & the closest co-operation between government, labor and business.

Semeniuk - Johnson Wedding Held At Edmonton Church

The Strathcona United Church in Edmonton was the scene of a lovely wedding recently when Wendy Lorraine, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Johnson of Lougheed exchanged marriage vows with Harry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Semeniuk of Smoky Lake. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harvey. The church was decorated with red and white mums.

Entering the church on the arm of Jack Jones, the bride looked lovely in a floor-length gown of nylon over satin with a shoulder length veil. She carried a bouquet of stanoda red and white roses. Her only jewellery was a single colored pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Anna Sorgenist, and the bridesmaids, Karen and Mary Johnson, sisters of the bride. They were identical dresses of blue, yellow and pink nylon with matching headpieces, and carried nosegays of carnations.

The little flower girl, Diane Forsal, cousin of the bride, wore a rose nylon dress. The ring-bearer was Daniel Chaiki' groom's cousin. Attending the groom was his brother Alex. Ushers were Richard Dugger, nephew of the groom, and Peter Semeniuk, cousin of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Old Timers' Cabin for 200 guests. The bride's table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake. Mary Johnson was in charge of the guest book. Mr. Alex Chiaiak, uncle of the groom, was Master. Rosy cakes, cut-out and boiled proposed the toast to the bride.

F.U.A. Newsletter

For years and years the Farmers' Union of Alberta at its annual convention has passed a resolution asking for the establishment of a Veterinary College in Alberta. The U. F.A. saw the growing need for such a college as a population explosion in livelihood industry developed. Yet after year the Provincial Government turned this request down. Now there is a shortage of Veterinarians in this province. Canada has only one Vet College, at Guelph, Ont., and it can accomodate only a few students from Western Canada. Even the U. S. offers no possibilities for Canadians as their colleges are already over crowded. In a meeting held on Nov. 29th in Edmonton, attended by representatives of about every organization connected with agriculture in this province, another resolution was passed unanimously.

This resolution will be sent to the Provincial Gov., the U. of A., members of the Legislature and members of Parliament.

The National Farmers' Union has presented a memorandum to the House of Grain Commissioners on the subject of grain overages. These overages represent an amount of grain for which farmers receive no payment. The elevator companies, however get paid for this grain, even though it rightfully belongs to the farmers. The quantities of grain so involved vary considerably from year to year, but they always constitute large amounts. For example, the overages for wheat in the crop year 1957-58 were 1,573,562 bus; and in 1960-61, 1,737,514. Grain overage accumulations can occur only to grain passes through the country elevator. An examination of the last five annual reports of the Board of Grain Commissioners indicates that about 70 percent of the country elevators checked by the Board reported overages. The National Farmers' Union recommended to the Board that:

Names of elevator occupation and quantities of overages or shortages recorded by weigh-over at both the country and terminal elevators be recorded at the annual reports of the Board of Grain Commissioners; that the Canada Grain Act be amended to provide that overages of country and terminal elevators become the property of the Canadian Wheat Board; that Hearings by the Board of Grain Commissioners of country elevator agents found to have excessively high overages be open to the public.

Sedgewick W. I.

Party games, the sending and wearing of paper hats, and Christmas carols, were all enjoyed by Sedgewick W. I. members after their annual meeting on Wednesday. Mrs. Weber, Mrs. Upshall and Mrs. T. H. Smith prepared a lovely supper which included a Christmas cake, eaten by candlelight.

All members attending the meeting brought a box of home-made candy, and some of this is being sent to Flagstaff Lodge. Roll call was answered by members talking of the Christmas customs in other lands.

Annual reports were read, and a letter from Mrs. Edwards, who is enjoying life in Pullman, Wash.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Jangled nerves, Jangled nerves,
Jangled all the way,
Through the muddled madness
Preceding Christmas Day.

If people tried to go at the same clip during the rest of the year as they do in the few weeks before Christmas, the world would soon be populated by a race of wildeyed, twitching maniacs. Even mental contentions attuned to an ear of guided missiles in the hands of misguided mortals couldn't stand that pace much longer.

Never mind, dears, we're in the home stretch. Only another few days of Christmas carols, concerts, carols and cranberries, Christmas pageants, puddings and parties, Christmas trees, turkeys and tinsel, and we can go backto being the realistic, selfish slobs we are the rest of the year.

Forbids, the pre-Christmas wingding is just dandy. There are letters to be written to St. Claus. There are Christmas concerts at which to be miraculously and temporarily transformed into small devils or would angels. There are plans to be laid, cluttered while we're decorating the tree. There are packages, rustling mysteriously, to be ripped open in drawer and closet.

For the elderly, too the Christmas season brings excitement. There is the sound of carols, to bring back memories of rich, good times in the past. There are lights and decorations to put a splash of color into the drab grey of the endless days. And there is a little extra warmth and humanity abroad, to make people pay more attention to the old folk, for a change.

But for everybody in the so-called prime of life, it seems that Christmas, or at least the ongoing of weeks before the big day, has become an orgy of shopping, mailing, cleaning, scrubbing and worrying that produces little but tension, tiredness and tears. Especially among the women. Pity isn't it?

Like most men, I'm about fed-to on Christmas. At times, I'm strongly in favor of the whole business, at others violently opposed. Knowing that it puts me in debt, every year, until about the following June, I'm pretty belligerent about it all about the first of December. I put my foot down. I state flatly that we are going to cut down on everything: cards, gifts, and especially "stuff for the kids." But by the week before Christmas I'm running around like the rest of the lunatics: grabbing scrappily trees, snatching tough turkeys, planning impossible parties, holding whispered conversations with the Old Girl and throwing money around like we had the newly elected presidents of a new African state.

One aspect of Christmas that I thoroughly enjoy is the sending and receiving of cards. It's the one time of year when I pay my head to old friends and relations. I dig up the addresses of old, best pilots in Australia, India and South Africa and send them cards which I triple my income, the accomplishments of my kids and my state of health. They do the same, the ba.s.

And when the cards come in, I read every one. For one thing, it's the only way I find out that my two brothers are alive, where they are, and how many children they have. Last I heard, one was in Europe, the other in the West Indies. Their wives send cards.

One first card this year was a puzzler. It was postmarked Belfast, Ireland, and addressed: Mr. and Mrs. Smylie, 780 Bay St., Ontario, Canada. There isn't no such place, but it arrived here. Inside, it read, "To Greta, Alex and family, from Kay and Dodd." We didn't know a soul on either end of the greeting, but it was a nice card. The address was there, so my wife will probably send them one next year, and we'll keep exchanging for years.

To balance out my pleasure in the cards is my homicidal hatred of the erection of the tree. This is one time of the year when my family sees the head of the house in his true colors. Or bears him, rather, if you can bear him, because I insist that the living room be cleared of women and children before I start. The axe is too handy. Then it is that there come back to me those fine, rolling, mouth filling, mind-jarring Celtic oaths my Dad used to use when he was down cellar fixing the furnace and thought my mother couldn't hear him.

ANNUAL FEEDERS DAY BULLETIN!

Were you unable to attend Alberta's 41st annual Feeders' Day? If so it will be worth your while to get a copy of the publication entitled "Feeders' Day - June 1962." This booklet describes livestock experiments of a practical nature which were carried out during the year at the U. of A. It also gives a summary of conclusions to be taken from each experiment. Among the 14 experiments recorded in this year's issue, are "The Effects of Feed Intake on the Response to Urea Supplementation of Fattening Lambs", "Roughage Pellets for Wintering Dairy Heifers", "Supplements of Lysine or a Tranquilizer for Growing and Fattening Pigs", and the "University of Alberta Beef Breeding Project". The bulletin "Feeders Day - June 2nd, 1962" may be obtained, free of charge, from our office in Sedgewick.

VET CALLS!

According to vital statistics nutritional factors account for approximately 10 percent of Veterinary calls, infectious diseases 20 percent and miscellaneous 50 percent.

In Swine, nutritional problems are responsible for 20 percent of calls, parasites 2 percent, infectious diseases 27 percent and miscellaneous factors 14 percent.

SHIPPING FEVER!

Do you know how to prevent shipping fever? Dr. J. P. Hart, Supervisor of Alberta's Vet Inspection Service says, "The key to preventing shipping fever is to reduce stress factors." Any type of travelling produces a stress factor which can trigger off a disease infection such as shipping fever. Thus the shorter the distance to market, the less chance of disease. Rough handling is also one of the common causes of shipping fever. Animals get over-excited and excited, abrupt changes of feed or overcrowding & exposure to cold or dampness are other stress factors that bring on this condition.

I think every stockman and dealer should read the bulletin entitled, "Shipping Fever" and refresh his memory on how disease may be prevented. A copy of this bulletin can be obtained from our office in Sedgewick or from the Agricultural Extension Service in Edmonton.

JUDITH WALTERS

Fulper Colony, Hutterite Brethoon at Lethbridge

Judith won her award for the unique contribution she made in the field of social integration. By word and deed she proved to members of her colony and to non-Hutterites, that it is possible to retain the traditional dress and customs that are integral to your religious beliefs, yet become a popular public school student.

In the Fall of 1961, Judith had to make a decision. Their colony school had to close. She had no alternative but to attend the large Kate Andrews Senior High School in Coaldale. Could Judith face these students fifteen miles from home — would they accept her in her traditional clothing? She was not worried about her school work for she had always been a good student. Judith with her quiet friendliness and understanding made a real place for herself at Kate Andrews. She modelled clothes she had made and acted as commentator at school fashion shows. She was the stenographer responsible for putting together the school year book. She sang in the school Glee Club. She passed her Grade 12 in one year and obtained a matriculation standing.

Judith has led the way for other members of her colony to continue their education in public schools. For her great contribution in the cause of social integration, we thank you Judith on behalf of all Albertans.

This is one of six announcements about the 1961-1962 Junior Citizen Award winners. Calgary Power Ltd. gratefully acknowledge the active participation of Alberta's weekly newspaper editors, whose enthusiasm has done so much to make the Alberta Junior Citizen program possible. For this winner our special thanks go to Mrs. W. Andersen of Lethbridge who nominated Judith for the award.

It was decided that Bob Johnson be invited to the next meeting to give his report on annual convention. Annual meeting will be held next month on Jonary 8th at Frita Crone's home.

If the Home Ec. can come it will be held during the last week in March. It was decided to hold the annual Christmas party in Rosyth hall on Sunday afternoon the 23rd at 2.00 p.m. A hot turkey dinner will be served at 2 p.m. with a program and Santa to follow. The raffle donated by Helene Buck, was won by Jeanette Crone. Somersities that were left from the bazaar were then auctioned off. Christmas gifts were exchanged. The next meeting will be at home of Paulette Manning. Lunch was served at the close.

Many Rosyth residents attended the whist drive on Friday evening, sponsored by the Strong Ladies. The first prize winners were Mr and Mrs Gus Johnson and Mr and Mrs Harmon Burpee.

A FEW HARDISTY FLAKES

Hello again! I don't usually get out a Postie Column this time of the year because it is the one time that I can honestly say I'm busy. I was prompted to say a few words due to some cases of magazine subscription r ckets being brought to my attention in the past two weeks.

There have been three of my patrons who have brought in letters from a magazine sub service, threatening legal action if payments were not made immediately on contract accounts. These patrons are all responsible people who have the best of paying records, and just what they have gotten themselves into, is way beyond my legal abilities. I realize that I am bound to be biased due to the fact that I handle magazine subs and do pick up a few nickles doing so, but at least you readers know where you can corner me if you have any trouble with subs. I am familiar with all the gimicks these high-pressure salesmen use, is working through college, hospital equipment donations, etc., but they have only one person's welfare at heart, and it most certainly isn't you, or the community, or the hospital.

I have been secretary of the Hardisty Legion for several years, so I can offer this first-hand information. The Legion sponsored this magazine hospital equipment deal several years ago, and true, we did get some fine out-patient equipment in this area which is still in degree located at Hardisty, Bayland and at Galahad. I would further advise that Prov. Command later issued orders that the Legion was not to enter into any further contracts with such schemes as it was felt that for the little material gain, more was lost through the fact that these agencies were actually using the Legion's name to get their foot in your coors. The same applies to this local hospital gimmick. They know that you may say no to an outright subscription approach, but a letter signed by local people on behalf of your hospital is a greater lever.

I am not advocating that you should not support your local hospital, but you can do that on a local level and in a more direct method, thereby knowing that your dollars are being used for the purpose for which they were donated. We seem to be able to raise money for a lot of less worthy projects.

In closing I would suggest that you people who did get hooked seek legal advice as to how to terminate your contract, and the sooner the better, for a payment now will keep the wolves away from your door only until the next payment is due.

Please call early and use the boxes in the lobby for 2¢ cards.

P. O. Putting Out Leaflets and Leaflet

The Post Office, as is usual at this time of year, is urging mailers to post their Christmas mail early, preferably before the deadlines which have been set. To assist patrons in this regard, at but the smallest Post Offices this week are distributing green and white leaflets which contain information on deadline dates and labels for mailing.

The leaflets point out that to ensure delivery before Christmas, letters and parcels for the U.S.A. and distant ports in Canada should be mailed before Dec. 8th, for other out of town points before Dec. 15 and for local delivery before December 17th.

Most mailers are aware that the Post Office can offer the best service on Christmas cards when these items are tied and mailed in bundles labelled for "local" or "out of town." The use of the tear out labels in the leaflet will assist mailers and the Post Office achieve this purpose.

Postal personnel hope that patrons will keep the leaflet, and use the labels on cards posted before the advertised deadlines.

SABIN ORAL POLIO VACCINE

On information received from the Department of Health in Edmonton, Sabin Polio Oral Vaccine will be available to the residents of Flagstaff District towards the end of January 1963. A second oral dose will be given about the middle of the following March with certain restrictions.

This vaccine will be available to all irrespective of age except those who have not completed an initial course of Salk Vaccine (three doses where Salk Vaccine is administered alone, or four doses where administered in the form of QUAD, as was given to most pre-school children). Those who have not completed their Salk Vaccine series should contact at the Health Unit where indicated, to have this done. As it is inadvisable to give the Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine without first having completed the initial Salk series, it will be necessary to postpone the chance of having received the initial serie of Salk. This, of course, does not apply to those persons who have attended our local health unit where a record of these shots are kept, and only applies to those who have recently moved into the area.

It should be remembered that Salk Vaccine and Sabin Vaccine complement one another, and having both gives the best possible protection against Poliomyelitis.

Further announcements will be made in the Community Press as to the time and date where Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine will be available.

WHAT TIME IS IT?

Not only is the glorious season of Christmas quickly approaching, time is running rapidly toward the end of another glorious year. Time! That fleeting thing so important to the regulation of a properly conducted life. Have we had time to consider what actually has happened to the resolve made so carefully and with such determination at the end of last year? We thought at that moment there was time for everything planned, but after due consideration are we too sure we had time for it all?

As we pursue the results, what is the answer? It is very important to apply ideas and vision with courage. While we sit and dream we will discover that time is the raw material of life. Every day unwraps itself like a gift, bringing opportunity to build a structure of health, pleasure and contentment, and to evolve into something better than we were at its beginning. Success is contingent upon our effective use of the time given us. Whether we succeed in making time for everything we wish to do, depends upon the urgency with which we tackle the job. It is fruitless, and joyless to complain that our days are short, if we act as though there would be no end of them.

The end of a year, like the end of a day,is not a time for melancholy brooding. The year has been long enough for all that was to be done in it. The flowers grew and bloomomed, the fruit filled out and ripened, wild creatures fulfilled in their allotted way, their destiny. Only man feels forlorn at the dying of a year, and jubilant because a new one brings him another chance to fulfill his hopes.

The gift of time brings no magic with it; it is only made available. We must study how to get the most out of the passing days. This learning is an individual thing, but there are some basic tools and ideas of management that can help us. Here are three undeniable facts: Time can be measured, therefore apportioned; Time is always passing and never returns; Time can be wasted, just as we waste materials, money and energy.

We may ask, what is time? To us as individuals time is the very essence of our being. To the clock it is a measured interval. Time is the most precious of all things to those who seek to do things, to enjoy life, to prepare today for better achievement tomorrow. We are now given longer individual time in which to improve and advance than our forefathers had. The expectancy of life has been lengthened by more than 20 years; the work week has been cut by one-third and we have gained up to forty years of time in which to do what we wish. Time is the asset that we cannot lightly afford to waste. Many of us waste time in dedicated trifles, in explaining why we have not yet gotten around to doing things, and in doing useless things. Do we have time to consider anything about ourselves? Have we time to think clearly; to say even a short prayer? Time to be neighborly. Leisure time means different things to different people. Time to do what we want to do; time free from work, time for recreation, time for self-improvement, time to be of service to others. It is sad when a person has no other idea than merely to spend time.

Time also means different things to us at different ages. Once in a while we "see backwards," nostalgia, as if time had re-built his ruins, and we renet to lost scenes, but to every part of life, its own peculiar period has been assigned. The high spirit of children, the strivings of youth and the stability of maturity are consistent with nature. Everyone should be enjoying his own time.

We have time for everything we wish to do, but we need to measure what we spend our time on in terms of value, in happiness and achievement. Time moves on with the deliberation of universal processes that can afford to be slow because it has eternity for completion. As for us, we awake in the morning and our purse is magically filled with twenty-four hours. We need to seek with all our personal means the best ways in which we may make the utmost of our allowance; to take time to think, and act with a determination of usefulness for the good of our age.

CHRISTMAS 1962!

Christmas Day this year falls on Tuesday, the middle of our publishing week, and in order that we too my enjoy the blessings of this season, we will suspend publication of the December 27th issue of the Community Press. The next issue will be on January 3rd, 1968.

May we then, at this time wish for each one everywhere a truly merry Christmas and a bright and happy New Year. This is the customary, stock wish at this time of the season, but we would add just a little, and wish for each one of you, the peace of mind that comes with contentment, the serenity that comes with righteousness and the joy that comes with service to others.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Wouldn't it be fun to have the power of Santa Claus for just a day and give everyone the gifts they really, truly wanted, regardless of cost, instead of the junk they get?

What would you do if you had just such a power thrust upon you suddenly? Would you hang your fewer-ite people with mink coats, Cadillacs, automatic dishwashers, new $80,000 homes? If you did, of course, the magic power wouldn't last, and on Christmas morning, all the fabulous presents would vanish, just after they'd been unwrapped. And you'd be no popular as socialist in the Senate.

Because, you see, those aren't the things that people really, truly want. And the Santa Claus magic would work for really, truly gifts, not just the things people send for the sake of vanity or prestige or comfort.

I know some of the presents I'd hand out. To childless couples who wanted children terribly, I'd give, on Christmas morning, not one, but 4 of the fattest, prettiest, pinkest, wettest babies you ever saw. Two boys and two girls. And to those things out, I'd throw in a large bottle of insecticide and a pair of airsick jackets.

To all children, I'd grant a set of parents who would answer all questions patiently, read stories every night at bedtime, go sliding on the hill with them, not make them eat anything they don't like, buy and like them when they were hurt, and whack the tar out of them when they needed it.

On Christmas morning, I'd present to all old people a clean-smelling apartment from all their aches, pains & ailments. I'd give them a good appetite and a new set of new choppers to go with it. I'd give them love and kisses in large measure from a veritable host of grandchildren. And for a throw in a round-trip ticket to Miami, paid-in-advance reservations at a good hotel there, and a sizable cheque to let them play the races, get married again, or do whatever else they wanted to do.

To all clergymen, whatever the color of their cloth, I'd give a special present. They'd get a church packed to the doors with people who sang lustily, listened attentively, prayed humbly, gave bountifully & continued to do these unusual things throughout the following year.

All mothers of large families would get something they really and truly wanted for Christmas. I'd give them families who appreciated all the work they did, praised their cooking, told them once in a while that they looked pretty, wiped their feet when they came in, did the dishes frequently, and paid attention to them on other occasions than Mother's Day. And I'd throw in the service of a cracking good housekeeper, and pay her salary for a year.

On Christmas Eve, I'd give all the merchants a cash register stuffed with money, and, at the same time, an irresistible urge to go out and spend the bundle on retarded children or unwed mothers or somebody.

What would I leave under the Christmas tree for the farmer? You guessed it. I'd grant them a whole year of exactly the kind of weather they wanted, regardless of the comfort or convenience of the rest of us. Of course, I'd have to find them something else to bellyache about, but they could probably fall back to the complaint that those tremendous crops were taking a lot out of the land.

All amateur golfers would be donated one season in which they alicall met one did they hook, but blooped everyone down the centre. And anglers would be given one year in which they were so smart as the fish. All weekly editors would be given one week in which there were no mistakes in the paper. All teachers would b given a free 10 days in a sanitorium at Christmas.

All wives would be given one year's absence from the boring, insensitive, callous, inattentive cretins they are married to. And all husbands would receive similar paroie from the nagging, complain i n g, spendthrift, over-bowling harridans they married. Serve them both right.

GREEN ACRES

(By M. P. Wide, D. A.)

YOUR STORED GRAIN SHOULD BE WATCHED!

Did you harvest any dump or any rough grain this fall? The mild weather we have had during the past two months has not cooled stored grain sufficiently in many cases. Regular inspection is necessary especially with the mild weather continuing. Farmers who have rough or damp grain in storage are faced with two problems, according to R. J. Mather, Asst. Director of Live Stock Extension Service. (1) To prevent excessive heating and (2) to prevent insect outbreaks and damage.

Under conditions existing this fall, grain of high moisture content can go "out of condition" very rapidly. Now is the time to make a careful inspection of your stored grain in order to detect signs of heating and spoilage. If insects are found, fumigation with "Dowfume ES— or "Setafume" applied atthe rate of 20 to 30 gallons of chemical to 1000 bushels of grain, is recommended.

It should be remembered that moving grain from one bin to another when air temperatures and humidity are high will do little to reduce its moisture content. Once cool weather arrives, however, tough grain that is cleaned, moved and aerated may remain in good condition throughout the winter. Protect your investment. Examine your stored grain regularly (at least very 2 weeks). It will save you dollars.

A WARNING!

Several carloads of grain contaminated with kernels treated with an organic mercury compound have been discover during the past few months. Severe penalties up to $2000 are provided under the Canada Grain Act for delivery to country elevators of grain contaminated with treated kernels, and the chairman of the Board of Grain Commissioners has indicated even stronger measures may be instituted. Under no circumstances, therefore, should a farmer allow even a few kernels of treated seed-grain to become mixed with the grain he delivers to the elevator.

SEDGEWICK HOME & SCHOOL

The Sedgewick Home and School Assn. on Nov. 28th enjoyed a very enlightening evening with an interesting discussion and film on Retardation of Children. According to the statistics 3 percent of all children are afflicted with this misfortune. Even the most intelligent of families can be stricken. Our hearts go out to Mr. Bob Burgess and his associates for the important work they are doing. It is good to know that if any of us were to have a retarded child we would be able to avail ourselves of the services a fa school close by.

Following this the business for the month, including the minutes, treasurer's report and installation of the banner system for grades one to nine, took place. Mrs. Galitsky's class has the honors until next meeting.

Out of ten for the whole district, two top-honor students for grade 9, Diana Fast and Orrol Taylor, were presented with cheques from the Killam School Division by Mr. Grant.

Mrs. Upshall gave a brief report on the Camrose Regional Conference which she and president Fast attended. The evening closed with lunch & more informal discussion with Mr. Burgess and Mr. Grey. The next meeting will be on January 30th, watch for coming announcements.

The Bible Today

A display of religious art under the topic "Visual Worship," replaced a banner project recently in First St. Andrews Church, London, Ont. Presented by the United Church Women this exhibit showed works of Toronto and London artists as well as a large display of historic and old family Bibles.

The religous are included sculpture, wood carvings, paintings, Stained glass and netting. Dried fruits and flowers illustrated Christian symbols and feasts.

One of the impressive features was a display of Bibles. A Latin vulgate edition printed in 1477 was exhibited together with a first edition copy of the Authorized King James version printed in 1611.

THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS SUPPLEMENT

Volume 53 SEDGEWICK, Alberta, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 20TH, 1962 Number 38

"AND, LO, THE STAR, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young Child was. When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy." (Matthew 2:9-10)

"AND THERE WERE IN THE SAME COUNTRY shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, fear not, for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people." (Luke 2:8-10)

"FOR UNTO YOU is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; ye shall find the Babe wrapped in swadding clothes, lying in a manger." (Luke 2:11-12)

DOWRIES FILLED EARLY STOCKINGS

St. Nicholas, the early bishop who was the first Santa Claus, is also credited with originating the custom of hanging up Christmas stockings. According to legend, he wished to provide dowries for the three daughters of a bankrupt merchant. Since he wanted the gifts to be anonymous, he tossed bags of gold down the merchant's chimney. Accidentally, the gold fell into stockings the girls had hung by the fireplace to dry.

Pretzel handicap is that, though St. Nicholas lived in the fourth century, stockings weren't made with feet until the 11th century — but the Christmas stocking story is still a happy legend.

STAR HUNTING

As they go from house to house at Christmas, modern carol singers may be eluding the rays of an electric lantern or a flashlight. This reflects an old custom known as Star singing. Early carolers in Europe used to make their rounds carrying a large, lighted star, representing the Star of Bethlehem. Later the star was replaced by lanterns and torches.

RHINE TREATS

Spanish children, at Epiphany, expect the Three Kings to bring them gifts, and they set out shoes filled with straw or grain for the horses the Kings ride.

Christmas dawns but once a year — and into that magic "once" are packed many and years of well-loved traditions. Chuckles gleam brightly, bells ring merrily, glad carols fill the air.

Up goes the tree and on go the ornaments and lights, in many a home and in many other places, too, both in and out of doors. Evergreen branches, holly and mistletoe decorate the manors.

Children eagerly await Santa Claus, his sleigh and his reindeer. Stockings are hung, and greetings and gifts, gaily wrapped, spread the spirit of Christmas.

"How did it all begin? The manager scene, in churches and homes, testifies to the religious meaning and real beginning of Christmas. To be glad and grateful, to give and to help others are expressions of that meaning.

The legends and customs of the holiday season, however, come from scores of sources, and many ancient festivals have contributed their part to Christmas as a time of merry-making.

GIVING GIFTS

First of all Christmas Gifts were, gold, frankincense and myrrh, the wise men's gifts to the infant Jesus. Gift giving at the season of the yule now celebrated as Christmas can also be traced back to pre-Christian times. The ancient Romans exchanged gifts during their Saturnalia, a festival honoring Saturn, the pagan god of agriculture. Hanging gifts on trees figured in Druid tree worship in early Britain.

HELPING POOR

Principles of Christianity are reflected in Christmas giving to the poor and unfortunate. An old legend says that on Christmas Eve as Christ roamed the earth, dressed as a beggar, in search of food and shelter People believed that any kindness shown a beggar expressed a love for Jesus.

SOURCE OF SANTA

Origin of Santa Claus as a gift giver is usually traced to a real St. Nicholas, bishop of Myra, in Asia Minor, in the fourth century A. D. St. Nicholas was renowned for his generosity, and he still remains his role as a gift giver in many countries, arriving on January 6th, traditionally the date of the visit of the wise men.

YULE GREENS

Evergreens at Christmas are an emblem of life eternal. Ancient peoples believed that the greenness of evergreens in winter was a promise of the promise that spring would come again.

SINGING CAROLS

Caroling at Christmas may be a carryover from the Roman songs of the Saturnalia, or so some researchers believe. Early Christian songs were solemn and somewhat forbidding. The simple, touching carols best liked today didn't gain widespread popularity until the 16th and 18th centuries.

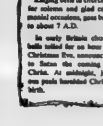
DECORATIVE TREE

In ancient feasts of the winter equinox, trees were adorned with trinkets. Like many pagan customs, the evergreen tree became associated with Christian observances, and legends link it to the birth of Christ. One story says that on Christmas Eve, all the trees of the forest blossomed and bore fruit.

LIGHTING CANDLES

Candles at Christmas symbolize the coming of Christ as the Light of the World. Since earliest times, man has used lights — torches, waterfires, bonfires — on occasions of joyous celebration. Custom of placing a candle in the window on Christmas Eve is usually attributed to the Irish. It was thought that Christ wandered the earth on that night, and a candle would show Him a home where He was welcome, or help to light Him on his way.

★



Ringing bells in churches, for solemn and glad ceremonial occasions, goes back to about 7 A.D.

In early Britain church bells tolled for an hour on Christmas Eve, announcing to Satan the coming of Christ. At midnight, joyous peals heralded Christ's birth.

Yule Is Time For Customs . . .

As the world grows smaller Christmas observances in different countries grow more similar. Santa Claus in red suit and white beard drives his reindeer-drawn sleigh to North, Central and South America and to many other countries as well. In fact, when the first explorer lands on Mars, Bill shouldn't better surprised to discover that Santa, and even Rudolph, got there first. Sharing of Christmas customs, however, only serves to point up the fact that there is a holiday for everyone, and a holiday that draws ideas from all lands and times uniting them in both religious and secular observances of the season.

IN MEXICO

Celebrating the posada is a Mexican custom focused on the Nativity. "Posada" means "lodging," or "inn," and for the nine "posada" days from December 16 to 24, churches, hotels, social groups and families throughout Mexico act out the story of the Nativity. A procession of pilgrims comes to the place where the celebration is schedule. They carry clay figures of Mary and Joseph, and they seek shelter from the "innkeepers" within. At first the innkeepers refuse, but they admit the pilgrims to feast and rejoice. Figures representing Mary and Joseph are placed in a replica of the manger. On Christmas Eve, the figure representing Jesus is added.

IN HOLLAND

Gifting season in Holland traditionally begins on December 5th and is called "Sinterklaasavond" or "sinterklaas Night." Children place their shoes by the fireplace, filled with carrots and hay for St. Nicholas' horse — in the expectation that on the morrow the shoes will contain candy, fruits and toys.

IN SCOTLAND

Christmas feast favorites in Scotland include shortbread, a rich cake or cookie, and bogey, a kind of pudding. New Year's Eve, or Hogmanay, is the principal day for gifts and for greetings, when children go singing from house to house in hopes of a treat. New Year's visits are paid — and it's customary for the visitor to bring along a pocketful of coal.

IN PORTUGAL

Christmas is the occasion for a family celebration among the Portuguese. Families gather on Christmas Eve for dinner at the home of the oldest living relative. After the children have gone to bed, a crib or creche is placed before the fireplace, and toward it are grouped the children's shoes, which serve the same funct on as Christmas stockings.

IN BRAZIL

Papa Noel makes the Christmas Eve rounds in Brazil, in a reindeer-drawn sleigh. He trims the trees with popcorn and bits of cotton—to make up for the snow that never falls. Since Christmas weather in Brazil is summery, picnics and bonfire excursions are part of the celebration.

IN GERMANY

Many modern Christmas customs come from Germany, including the lighted evergreen tree. Appropriately, gift-choosing season in West Germany today starts after Christmas bonuses are distributed on December 1st.

NOT ONLY GOLD, BUT FRANKINCENSE AND MYRRH, PRECIOUS GIFTS, TOO

"And when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto Him gifts: gold, and frankincense, and myrrh."

Thus St. Matthews describes the first Christmas gifts of all, brought to the Christ Child by "wise men from the East." Each of the gifts was rare and, especially in Biblical times, truly a treasure.

Among the gifts, the value and beauty of gold is most readily appreciated by modern readers. Then however, its worth was even greater for it was still more rare and precious than it is today. Archeological digs ings in ancient Troy, Crete and in Egypt have revealed that articles of gold were usually royal treasures.

Since St. Matthews says the wise men were from the East, their gold may have come from the mines of Indian Mysore.

Frankincense, or "olibanum," is a gum resin which flows from a tree growing on bare rocks in the mountains of southern Asia and Northeastern Africa. It was formerly used in medicine but is now chiefly employed as incense in Catholic churches and Indian and Chinese temples.

Myrrh is the popular name for a gum resin obtained from a small gray-barked tree which grows in Arabia and adjacent Africa. From the earliest times it has been used for making incense and other perfumes.

LET THE CAROLS RING! In this age of commercialism, it could be easy for children to grow up never understanding exactly why we celebrate Christmas. To some, Christmas sometimes means little more than the sparkle of decorations, rich foods and presents. Christmas carols, however, have retained the religious message of the holiday to remind us of the true meaning of Christmas—the birth of Christ.—

REMEMBERS BETHLEHEM
"O Little Town of Bethlehem," a Christmas carol written by Episcopal Bishop Phillips Brooks in 1868, while he was rector of Holy Trinity Church in Philadelphia, Pa.

On a trip to the Holy Land two years earlier, he had seen the "little town of Bethlehem" on Christmas Eve, and the vivid memory of this scene later led to the writing of the carol.

BERRIES BRIGHTEN
The bright red berries of the Christmasberry, an evergreen shrub native to California, are widely used as Christmas decorations. This shrub, with its thick, dark green leaves, can grow to a height of fifteen feet. Its flowers are white, its berries yellow or bright red. The Christmasberry is often known as the holly.

RE-CREATING THE NATIVITY
Re-creating the Nativity Scene at Christmas, with Mary, Joseph, the infant Jesus and the animals of the manger, originated, many scholars believe, with St. Francis of Assisi on Christmas Eve 1223 in the little mountain town of Greccio, Italy.

Wishing to dramatize the birth of Christ for his parishioners, St. Francis and his helpers set up a realistic representation of the manger scene.

JOY and REVERENCE Mark Holy Season

Candlelight and music, pageants and prayers fill churches everywhere as Christians celebrate, at special services, the birth of Christ. The joy and wonder of Christmas, with its message of new life, hope and promise of "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men," finds expression many ways.

In choirs singing the poems of the Babe of Bethlehem, in scenes symbolizing the birth of a Child in a manger, in the gleam of candles reflecting the light of a Star, in the sound of voices raised in carols gathered from around the world and showing the true brotherhood of man Christmas in all its beauty and glory goes out to hearts young and old.

"Christes Masse"

To Western Christian believers, December 25 carries all the deep religious meaning appropriate to the anniversary of the birth of Christ. As the date for the celebration of "Christes Masse," the Mass of Christ it was selected some centuries after the Nativity — Selected from a number of possible dates, among them January 6, March 21, March 29, April 9, May 20, September 20 and November 17.

In some Eastern Orthodox churches, Holy Night comes on January 6, Christmas Day on January 7. The Armenian church celebrates Christmas on January 19th.

Generally, researchers are agreed that the correct date and year of the birth of Christ are lost in the past, although some tentative conclusions can be drawn. Since it is the meaning of the day that counts, the date that has for centuries symbolized the coming of the Saviour will undoubtedly continue its holy significance in Christendom.

To those who like to ponder on the world as it was when the Infant Jesus was born, and on the growth of Christianity, some delving into the researches about Christmas can be a rewarding experience. Any tendency to take Christmas for granted disappears in the fascinating study of the early Christian church & its growth in the face of resistance.

A comparison of Biblical references with archaeological and historical researches discloses that Christ was probably born before 4 B. C. — in other words, the present year is not 1962 of the Christian era but at least 1966.

Evidence to support this relates to the reign and death of Herod. An eclipse of the moon in 4 B.C., which coincided with a Jewish religious festival, has helped historians to fix the death of Herod at about this time — and when he died, according to the New Testament, the young Jesus, Joseph and Mary were living in Egypt.

Date Far Taxes

That the birth of Christ may have occurred as early as 7 B. C. is deduced from archaeological discoveries indicating that one of three major tax collections in the reign of Augustus Caesar may have taken place then.

Selection of December 25th as the birth date of Christ may have been an effort on the part of early Christian leaders to counteract the pagan appeal of the Roman Saturnalia, a festival held at the turning of the year.

Readers Still Loyal To Dickens Favorite

"GOD BLESS 'U', EVERY ONE" said Tiny Tim." Since Tiny Tim first spoke these words at the Cratchits' Christmas feast, Charles Dickens' famous "A Christmas Carol" has become one of the best known and loved of holiday stories. Illustration above is from The Book of Knowledge.

"A Christmas Carol in Prose, Being a Ghost Story of Christmas" was first published at Christmas 1843, and since that time its popularity has never waned. Generation after generation has laughed and cried over the story of the miserly Scrooge who through the revelations of three spirits — Christmas Past, Present and Yet to Come — became a man who "knew how to keep Christmas well, if any man alive possessed the knowledge."

Charles Dickens, creator of the "Carol," loved it as well as, or perhaps even better than, its many readers did. He told of crying and laughing again and again as, captivated by his story, he wrote the 30,000-word book in six weeks.

Perhaps the best known part of the story is Christmas dinner at the Cratchits, where Scrooge and the Ghost of Christmas Present observed the family of his clerk, Bob Cratchit, making merry over a simple Christmas dinner, highlighted by a goose — "There never was such a goose" — and a pudding — "Oh what a wonderful pudding!"

And a favorite character is Tiny Tim, the Cratchits' crippled son, to whom the reformed Scrooge became "a second father."

One of the most famous speeches in the English language is, doubtless Tiny Tim's, at the conclusion of the Christmas feast. "God bless us, every one!"

Yuletide Spirit Stays All Year . . . .

Nearly every community has its special way of observing Christmas, and in some towns and cities, the spirit of Christmas prevails, literally the year around.

In Waterbury, Conn., an all-year reminder of the first Noel is the recreation of the Town of Bethlehem in nearby Pine Hill.

This non-sectarian "Bethlehem" was constructed to scale after research and study of photos showing the Biblical country. The cave of mangers where Christ was born, links like the one where there was no room, and the Roman legation where the tax collection decreed by Augustus Caesar was to be paid are among the buildings represented.

"Poetic license" has been used to include some buildings which were not, or may not have been, located in Bethlehem, such as "Israel's Home" and Herod's Grand Palace.

Crowned by a Cross, Pine Hill has proved an ideal location for the project, since its shape is similar to the limestone cliffs where Bethlehem in Judea was built.

Other "Bethlehems"

Well known "Bethlehems" in the United States include Bethlehem, Pa., and Bethlehem, Ind. The Pennsylvania Bethlehem emphasizes the religious meaning of Christmas during its annual celebration. A star erected on a nearby mountain top is lighted throughout the holiday season.

Star is Beacon

Lighting Displays

In Titusdean, a suburb of Pasadena Calif., a mile-long avenue bordered by decor ornate becomes "Christmas Tree Lane" at the holiday season. The deodars are illuminated by thousands of multi-colored bulbs for the annual spectacle.

Colored lights outline the buildings of the Country Club Plaza district in Kansas City, Mo., at Christmastime.

Yule Towns

Yule-named towns have a special interest in Christmas. Arkansas, Florida and Kentucky actually have towns named "Christmas." Then there are Christmas Cove, Me., Nazareth, Pa., Bright Star, Holly Grove and Holly Springs, Ark.; as well as Noel, Mo., Noel, Va., Mistletoe, Ky., Wisconsin, Alaska; and Santa Claus, Indiana.

Feasts

Many foods for Christmas feasting have been traditional since early days of Yule merry-making, although roast peacock, the feature of the feast in medieval England, is rarely, if ever, seen today!

Mince pie, with its spices and fruits, is said to symbolize the riches of the East, from which the wise men came.

Legend says plum pudding began when an English king and his men were lost in a forest on Christmas Eve. The cook used fossils he had on hand, including part of a crop, plums, eggs, flour, to make a single dish all could share.

ROBINSON STORES — Killam, Alta

SCIENCE SEEKS SOURCE OF THE STAR

Since St. Matthew first described the star of Bethlehem, its mystery has fascinated mankind. Was it a meteor? Or was it a brighter-than-usual star or other celestial object?

Astronomers, while seeking to identify the star, emphasize that it can be explained in terms of natural phenomena. However, research has provided material for conjecture that the star may have been a natural occurrence.

One Discovery

A Danish astronomer, Tycho Brahe, discovered a new and brilliant star in the constellation Cassiopeia in 1572 according to the Encyclopedia Americana. Since that discovery, The Americana says, it has been suggested that this might be an especially brilliant star visible only at long intervals. A reported appearance of a bright star in that part of the heavens about the middle of the 13th century, coupled with a vague account of a similar appearance a little more than 300 years earlier led to the thought that these might possibly be former appearances of the star of 1572.

If, as this might indicate, the star appeared at intervals of 310 to 316 years, three intervals of 300-odd years from the time it was first reported would carry it back to about the time of the birth of Christ.

Another Theory

Johannes Kepler, a German astronomer, made discoveries that led to still another theory about the star of Bethlehem. In 1604, he observed a conjunction, or close grouping of the planets Jupiter Saturn and Mars.

He determined that such a conjunction occurred each 805 years, and calculations established that the above grouping might have appeared in 6 B. C. — which, some research indicates, may have been the correct year of Christ's birth.

Since legends identify the wise men as astrologers, this theory accounts for the fact that, as reported in the New Testament, only the wise men saw the star.

While the three planets grouped together would shed unusual brightness, the average observer might not notice them, while the wise men, as astrologers, would.

CARDS SHOW CHANGES

Greeting cards for Christmas show each season, an increase in the number of religious subjects — but this has not always been true. In fact the earliest Christmas cards often had designs that seemed to have no connection with the holiday.

Instead of Nativity scenes or symbols of holly and mistletoe, early American Christmas cards of the 19th century were decorated with roses and portraits of young ladies, according to The Encyclopedia Americana. Often plump, robins were pictured sitting on tree branches gripping with icicles. In this early stage pin-up girls were not unusual. Kate Greenaway drawings were frequently used, some cards picturing single figures from her drawings, others portraying dancing girls with garlands of flowers. About 1870, cards were frosted and fringed with heavy

Tinsel

Tinsel as an Christmas tree began, as legend says, when spiders covered with frosty a tree like that been decorated by a mother for her many children.

To reward the women for her goodness to her children, the Christ Child changed the spider webs to gleaming silver.

FROM QUEBEC

"Angels We Have Heard on High" is a French carol, although some sources say that it originated not in France but in Quebec, Canada.

WRITING CAROLS

Men from many walks of life have contributed to the Christmas chorus of carols. Francis Scott Key was not only a lawyer and the author of the star Spangled Banner; he also wrote carols. And the comedian, Harpo Marx, authored a carol now sung in many churches "Guardian Angels."

DECKING THE HALLS

HELPING SANTA

IN FRANCE

In southern France "santons" are better known than Santa. "Santons" are clay replicas of members of the Holy Family, manger animals and saints. Since the creche, rather than the evergreen tree, is the center of Christmas home decoration in France the santons play an important part.

And our best wishes

SANTA'S ELVES

The little elves who help Santa in his workshop probably come from the Scandinavian countries. In Norway, Denmark and Sweden, children are told of the "Tomtar," little grey-bearded, elf-like men who hide presents for boys and girls on Christmas Eve.

WHERE 'XMAS' BEGAN

"Xmas" now considered poor usage as an abbreviation for Christmas, was often used as a holy symbol in the early Christian church "X," in Greek, in the first letter of Christ's name.

BEASTS & BIRDS JOIN IN YULE LEGENDS

In the lore and legends of Christmas, the beasts of the fields and the birds of the air play their part—and appropriately so, for the oldest and holiest Christmas story of all tells of shepherds with their flocks — shepherds who went to seek and find a Holy Babe lying in a manger. Animals of the manger in the time of Christ were likely to be the sheep and goats, cattle, horses, donkeys and pigs. All of these figure in Yuletide songs and stories — even the pig, who has held the place of honor at many a Christmas feast.

Telling of the First Christmas Eve the famous carol "Away in a Manger," says, "The cattle were lowing" and religious paintings through the ages have depicted both the cattle & the other animals in the manger, as well a sthe flocks of the shepherds.

FEEDING BIRDS

THEY FEAST

Because an ancient tradition holds that animals helped to spread the glad tidings of the birth of Christ, barnyard animals in many countries are still served a special supper on Christmas Eve.

CATTLE SPEAK

An old German legend has it that cattle kneel inttheir stalls at midnite on Christmas Eve. Then, for a moment, they have the power of speech. Other legends broaden this to include all animals.

FROM SPANISH LORE

On the first Christmas, says a Spanish legend, a cow in the manger breathed on the Baby Jesus to warm him.

KNEELING DEER

Early French-Canadian settlers in Quebec bewildered the Huron Indians by their homage — to Indians preparations for the celebration of Christmas. As a result, many legends about the Day developed among the Indians. On Christmas Eve, the Indians believed, the deer kneeled to to "Great Spirit." In the hope of seeing this wonderful sight, the Hurons would hide in the cold winter night of the forests for hours.

FOOD FOR PUSS

Cats get special treatment during the Christmas season in French sections of Canada. Special food is set forth for Puss, since according to legend, if the cat moves in the house on Christmas Eve, bad luck will surely follow.

Hereford Assoc. Holds Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Alberta Hereford Assn. was held last month in the city of Edmonton.

Mr. Charlie Gordon of the Government Selection Committee, said that there were 23 government approval bull sales for Herefords last year, when 2118 bulls sold for $1,139,000. Out of this $62,000 was paid by the government on the Approval Policy. Mr. Gordon said that as of Dec. 31, 1962, no more assistance will be given on farm sales, but that the policy will be in effect on all Gov. Approved Consignment Bull Sales. That is 50 percent on purchase price up to a maximum of $50.00.

Stan Price of Gov. Performance Testing stated that in 1962, sixty herds of all breeds were on performance testing. Forty-two of these were Herefords, 71 percent of the total. The top 30 percent of top gainers on test for 1962 were Herefords.

The Rumsina bought 400 head of Herefords, and it was stated that they were coming back in 1963 for more, a clear indication of quality.

Keith Gilmore spoke on carcass grading, and said the trend they are trying to promote is to lean meat, which means unfinished cattle. People want lean meat with tenderness and juiciness, which is impossible. He said that premiums at all sales were paid on straight bred Herefords.

C. Leech, secretary of Canadian Hereford Assn. stated that there are now 5 clubs in the Alta. Assn., Southern, Calgary, Central, Northern and Peace River with a total of 405 members.

Dr. Herb Lewis, of the Gov. Health spoke on Johne's Disease, Brucellosis and Foot & Mouth Disease. He said that tests now being undertaken would make it impossible for the spread of the disease. He dealt at some length on Johne's disease, the infection and incubation period. The government has a program for testing aimed in herds with this problem, with payment of $140 to purebreds, $70 to grades, plus slaughter value of animals.

At the conclusion of the meeting a banquet was held for the 160 present from over the province.

Among the top-flight entertainers this year will be such renowned personnel as Fire Major Walter Muir, and singers John Hruchek and John Stone, singers and dancers from Edmonton, along with local talent.

LOCAL RESIDENTS INJURED IN ACCIDENT NEAR CAMROSE

Richard Lowther of Lougheed suffered a broken left knee, daughter Grace Lowther, an employee at the Bank of Montreal in Sedgewick, suffered multiple cuts and concussion, while Gloria Lowther sustained cuts and bruises, in a two-car collision near Camrose on December 28th.

All have been in hospital at Camrose and are reported as improved.

Driver of the other car, Betty Champion of Camrose suffered minor injuries and shock, while another, Patricia Frances of Edmonton had chest injuries and a broken leg and arm. Another passenger, Andrey Bergstrom of Camrose, was killed.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Young has ordered an inquest into the death.

DRIVERLESS CAR INJURES A. MARSTON

Sound a bit like a Ripley Believe It Or Not? It all happened like this:

Mr. Albert Marston, Sedgewick, after starting his car in the garage, went around to the front, lifted the hood to look things over, and when he slammed the hood back down, the automatic shifted or jumped from neutral into drive. The car took off, tore the front out of the garage, carrying Albert with it. It only came to rest when encountering a deep snow drift.

The moral seems to be automatic; don't trust it.

The net result is that the garage needs repairing, the car needs a body shop, and Albert needs and is getting attention in the hospital.

NEW ALBERTA CROP

A new crop will be introduced to Alberta this year if plans of contracting companies are fulfilled. The new crop is canary seed and it is literally for the birds as it is used almost exclusively as feed for caged birds.

Canary seed can be grown in most parts of Alberta because it is an annual which matures quite early. The plant likes an ample supply of moisture but requires good drainage, as it cannot tolerate flooding condition.

Weed free land should be used because canary grass is not a strong competitor against weeds. Herbicides may be used, however, to control broad leaved weeds without injury to the crop. Early seeding is recommended for highest yields.

Markets for canary seed are limited and Canadian production has to compete with seed from the U. S. A., Morocco and Australia. For this reason the crop should be grown under contract with reputable seed firms.

MRS. DORIS LEE PRES. OF AUXILIARY

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Legion No. 55, held their annual meeting in the Legion Hut, with 18 members present.

The Poilo campaign was outlined, and a one-night Blitz arranged for January. Lodge entertainment was planned for the month of January. Gifts and Crafts classes was discussed, with a date to be set later.

President Brian Lee of the Legion presided over election of officers. The new slate is: Pres., Cmd. D. Lee; Sgt. at Arms, Cmd. M. McNaughton, 1st Vice, Cmd. A. Perrier; 2nd Vice, Cmd. J. Hampshire; Treas., Cmd. E. Tweedy; Chaplain, Cmd. H. Hampshire; Sec.-To be appointed.

PRINCESS ROYAL IODE

The Dec. meeting took the form of a noontime pot-luck luncheon at home of Mrs. A. E. Fee. Promptly at 2.30 the regular chapter meeting was opened with the regular ceremony. World Affairs leaflet dealt with the activities of the Communists, especially in the distribution of literature in which their doctrine is very cleverly disguised. A new primary IODE Chapter has been organized in Lloydminster. Services at Home and Abroad convener reported having shipped a bale of children's clothing, nursery bags, quilts etc. for needy children in Commonwealth. Total value of this was $119.00.

YOUNG SOCIAL CREDIT HOLD MEETING

The Canadian Young Social Creditors met at the Sedgewick Hall on Dec. 27th to complete plans for the public rally to be held January 10th in Sedgewick. All committees reported excellent progress.

The next regular meeting will be held January 22nd at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pottage.

THE BIBLE TODAY

Requests have come from women in more than 55 denominations in the United States for a way in which they could be more actively related to the world-wide work of the Bible Society. In line with these requests, Mrs. Inez Mosher will co-ordinate the efforts of women's groups to further the objects of the work of the society

In the United Kingdom there are ten lady Secretaries for Women's Work in the British and Foreign Bible Society. India encourages the organizations of Women's Auxiliaries related to Bible Society work.

In Toronto a Women's Auxiliary is active for the Bible Society. Mrs. J. Keiller MacKay, the wife of the Lt.-Gov. of the province of Ontario, is the Honorary President.

ROSE RINK WINS CITY SPIEL

ANNUAL DERRICK CLUB INVITATIONAL

Young Normie Rose of Sedgewick, shows every sign of following in the footsteps of his father Billy Rose, as he continues to lead his rink of Gordie Hilker, Norval Smith and Ralph Storbakken to the top awards in high zone bonspiels throughout Alberta. The latest conquest of the four Stalwarts of the Sedgewick Club was the Invitational Yuletide Spiel held at the Derrick Club in Edmonton at the year end. The Rose rink won the $1000 top prize after defeating some of the top curlers in Edmonton.

The Helloff rink of Sask., failing to show, gave the Rose rink a bye to start them off in the first round which saw thirty-two rinks entered. From there on the Rose foursome never looked back, defeating such rinks at Bec Geddes (10-9); Dave Kaalnbs (9-8), Gordon Walker (8-6) and Del MacIntyre (7-6) in the final round. These were all city rinks.

NEW YEAR SERVICE

Many visitors from the Stettler, Loyalist and Hanna churches, and the Morns S. D. A. Church, Saturday, Dec. 29th gathered to hear the Pastor Philip Moore's new year message of hope and reconsecration. Pastor Moore is the newly elected president of the Alberta Conference of S.D.A., formerly president of the Manitoba and Sask. Conference. Pastor Moores also wished Pastor John Anderson Godspeed in his new appointment to the ministry. Mr. Anderson and his family are well known in this area, having lived and farmed many years with the Conies Coop Farm with his brothers. They will be leaving next week for their new home in Grand Prairie & his new pastorate, the huge Peace River area.

In the afternoon the young people presented a New Year pageant interspersed with musical numbers. In the evening many friends gathered for fun and games and to honor the John Anderson family, and present them with a matched luggage set.

A NEW YEAR IS BORN!

This is 1963. A new year is born. The last half of the century is well on its way, and in some respects mankind cannot be too proud of his accomplishments. The atom has been put to use, but mostly as a threat to the universe; space has been partly conquered and total conquest is envisioned, though mostly for uses of aggression; new medical discoveries have improved human health; new aggressions have put more people in suppression. However the picture is not altogether depressing. Great advances have been made in many areas, and 1962 was among one of the greatest years in this regard. The past year was a good one locally. Crops were good, prices were good, sales were good, and the weather was good. Economically 1963 looks like one of continuing economic buoyancy, with a better than average chance of peace. May is all be so.

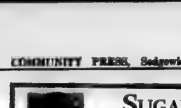
If you have been paying attention to the news recently you will have noticed a rather peculiar thing. Suddenly for the first time since Japan invaded Manchuria in 1931, the world finds itself without a war being fought in some corner of the globe. Granted there is still trouble in the Congo, guerrillas are operating in Vietnam and the India-China fighting could start up anytime, but things are quieter than at any other time in the past 31 years. When the Cuban crisis was over the world saw that Kruschchev had turned tail, and that everything just seemed to settle down. Even Berlin is hardly receiving any mention. The key to sudden world quiet is undoubtedly the fact that Krushchev and his communist empire is plagued with economic troubles. While the western nations enjoy ever-increasing prosperity, the communists find themselves sinking deeper into depression. Every Red country finds farm and factory production falling, Red China's masses are on a starvation diet, and Communist Cuba's economy is in a shambles. The combination of a good scare over Cuba and growing troubles at home seems to have convinced Mr. Khrushchev to pull in his horns and give the world a welcome respite from the many years of international strife. May this all be so. A happy new year to you all.

IDEALISTS AND REALISTS!

The big difference between idealists and realists lies in the fact that the former dreams of the perfect situation while for the most part refusing to realize that until such a situation has arrived he must deal with things as they are, while the realist knows he must live and cope with conditions as they exist, while he dreams of the ideal. Situations and conditions do exist. They are real, and they are usually brought about by what people don't know plus what they are not willing to learn. This is what keeps so many people in subjection over the world. This is why the weak and poorly educated nations are continually underbondage and must ever struggle to rise above the economic level of animals. That is part of the reason why I believe the resolution brought forward at the Tuxis and Older Boys Parliament, to renounce violence and to refuse military service, was well defeated. The mover said that armed force and violence have never solved any problem. In this he is only partly correct, for with populations exploding, armed force has gained needed territory for the overcrowded countries. Of course that doesn't prove that might is right; it only proves that the strong can trample the weak. The mover went on to say that his resolution was based on Christian principles of love, peace and friendship, and the fact that pacifism would unite the world. Love, peace and friendship are ideals to be urgently reached for, but pacifism is something else again. The Jewish nation tried it years ago; it was tried in Napoleon's time; Chamberlain tried it with Hitler; it has been tried again and again in our present time. In no case has it worked, for every generation hasproduced its quota of strong and aggressive, war-mongering realists who decided to "go over and occupy the land." in all cases the weak and unprepared have been trampled by the unprincipled strong. The trouble with pacifists aiming their arguments at the western world, is that they always forget to tell the other fellow. It takes two pacifists to refuse to fight each other. The safest method for survival today is to advocate peace, live peaceably, but carry a big stick, for that is the only evidence a bully understands. That has been proven.

ARE WE BECOMING MORALLY CORRUPT?

Court judges, it is abundantly apparent, are becoming seriously concerned with the number of cases coming before them involving moral turpitude, but perhaps it is time the general public, parents especially, became seriously concerned with the same problem. It is a serious contradiction of our social smugness when a Canadian judge finds it necessary to come forth and publicly state that abortions should be made legal in Canada for girls up to the age of sixteen; that sex offenders should be sterilized and that divorces should be made easier. All these things should be done, says the judge, to decrease juvenile delinquency and reduce common-law marriages. The good judge went on to say that teenage mothers are fair play for delinquency, and that it is wrong for them to be allowed to become mothers. I cannot but agree, but it is not the sole responsibility of society to bail them out of a situation they themselves have created. They also have some moral responsibility to society.



SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

New Year's Eve is the only occasion during the year when the devil makes a determined effort to take over in Canada. The rest of the year, we're too busy scrambling for money, or too scared of the consequences of sin, to be anything but a fairly sedate lot.

But on the last evening of the year, hair is let down, inhibitions are let out, and the gang is itching around with abandon with the antiseptic symbol of our festivous, the noseburnt.

Old Nick chooses his time with care. His opposite number, St. Nick, has just given us his annual going-over. We are left with a pile of bills, a moulding Christmas tree, a gastric condition, and a vague hornet of what lies ahead — three blank, unbroken months at the mercy of boundless winter. We are ripe for Auld Cloitie's machinations. He could scarcely miss.

But even so, he selects his victims with the head of an artist. He doesn't bother with the regular boozers, the habitual party types. He already has them exporting down the herbaceous primrose path. He's not going to waste time enlisting them. They're already signed up.

No, it's the good man he goes after on New Year's Eve. And he doesn't mind paying overtime to his minions, if they can guarantee him a lot of broken promises, and a reasonable smattering of broken bones, broken careers and broken homes.

As a result, we have shoulders removed from sockets, wrist limmed, feisty imp out of rute and carsen into wild, untrodden ground. We have noses black from pricklesome and plunged into bonkers. We have gillies of the community stepping out from under sod inviting the darn thing sag for a night.

Oh, as you cliffk this is a little fanciful, do you not? You don't believe that Old Nick really has anything to do with it? You think it's just a lotta swell people havana lotta fun, do you?

What about last New Year's Eve, Dad? Maybe you're forgetten, and I don't blame you. Maybe it was somebody else who told the boss's wife that she'd be a pretty nice little women if only she could ever learn to shut that big, flapping mouth of hers.

Perhaps that was your twin brother who broke his shoulder jumping off the mantel to show them how you used to land when you were in the parsimmons. Maybe it wasn't you at all who got a good whack in the face from his wife for hanging a big N.Y.E. kiss on that recently divorced sister of the undertaker.

Now, just a minute, Mother. Don't you run away. Now is the night these days! Slipped one back in place? Been a long haul, hasn't it? But we did warn you, at last N.Y.E.'s party, that The Twist was just as strenuous as The Charleston. And we didn't like to point out that you were 30 years older.

Where's Granny sliding navy to? Never mind, Gran. You looked great in that harpsichord last N.Y.E. I'm glad, though, that you've decided to stay home and Auld Lang Syne it with the grand children this year, I think.

Let's face it, chaps. Hogmanay and Long May Your Lum Reek and all that bet we're not quite the wild kids we once were. We've got children of our own, dammit, and we're got to stay home New Year's Eve, if only to make sure they stay home.

We've got to recognize that the Saskatchewan orgy is not for us solid citizens. We've got to retain our sense of responsibility. We've got to set an example, raise the standards, hold the line against barbarism and hollery. We've got to stand firm in the quicksand.

What's that, Nick? You are? There will? Everybody's going?

AGRICULTURAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The newly formed Agricultural Advisory Committee, recently held their second session at the M. D. office at Sedgewick. This group has been chosen to represent ten townships of the M.D. of Flagstaff. Their job is to advise the Department of Agriculture in the formulation and implementation of the Rural Development Program in the M. D.; to give support to the programs at the local level and to provide a voice for the local people in planning a program to suit their needs.

The object of this session was mainly to further acquaint the Committee members with their job. At the same time to help plan future session projects to be undertaken in the immediate future.

If anyone has any ideas or suggestions for improving Agricultural Extension work in their locality, they can now talk them over with their area representatives.

Herb Dietz, — Galahad
Elden Oberg, — Forestburg
Ronald Kruchten, — Heisler
John Keeble, — Daysland
Norman Nickerson, — Strome

CAREERS IN PROFESSIONAL AGRICULTURE:

High school students, teachers, and parents! Are you completely aware of the opportunities open to university graduates in Agriculture?

Dramatic changes are taking place in Canadian Agriculture. While the number of farm producers are becoming smaller there is an accompanying tremendous increase in the specialized industries serving agriculture.

The application of science to agriculture as well as marketing, financial, supply and processing divisions of "Agribusiness" has produced rapid development. These are providing a vast potential for new employment opportunities for persons trained in modern agriculture.

In fact for every worker on the farm there are now approximately two workers engaged in "agribusiness" off the farm and this ratio is expected to increase.

Agriculture is the nations largest business and provides about 35 percent of the country's jobs and 60 percent of our gross national product. Background papers for the "Resources for Tomorrow" conference held in 1961 predicted a 70 percent increase in Canada's physical volume of food consumed by 1980. They also estimated the world population to be doubled in the next forty years. Thus it is plain to see there is a tremendous future for careers in agriculture and "Agribusiness" in Alberta.

The above excerpts were taken from a new publication entitled "Careers in Professional Agriculture" published by the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. Copies of the same are available at our office at Sedgewick.

SABIN ORAL POLIO VACCINE

On information received from the Department of Health in Edmonton, Sabin Polio Oral Vaccine will be available to the residents of Flagstaff District towards the end of January 1963. A second oral dose will be given about the middle of the following March with certain restrictions.

This vaccine will be available to all irrespective of age except those who have not completed an initial course of Salk Vaccine (three doses where Salk Vaccine is administered alone, or four doses where administered in the form of QUAD, as was given to most pre-school children). Those who have not completed their Salk Vaccine series should attend at the Health Unit where indicated, to have this done. As it is imdeviable to give the Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine without first having completed the initial Salk series, it will be necessary to produce evidence of having received the initial serie of Salk. This, of course, does not apply to those persons who have attended our local health unit where a record of these shots are kept, and only applies to those who have recently moved into this area.

It should be remembered that Salk Vaccine and Sabin Vaccine complement one another, and having both gives the best possible protection against Poliomyelitis.

Further announcements will be made in the Community Press as to the time and dates where Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine will be available.

"Who says this isn't a LEAP YEAR...?"

"Maybe you can't divide 1963 by four—but in my book it still adds up to a Leap Year.

"I'm starting the New Year with a big leap forward. Tomorrow I take delivery of a brand-new car, and there's a modern stove for Mollie on the way to replace that monstrosity in the kitchen.

"Mind you, we did a whole lot of looking before we decided to leap. That's why we settled on the B of M Family Finance Plan in buying our New Year presents to ourselves. The monthly payments are well within our budget, and we couldn't ask for better terms. All our credit needs fitted snugly under that one broad B of M roof.

"This New Year, it's off with the old and on with the new...thanks to the B of M Family Finance Plan."

If you have something in mind that would give a new zest to living—a new car...a hi-fi...a new model TV...a cottage in the country, even . . . why not see your neighborhood branch of the B of M soon? The people at "MY BANK" will be glad to discuss a low-cost, life-insured B of M Family Finance Plan loan that could brighten your days in 1963.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Arnold Peterson who passed away January 3rd, 1961.

You are gone but not forgotten,
By the ones who loved you best;
And our love will with you linger
Until we too are laid to rest.

Ever remembered by: Margaret, Carol, Dorothy, Reene & Hunter. p

In memory of Arnold Peterson who passed away two years ago January 3rd.

Dear Lord, forgive a silent tear
And constant wish that Arnold were here.

Others are taken, yes, we know,
But he was natural we miss him so.
He suffered much and murmured not,
We willingly obey thy lot;
Our own dear son and brother,
The best thing life's way.
But when we saw him sleeping
So peacefully free from pain,
We could not wish him back
To suffer so again.

Ever remembered by: Father and Family, Mom and Dad Pedersen. p

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband, Joseph Kompercko, who passed away January 1st, 1962.
Often my thoughts do wander
To a grave not far away,
Where lies all that my darling husband
Just one year ago today.

No one knows how much I miss him,
No one knows the bitter pain
I have suffered since I lost him,
Life can never be the same.
God knows how much I loved him,
He was His greatest gift to me,
So I'll pray for strength to carry on
Till death, too, sets me free.

Ever remembered and sadly missed by his wife Rena. 29 1 p

In loving memory of our Father, Joseph Kompercko, who passed away January 1st, 1962.
Beautiful memories, silently kept
Of a father we loved and will never forget.

KOMPERCKO In loving memory of Joseph Kompercko who passed away January 1st, 1962.
Little we knew that Monday night,
The Lord would take our brother away;
The evil was sudden the shock severe
To part with one we loved so dear.
Ever remembered and sadly missed by Sebastian and Nora. 29 1 p

F.U.A. TO AID REC. CENTRE

At the regular meeting of Sedgewick Local, F.U.A. it was agreed that the Local sponsored a fun-raising campaign in rural areas, in support of the Sedgewick Recreational Centre, the funds to be ear-marked for inclusion of bowling lanes at the new project. Canvassers for the drive will be chosen, and arena apportioned later.

Report on "Horse Night" indicates the proposed program should be varied and appropriate.

Delegates Eric Christenson and Clayton Johnson gave interesting reports of the recent annual convention at Edmonton. The convention was very well attended, and many resolutions pertinent to the welfare of agriculture considered and acted upon. Some of the continually rising costs of administration it has become necessary to raise membership fee by one dollar for next year.

One member of Sedgewick Local is to be chosen by the members to participate in the FUA tour presently being arranged.

ABANDONED RAIL LINES. Small branch rail lines such as shown here were often specifically built to carry grain and did much to open Canada's west. Today controversy is raging on whether to abandon such non-economic small lines. Grain companies fear loss of investment in country elevators along abandoned lines. Cecil Lanson, president of North-West Line Elevators Association, warns this abandonment plan could turn "hundreds of new prosperous towns and villages into ghost communities." Rural areas of eastern Canada also are affected.

HOCKEY ACTION NOW UNDERWAY

HARDISTY ARENA —

By Kona Tory

Special to Community Press—

Hardisty Arena hockey activity opened on January 3rd with the Stampeders taking Wainwright Dukes by a 10-3 score. Kona Tory, the owner manager that Hardisty bribed into crossing the Battle River from Camrose, made the official face-off in the Battle River League game and wished the centre of both teams happy hunting.

Stampeders scored at 2.38 to send the home fans cheering. Wainwright Dukes showed little team science effort but back-checked furiously to hold the Stamps from organizing a sustained pressing attack.

The Stampeders Club is recognized in Provincial hockey centres as an established game that permits hockey players from the Battle River town teams to meet the best competition in the big towns.

Sunday afternoon on sloppy ice, the Stampeders met the Starlite Imperials 6-1 to run their unbeaten record to four games so far. The passing plays were spoiled by bouncing rubber but both teams gave it the all-out effort. Hendricks on defence is always a treat to watch; a young centre from Caly was always hunting right into the thick of the going; Roger Lehr played his usual rugged slanting style and coach Dion figured in several of the set-up plays.

Read the Community Press to keep up-to-date on the latest doings of your favorites, the Stampeders.

Press and Public Acclaimed by P. O.

Post Office officials have doffed their caps towards the press and the public for making possible what they described as "the biggest and best Christmas mail movement on record".

On the basis of preliminary figures from key major offices, postal authorities estimated that Christmas mail figures for 1962 were up from five to seven percent over last year's approximately 500 million items.

Most important statistic emerging from the Christmas rush was the fact that in all major offices, the peak involving all mail fell on the day the Post Office had set as the deadline for local mail delivery. On that day more than a million cards were cancelled at Edmonton, two & one-quarter million at Vancouver, nearly two million at Winnipeg and four million at Toronto. Montreal's 4,410,500 represented the biggest day in the history of that office — three-quarters of a million more than the largest day last year.

Early reports indicated all major offices had cleared their Christmas mail by December 24th, and press, radio and television are credited for making known the need to mail early. The public responded better than ever before.

ABSTAINERS' INSURANCE!

Statistics, surveys and actual on-the-spot checks have proven that a large percentage of road accidents and the resultant deaths can be laid at the doorstep of alcohol. Of course speed, poor eye sight, carlessness and other human failures also contribute. However alcohol continues to remain one of the top causes. I have often wondered why the person who abstains should not get a cheaper rate on his car insurance in Alberta. Well, it has been a long time in coming, but at last it looks like it's here. In these days of automtion and faster everything, the hazards resulting from intoxication are greatly increased, and the danger is much greater than they were in the horse and buggy days. As the man said, the horse never got drunk, and when the driver did, the horse usually took him safely home — unless he fell out of the buggy. But a car hasn't got the horse sense that a horse has. The impaired driver is a much greater hazard to other travellers than the impaired pedestrian. Hon. Ernest Manples states that an intoxicated man driving a car at thirty miles an hour is more dangerous than an intoxicated man crawling at 2 miles an hour. Due to the reduced risk incured by abstaining drivers they should be rewarded by paying lower premiums on their car insurance. This factor apparently led to the formation of the Abstainers' Insurance in Ontario in 1966. This is the only auto insurance company which issues policies exclusively to non-drinkers. Since its inception this company has written over $1 million in premiums. For two years the Board of Directors of the Associated Temperance Forces of Alberta has been investigating the possibility of introducing Abstainers' Car Insurance in the province of Alberta. At the same time the Abstainers' Insurance Company in Ontario was planning to expand the services into Alberta... As a result of co-operation between the two, fourteen agents have been appointed in Alberta. Perhaps a new slogan will be adopted, to sugment the "if you drink don't drive". It could be "it will pay you to not drink if you drive."

U. S. MIGHT COPY CANADA!

The U. S. Government overspending has apparently reached the vicinity of Fort Knox, for the new currency down south is an inch shorter. There is no doubt this will save a considerable amount of paper, but the government down there could well spend a bit of this saving to copy the Canadian method. All U. S. paper money is the same size, the same color, the same everything. The only way to distinguish one from another is by the printed number of the denomination. Here in Canada we have different colors for each denomination. It's pretty, and it's very easy to distinguish. The U. S. should copy us. I mentioned this to a friend in the U. S. one time and recommended that he carry it to the treasury department. He's a very strong Republican so I guess the Democrats wouldn't listen to him; or maybe he wouldn't "have any truck" with them. I still think it's a good idea. Maybe some of our Democrat readers will pass this on to J. F. K.

HARDISTY STAMPEDERS WIN KILLAM TOURNAMENT

Another capacity crowd watched Hardisty's Stampede Hockey Club skate and shoot their way to another final win at the Killam New Year's Day Hockey Tournament. Weather conditions favored the spectators & the large, enthusiastic crowd enjoyed the day to the fullest.

Killam 13 - Irma 2

The first game of the day was a nice, clean game, but a definite walkaway for the Killam Club, who we've never in trouble throughout the entire match. It was just a case of how big a score would they pile up.

Hardisty 5 - Viking 1

The second game went to the Stampe who got away to an early 4-0 lead on "rush" goals in the first stanza. Viking played tight hockey and held the Stampe almost scoreless in the 2nd and 3rd periods. Brooks in the Viking nets played suberb goal after a shakey first period start.

Hardisty 2 - Killam 1

Almost flawless refereeing by Er Mayne, gave the crowd a thriller in the final game, with both teams held scoreless until late in the encounter. Those two teams are well matched, as indicated by their 1-2 standing in the Battle River League.

THE BIBLE TODAY

The New York World Fair in 19 63 is to have a Protestant Exhibit. The nature of a symbol for this exhibition has been causing concern. The Christian Century, a non-denominational magazine published in the U. S. A. has been inviting readers to submit ideas for a symbol to express Protestant Christianity.

About half of the submissions of readers have something to do with the Bible. Most of these have suggested an "open" Bible. Then editors have replied: "If we are really honest would not a closed Bible, covered with dust and crammed with yellowing obituaries, be a better symbol of theastat state of Protestantism".

The Editors went on to say that the open Bible did however commend itself as appropriate because people do "choose an image in order to grow into it".

The beginnings of new interest in the Bible are showing themselves in many Protestant Churches of North America. Bible Study seems to be "one the way back", according to some church authorities.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Well, it's stock-taking time in the old firm and one look around confirms my suspicion — that the shelves are pretty bare. I don't know about you but I'll bet you're in the same shape I am — exactly where I was, financially, physically and morally, when 1962 got under way.

I've given it my best for the last 52 weeks, but apparently the best is none too good. In fact, if it's possible I've slipped back a notch or two in some of the categories mentioned above. Financially, I'm dead even up to my ears in debt. Physically I've gone to seed, piling on a lot of extra poundage until I'm up to a lardy 140 pounds, with my snowboots on. Morally, I think perhaps I've gained a couple of optimetres. I haven't gone off the weed and on the wagon, but I have stopped lying to the kids about Santa Claus, and what a help to my parents I was when I was their age.

Looking back over the past 12 months, I don't see anything worth clinging my new belt in the air about. I helped run another 180-odd kids through the education grinder. Only major investment in our home fly was produced by young Hugh, who picked off the highest mark in the school for his piano exam, and fired his parents momentarily into orbit when he semis at Carnegie Hall somenight in the future.

He and Kim grew a foot each, doubling our grocery bill in the process. The Old Bastard got a little mellower, failing, for the first 12 month period in our marriage, to hit me with anything except the flat of her hand. Our cat had eight kittens. And we managed to meet our payments. That's a pretty good epitaph in these times: "He Kept Up His Payments."

Not an inspiring performance by the Smileys in 1962, but an average one. If the country had done as well, we'd all have reason to be satisfied. But it didn't. The past year is not one that will go down in history as the finest hour of the true north strong and freezing. I'm afraid.

On the social front, booze sales boomed, a healthy sign for distillery stock-holders, but not for the nation at large. But we can't blame that on the people. We must blame it on the weather. This country is a drinker's delight. He has to take a drop to keep out the cold in winter, is so delighted when spring finally arrives that he must celebrate, needs extra beverage intake to counter the summer's torrid blast, and finds the nip in the air conducive to sipping elsewhere, in the fall.

Once again, Canadians revealed their sturdy political independence, and little else, in a general election. About the same time, they betrayed with no little dismay that the country was heading for the rocks, despite all those desperate ends at wholeheartedly and blasphemously every April.

In international affairs, Canada moved boldly from a weak position to a weaker one, ending the year with about the same world prestige as Monaco.

At home, we worried about the same old things: the Yanks overwhelming us, the whooping crane vanishing, the way we treat our Indians, our just-perked mental institutions, our lack of a flag and the national anthem, free medicare, and capital punishment, without doing anything about any of them.

In the entertainment field, we watched with pride as Canada's own Bob Goulet became one of the continent's most sought-after performers. We watched with wry amusement as Stratford's own Tom Patterson add an assortment of the century's biggest rubes the Yahoo Festival. We watched with horror as Quebec's own (thank goodness) Real Caouette emerged from tadpole to toad.

Again in 1962, Canadians spent most of their time talking about the weather, money and their cars, and almost none of their time talking about love, beauty and goodness. Again they talked of the world's hungry and stuffed their own guts. Again they talked tolerance and practised prejudice.

Oh well, it's the only game in town, and maybe '63 will be better. There's only one way we can go and it isn't down. And don't mind me, I always get ugly at this time of winter.

LIVESTOCK OUTLOOK!

Hog and beef cattle prices in 1963 may not be as high as they were in 1962, but in general, the price situation should be quite favorable according to the recent federal-provincial Agricultural Outlook conference. It appears that the trend to increased cattle feeding will continue in 1963. Larger marketings of fed cattle are expected in the province, as a result of better fall grazing, more winter feed, and improved spring grazing prospects. In the U. S. fed cattle marketings will probably rise this winter above the year ago levels, producing a possible $2.00 to $3.00 drop in prices. However, the general outlook seems fairly strong.

FARMER'S SHARE!

I thought it rather interesting to learn from the Meat Packers Council of Canada that on the average the livestock producer receives 60c out of every $1.00 that the consumer spends on meat and meat products. It is often stated that he receives less than 50c of the consumer dollar, for an average of all farm products.

REGISTERED SUFFOLK RAM SHEEP!

A. J. Charnetski, Livestock Supervisor with the Alberta Department of Agriculture, stresses that sheep must have continuous access to loose iodized salt during the winter if they are to keep healthy and to produce healthy lambs in the spring. Salt is a most important digestive system regulator in all types of livestock, especially those which winter on dry feed. It creates the desire to drink more water which in turn aids digestive absorption of nutrients and facilitates better elimination.

CURLING NEWS

Hardisty's new community centre curling arena was initiated by the Rosyth Curling Club, when Plante, Kobizack, Manning, Maurer, Moody etc., accompanied by a whole band of attractive lady sports, threw rocks under the bright lights. With the ice a bit heavy in the mild centre some of the stones were not very rational but everyone enjoyed it.

The Hardisty Ladies Club had the new catering set-up staffed and the usual group of arm-chair experts was on hand to pass comment on the strategy and skill.

A get-togetherist bonspiel is in progress, and to show the unfairness of the whole deal, skips Ian Harrison and Jimmy Dewey, who have been very native in getting the building and ice in shape, were briefly dropped into the secondary event in their first attempt.

So we're off and running, and if you haven't seen the place, and don't have fun there, buy you need a tonic bad. Remember, even if you live 30 miles away, it's only a half hour drive until you are on the ice, if you belong. More reports later.

PREMIER, LARGE CROWD, Brave Sub-Zero Weather

Staff Writer

SEDGEWICK —

Well organized, uniquely presented, nicely executed, were some of the expressions used by the Hon. E. C. Manning to describe the January 10th Rally of the Sedgewick Constituency Young Social Creditors, at which he was the featured speaker. The Rally was attended by a large crowd estimated at close to 300, representing nearly every district in the Sedgewick Constituency. Other guest speakers were Orvis Kennedy, the President of the Alberta Social Credit League, and J. C. Hillman, M.L.A. for this constituency.

Chairman Ray Puttage, who is also president of the Young Social Credit Group, introduced Mayor H. W. Smith, who brought greetings from the Village, and welcomed the large audience. A group of the Young Social Creditors also welcomed them with a rousing welcome song.

UNIQUE MOVEMENT

Elmar Brendigen, group secretary, introduced Mr. Hillman, who was the first speaker. Mr. Hillman, after congratulating the group on their well-organized meeting, told the audience that S. C. was a unique movement, stating that the Edmonton Journal had said as much in describing a recent convention in a favorable manner. "Everyone" he said "knows that the Journal is not exactly to admirer of the Social Credit movement." Mr. Hillman said that Alberta is unique too, in that it has a favorable credit balance of what amounts to $200 per capita compared to an unfavorable balance in other provinces of up to $350 per capita. He said that direct taxes are almost unknown in Alberta, and that if you did not drive a vehicle or drink liquor you paid practically no direct provincial tax.

At this point a vocal duet by Shirley Olsen and Mary Albrecht, with Mrs. Wayne Lusty at the piano, was well received.

ORGANIZATIONS ARE LIKE TRACTS

Mr. Orvis Kennedy was introduced by the group vice-president, Mr. Barry Gascoyne. Mr. Kennedy arranged his address around a trite bit of philosophy, that a chain is not stronger than its weakest link. Every link must be strong to give complete strength to the chain. He said that all organizations are like chains and the group is only as strong as each individual unit in it. He emphasized that the government is a chain made up of links, stretching from local groups on down to the M.L.A. On the last and Premier. Each one must be a strong link in the organizational chain, must be active and kept in operation to prevent erosion. In closing Mr. Kennedy praised the group for their activity, and reminded them that they are the ones who will become the future leaders.

The Hon. E. C. Manning was introduced by Ray Puttage, and in his remarks said that under the leadership of Mr. Manning Alberta had been raised to the status of the outstanding province in Canada. Mr. Manning was escorted onto the stage by six young lady members of the S.C. group singing their theme song.

The Premier, obviously moved by the demonstration, said that such a welcome went a long way to offset some of the rough going over the years. He expressed pleasure at the number of young people present, for to them will fall the duty of leadership in the future. The social and economic problems of today are personal to young people for their future depends on what is done today. Current economic and social conditions are relatively good in Canada at present, and living standards are higher than in most countries; social services are good, and nowhere in Canada are they better than in Alberta. Yet there is a trend toward anxiety among the people, stemming from four main causes — changing status of individuals toward collectivism; changing status of government and increasing demand upon it to assume responsibilities that once were accepted by the individual — responsibilities that now extend almost from the cradle to the grave The function of government, he said, is to govern, to do for people what they cannot do for themselves. The third reason Mr. Manning gave for the feeling of anxiety, was the decentre search for security, and the fourth is the changing financial trend.

COST OF GOV. RISES

The Premier said that in 1940 the cost of all government was $276 per capita, while in 1962 it was $978. Today 43 percent of the earnings of the people go to pay cost of government, and he warned that we are only 7 percentage points away from complete statism. State security demands a high price in taxes and a loss of independence. The pyramiding debt and trend toward credit buying is extracting a high percentage of our income.

According to the Premier the old line parties are not solving our problems. True parties are each different and have clear-cut policies, but today the old parties are so much like they cannot be separated; each is striving to do the same thing and gives more, doing it bigger and better a little of this, a little of that. And it is up to you to get a little of something, but what? He said that Socialists, even if we don't agree with their policies, are at least honest in their ideals, though contrary to the desires of freedom-loving people. Mr. Manning said that S. C. philosophy is based on four principles: importance of the individual; government to govern and not regulate; security of freedom, and the principle that what is physicently possible should be financially possible. He said we are limited by our dollars not by our physical skill and capacity. Social Credit would bring purchasing power into existance, debt free. The volume of money should equal all goods and services the people need and want. This could expand the economy, reduce debt, reduce taxes and solve the problem of security.

The Premier concluded by stating that Alberta was practically debt free, was one of the few provinces without a sales tax, and enjoying a much improved standard of living in the federal field. Mr. Manning said, the old parties have no solution to the problems of the country. Social Credit has. It has made Alberta the bright spot in Canada, with the highest increase in population, because people from all over Canada see in Alberta a bright spot for a future.

Following the meeting, the Premier and his party, the Press, S. C. Group members, and guests were entertained at a luncheon.

Staff Writer

KILLAM —

During the early morning hours of January 11th, thieves forced the rear door of the warehouse of the Killam Co-op Store and made off with an estimated $1500 worth of merchandise of all kinds. After breaking open the door at the rear of the store the thieves gained entry to the main department by smashing in a window.

Using what is believed to be about a half-ton truck the thieves loaded several grocery cart loads of men's jackets, jeans pants, blankets, mitts, gloves and other clothing, along with several radios, watches, etc, and rolled the loot to the back door for loading.

Several jackets and pairs of slacks were left at the back door, indicating that the vandals were frightened off. A few jackets and a T V set were found in the lane, apparently falling from the truck in the getaway.

Store manager R. A. Bober, says the loss was covered by insurance. Police are investigating.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

A blizzard is howling about the house. That man with the piece of chalk in each hand has just informed me that the temperature is 15 below. He didn't have to. My arthritis had already given me the message.

These are the wray days of deep midwinter, when one is sorely tempted to get drunk, or take off for Tahiti, solo, or just wander off and lie down quietly in a snowbank.

There's only one thing that saves my sanity each winter. That is the certainty that there are several months of the scorching evening of controversial conversation ahead.

Every winter I feel sorry for people in lush tropical country. What in the world can they find to talk of? How bored they must become with nothing to melt over but love, religion, politics and the heat! No wonder they're so emotionally trigger-happy and so prone to revolutions, just to break the monotony.

We Canadians, besides being the healthiest, happiest, richest and best-looking people in the world, are easily also the most eloquent conversationists in existence. We are never so destitute of conversational gambits that we have to fall back on such hackneyed themes as art, the soul, love, or mother's indomitable woman. Never.

For six months of the year we discourse brilliantly on fishing. The Best, babies, The Cottage, gardening, The Car. The last-mentioned, of course, appears as often in our dialogue as deity does in that of less favored races.

But it is the other six months, the winter, that we really come into our own, conversationally. During the long black nights, listen in on almost any conversation in our land, and you will marvel at the fecundity of intellect, the subtleties of expression, the rapier-like parry and thrust of controversy.

What you may ask, is the counter that makes Canadian converse so rich and heady in the winter? Let's listen in and find out. We'll sneak in on a typical January party, in an average home, where are gathered hearty and chivalry, fair women and brave men. Typical Canadians, in short.

Mark is the young matron, her simple dignity and warmth of countenance greatly marred by the purple eyelids and slight double chin. "We like the oil, cus p' don't hafta feel with it. Just set 'er and she stays the way p' want 'er. A course, the mink I turn it up a bit, Jim runs over and turns it down. Says I'll raise us.' Giggling.

Speaks with courtly grace the gentleman on her left. "Ah, you can have that oil. Rico expoire. Gimme the good ol' coal, with a man she knows how to hoomal that furnace. I mean p' get that real hot heat." Supercilliously.

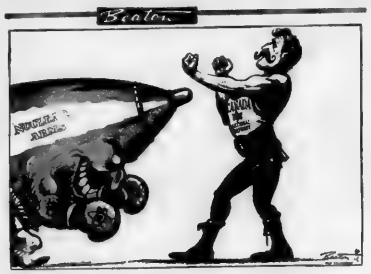
"Yah, butchu gotta have a good fan, or she doesn't kick heat around," says the dormure little woman across from him. "We like the electric convection. Georges use to spuff something terrible when he lied in shovel, but now he dumper oven hafta go down, only every couple days, so it gives 'm more time to help 'im dishes. Wishing golly at the helpless George.

"Bepcha like," contributes another tongue gallant, leaning across, "that I'll take wood. He little more work, but she's quiet and she's hot. An' p' never hafta worry about clothes, cus the farmers never go on strike." Triumphately.

And so it goes. Of course, that's only a rough sample of what makes our midwinter conversation fascinating. Here words could never convey the intensity of emotion, the nuances of meaning, but cannot in these clashes of wit.

But you needn't talk to me about the brilliant discourses in the cafes of 19th century France. Tell me not of the sparkling exchanges among the dons of Oxford. Just give me any group of red-blooded, furnace-minded Canadians in midwinter, and I'll settle back happily, waiting for the opportunity to thrill them with the story of how I almost put in a new dust-burner one winter.



No Time Now For Indecision!

However natural it may be for peace-loving people to live and work under the assumption that by appearing weak and defenceless, compassion will be shown by their natural enemies, it is an erroneous supposition. The Great Creator, realizing this fact of a lustful and humanly manipulated earth, made provision for the so-called lower animal life to be equipped with defences for their protection and survival. That's why rabbits change color, porcupines have quills and skunks have an odor; purely for defence against enemies who are devoid of the same desire for a peaceful existence. Carrying this line of reasoning to a higher level, that of human relations, we discover that the day has arrived when peaceful nations, if they desire to survive, must protect themselves against unscrupulous enemies. Having no natural means of protection against such today, they must develop and have ready such instruments of protection as their ingenuity may conceive. To be used offensively if the necessity requires. NATO and NORAD were conceived in an attitude of defence, but advances in the offensive field have made the latter somewhat useless, and western thinking will make the former just as useless. Any member of NATO that refuses to live up to its commitments to the organization, had better get out. Canada has spent over 600 million dollars on nuclear weapon carriers, which are to all intened purpose useless without nuclear warheads. The governmental indecision of the past months in this regard, has, to say the least, become annoying, and it is gratifying that at least one party to the indecision has come out and made a firm commitment on the matter, whether it is pleasing to our thinking or not. However, it is useless to try and send the whole subject to the people for a decision. Our defence policy plainly cannot be dictated by the whims of a vast number of people who themselves seldom know exactly what they do want. It is just as useless parade to sit idle and do nothing because some friendly neighbor has sufficient deterrent to ward off any danger. Canada wants to be a big voice in international affairs; then let her act like a grown-up member of the world community. The day of indecision is past.

THE SHORTER WEEK? (Guest Editorial)
(From the Wingham Ontario Advance Times)

Perhaps you have noted that the merchants in some nearby towns have been holding discussions on the possibility of closing their stores all day Monday of each week. With all respect to the merchants' problems, we think they must be losing their minds. They contend that it is hard to get help for more than five days a week. Perhaps this is so, but we think they should give a little serious thought to the service they provide to the public as well. Closing Monday would mean a two-day week-end and all housewives would cuss her storekeeper roundly for the extra nuisance of providing for the longer period closed. Most merchants are delving into every possibility to develop more business. It hardly seems consistent to expect more business in five days a week than they are getting in five and a half days. They are also blind to present day trends. In the larger towns the big shopping centres are lengthening shopping hours rather than reducing them. They are doing so in cities where the help problem is much more acute. These city merchants are out for every new customer they can get. Do the small town merchants want to hand feed their city competitors with a whole new wave of Monday buyers?

PRESBYTERIAN LADIES ASSN.

The January meeting of the Presbyterian Ladies Assn. was held in the church with Mrs. Hobert Hartt as hostess. The devotions were under the joint direction of Mrs. Russell Grant and Mrs. Kenneth Grant. The topic, The Christian Church on the Rim of East Asia, proved very interesting and informative.

The business meeting consisted of annual reports for the year, and new officers and committees drawn up. Delegates were chosen to attend the annual Presbyterial meeting in Edmonton. Plans were made to have the Feb. meeting take the form of a pot-luck luncheon at home of Mrs. M. Gibb. Meeting closed with the Benediction. Lunch was served by Mrs. A. P. Grant and Mrs York, assisted by Mrs. H. Hartt.

At a meeting of the F. U. and C. D.A. in FUA District 6 (West of 150 meridian) it was decided to have two-day courses for sub-district directors. One will be held at Stony Plain Hotel on Feb. 27 and 28 for sub-districts 1, 2, 3 and 4. The second course will be held at Wildwood on March 6 and 7. FUA bonds in District 6 will hold one meeting per year, commencing in January, to discuss co-operatives and co-operation. A speaker will be available for these meetings and a film will be shown. In sub-districts 1, 2 and 3, one day courses on parliamentary procedure will be organized for presidents, vice presidents and secretaries of F.U.A. bonds. The Manitoba Farmers' Union has passed a resolution at their annual convention to raise the membership dues to $10.00 a year.

The Gill report doesn't contain proposals to bring farm laborers under the Unemployment Insurance Act. The FUA, realizing the difficulties involved, believes that ways will be found, perhaps by a simpler method than used for the other segments of the labor force, to extend the Unemployment Insurance benefits also to farm help.

The annual convention of the F. U. A. passed a resolution opposing taxation of farm buildings. An amendment to this resolution had defined these buildings as those "used by bona fide farmers and ranchers."

From 1941 to 1961 the number of farm operators in Canada dropped from 732,000 to 481,000, a decrease of 35 percent.

In 1941, 160,000 farm tractors were in use in Canadian agriculture. This number has increased to 550,000 in 1961, with a corresponding increase in all other labor saving machinery. — Between 1941 and 1961 capital resources in Canadian agriculture have increased by 170 percent.

NEW HOSPITAL COMPLEX To Serve Flagstaff - Beaver

KILLAM —

Shown above is the architect's model of the new hospital complex now under construction at Killam. Included in the project is a new 30-bed General Hospital being built by the Sisters of St. Joseph, and a 50-bed Auxiliary Hospital by the Flagstaff-Beaver Auxiliary Hospital District No. 20. These two hospitals are connected by a common service area containing kitchen, laundry and other services.

The new General Hospital will replace the present one opened in 1920 with 9 beds, & increased to 27 in '46. This building will later become a residence for the staff. Diagnostic Clerks and Accountants will occupy the architects.

The plan of the 30-bed General designed by this firm is the one adopted by the Department of Health as the master plan of other community hospitals being built at other Alberta points. Bird Construction has been awarded the contract for construction, total cost to be about $614,000, exclusive of furnishings.

In addition the Sisters of St. Joseph will construct a Sisters' residence and chapel adjacent to the new hospital.

The new complex will include provision for the interdenominational church ministry in the nursery area, a service that will be appreciated by lengthy patients. Physiotherapy, hydrotherapy and work therapy will be provided. Large visiting areas are available as well as provision for the showing of films and for entertainment for shut-ins.

The Auxiliary will be operated by the Sisters of St. Joseph under contract to the Board of the Flagstaff-Beaver Hospital District.

The Medical staff will comprise all doctors within the Flagstaff and Beaver bounds, while admission will be controlled by a screening board.

It is expected that completion will be in the fall.

FRIENDS HELP ART FALLA "COME OF AGE"

Friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Koehli recently to honor Art Falla on his 'teen birthday. A lovely bouquet of flowers from nephew Dr. D. McPherson and family of Lethbridge, and a cake baked by Mrs. R. Danielson and decorated by Mrs. Mynaberg, centred the table. Norman McPherson of Edmonton was also MC and read an "Ode to Art," and Mrs. Neil McPherson also read one, both being a great hit with the gathering. Gifts were presented from the family and friends, and lunch was served, topped with a birthday cake. The rest of the party was such a complete surprise, made it much more enjoyable than usual, and rendered the guest of honor speechless almost.

Tax Supervisors Speak At B. of T.

The business session of the regular meeting of the Sedgewick Board of Trade was cancelled on the evening of January 16th, to allow time for special speakers and a lengthy question-and-answer period. The discussion was preceded by the regular dinner, served by St. John's W. A.

Mr. Walter D. Sharpe, Supervisor of Farm Assessing and Mr. Norman Morgan, in charge of Commission, Investment and Salary Assessing, were the speakers. Both were from the Department of National Revenue, Edmonton District Office.

Mr. Sharpe gave a brief run-down of the Edmonton Office, which, he said covers the Province from north of Red Deer to the Arctic. The Taxation Division administers the Income Tax Act passed by Parliament, and has no control over the Act. The Minister of National Revenue is responsible for the policy. This year all 1962 income tax returns will be mailed to Ottawa by the taxpayer. T1 General and T1 Short forms come in sets of two, in an envelope for mailing. Each set contains an appropriate information sheet. As in the past, the revised copy of the 1962 Farmer's & Fisherman's Guide is available at all post offices. They contain blank financial statements and a wealth of information.

Exemption for dependents is raised for 1962 to $300 for children qualified for family allowance, and $500 for other dependents. The ceiling on dependent earnings is still $1000.00.

Using a blackboard to illustrate various aspects of tax deductions, capital cost allowances, establishing a basic bond, and other interesting information, Mr. Sharpe and Mr. Morgan gave detailed answers to a long list of questions from the more than sixty people present.

The meeting was presided over by Board president Clyde Clark, and Mr. Murray Wilde, D. A., introduced the guest speakers.

SEDGEWICK —

Severe sub-zero weather notwithstanding, the large hall at Sedgewick was filled to capacity for the annual Burns Night program sponsored by the local F.U.A. This annual event, which has been staged for some years, has become one of the outstanding terms of entertainment in the local field, and this year's presentation lived up to the usual high standard. Mr. Tom Bruce, president of the F.U.A., welcomed the large crowd in his usual pleasant manner, and turned the evening over to Jas. Hallum who acted as M. C. for the lengthy and varied program, introducing the various performers in a capable manner.

Piper Walter Muir of Edmonton entertained during the evening, and also gave the address to the Immortal Bard. His piercing and factual address was well received.

The dancers for the evening were Heather Muir and Caroline McNicol, and Robt. Murray, accordionist enlivened both musical numbers. The other performers were, Ken Macleren, soloist, Mrs. Annie Parker, Barbara Hallum, Sandy Dawson all as soloists; Isabel and Lorraine Perrier, vocal duet and a quartet of Barbara, Isabel, Lorraine and Marlene Wilde. Rev. Craig, Maxine Sentscot, Mrs. Brown, Carol Taylor and Mrs. Wilde were accompanists at the piano.

Mrs. Claude Magee rendered a vocal solo, as did Mr. Rolf Jacobsen, while the latter teamed with Mrs. Jacobsen in a vocal duet.

Following the program, lunch was served in the hall, and the evening concluded with a public dance.

TRAFFIC DEATHS ON THE INCREASE!

Alberta in 1962 reached an all time high in traffic fatalities, out-killing the black year of 1961 which recorded 277 deaths. Mr. Paul Lawrence, Safety Council Manager, puts it very aptly when he said that the only way to stop this yearly increase is to stop killing NOW. The way things have been going the past two years or so, the accident total is running from 10 to 15 percent higher each year, and injury tolls 7 percent. Last year was indeed a black year for Alberta, and the above figures are the best reason I know of for a return to observing our traffic rules. Every traffic death besides taking a life, brings untold human suffering, sorrow and expense. During the early part of 1962 Alberta accidents were snuffing out a life at the rate of 1 for every 250 accidents, but by the end of October this ratio was one in every 65.7 accidents. Likewise, at the first of the year, an injury occurred for every 6.5 accidents, but later in the year it was one in every 3.6. Statistics have shown of course that alcohol has a good part in the problem, but there are other factors which enter the picture also. For instance, poor eyesight, physical disabilities, non-attention to the chores of driving, and speeding, to mention a few. There is no doubt that speed is a factor of no little proportion, especially speed under unsafe driving conditions. That is why I find it difficult to go along with the Hon. Gordon Taylor's contention that higher speeds are necessary in the traffic laws.

Mixed up human beings are unable to judge speed or distance or to follow traffic patterns and react quickly to emergencies and hazards. That is probably why traffic deaths are heaviest at the seasons of holidays when most of the public seems to give in to a mood of gay abandon, hilarity and excitement. There is the socially-accepted custom of serving alcoholic beverages to guests and the ensuing danger of overdoing it. Hosts have a responsibility to see that guests leave in condition to drive. Too many drinks affect first that area of the brain that controls the higher functions such as judgement, reaction time and vision. Next to be affected are balance and co-ordination. In that condition, not even a superman can consider himself a safe driver. If you drive, don't drink. Once behind the wheel, start practicing goodwill by being patient, courteous and driving defensively, that is being careful to consmi no driving error yourself and making allowances for lack of skill and knowledge on the part of the other person, either pedestrian or motorist. If your head is clear, you will recognize an accident-producing situation far enough in advance to apply the necessary preventive action.

By Bill Smiley

We go coast to coast this week. And as usual, I'm belated, but thanks anyway to those readers who sent cards and notes at the Christmas season. They're appreciated. In my better moments, I tell myself that there are about a million people, give or take a couple, reading this column every week. But sometime late at night, column not going well, squirrels scampering, wind howling and lam shee blues around the window, I feel as though I'm writing in an immense void.

Think I'll have to go down and this summer, I'm going great there. Lovely card, with angelly, from Cyndy Godbold of Bridgewater, N. S. Nice note from Miss S. Purkes, Halifax, enclosing an advertisement that reads, "Why, you haven't been to GERMANY yet! Plan your trip now." She said it made her think of me.

Sorry, I've been in Germany. In those bairyon days they didn't have to advertise. All sorts of tourists were dropping into the country. Most of them by parachute. They didn't spend a lot of money. Yet, despite this flow, they were warmly welcomed by the natives. I still have a lump over my right ear to prove it.

Chap in Alymer, Ont., dropped a note to say a column of mine got him in trouble, a year ago. Apparently I had come home, late, cold, wet, tired and had crawled into bed with the old spouse a bit the worse for wear. I referred to a little box stove (And I'll stand by it). Chap in Aylmer did the same thing, but got a little mixed in his metaphors, and said to his wife, "You remind me of an old pot-bellied heater."

Mrs. Frank Rastin of Mount Brydges, Ont., sent a note revealing that there are still a few real Christians abroad. She referred to a column of which I had mentioned Mrs. Malloch, an elderly lady, sick and alone, who had found new joy in hand out (I say it humbly) for bringing a little warmth into her life. Mrs. Rostin enclosed a letter, full of interest and cheer for Mrs. Mallett, asking that I forward it.

Old friends, Mrs. Viola Nickerson of Massachusetts, and Mrs. Paul Rotz of Red Deer sent cards, with friendly notes. Margaret Hemsworth, line operator at the Perin Star, suggested an addition to my list of Christmas gifts: Giving the last 20 years back to the unhappy people. She adds, rather cynically, "I'll bet they couldn't do any better."

I agent a good part of Christmas Day on my typing to get the blighted boots into the blasted harness. This kind of thing is second only to erecting the Christmas tree in our family convulsions.

That Boxing Day is the best day of the year, so far as I'm concerned. Peace in their time. Friends with noggins. Kids off somewhere in the wild, white yonder. A great sense of relief. Technique of anecdotes. With message.

One was about the North Sonn in-law who had a great desire to be king. With this in view, he saved up, purchased a botanical throne. But he had the election, or something. Put the throne away in the back room, to use on better times. Had a fire. House burned down. Moral: people who live in grass houses shouldn't stow thrones.

Another story was mathematical. Indian background. Rule of tribe: master must gratify requested gift for potential bride. Young chief wants wife. She wants No. 1 buffalo hide. Easy. Then wants later, chief decides to take second wife. She wants polar bear hide. Chief sent braves. Months later they return with hide. Nuptials celebrated. Ten years later, chief spots beautiful maid. She wants hippopotamus hide. — Chief sent braves. Four years later, they return, with hide. Nuptials celebrated. Pretty soon, first two wives complain, "You spend as much time with new wife as you do with both of us together."

Chief replies, "Much. Easily. Square on hippopotamus hide to aura of squaws on other two hides."

And that reminds me of the old, little, grunting hound, whose only service was to join her precedence mate, and go to the Happy Hunting Hound, but perhaps we'll leave that for another day.

SKI SLOPE look is shown by Miss Lodders of Holland, holder of the "Miss World" title. She wears the combination of ski pants and knitted ornamental tunic in fashion on ski slopes this winter.—

barley plus three pounds of hog per day. The level of barley feeding in each of the four groups was the same, as mentioned for the hay, except group 4, which received 1 1/2 pounds of barley per 100 pounds of body weight. As with many animal experiments the unexpected often happens. One animal died while on the old barley from over eating while none showed any symptoms of poisoning when they were switched over to freshly harvested barley. Also these results give some indication, further work is required before any final answer is obtained.

WHEAT CROPPING AND FERTILITY

E. D. Sprout, Indian Head Experimental Farm Researcher, says that growing wheat only has given a 25 percent reduction in organic matter content of the soil in 50 years. This is in comparison tosoils under permanent pasture. Land that was under a 7 year rotation of grains, fallow & grass-legume mixtures only, declined 16 percent. He has also found that the phosphorus content of the surface soil has declined 16 percent in the wheat-only plots, and 8 percent in the rotation plots compared with pasture alone.

This seems to be a slow reduction but when it is realized soil erosion could be greatly speeded up with a loss of 26 percent of the organic matter, we realize how important it is.

Rose- Baker Final In Brier Playoffs

The Mick Baker rink of Killam won the "A" section in local Brier playdowns last Sunday by defeating the Norman Rose rink. The Roses went on to win the "B" section, and will meet Baker later this week to decide the winner to go to Edmonton and compete in the Nor. Alta. finals. As these two strong teams appear fairly even in rank, it should provide lots of thrills for the "behind the window" curling enthusiasts. The Roses must win two in a row, while a single win for the Bakers, puts them in.

The Rose rink is made up of Norm Rose, Gordie Hilker, Norval Smith and Ralph Sivesheker, while Mick Baker has "Doc" McQuarrie, Marvin Bruce and "Bert" De Abreu. The other rinks in the playoff were the Connie Ingvaldson rink, with Neil Cameron, Abe Martin and Cliff Roggenstaetz; a rink from Tofield and one from Viking.

Senior Brier Playoffs

Three rinks were entered in the Senior Brier playoffs, which is something new added this year. Sedgewick's George Anderson rink, with Ralph Cooper, Clyde Clark and John Hopkins, was the affair in the three-ring play-around. The other rinks were the Orval Preist foursome from Lougheed, made up of Orval, L. Cameron, Geo. Hunt and Grove. Tofield lead the other contender.

The Sedgewick rink now goes on to Edmonton next week to play in the Northern Alberta Playdowns.

Merna H. and S.

The monthly meeting of the Merna Home and School was held at the school on January 15th, with rather a small attendance. Meeting called to order by president and opened with O Canada. Minutes were read and treasurer's report given.

It was brought to the attention of those present that the grade 2 to 6 boys wished to form a hockey team, and obtain someone to coach them. Mr. Anderson kindly consented to do this.

A discussion followed concerning the sponsoring of the Merna 4H Beef Club in the public speaking contest if they wished to participate. It was decided to have these members present their speeches at the next H. S. meeting (date to be announced) at which time the two best would be chosen to go on to compete with the other clubs. It is hoped that many will turn out to hear the young people and encourage them in this educational work.

Two very interesting films on the freighting of goods by truck into the U. S. from Canada, and the early days of Dawson City in the gold rush days with commentary by Pierre Berton, followed by one in a lighter vein were much enjoyed.

Following lunch the members saw a display of art work done by Mr. Stover's grades 5, 6 and 7 students, which was very interesting.

Knox U.C.W. Meets

There was a good attendance at the January meeting held at home of Mrs. Fred Sherwood Sr., when the program for 1963 was prepared. Mrs. Mc Mahon led the worship period and Mrs. R. Wegenast gave the study.

Members of the UCW will take turns to be in charge of the kitchen strip on Sundays. It was voted to hire a janitor. The annual reports were given, and was reported at the annual church meeting.

A St. Patrick Tea will be held on March 16th. Allocations were accepted for the year.

F.U.A. Newsletter

A resolution recommending that private game farms be licensed in Alberta, in areas which are unsuited to farming, was endorsed by the A.F.A. convention. Delegates felt that the establishment of such farms would take the pressure off game birds in the settled areas & thereby remove the frequent problems of injured livestock, it might also help to put an end to fences which are caused by a few careless individuals. Such problems give rise to ill feeling on the part of farmers toward all hunters, although only a few are to blame. Such problems could be handled if licensed game farms in isolated areas were permitted.

Plumbing of the Common Market, the president of the AFA, Mr. J. M. Hently, said at the annual meeting of the AFA: "There are two basic dangers in this that cannot be glossed over, or ignored, as we examine what implications this has for our exports to the area. The first of these is that the target prices for the Common Market, particularly in France and Italy. The second danger is that because of the high prices for wheat, the millers will turn more to the use of corn, grown a most which is some cheaper, in order that their profits will not be unduly high. There are, however, some hopeful aspects to this situation. None of these complications can prevent the high quality of wheat produced in Western Canada. As their production of low quality wheat increases, they will have to import the strongest wheats available if they are to maintain the quality of their bread. It is possible that we may soon be able to sell high quality wheat in both France and in Italy.

All the provinces in Canada have signed agreements with the Federal Government to participate in projects to be undertaken under the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act. This Act has given us the vehicle by which the Federal and the Provincial Governments can co-operate in the activities of programs so that farmers in depressed areas, in marginal and sub-marginal land can be assisted in changing to alternate use of their lands. There must be co-operation between governments and also between governments and local people if the program is to be successful.

In Alberta the initial projects now being planned are the conversion to grass of marginal crop land to be converted into community pastures. As these projects are developed, and new ones planned, it is hoped that our farm organizations co-operate so that practical programs can be implemented so that this Act can be fully utilized for the betterment of agriculture and the Canadian economy. — PUA News Service.

NIAGARA CHOKED WITH ICE. Canada's most famous scenic spot, Niagara Falls, is in a jam—an ice jam, and the biggest in 60 years. The Niagara River is choked from bank to bank, and caught in its icy clutches above is the tug Good News. The tug broke its mooring and became wedged in the crushing ice.

Search For Talent Coming To Killam

Search for Talent is coming to Killam under auspices of the Killam Legion, according to word received from Sid James, Legion Secretary.

Mr. James announced that the Legion has undertaken sponsorship of the popular show series and have scheduled it for Killam at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, February 23rd, in the Public School Auditoriums.

Mr. James said that the show this year takes on a new format and will provide opportunity for contestants to compete in four competitions. All those planning to perform are urged to register with Mr. James in his insurance office in Killam just as soon as possible. He will provide the additional details relative to registration, auditioning, program placement & the types of competitions available.

Search for Talent is now in its 16th year under the joint sponsorship of the Associated Canadian Travellers and Radio Station CFRN. Proceeds go to the A.C.T. Northern Alberta Cripple: Children's Fund, providing financial assistance for needy crippled children in this area.

This is a non-overlapping service in the form of direct payments for medical, surgical and hospital care. More than 1500 unfortunates have been assisted in this manner in the past fifteen years. More than $500,000 has been raised by the Travellers and more than half of this amount has come from Talent Shows.

Several major changes have been made in the talent presentations this year. Contestants now compete in four divisions. The Primary Competition leads to the Sunwapta Scholarship. The Showmanship Competition features group performers with trophies at each show. The Country and Western Competition is proving very popular, and the Junior Competition features contestants aged 8 to 12 inclusive.

Spotlight Parade, a feature of the previous shows, has been discontinued, and guest performers, as well as entertainers, are now featured in the interim periods between competitions.

Jack Benbow, stage director of CFRN-TV, is producer and Tony Bissonette is M. C. Other guest stars feature Bill Lamport, Maureen Jackson, Molly and Leon Kvitsen and Bob McDonald, three of the A. C. T. and their wives are in charge of the show.

Fire Damages House at Killam

On Monday evening last the Killam Fire Brigade was called to the home of Dr. and Mrs. M. De Abreu, when flames were seen by neighbors, through the window.

The heaviest damage was to some bedroom furniture and to a section of a chesterfield suite. The dense smoke and heat caused some damage to the rest of the house.

IT'S REALLY NOT SO TOUGH!

You think the winter's rough? You think the snow's too deep? You think the thermometer stays down too low too long? Well, we've got news for you. You really haven't been going through so much. The going hasn't been really too rough. Besides that you should have been prepared for whatever the weather brings. You live in Alberta don't you? You know that winter comes. and you should know by now that it can bring anything with it. But as I said, the going hasn't been too rough up to now. Hearken back with me to the days of yore and listen to some of the tales of the old-timers about early winter years in Alberta. To start you off with a real cold one, there is the story, still going the rounds, of years when the mercury sank down out of sight in the thermometers and stayed there for days and days; but this one particularly bitter winter, when a really cold snap hit suddenly, the thermometer on the old sod shanty went down so fast that when it hit the bottom it pulled the nail right off the wall. Well, when it did warm up a mite, it started to snow. It snowed for days and days, and finally when the grub ran low, one old-timer axed his way out through the roof of his two-storey igloo and walked out, on the level, all the way to town for supplies. When he got back the deer had eaten the shingles off the roof. Of course we don't have to put up with that stuff today. We have it easy, even though there was a bad spell one winter in our time, when a car driver, wondering why it felt like he was driving on a wagon load of lumber, got out and discovered that the air in all four tires was frozen solid. Think of these things when you get tired of the cold weather. It has been worse.

NUCLEAR WARHEADS FOR CANADA!

A satirical side-play brought about by a Social Credit member from Quebec in the Commons recently, brought General Norstad back into the picture of nuclear warheads for Canada. The Norstad-Nazis little between the two members was just a continuing of the sarcasm that is flowing back and forth in the house, but what most casual observers are missing is the fact that Norstad's remarks brought forth nothing new. It only renewed something that the government has known for three years and has been sidestepping for the same period. Canada undertook a strike-reconnaissance role in NATO, and in doing so accepted responsibility to use nuclear warheads. She accepted this responsibility for the obviously simple reason that warheads are needed to make the present equipment effective in any degree. If this be not so, then of what earthly use was it to spend $500 million worth of the taxpayers money on CF104's, which in the event of an emergency, are useless and Canadian targets have to be defended by other air units that are armed?Of what use are our Honest John missiles if they are not honest and only filled with ballast?. The government policy of nuclear-if-necessary but not necessarily nuclear is an ostrich-like approach to realism. It is true that Canada can have a non-nuclear role in NATO which the government seems to be favoring. Of course it would mean scrapping our CF104's, loading up with heavy equipment here and in Europe, and taking on a large share in an antisubmarine role, and the washing of $500 million down the drain. If this is what the government is prepared to do, then it is time she told her NATO partners, and then be prepared to go ahead and do it. Canada cannot continue persisting in vacillation, indecision and the quibbling that annoys her allies and is costing her an enormous price in prestige and friendship.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE PAYS!

(Guest Editorial — The Nanton News)

Through the development of our natural resources by private enterprise, Alberta has surpassed every other Canadian province. We have higher individual incomes; we buy more cars and farm equipment; we build more buildings; our province enjoys greater revenues outside of taxes and we enjoy more social services than any other province. Still there are howlers who complain about the "raw deal" we have received from outside investors and who would take over successful businesses in the "interest" of the public. We need the investors who have made it possible for Alberta to reach its present favored position. Why should we deliberately drive them out with policies designed to shake their confidence in our stability?

WHICH WAY WILL THE BALL BOUNCE?

By Bill Smiley

Do you loathe winter with all the intensity of your soul? Do you consider that it is only fit for Eskimos and abominable snowmen? Does your spirit shrink into a cold little gray lump when you look out the window and see that it's snowing again? Does your heart grow hard with hatred when the mercury drops?

Do you shriek, bodycat your little cares, when they come in, plastered with snow, just seven minutes after you have spent a half hour bundling them up to go out, & they whimper "Mum, I hafta wee-wee"?

Do you take the name of the Lord in vain six, every time you go out in the morning and discover that the holy old, jumpin' jessuly snowplow has dumped the daily 10 ton drumlin into your driveway?

Do you wonder, when you receive your oil bill, if they have got your bill mixed up with that of the Chinese Laurier? Do you develop a deep and seething hostility toward old Man Winter who announces they are off for a holiday on the south?

Do your bones ache, your joints creak, your eyes water these days? Do you resent getting up in what seems to be the middle of the night, to go to work?

If the answer to all these questions is a screaming, homicidal "YES," you may relax, friend and neighbor. You are neither senile or odd; perverse or peculiar. There's not a thing wrong with you. You are a typical, normal, average, and honest Canadian.

You have not only my sympathy, but my understanding. I, too, am one of you. I've been through the bit. For the old years I was a plodder through slush, a lunchey of shovelers against blizzards, a cursing payer of fuel bills, a blasphemous scraper of ice off windshields with my fingernails because my bloated scraper was missing.

Oh yes, I was one of you miserable wretches: a bent-backed slave chopping through snowdrifts, a furious shoveler of driveways, a barking seal when that frosty morning air first hit the tattered lungs, an overtired designer of ice off windshields with my fingernails because my bloated scraper was missing.

But, I'm sorry, old buddies; I've left you. That's all behind. I'm on the other side now. I got sick of being a rabbit, and decided to run with the hounds. As a result, a whole new life was opened for me.

Now, I dance blithely to the window at first light to see whether anything fell during the night. I clap my hands and cry "Goody!" when I see that big fresh pile of whitestuff in the driveway. I grumble when the temperature rises. I consider bitterly whenanything white falls from heaven in two days. I grouch about the winter I find myself, I sincerely pity those who have fled to the tropics.

What's happened? I've been skiing

You sir, they get the old mitt out on the skinny sticks last Saturday, and I'm made it down the little hill? hill twice without falling. That was on the 14th and 21st runs.

Oh, they laughed when I sat down the middle I stood up on the things. But they weren't laughing an hour later, when I whizzed down the slope yelling "Geronimo!" of whatever it is skiers yell, leaving over five-yard-wide like five-pins, and taking those eight and 10-inch jumps as though I'd been born within yodelling range of the Matterhorn.

It started out as a mere effort to find out why I bought about a half dozen pairs in a sports shop, at Christmas, for the kids. I started out wearing my golf pants over my deep hunt ing windbreaker, and my old fishing jacket over my curling sweater.

By the end of the day, I was ready to sell my golf clubs, try to get a refund from the curling club, and attempt to trade in my orders and my canoe, if I could only have one of those brilliant sweaters, and a pair of those bullfighter's pants, like the other skiers, and sit around in the chalet drinking coffee, with the best of them.

No more grumbling about winter. No more hatred of snow. No more longing for spring. You should try it. We skiers are hooked, but happy. 'Tis fact. I, filled my first time out so well that I can scarcely wait for next winter (or maybe the next after) to try it again.

WESTERN CANADA FARM SAFETY CONFERENCE!!

During last year there were 150-odd accidents in Alberta, B.C., Sask. and Manitoba. The tremendous toll of lives and injuries that occur in the western prairies each year has prompted the formation of these conferences to see if something constructive can be done about the situation. Hotel accomodations start at $3.75 single and $5 for two, per night. A registration fee of $2 is charged, which includes all meals except two breakfasts. We wish to urge anyone and everyone as individuals or representatives of various organizations to attend this conference. Applicating forms are available from our office at Sedgewick.

RAT CONTROL IN ALBERTA!

Pest control authorities estimate that if rats became established in Alberta, the annual loss would be about $5 mill on dollars. At the present the line of infiltration extends along our eastern border. The rest of the province has been kept free. When one realizes that one rat can do about $20 worth of damage a year and that a pair of rats can produce 50 more rats in the same period, it is not too hard to see that financial losses can run into thousands of dollars. In the U. S. rats destroy over 200 million bushels of grain every year. This means that the rat "bill" in that country amounts to over 2 billions of dollars annually.

Rat control is everybody's job and an effective program must incorporate the destruction of rats, the elimination of rat feed and harborages and the rat-proofing of buildings. Such a program must be adhered to at all times of the year and it must also have the whole-hearted cooperation of both rural and urban people. With Sask. now controlling rats along our eastern border, our program to keep Alberta rat-free is closer to reality. Further information on rat control can be obtained from the bulletin "Rat Control in Alberta", In addition to outlining the organization of the control program in this province and other aspects of rat control which could be used here, the bulletin provides useful advice on preventing rat infestations and trapping with established colonies. It can be obtained, free of charge, from the D.A. office at Sedgewick.

SMALL TALK

By Syms

Do you know the difference between a hare and a rabbit? Here's some some information that will help you ll the difference.

Hares are larger, can jump farther, and the mother are does not make a nest for her young.

You can tell a rabbit because it has shorter ears, they lo not change color in winter, and baby rabbits are born without fur or sight.

CARD OF THANKS

We cannot find words to adequately thank our friends for their many, many acts of kindness, and their words of comfort, in the tragic passing of our only son. Such, only, could have assisted us in our loss and our bereavement. We also thank all who so kindly directed memorials in our behalf. These memorials have been re-directed equally to the Cemetery Fund and the Heart Fund. To Jean Peterson and Albert Nordstrom who have done and still are doing, so much for us in this difficult period of re-adjustment, our heart felt thanks and appreciation. Most Sincerely; Mr. and Mrs. Gus Johnson.

The Bible Today

What's "new" in the Bible? In this first month of the new year a glance at a Concordance of the King James Version of the Bible shows much that is "new". The Bible speaks of a new house, a new wife, a new thing, a new garment, a new gate, a new name, new heaven and new earth. We read of the mercies of the Lord being new every morning.

Here the death of our Lord, He spoke of a new Covenant or New Testament. He was laid in a new sepulchre after His death. "In Christ," says the Apostle Paul, man is a new creature; behold all things are become new," he adds.

Sometimes people think of the Bible as old-fashioned, but those who have met Christ as a living experience testify to the newness of life he brings. "It is not the language that the Bible is written in, so much as the personal encounter with Jesus that is the Good News in my life," said one Christian.

Sponsored by Alberta's Investor-Owned Electric Utilities and, with the participation of this newspaper.

NOMINATE A JUNIOR CITIZEN

Once again this year, exceptional young citizens will be selected for the JUNIOR CITIZEN AWARD — now on a province-wide basis. The number of entries received last year underlined our belief that Alberta has many young citizens deserving of special recognition. Winners selected by a panel of weekly newspaper editors, on behalf of your independent power companies, will receive Canada Savings Bonds and framed certificates. Their achievements will receive the recognition they deserve in the press. We are sure that you must know of a boy or girl who is deserving of this special award.

WHO QUALIFIES?

Any boy or girl in Alberta, 6 to 16 years of age, whom you deem worthy of special recognition, for any outstanding achievement between October 1st, 1962 and July 1st, 1963. Possibly your nominee has performed an act of physical heroism — done outstanding work with a church, school, social or other organization — organized a worthwhile project — achieved scholastic success under adverse circumstances — shown great courage in illness. His or her achievement may be in connection with family, school or community. Therefore, the area of qualification is virtually unlimited. Young people deserving of special recognition in any sphere may be nominated for a JUNIOR CITIZEN OF THE YEAR.

HOW TO NOMINATE.

Send details to the editor of this newspaper. Please include the name, address, and age of the young person you nominate and the name of the power company serving your nominee's area. Be sure to include your own name and address. Six JUNIOR CITIZENS OF THE YEAR will be selected by the executive of the Alberta Weekly Newspaper Association, from the area served by Calgary Power Ltd., two from the area served by Canadian Utilities Limited, and one from Northland Utilities service area.

SPELL OF THE DEEP SNOW

HARDISTY

Hardisty Curling Club staged the "Bonspiel of the Deep Snow" with the best efforts of R. J. and Ian Harrison to keep the events moving, as draws were shuffled like cards. The drifted roads and cold weather prolonged the 36-rink event like the Happy Grey Cup. The excellent cooperation of neighboring clubs, Daysland and Sedgewick especially, set the initial spell in the new curling rink as a standard for future years. A buffet luncheon in the club rooms was just about right. Visiting curlers were generous in their compliments as they relaxed in a sporting atmosphere on Friday night. Credit must also go to Dewitt and Dewey, the icemakers, for a good job.

Dale of Sedgewick became champion, with a win over clubmate Bedley. Norman Rose skipped the winning entry, Grenville Rose and Mervield of Hardisty were in the fours.

In the second event the Norm Sax rink of Lougheed took a close win from John Golka in the finals, after passing Lou Golka earlier. Lee Hendrick's crew also stayed in the fours.

In the third event, Jim Love from Loughee...meets Norville Smith from Sedgewick in the final, with Ian Harrison and Gordon Chalmers of Lougheed the last to bow out. B. Plaude of Rosyth, Geo. Anderson of Sedgewick and Bob Cundrick and Lars Southam of Lougheed were contenders.

STAMPS TRIM VIKING KINGS

Hardisty Stampeders kept pace with the league leaders in winning 8-2 over Viking Can Kings Tuesday. Townsend scored under 5 minutes to put the Kings ahead, and R. Hansen equalized for Stampeders on a play with Dion at 8.20. Gus Kings led the period 3-1. In less than 30 seconds from the face-off Townsend got cophine, stopped a fight in draw with referees, followed by Bjork and Jensen at 2.25. Adams tied the score while the teams were short-handed. Smith scored the winner at 4.55 and Stampeders in two more to set up the game margin.

Stampeders received an unexpected bouquet on Friday when an invitation to meet Vancouver Fliers, Merritt Centennials and Salmon Arm in Central B. C., was extended by Mayor Alan Collett of Merritt, B.C. A tour of the area may be arranged later.

The Bible Today

"If you can't find the answer in your low books, you will find it on that pocket edition of the Bible that is in your saddle bag." Mayor Gordon Stronach of London, Ont. stated recently referring to the early days of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The Mayor stated that his "claim to fame" was the RCMP. Looking for the reason for the high regard held by people of every walk of life, with special reference to Canada's early history, Mayor Stronach indicated that justice was administered faithfully from the precepts of the Bible carried by the pioneers, then called, the Royal Canadian North West Mounted Police.

Speaking at the Mayor's Breakfast on the morning following the inauguration of the London City Council recently, His Worship Mayor Stronach stressed the need for Christian principles to be applied at every level of living, making special reference to those in public office.

The Mayor's Breakfast was sponsored by the London Group of International Christian Leadership. In Washington, D.C., the annual President's Prayer Breakfast is a project of I. C. L. SUNDAY FIRE DESTROYS ANGLICAN CHURCH

SEDGEWICK

St. John's Anglican Church, along with a Christian Education Centre, was completely destroyed by fire on Sunday morning, February 3rd.

The blaze, first noticed by Miss Carol Farquharson, is believed to have started around 9.00 a. m., and had progressed for almost an hour before discovered. When Miss Farquharson entered the hall portion of the building, an explosion of accumulated coal gases, sent the fire into immediate violence. By the time the alarm was turned in and the fire-fighting equipment was set up, the blaze had made such headway that the building could not be saved.

The structure was about 50 percent covered by insurance, and tentative plans are being made for rebuilding in the spring. In the meantime, the United Church has offered its facilities to the congregation of St. John's.

The church was constructed in the year 1911, and was one of the landmarks of the village. The first service in the church was conducted early in 1912. In 1938 the building was moved from the extreme west end of town to the location near the centre of the Village.

The W. A. of the church, which was formed in 1913, had been instrumental in equipping a modern, kitchen in the hall which had been added to the church in the 1960's.

The history of the Anglican Church in Sedgewick dates back to 1907, when it came into being as a Mission, with Rev. A. P. Carter, Rev. D. I. Watkins-Jones who Rector during the time the church was built in 1911-12, followed later by Rev. J. A. Pentridge, A. Bonny, Beauland, F. R. Lyn, R. A. Burge, G. P. Gower, W. M. Naisby, J. J. Burrows, F. A. Peake, A. Lewis, C.E. Wolff, V.P. Cole, F.W. Baker, W. Brooks, Rev. Fowler, Dr. Moore, Rev. Cumberland. The present Rector is Capt. Bloom.

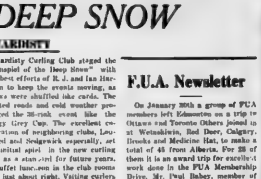
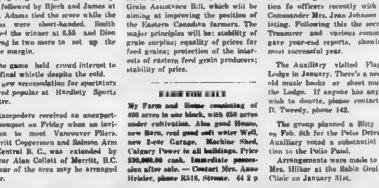
"GUERRILLA WAR IN CHINA"

It is being reported that guerrilla activity inside Red China is on the increase, and is causing mounting confusion through acts of sabotage. Many thousands of Communists troops are being tied down trying to control the situation.





EUROMART CRISIS: Rejection by the Common Market of Britain's membership bid has eased fears of Commonwealth countries—and of Canadian farmers in particular—that they might have been deprived of export sales to the U.K. Drastic reshaping of European affairs now looms with President de Gaulle (left) and Chancellor Adenauer (right) dominating continent in de Gaulle's "grand design" to build a New Europe free of U.S. influence. Prime Minister Macmillan now faces possible disaster in next election for way he banked all on getting into Euromart.—

WHY NOT BE A CANADIAN?

Albert Civil Servants are to be commended on their attitude that government employees should be required to seek Canadian citizenship within six months or give up their jobs to those who are citizens. It is only proper that those who wish to make their living, earn their livelihood in Canada should have enough patriotism to want to be a part of the land affording them the opportunity to live and work in freedom and comfort. Those who are presently employed by government should be required to seek Canadian citizenship, and if not inclined to do so, should be required to leave their positions. Canada can only become as great and as respected as its citizens make it, and people who are not citizens cannot do their full part in the development of the nation.

GATE SIGNS AND NAME PLATES!

This area of the province apparently does not suffer as badly as other communities regarding gate signs on farm properties and name plates on homes in towns & villages, but considerable improvement could be made on this very necessary item in today's society. It is disconcerting to travel about the countryside or cruise up a street looking for a certain home and not be sure which house is the one. A trip about the rural area discloses quite a large number of farmsteads without gate signs, and even the name on the mail box unreadable. Also in our towns, it is amazing how many homes lack name plates. Some progress has been made in this area, but it would be a good idea for the F.U.A. for instance, and the village councils to start a vigorous campaign once again, in this direction, with the objective being, a name plate on every farm gate and every village home in the community.

PASS THE BISCUITS!

It may deal a death blow to the manufacturers of Tums, Rolaids and Alka Seltzer, but who cares, if we can teach our young brides to cook the family biscuits without burning them to a crisp. Power Companies, Gas Utility concerns and others who can be connected enough with the gastric level of Canadians in general, may yet go down in history as the saviours of male stomachs. The statistical frequency of stomach upsets and corresponding increase in sales of abdominal regulators can be traced directly to the young bride and would-be housewife who are uneducated in the finer culinary art of delectable and yet digestible native foods. The companies and organizations who are sponsoring courses in the art of proper cooking may one day become grander protectors of human health than the medical profession. The mother who teaches her daughter to whip up a pan of old-fashioned tomato soup without curdling it, or mix up a bowl of pancake bater without lumps, could some day be chosen "the mother of the year." A difficult task indeed in this day of ready mixes, prepared warm-up meals, synthetic foods and over-spiced bologny, but a goal that should be sought if mankind is to be expected to meet the future with equanimity.

WEAKNESS WILL BRING WAR!

(Guest Editorial from the Brooks Bulletin)

At the peak of the Cuban crisis members of the faculty of the University of Alberta even urged the British government to disassociate itself from the U.S. blockade of Cuba.

Lord Home, Britain's foreign secretary, replied to them in an open letter which was addressed to all disarmament groups in the nation. An extract from that letter:

"Peace at all costs seems to be the cry But to give way under pressure is not necessarily wise and can be very dangerous. To say Better Red than Dead is both spineless and unnecessary, for if we keep our heads and our nerve we need be neither Red nor Dead The peace of the world rests upon the balance of power. When the balance is upset the agressor thinks he can get his way by the use of superior force. One successful adventure, unchallenged by firmness, leads to another. Finally he embarks on the one which cannot be accepted passively. Then there is war."

Beaton

Look, I take it all back. I didn't mean a word of it. I'm sorry. I apologize. I'll never say it again as long as I live. I never shot part about leaving snow. Ever since that column I wrote about us skiers revelling in real winter, things have gone haywire around here. It has snowed (inch per hour) and blowed (gale force) and the temperature has plummeted like a hawk going down for a fat hen.

All I can deduce is that either Somebody Up There has no sense of humor, or that the Lord is on my side. I'm not sure which. But it will be a long time before I try getting flippant about the weather again.

One kid's in bed with the 'flu. The other is outside somewhere wielding a snow shovel, & we'll be lucky if we ever see him again. The Old Battleaxe has those midwinter blues, and the dog and cat have to be literally kicked out of doors.

The only cheering not we have had this week was a letter from our sadeyed-lass, who is wintering in balmy old, toasty old, smoggy old Puerto Rico, in the Caribbean, stating that she had just recovered from the very worst cold she ever had in her life. Hah!

To top it all, the inspector is coming to the school this week. This event causes roughly the same panic among school teachers as an announcement that Princess Margaret would be around for tea on Friday would cause among a couple of housewives.

It reminds me of the alarm and despondency that used to take over at my camp during the war, when it was learned that a senior officer would be making an inspection of the camp. Everybody knew perfectly well that the old trout would merely loiter around the camp, inspect a gourd of booze, and head for the officers' mess to maintain that purgitive completion he had taken so many years to acquire.

But there was always the chance that he'd be one of those maniacs who actually wanted to taste the slop about to be served to the other ranks instead of joining the officers over their Scotch and steaks. Or one of those nuts who actually drew a white glove along that window sill, looking for dust. Or one of those fiends who actually believed that soldiers, re sinting on rations, were human beings, and asked them all sorts of human-being questions, in the complete and utter ootlment of ordinary discipline, unit morale and the divine right of officers. You never knew what you were going to get.

Worst offender of this sort I have ever experienced was Winston Churchill, the time in France, we were warned that a Very Important Person would visit our wing, which was a large dive-bomber fighter-bomber area from a field in Normandy. We cleaned. Figured it would be some crummy Air Commodore who would try to convince us that our young jolly, fresh from wave fair exchange for some vague crap labeled "freedom" or "democracy" or "home-and-hearth".

Nonetheless we spitted and polished. And cursed. On the big day, we were drawn up in a hollow square on the field. Pilot's silk scarves were exchanged for shirts and ties, flying boots for shined shoes, bare heads for caps at the right angle, berets for clean-always Dress. Officers in front, other ranks in the rear, where they jolly well should be, in a democracy.

A little plane hopped the nearest hedge and butterflyed into the middle of the square. The motor was cut. A massive figure, rather like an old sea-lion, struggled out of the cockpit, and stood on the wing. We didn't need the jotting cigar to tell us who he was. Be grimmed, I'll never his eyes twinkled as he looked us over.

Then he lifted his right arm, as though to make the famous V-sign. Instead, he made a rude gesture, then beckoned. The "other ranks" safely in the rear where nobody would be offended by their cheap uniforms and low pay, could take it him. They were now wild about, and ran toward the plane. So help me, several officers in the front rank of the hollow square were trampled as deep into the mud of Normandy that they weren't found for days.

The old man with the great heart, who should have been safely at home in England, not dodging about the airfiels & of France in a tiny, unarmed aircraft, gave us five minutes of the famous Churchillian grin. Not the kind you'l find in the history books, I'm afraid. More like the kind that Julius Caesar used to give his legions. Boars of delight answered him.

★ ★ ★

Now, here in the world did I get from the white wilderness outside to a blistered, baked, nerve-stinking, convected pasture in Normandy? Frankly, I've no idea. I keep telling my students to stick to one idea, to write in logical sequence. I hope the inspector doesn't read this.

GREEN ACRES

A THANKS TO ALL:

By the time this appears in print, Mr. Art Edwards will be back from Washington and I will have returned to Brooks. However I would still like to take this opportunity to publicly thank the many friendly people who have made the work and "stay" here very enjoyable and worthwhile. Just to mention a few such as: Brian Lee, Field Superintendent, Irrigation Service Board members; the 411 Club members; members of the Agricultural Council; the members of the three Seed Plot Boards; the Sedgewick Boards of Trade; the Brooks Board of Commerce, and many others too numerous to mention. I have certainly appreciated your public mindedness and devotion to the improvement of agricultural conditions in M. D. Flagstaff. I am sure Mr. Edwards is happy to be back, and will indeed be well qualified to help you build a bigger and better farming community here. I wish you all the very best during the coming year.

ROUGHAGE QUALITY INFLUENCES

Dr. M. Aspinall, Dept. of Animal Science at the U. of A., reports there is a great variation in the quality of roughages being fed this winter. Some hay was put up in excellent condition while some was damaged. Dr. Aspinall says the protein content of alfalfa hay in the Edmonton area ranged from 3 to over 20 pct. a pound. This is a ten-fold difference. The protein levels in alfalfa hay have varied from less than 12 to over 20 percent. Obviously there are great differences in the amount of supplements required with these hays. While some of the extremely high levels of nitrate found last year in feed hay and silage have not been observed this year, many samples of these crops have contained toxic nitrate levels.

All this points to the need for having forages analyzed. Although an analysis cannot indicate the absolute value of a forage, the information can be used to work out a more effective and efficient feeding program than could be established by guess.

Feeds can be analyzed by the Agricultural Soil and Feed Testing Lab at the U. of A. A regular analysis such as carotene (vitamin A), nitrate or prussic acid (flee only) cost $15.0 each. We have here at the D. A. office in Sedgewick, containers, forms and instructions.

STAMPS TAKE LEAD IN B.R.

(By Ken Tory)

Hardisty Stampeders climbed into first place in the B.R. League, over the faltering Killam Indians by a 7-3 win in Hardisty Saturday night.

Taking a four goal lead after 23 minutes of play before Killam could score, the hosts kept the nudge of the redmen in an uncertain fashion. The game was fast and interesting. Gregory cleared up to Miller who swept in close and passed over to Goika for goal one at 18.05. Then Dion and Goika combined to register again a minute later. Dion and Adams got two more at the 23.34 mark before Bennett got Killam's first counter at 28.11. A. Miller punched in two quick ones 25 seconds apart, to end the second period 6-2.

Killam's Bennett got his second goal midway in the third, but John Goika showed he isn't burned out yet by a smooth solo effort in the last minute of play to count four points on the night's work. Only 9 penalties were handed out.

On the games to date the Stampeders are obviously the class of the league. A couple of towns should spike up their entry to keep the league on a level with other top circuits in the province. Fans expect & enjoy a keenly played contest, and instead of penalising step team for non-performance, the league executive should issue warnings to the rank sisters to get over the ball before the Bruins send their whole team over here to clean up the Canadiens.

DRAMA IN THE COMMONS. A nuclear political bombshell was dropped in the House of Commons when U.S. State Department attacked Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's nuclear stand. It spurred a chain reaction that ended in the fall of the Diefenbaker government February 5, the day after Defence Minister Harkness resigned the Cabinet. Liberal Opposition Leader Lester Pearson (left), was able to defeat Diefenbaker's combined non-confidence votes of Social Credit and NDP parties, led by Robert Thompson and T. C. Douglas. Government was voted down twice by 142 votes to 111 votes.—

DAYSLAND LIONS "ROARING 20's" NETS $1200 FOR LOCAL SERVICES

The sub-zero weather of Friday and Saturday night no doubt curbed and postponed many activities throughout Western Canada, however the Daysland Lions went on with their "Roaring 20's Dinner" and came up with $1200 net for community services and promotion.

The Lions would like to thank the Roaring 20 Queen, Diane Mandrusiak of Daysland, and Commissioner Marilyn Creelman of Provostberg, Derby Janis of Ohaton, Carol Oen from Alliance, Darlene Dambergar from Dunsdale and Betty Jammer of Daysland. They would also like to thank all the program participants, local citizens who helped with the games, and most of all the good patrons who braved the cold weather and made the show a success.

Thus far in 1963 the Daysland Lions Club has paid for skating privileges at the Arena for all children 15 years and under in Daysland and district the Club has presented the Daysland North Stars Hockey Club with new sweaters and socks; the Children's Playground, already one of the finest in the province, is currently under study for possible further improvements.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all who assisted and to those who took part in the Roaring 20's at Daysland on February 1st and 2nd. A special thanks to queen contestants, members of the orchestra & the Oen Orchids, as well as the general public for turning out in the sub-zero weather to make this annual event such a success. With our thanks goes the assurance that the proceeds will be put to the best possible use in the community. — Daysland Lions Club, A. P. Rosenberg, President. 46 1 c

WOMEN'S WORLD DAY OF PRAYER SLATED FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 1ST

Theme: "More Than Conquerors"

The World Day of Prayer will be held on Friday, March 1st, 1963, March this with a real pencil on your calender and put a ring about it so it will not be forgotten. March 1st.

March 1st is the first Friday in Lent. Every year at this time Christian women in about 150 countries, gather in prayer. Each group forms a link in the prayer services that encircle the globe. This is your invitation to be a part ofthis great chain of prayer and prises, which knows no race, color or creed. Your presence and your offering will be your personal tribution to the World Day of Prayer on March 1st, 1963.

The World Day of Prayer has a two-fold purpose, to meet for prayer and in expression of our many blessings, incorporate in world-wide needs including aid to refugees. The offerings of Canadian women in 1962 permitted the Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada to make grants to many Christian Literature Societies in many countries. Thousands of newly literate persons of all colors, race and creed have shared in the printed words and in many new locations have been opened. Braille publications have been made available for sightless children and adults through the John Milton Society and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Among the more than 100 causes aided are several in Korea where their church women prepared the service for 1962.

Valley 4H Beef Club

The last meeting of the Valley 4-H Beef Club was held February 6th at Valley school. The meeting opened with O Canada and the 4-H pledge.

Letters were read explaining a public speaking contest for members. It was suggested we have a contest in the club to pick a delegate to compete against other clubs. This was all the business, and we went on to the study "Words and Terms used in Beef Raising" given by Ken Shuburg.

The next meeting is to be held in Lougheed, with films, debates and public speaking on the progress.

Anglican Church Plans to Re-Build

The fire which swept away the Sedgewick Anglican Church and hall took with it a lot of Sedgewick history, particularly of the early settlers and pioneers who built the original church, and services and meetings held it under the conditions of the early years.

Though somewhat stunned by the loss, finance and building committees have been formed to rebuild, so as to provide services and leadership, a sanctuary for worship, for baptisms, marriages, funerals, and facilities for Sunday School, social services, meetings, entertainments and all activities which are part of our Christian heritage.

Replacement cost will be heavy, and be spread out over the years, but the committees are encouraged by many offers and promises of help, both in and outside the Anglican membership.

A building fund has been opened, and donations can be left with: E. Lesh, C. E. Benirsto, H. Abbott, by any who would like to help in this re-building, and will of course be most welcome in this emergency.

Flagstaff District Scout Council Meets

The Flagstaff District Boy Scout Council meeting was held in Heisler on February 6th. In attendance were, Asst. Prov. Commissioner Mark Purdie; Prov. Field Com., Mr. Denny May; Dist. Com., Val Stein; Dist. Council Pres., Norm Nickerson, also all the committee reps of Heisler and Forestburg.

Dist Com. Stein told of the trophy he had which was donated by the 1st Viking Scouts to Flagstaff District. This trophy is available to be won through competition.

There was a discussion concerning the teams which have dropped out for one reason or another, and an effort is being made to get them back.

Highlighting Mr. Purdie's address was pointing out that although a group may be small, it is the way in which they handle themselves and go about their business that they get things done.

In Mr. May's address he told of a training course to be conducted in Camrose this summer, and also reported on the Third Prov. Jamboree to be held in Sylvan Lake "Camp Woods" June 28 to July 6.

79 Accidents A Day During 1962

Albertans averaged 79 automobile accidents a day in 1962, to produce the worst accident record in their history, according to the Alberta Safety Council.

The year's accident total was 28, 925, an increase of 8 percent over '61. The injury toll also rose 8 percent, to 7,168. The death toll of 286 was the third highest in Alberta history. In 1960 the toll number 319 and in 1956 it reached 296.

The Council terms it a "black year" but says there is slight encouragement : mile death toll declining from previous heights, despite an increase in vehicle registration. One death occurred in every 101.1 accidents last year, against the five year average of one in 87.

Some regional safety driven also shows apparent results. Edmonton, for example, has had a sustained pedestrian safety campaign in each of the last three years. In 1960, when the drive began, the toll was 13 pedestrina deaths. In 1961 the figure declined to eight, and last year it was five.

The greatest concentration of fatalities occurred among persons in their late teens and early twenties. During the year, motor accidents claimed the lives of 54 persons between 20 and 24 years. Another 39 persons aged 15 to 19 died. In the 25-29 group the toll was 21 and in the 30-34, it was 27. Twenty three occurred in the 35-39 age group and 18 in the 40-44 group.

Chapman and Mrs. Richmond were nominated to act on the publicity and finance committees for Vestry.

Church services and S. S. will be held at the regular times in the Royal Canadian Legion Hut.

The visiting committee for February is Mrs. Benirsto, Mrs. Gollan.

The W. I. program for 1963 was given out to all members.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

We parents, on the whole don't give much thought to the education our children are receiving. Oh, we want them to pass their exams, and we'd like to see them get into something where they'll make a lot of money. But aside from that, Canadian adults are pretty well in the dark about what the kids are learning and why.

As long as our youngsters come home from school with reasonable marks and their own rubber boots, we are happy to leave education alone. Adults feel that they have enough trouble with the economic system, the political system and the hosting system without tackling anything as complex as the education system.

And it is complex. It's becoming more complex every day, as adventurous scientists keep up with society that is changing with the ease and rapidity of a burlesque queen.

That's why we parents should pay more attention, take a deeper interest in what the sprouts are learning and should be learning. Our ignorance of their training is equalled only by our eagerness to run it down.

We all know the lady, a suburb cook and housemaker, who announces flatly that teaching domestic science is an utter waste of time, that girls should learn it at home. She has forgotten that when she was married, her piece de resistance was mushroom soup on toast, that it took her three-quarters of an hour to iron a shirt, that she didn't know French provincial from Danish blue.

We all know the man who declares roundly that this here shop training for boys is a waste of time. He didn't have none and he can make anything. He then goes down cellar to his workshop and takes off his left forefinger in the saw, or makes a hash sandwich while trying to nail two boards together.

These people don't realize that they have done so well not because of their lack of training, but in spite of it. Nor do they realize that the world their kids are about to step into is not the one they entered.

I'd like to see more, not fewer, training courses. Take domestic science, for example. I'd just as soon throw a boy into a jet liner, without training, and tell him to take off, as I would throw a girl into one of our modern kitchens, all bells and buttons and lights, without training, and tell her to take over.

In fact, I'd expand the domestic training. Girls should be taught not only how to make a white sauce and an apron, but how to make a happy marriage. They should be thoroughly briefed on the wifely virtues of patience, thrift, silence and humility. They should learn how to run a power mower and shovel snow. They should be taught that money doesn't grow on trees, that the stork is for the birds, that good husbands are like precious jewels — they can be hilariously insured but when they're lost, there's nothing left but misery.

The girls, and I speak as the father of a daughter, would learn some other fundamentals: that "nag" is a worse epithet than "hag" or "bag"; that it takes more than a bust and a bottom to make a well-rounded woman. In such an enlightened system, of course, we'd have to have equal opportunities for the boys. Best way to start would be to break down a couple of their basic beliefs: (a) that the world owes them a living, and (b) that the old man will provide it until the world realizes how fortunate it is to have the privilege. Then we'd teach them that manners, not clothes, make the man.

They'd be given courses in handling firearms, cars, motorbeats, women and other dangerous items. They'd be prepared for marriage with short courses in diaper changing, bottle warming, and the establishing of air-tight alibis. They would learn the judo defence against a kiss on the shins.

They would be taught that evil little girls with turned-up noses, doe eyes and velvety voices can, on occasion turn into virus with the nose of a bloodhound, the eye of an eagle, and a tongue like a buggy whip.

These are only a few rough ideas of what I'd like to see added to our courses of study. Some of the other ideas are even rougher. Mind you, I wouldn't throw out the regular subjects. I'm sure they're useful for something. But you're married a long time, and you can't sit around for 30 or 40 years conjugating Latin verbs, drawing triangles, or writing descriptive paragraphs.

THE VILLAGE OF STROME
SYNOPSIS OF BY-LAW NO. 314

By-law No. 314 provides for the issuance of debentures of the Village in the amount of $78,450.00 for the purpose of providing a water supply and distribution system for the Village of Strome at a total estimated cost of $78,450.00.

The Council of the Village of Strome is authorized by the said By-law to raise the sum of $4,742.00 to be charged by way of local improvement assessments against all properties abutting upon the streets or places wherein the said system is installed, payable at an annual rate of 25 cents per front foot of frontage for a period of 25 years.

The sum of $33,600.00 is to be borrowed on the credit of the Village at large, repayable from operating revenues from the system. The Bible Today

In a recent television interview, Viscountess Astor, the first woman member of Parliament to take her seat in the British House, reported her reasons for the long history of Britain's influence in the Commonwealth and Empire. "Because, I think, they translated the Bible, and read it, and understood Justice and mercy," she stated.

Many distinguished people have given their witness to the effectiveness of the Holy Scriptures for the personal as well as national life.

Queen Elizabeth 2, whose accession to the Throne was on February 6th, eleven years ago, has visited Bible House in London on at least 2 occasions, showing an intense interest in the work of translating and distributing the Word of God in many languages throughout the world.

Field Marshal Lord Montgomery once remarked, "Gentlemen, I read my Bible every day and I recommend you to do the same."

M. D. FLAGSTAFF - SCHOOL DIVISION HOLD THEIR ANNUAL MEETINGS

SEDGEWICK
120 RATEPAYERS ATTEND M. D. MEETING

The annual meeting of the ratepayers of the Municipal District of Flagstaff No. 62 was held in Sedgewick on Saturday, February 16th. All Councillors but one were present, along with the Field Supervisor, and approximately 120 ratepayers. Meeting was called to order at 1.00 p.m., and Mr. A. R. Fyfe was elected as chairman, while C. B. Robertson was elected secretary.

The minutes of the 1961 meeting, and the inspector's report were read, and approved by the meeting. The financial report was reviewed page by page, and discussed.

Reeve A. Rands outlined the Municipal Police situation and assured ratepayers that any persons of this province requiring policing services, would be given every consideration. Reeve Rands, in his report, mentioned that the year 1962 has been a good one for the District. An extensive gravelling program, and the stockpiling of gravel had been carried out. The collections for 1962 just here, 97 percent of the current levy. Mr. Rands also touched on the Flagstaff Farm Purchase Board, and the changes in the Medical Scheme. He also mentioned permits for cutting of hay on road allowances, moving of land for road widening, and payments for fence moving, etc. He said that discussion from various meetings on the matters would be reviewed.

Action of Council in rejecting the 1961 vote of 60 to 34 in order application for a County, was questioned. Mr. Rands reported that Council had rejected the resolution by a vote of 4 to 3 and explained that in his opinion the small vote represented only a small number of those present. He felt that if the 1962 meeting had voted overwhelmingly for the resolution, council would have had more decisive direction.

The following resolution was presented: "We the members of Strong P.U. 4, Local are very concerned about the increasing number of serious traffic accidents on our district roads. The better improved roads are. Mr. D. is now at present carrying most of the fast and heavy traffic, and for the most part there are no traffic signs on these roads. Therefore we would ask the Flagstaff Council to seriously consider marking certain main district roads with suitable road signs." The resolution was passed by vote.

The Agricultural Service Board report was given by Agriculture Mr. E. Roehl. Several questions were asked regarding the blood testing program being carried out under the Dominion Gov. Brucellosis program. The Eradication program, and the habit of stockpiling of gravel had been carried out. The collections for 1962 just here, 97 percent of the current levy. Mr. Rands also touched on the Flagstaff Farm Purchase Board, and the changes in the Medical Scheme. He also mentioned permits for cutting of hay on road allowances, moving of land for road widening, and payments for fence moving, etc. He said that discussion from various meetings on the matters would be reviewed.

Brucellosis program. The Eradication program, and the habit of stockpiling of gravel had been carried out. The collections for 1962 just here, 97 percent of the current levy. Mr. Rands also touched on the Flagstaff Farm Purchase Board, and the changes in the Medical Scheme. He also mentioned permits for cutting of hay on road allowances, moving of land for road widening, and payments for fence moving, etc. He said that discussion from various meetings on the matters would be reviewed.

Action of Council in rejecting the 1961 vote of 60 to 34 in order application for a County, was questioned. Mr. Rands reported that Council had rejected the resolution by a vote of 4 to 3 and explained that in his opinion the small vote represented only a small number of those present. He felt that if the 1962 meeting had voted overwhelmingly for the resolution, council would have had more decisive direction.

The following resolution was presented: "We the members of Strong P.U. 4, Local are very concerned about the increasing number of serious traffic accidents on our district roads. The better improved roads are Mr. D. is now at present carrying most of the fast and heavy

ANNUAL MEETING OF KILLAM SCHOOL DIVISION

The annual meeting of the Ratepayers of Killam School Division was held February 11th, with only about 75 persons present. Chairman of the meeting was Edward F. Fox.

The Board report was given by the chairman, R. Grant, who stated that while expenses are climbing steadily the board was able in 1962 to operate very closely within the revenue provided. The year showed a favorable balance of $7000, due mainly to the increase of $6 in high school registration. Eig-t bursaries were granted last year & five teachers received their 2nd bursary of $200.00. Ten t-acher students received scholarships in grad 9, of $15 each. Mr. Grant outlined the proposed building program for 1963 at Heisler, Daysland and Sedgewick.

The Supt. Mr. Bruce in his report mentione-l that there were 24 school districts in the Division with ten operating schools. There are 100 teachers, and an over-all enrollment of 2250 pupils.

An education in the Division got an average of 60 percent or over in the Provincial Exams. This was given in the September Supps, but the figure was not available.

The financial report showed that the Division has an overall revenue account of $304,564.60. Of this the Foundation Program provides $204,000. Local revenue accounts for $264,000 on Equalized Assessment, plus $12,038 Supplementary Requisition.

During the question period it was brought out that the grade ten exams are set by a Zone committee, and approximately the 75th percentile mark. It was declared that too many pupils were wrongly given 12 grade ten tests to many failures in grade 12.

A discussion took place at some length on the board policy now in effect that when roads are blocked by snow all schools will remain open. It was felt by some that this worked a hardship in co-country students.

Before the close of the meeting a motion was passed on the floor, "That the minutes of every board meeting be printed in the local newspaper".

Kelndorfer - Pawlick Wedding At Killam

Decorated with beautiful yellow and white mums, St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church at Killam was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Rev. Fr. M. E. McCarthy united in a double-ring ceremony, Miss Elizabeth Marie Pawlick, the youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nick Pawlick, and Mr. Raymond Alvin Kelndorfer, youngest son of Mrs. Kelndorfer and the late Frank Kelndorfer in holy matrimony.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. A. Schneider, the bride wore a beautiful white lace gown. The bodi-e was fitted and trimmed at the neckline with pearls, and lily-point sleeves. The bouffant skirt was in tiers of lace trimmed with white roses The shoulder-length veil was held in place with a tiara of pearls. She carried a beautiful bouquet of red roses and lily-of-the-valley. Her only jewellery was a gold cross with matching earrings, gift of the groom.

Miss Stepnie Pawlick was the maid of honor, and the attending bridesmaids were Miss Kathleen Kelndorfer, Miss Frances Pawlick and Miss Irene Frendrick, and were dressed alike in royal blue street-length gowns of lace with matching hats of pearce and white accessories. Bouquets of white and pink carnations completed their ensembles.

The groom was supported by Mr. Lawrence Kelndorfer, Mr. Lawrence Selfermann, Mr. Leon Pawlick and Mr. Leo Manning. The ushers were Mr. Tony Schneider and Mr. Henry Kelndorfer.

Mrs. A. Schneider wore a blue figured crepe gown with white accessories and corsage of white rosebuds. The mother of the groom chose a flowered dress of blue and white taffeta with white accessories and her corsage was of yellow rosebuds.

A reception for eighty guests was held in the parish hall with Mr. Lawrence Selfermann as M. C. Rev. Fr. McCarthy proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom replied.

VALENTINE PARTY AT FLAGSTAFF LODGE

Mrs. Gordon Taylor was M.C. at a Valentine Party given by the Sedgewick Lutheran Ladies honoring the guests and masters of the Flagstaff Lodge, last Tuesday. After devotion by Mrs. C. Swenson, the guests entered hastily into an old-time dancing, after which Mrs. Swenson brought "Reminiscences of Yesteryear". Mrs. M. Myrahaug's monologue "The Button Box" proved most interesting. Mrs. Gravistin and Mrs. Magve brought a vocal duet, and all joined in the chorus when Mrs. Markwart sang, "When You and I Were Young Maggie." Mrs. Hall read a Valentine story and Thordis Taylor distributed valentines among the guests. As Mrs. Magve had a birthday the 14th, the guests and the matron surprised her with a gift. A delicious lunch was served.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

For some reason, Valentine Day brings out the worst in me. The time of having a special day for expressions of love appeals to me, but not in the middle of a Canadian February. At this time of year, I can hardly stand myself, let alone my wife, my neighbor's wife, and various other people I'm supposed to love. Burning this in mind, perhaps you will excuse the frisply anti-romantic tone of the following.

Nothing discovers a woman quite as much as the suggestion that she is not the fingers-in-the-love type of worker she claims to be. And that's a big statement, because an awful lot of things discovers a woman.

Trouble is, most men swallow this legend. They come home from work with their tails dragging, and bitterly have their ears full of what the social starts. They react in various ways to the avalanche that flows from Mom on everything she did from the time she got out of bed this morning.

One of the most widely used methods of retaining sanity is to praise an interesting look on your face, go right on eating your dinner, and make sympathetic noises at appropriate intervals indicating incredulity, approval and sympathy, whichever is called for at the moment. If your mouth is full, wagging your head from time to time, and swapping your shoulders at the opportune moment. This gets you through the meal. Then she says "Why do you never talk to me?"

Another way of countering the vivid account of the way she got at the laundry after she made the beds is to say, "Oh, put a sock in it. Who the hell cares how long it took you to wax the floor?" But this method is not recommended unless your wife is paralyzed from the waist down. And up.

The more subtle and intelligent approach is one I have developed, and which I am the public-spirited to keep to myself. It is to read women's magazines. Practically every one of these these days contains an article about how to help your husband. She doesn't have to pump water or chop kindling or shovel snow or shoot Indians or drive a team or birth babies or preserve fruit.

She has so many time-saving devices she hasn't time to look after them all. And with radio, television, and telephone, she doesn't have to suffer the worst pangs of her grandmother —loneliness.

Or does she?

On top of the mechanical aids that have removed the drudgery from her life, she has a husband who might think that a woman's place is in the home — but wouldn't dare say it. Come on, kids, confess that you never had it so good.

Or do you?

Happy Valentine Day. And even if it's only old Bill Smiley—I love you.

MERNA 4H BEEF CLUB

During the past few months the Merna 4H Beef Club has been quite busy. Before Christmas two successful tobacco shoots were held, one for the Club and one as a benefit to the Merna Community Hall. There was a gift exchange at our meeting. In January we held a most enjoyable skating party at Merna, with Killam invited. A weiner roast rounded out the evening. The latest interest is mainly in the public speaking contest, and we plan to take part in the competition. Our leader has been on the job cheering up on our calves for any feeding problems and to see how we are managing them.

And guard it well as a souvenir;
For some day we may return to reNew.

VERSATILE & BENIFICIAL CREDIT UNION

(By Donna Cookson)

As our world presses on through perilous straits, the need for unity among people becomes more and more in evidence. The rapid growth in recent years of co-operatives, credit unions in particular, has demonstrated the general public feeling that a great deal more can be accomplished by working together than by striving for profit on an individual basis. To save their money together and to obtain low-interest loans easily.

The credit union is a co-operative credit institution where the members save money together through the purchase of five dollar shares, and make low-cost loans among themselves from this pool of reserves. The required bond of association keeps the credit unions limited in size. This common bond may be among the members of a given community, religious group, fraternity, fairly-localized industry, geographic area, or nationality in one community. Operating under a charter from the provincial government, a credit union should have a potential membership of one hundred when it is organized. Three committees are necessary to a credit union. First is a credit committee to approve all loans, except possibly certain types of loans which the manager is authorized to handle. A supervisory committee audits credit union records. An educational committee informs the public about the credit union services. Each member, regardless of his position in the credit union, is entitled to one, and only one vote. No credit union officers, with the exception of the treasurer who is the manager, are paid for their services.

The first credit union was formed in 1849 in Germany to assist the oppressed peasants. Around 1900 a Levis, Quebec journalists, Alphonse Desjardins, organized Canada's first credit union. Growth has since been rapid. In 1964 there were 213 credit unions in Alberta, with a total membership of 39,587. Deposits exceeded $20,000,000.

Members are urged to save by buying shares. Annual dividends are paid to the members, the amount being recommended by the board of directors. Withdrawals are permitted. Savings are insured by the CUNA Insurance Society.

Loans are made to members for "provident or productive purposes" at an interest rate which must not exceed one percent per month. The cost is met by the union's regular revenues. Security is usually required for loans, but character loans with the approval of the credit committee are sometimes granted. CUNA insures the loans.

As credit unions become more and more firmly installed in our society, their influence on people to work together to save their money wisely, continues to grow. Having assumed a place in the business life of so many Alberta communities, credit unions are emerging as a notable force in modern life.

FARMERS LIKE THE WHEAT BOARD!

The Canadian Wheat Board is almost solidly backed by western grain producers & any attempt to interfere with its operations, or to play politics with its activities would certainly be frowned upon by the western farmers. Contrary to some opinion, the Wheat Board is simply a buyer of grain, which it sells for the best possible price and distributes the proceeds among the producers. The Wheat Board does not give government handouts, but merely sells grain and distributes the proceeds therefrom. It operates as it did under the Liberal administration under whose authority it was set up. It is to the credit of the Conservative government that it did not interfere with its operations. Had they done so it would have lost the confidence of the western farmers. The grain surpluses disappeared through a combination of short crops and sales to Communists; the price rose because of the exchange value of the fallen Canadian dollar. All this mattered little to the farmer, except that he emptied his bins and is getting his money. He was happy in the situation. Now we find Agriculture Minister Hamilton's proposal, if he is ever allowed to keep it to pass, to form a central agency to buy western feed grains for eastern feeders. A move no doubt calculated to woo the eastern rural voter. If he is allowed to bring the proposal to a conclusion, it would mean that the Wheat Board (a government agency) would try to sell grain for the western producer at the very highest price, while another government agency would be trying to buy it at the lowest possible price on behalf of eastern farmers. Mr. Hamilton should beware arousing the ire of the western farmer for without him he will never be given the opportunity to implement any policy. Western farmers look upon the Wheat Board as their marketing board, and will look with suspicion on any attempt to limit its freedom to sell their grain to the best advantage.

CANADA CANNOT AFFORT SUCH LUXURIES!

To paraphrase a Biblical statement, "except a government legislate with decisiveness and intelligence, they labor in vain who govern," may well be the means of introducing the reason why the Canadian people find themselves with a federal election on their hands, something which may in truthfulness be a situation not to their liking at this time. But this very lack of decision and absence of the intelligence expected in high places are the very things which have brought on the election. While Canadians did not want an election in 1963, they did want a government; they did want estimates presented; they did want a budget brought in. None of these things were given, with the inevitable result that the government fell. It was bound to happen, but the Diefenbaker cry of obstruction by the opposition as the prime reason, has now, in the light of revealed events, become the weakest protestation of our day. The government expected to fail, in fact it expected the axe to drop before it did. Obstruction is the weakest link in the P. C. appeal to the people for a return to power. You cannot obstruct the estimates unless they are presented; you cannot obstruct a budget unless one is presented; you cannot obstruct a nuclear decision if there is no decision; you cannot obstruct if there is nothing there to obstruct. It is now common knowledge that nothing was brought down in the recent house that could be denied, or approved by the opposition, simply because nothing was brought forward. Canada can't afford the luxury of government without taction. Nothing was accomplished by the government since last June, and it must assume full responsibility for the fact. It had the opportunity, with support of the Socreds, to bring in needed legislation that was desired by the country. Parliament was ready to go to work as soon as the government presented a program. There was no valid reason for delaying the estimates for there was all summer to prepare them. There was the long wait before calling parliament into session; there was the over-long recess in December and January. The mass of unfinished business should have been dealt with, particularly the MacPherson Commission Report and the Redistribution Bill. The fact that this was not done, cannot in all fairness be blamed on Mr. Diefenbaker alone, for his Ministers must surely have felt obliged to step in and where the Prime Minister was unwilling to make decisions, make them for him. Any decision, right or wrong is better than no decision at all. And so we have our 4th election in six years. Canada cannot afford this luxury.

STILL HOLDING THE REINS

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

There once was a man with a vision,
Who just couldn't make a decision.
He was willing to fight,
But thought it not right
To resort to nuclear fission.
His critics were quick to surround him.
His buddies all rallied around him,
Except for the few
Who decided to do
What they'd long wanted to — and confound him.

And that is my sole contribution to the current confused picture in Canadian politics. By the way, have you taken a good kick at Dief yet? Now is your chance. Give him a good one while he's on the ropes and his mouthpiece has fallen out.

Only thing that has pleased me greatly in the past couple of weeks is the recognition of the solid intelligence, the basic reliability, and the steady independence of the Canadian voter. Why, everybody I've talked to could see this crisis coming long ago. People I was certain didn't know a legislature from a leg cabin, a Common Market from a market garden, have shaken me with their certain grasp of the situation, and their crystal-clear exposition of the problems.

"It's the darn Yanks," one voter informed me. "They're behind the whole thing. They've always been sore at us ever since Laura Secord went marching through Georgia with her cow in the war of 1812 handing out chocolates to the newly-freed slaves."

Another political type, who has voted the straight Tory ticket for years, told me bluntly that he's most the error of his ways. He's swung to, as he put it, "that there Royal Commission, that French fella who wears his arms a lot. That Cental Credit sounds pretty good to me. We need a lot more of that, these days."

Another chap who has gone right down the line with the Conservatives is fed up. He has swung far to the left, and is now, he assured me, a solid supporter of "that Tommy Douglas. Tommy has done a great job since he quit precisist medicine and went. Never made a go of it as a doctor, anyhow, I hear."

Quite a few people aren't going to vote for the Government, because they're already got their new deck or sort office that promised them, and they've voted for him three times, and they figure he's been paid for it. Now they're ready to try one of the other parties, and see what they can wangle out of it.

One elderly lady of my acquaintance who has been a Grand Old Tory ever since she practised being a Flaming Young Conservative, would never consider changing her vote. But she's a little sore at the party for accepting Churchill's resignation so readily. "I think it's despicable," she snapped, "after what he did during the war. After all, Blood, Sweat and Tears — Fight on the beaches."

I tried to explain that it was Mr. Herbison, a former school teacher, who had resigned, and that Mr. Churchill had been promoted from Veteran's Affairs to Defence, and that Sir Winston was a Tory, but not in this country. It was no use. As I left, she was shaking her fist and shrilling, "Give Us the Tools and We Will Finish the Job." I rather admired her.

By the way, don't make any rash bets that the Liberals will win in a walk. I've talked to at least 10 women who proclaim vehemently, "I can't STAND that Pearson!" I ask them why. They can't explain. But they simply will not vote for him. I think it's because he looks too much like somebody's brother-in-law.

The most embarrassing of all the interviews I've done, though, are those with ladies who look at me fervently and coo, "But don't you think Mr. Diefenbaker is a Wonderful Man? I mean, I realize that he hasn't DONE anything, and that the country is on the rocks, and unemployment is terrible, and all that. But don't you think he's a Wonderful man?"

Jeez, as the kids say.

Now I know you're busy mailing the whole thing over. But I hope this brief glimpse into the teeming mind of the Canadian voter, blest, well versed, conscious of the problems, will help in the trying six weeks ahead.

One last thought. Wouldn't it be lovely if we could bottle all the gas that is going to be produced between now and April 8th? We could heat every home in Canada, free, from now until June.

IT'S GOOD TO BE BACK!

I know now why they call Alberta "Sunny Alberta". Last fall we didn't see a sun for weeks in Eastern Washington. Just rain, drizzle and rain. I wish many times that we could have shared the rain with Alberta. Our stay at Washington State University was interesting and profitable, but it is sure good to get home and see all those familiar faces. I would like to thank the farmers and town folks of Flagstaff who worked with Murray Wilde and helped him during his stay in the district. I am looking forward to resuming acquaintence with you during the coming months.

WEED CONTROL IN WINTER!

Effective weed control is a year round program which does not end when the soil freezes and the ground is covered with snow. It is just as important to prevent the scattering of weed seeds in late winter months as it is at any other time of the year. W. Lobay, Supervisor of Soils and Weed Control strongly recommends having all seed which is grown on the farm, cleaned by an approved seed cleaning plant to remove weed seeds and the other screenings. Provision should be made to prevent weed seeds from being scattered when the grain is in transit and at any other time. Many farmers are using tarpaulins on the grain trucks so that they will not scatter weeds along their route. The tarps soon pay for themselves in the grain saved during transit to say nothing of the new weed infestations they prevent.

Winter is also the time to have a look at your machinery to see if it is in good running order. It is not too early to check ploughs, discs, cultivators and other implements and to do the necessary repairs. The replacement of a worn part often will make the difference between an inefficient cutting off a perennial weed or simply passing over it. The weed agency is now in the most indispensable power of farm equipment, must be in good order to enable herbicides to do a thorough job. Now is the time to have a talk with agricultural officials and to find out all about the latest weed spray materials. Sometimes a change in the nozzles on the sprayer will make a difference in the result obtained from the chemical you are using.

Mr. Lobay advises farmers to take advantage of the winter months to learn more about controlling weeds on their farms. This can be done by making use of the up-to-date information on special weed problems obtainable from district agriculturists and field supervisors. They can tell you about the control programs being carried out by agricultural service boards and the arrangements which have been made to assist the individual.

Good and timely advice has helped many farmers in the past to cope in an effective and economical way with their weed problems.

P. O. TO HONOR SIR CASIMAR GZOWSKI

The Postmaster General has released details of a new commemorative stamp which will be issued on March 5th. The stamp will commemorate the 150th anniversary of the birth of Sir Casimir Gzowski.

Sir Casimir was born in St. Peters burg, Russia, the son of a Polish nobleman. He came to Canada in 1842 and as an engineer, soldier and financier took a leading part in development in Canada's development from then until his death in 1898.

The design of the stamp, which is the work of Philip Surrey, Ottawa, shows Sir Casimir as a man of about the years of age. In the background to the right are the Welland Canal, locks in a canal, an engine and a bridge, symbolizing Sir Casimir's many engineering projects, which included the widening of the Welland Canal, building of the Grosse Isle Quarantine Station, Sarnia and Toronto and the construction of the International Bridge between Fort Erie and Buffalo.

In addition to his engineering projects Sir Casimir found time to be one of the founders of the organization which later became the Engineering Institute of Canada, and to be first chairman of the Niagara Falls Park Commission and to sit on many boards and committees.

Mrs. Fairclough, in announcing the stamp, stated that she had remembered her pledge to make Canadian stamps more colorful and chose a shade of purple for the 5c denomination. She mentioned that the choice was made after she had had an opportunity to see the stamp in several colors. She said that she felt that the color chosen best suited the fine engraving of the new commemorative.

The RED X Means TIME TO RENEW

Stampeders Trim Eckville In "C"

Hardisty Stampeders gave a real display of hockey in the Intermediate "C" play-off series, when they defeated a fast Eckville entry 6 to 1 before the biggest crowd of the current season, on Sunday afternoon.

Both teams opened fast with the exchanges being fairly even until Lorne Miller flashed the light at 7.16

— In the second period K. Lyons tied the score at 16.30 to keep the home crowd tense and send the men across visiting supporters wild. Lorne Miller, who played outstanding hockey all afternoon, scored the winner at 8.45 of Les Ibbid. F. Bertram and Bill Robinson added the margin in goals that carry into the next game at Rocky Mountain House on Friday.

In the last period Stampeders missed two open scoring chances with Dion, Ibbid and Lyons the marrowly, but Eckville had two good chances to tie it up. The big crowd was well entertained and cheering indicated the support for their favorites, both goalies played stand-out hockey as they repeatedly out-guessed the attackers.

In the final Battle River game the Stamps easily took the Wainwright entry 7-2 on Tuesday night. Both teams arrived but Saturday afternoon drew ahead, and the final outcome was never in doubt.

75 Register For First Aid Course

Seventy-five people, all the way from Daysland to Hughenden, registered for the First Aid Course held in Sedgewick last week. The Course was sponsored by the Workmen's Compensation Board, and the instructor was Con Currie of the Accident Prevention Department. The Course was the same as the one by St. John's Ambulance. The local sponsor was M. B. Flagstaff.

Shown above are Kristina Gilbertson, Rita Barbeau, and Instructor, Con Currie, carrying out a portion of work during the course.

Those attending came from all corners of the Flagstaff Municipality, as well as from points outside, and their interest was taken in the rapidly course. Sessions were held in the Legion Hut, Community Hall and the United Church basement.

At the conclusion of the Course, those registered were examined in an oral test by Dr. Fuerin, Sedgewick, Dr. McLeod, Killam, and Dr. Gerton, Daysland. Results of exams will not be known for several weeks. Those passing will receive certificates of proficiency.

According to the Instructor, Con Currie, the Course was a decided success, he was gratified at the large number who registered.

40 Attend Annual Village Meeting

SEDGEWICK — Forty interested electors of the Village of Sedgewick attended the annual Village meeting, to hear reports of the Councillors & discuss the financial statement and Inspector's Report.

The financial statement revealed total receipts of $205,860.00, which includes debenture borrowings for street paving and Recreation Centre. Largest items of expenditures were for Sanitation and Waste Removal, Streets and Sidewalks, Town Foreman and Police work. Another item of expense was the extension built on the fire hall, and for a fire truck.

With the increase in the general assessment, it was felt that the "line could be held" on the mill rate.

Mayor Smith in his report, touched on the paving project, and stated that actually more paving had been done than expected with the money allocated for the project. He also brought the meeting up to date on work at the Recreation Centre which has proceeded most of the winter, under the Winter Works Plan. He stated that the over-all rise in the assessment was 14.3 percent. Councillors Culbert and Edwards spoke briefly on affairs of the Village.

District Hockey At Hardisty Arena

District hockey in the Hardisty Arena is an established fact, with Battle Bend, Amisk and Bellshill the original founding groups. In games to gate Battle Bend L. H. Elders defeated Amisk; Battle Bend tied and won one with Bellshill. Then Arena Manager decided it was time to test the boys in two watches against top teams in the Satellite League. So on Thursday night the Tallon Hornets found the Battle Bend Riders very well set mentally and the game ended in a 5-5 tie. Riders took early lead after Tabbet scored the first one and forced the south boys to come from behind. Manderee played well in the Riders nets, while Stedman, a couple of Whitelocks & Bennes and Walter Sacks and Ray Drever rode tall in the saddle all night. Clarence Whitelock was threatened into skating both ways and between goals said he was only missing the goal by four or five inches by the time the game ended.

Albert Glasgow of Irma was the Tuesday night and most agreed he did a capable job at centre. Tallon team was entertained at the Lewis house for post-game celebrations.

For the trek south to Coronation the Bellshill Cowboys rolled seven-ten payers but forgot to take along a centre player. Hanly's Colts started out fast but Stoodman and Albrecht were equal to the threats. Clarence Stoodman secured at centre, moved in close and picked a top corner to beat Mrs. Lewis clearly. The Colts got two more before Sacks scored for the Cowboys to end the period 3-1. Final score was 7-2. In fitting events in the dressing room it was explained that the Colts were ready to start play-offs in the league but the Cowboys were only starting. All the boys expressed keen interest in getting organized for regular games in the future.

Amisk gained revenge by taking a recent game 8-3 over Bellshill. Both teams were heavily spiked with Hardisty players on a real district test of strength was not possible. Butch Downey got all three goals for Bellshill.

Stan Purka Choice Of Liberal Party

At a nominating convention of the Battle River-Camrose Federal Liberal Assn. last Wednesday, Mr. Stan Purka of Round Hill was chosen as candidate in the April 8 election. Mr. Purka was elected over Mr. Nega of Camrose and Mr. Charles Seran of Marwayne.

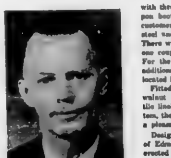
Guest speaker was Mr. A. Lang, M. P. for Vancouver West, who is presently engaged in a speaking tour of Alberta points. Mr. Lang stressed the importance of stable government, International goodwill and Trade. He touched on the nuclear question and said that Canada had an obligation to fulfill in NATO and NORAD. On trade he stated that Red China had paid $27 million on her purchases, but still owes $93 million.

New B of M Building To Open At Daysland



V. J. Harney

Finishing touches are being given to the new premises for the Bank of Montreal's Daysland branch and the new building will be ready to open for business on Monday morning, March 11th, V. J. Harney, the manager as announced.

Located on the B of M's present site at the corner of main street and Alberta avenue, the new structure has an area of nately 2300 square feet. The old building will now be torn down to make way for a customer parking lot.

Among the features of the new building is a streamlined counter with three tellers' wickets. Two coupon booths, for safety-deposit-box customers, are located close to the steel and reinforced concrete vault. There were two tellers wickets and one coupon booth in the old office. For the bank's books and records, additional fireproof storage space is located in the basement.

Designed by Rode, Wynn and Rode of Edmonton, the new building was erected by Camrose contractors, C. Burrows Construction Ltd.

OPENED IN 1906

Daysland's first bank, opened on March 6th, 1906. It was originally a branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada, which has long since been part of the B of M.

At the outset, it opened in an alcove at the top of the stairs in the Angus hotel, with a plank serving as a counter. A month later, the office moved to the sample room of the hotel, which opened on Main Street, and moved again the following year to a frame building on the east side of Main street. In 1921, the B of M moved to the opposite side of the street and, twelve years later, transferred its business to the building which will now be demolished to make way for a parking lot for the new B of M office.

Hardisty District Home and School

HARDISTY — The February meeting of the Hardisty and District Home and School was held in the school. President Aimie Moody opened the meeting. After the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer's report were heard, there was a discussion on the forthcoming Home & School convention in Edmonton on April 23-26.

It was decided we send a delegate to the convention, to be named at the March meeting. Following the meeting Mr. Bruce, Supt. of Schools was call upon to speak.

Mr. Bruce gave a very interesting and informative talk on the grouping of students in grades one to six in the classrooms according to their I. Q. and ability. The how and why of grade one readiness tests was also given. The continued progress plan of students is now in effect in larger centres than ours was also explained. Of special interest to parents of children nearing high school, was Mr. Bruce' explanation of how the grade nine final exam papers are marked, and to what extent these marks affect their future high school courses. After a question and answer period, lunch was served.

The business part of the meeting was held per agenda. It was decided that the Tour Day will be held at home of Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins on April 28.

Reports were given and public speaking reports were given by Audrey Marcinkoski, Donna McNaughton, Dwight Smith-Gander and Fred Brimacombe. A demonstration on how to make a rope halter was given by Bill Hnatkiw.

Sedgewick Branch Red Cross News

March is Red Cross month, when everyone is asked to remember the work of the Red Cross, including that very important branch, Blood Donor Clinics. We ask the co-operation of all the people of Sedgewick and district in helping us go over the top in our drive for funds.

The country collectors are already busy and there will be a one-night collection in Sedgewick, the date to be announced later. We ask for your generous support in this most excellent project. — G. A. Weber, pres., T. Blakeney, Secretary.

There wasn't a bar of "scones" or a cab of Lutefisk in sight, yet the A. S. U. signs were up well before the show commenced. The varied programs, sponsored by Sedgewick Local F.U.A., drew from Camrose to Czar, and from Forestburg to Viking, and there wasn't a dull moment throughout its more than two hours duration.

The Scandinavian Cultural Group of Edmonton contributed largely to the entertainment, features especially the fine voices of Crystal MacDonald Fisher and brother Jon, the colorful Folk Dancers, the acrobatics of Karsten Carlsen, and the stirring Hilarious antics of the "Rosco Orchestra," who, despite their ribcracking burlesquery, provided really top-notch music.

The numbers generously brought by Mr. Stanley Sorensen of Viking, and the Nora Sisters of Lougheed, together with the efforts of our always popular local entertainers, were deservedly well applauded.

Two selections, one in English and one in "Norsk" by the Bethania Choir, under direction of Rolf Jacobsen, brought the show to a fitting climax.

Mr. Knut Bridal spoke of the aims and objectives of the Cultural Group, everyone is asked to remember the work of the Red Cross, including that very important branch, Blood Donor Clinics. We ask the co-operation of all the people of Sedgewick and district in helping us go over the top in our drive for funds.

AXES TO SHARPEN AND BEEF TO GRIND!

It seems to be still true that unless people have a "beef" or an axe to grind, their interest in local civic and educational affairs is at a low ebb. This fact was again brought to mind at the recent annual meeting of the electors of the School Division. An institution which spends over 900 thousand dollars, could only attract a paltry fifty or sixty persons. Of course this situation is not new. It has always been a fact that if people want something they will generally go after it; if there is something they don't want, they will turn out in protest; but when the status quo prevails they couldn't care less. This is a lamentable situation and one that bids no good for development and progress. The greatest show of disinterest reveals itself in Town and Village affairs. It is a rare meeting of ratepayers attracting twenty-five people, while most can only rely on from six to a baker's dozen. Town and Village business has become 'big time' in our day, with revenues and expenditures reaching the hundred thousand dollar mark. Councillors are doing a good job for us and the leeast we can do is turn out to our meetings and take a look at our own affairs.

CANADIANS IGNORANT ON NATO AND NORAD!

Even though External Affairs Minister Howard Green has played down attempts by Canadians to visit Norad, the true facts are likely now to be told to Canadians. And as they become known many of us are going to shudder in our meetings as politicians tell their stories. Stories which will be told partly in ignorance and partly from bias.

On February 21 and 22, the members of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association paid a visit to the North American Air Defence Command (NORAD) Headquarters at Colorado Springs. The transportation from Ottawa was by RCAF transport, and while there the directors received extensive briefings at NORAD Combat Operations Centre, where senior officers answered many questions put to them. On their return these men prepared individual brief commentaries for distribution to members. Some comments from these briefs appear here.

However, first it might be well to state that less than 200 Canadians visited NORAD in 1962, as against 21,000 Americans. These less than 200 Canadians, apparently did not include Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Leader Pearson, Tommy Douglas or Social Creditor Thompson. There is no evidence to show that any M. P's. so visited, and only a couple cabinet ministers did so. Yet these men, with no first-hand knowledge of NORAD operations, presume to travel the hustings telling the people about defence and nuclear warheads. Perhaps we should shudder.

It would take this whole page to relate the findings of these members of the weekly press, so we will have to give only the main facts.

The Voodoo and Bomarc are highly effective weapons, and very necessary for at least five more years. They are not offensive weapons. They are interceptor weapons only, effective for destruction of enemy bombers. NORAD is a defensive organization only, intended to defend the North American continent against air attack. The use of nuclear warheads against an atomic bomb "cooks" the A-bomb in midair and neutralizes it. With a conventional weapon used, it will explode as it falls. This in itself is a first-line argument for nuclear warheads.

Canada has already spent $700 million dollars preparing for these nuclear warheads, and arming our Voodoo and Bomarc carriers with them now will cost nothing.

While Canada wants, and has, a large part in the planning and operations of NORAD, she has contributed very little financially to the Command. It is tragic indeed that while this country wants a big voice in the planning, very few of her politicians have visited the Command and become acquainted with its operations. In this position, it lli behooves them to attempt to discuss today's defences.

Of the 27 odd newspapermen who visited NORAD, all without exception were amazed, shocked and bewildered at what they saw and learned, as against what they were being told at home. Here is a comment from an Ontario newspaperman, which fairly well sums up the feelings of the entire group: "Never has Canada been so misinformed of a defence situation than it has been today. I can say with all honesty that the lack of news from NORAD was at governmental level and the lack of delegations visiting the Command Headquarters." Another said "I was shocked by the disparity between fact as found at Colorado Springs and what the Canadian public has been told by our Government and opposition members."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker made it fairly plain last Saturday that defence will be a big issue with him in the campaign. It might be well for him to take a day or two off the campaign hustings, take the opposition leaders with him and visit Colorado Springs. Then they can come back and give us facts instead of fancy. All having seen and heard the truth, they can keep each other honest.

"I HEAR IT'S GOING TO BE A TOUGH CAMPAIGN EVERYWHERE..."

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Watching television is all right, I daresay; a first-rate movie makes a pleasant night out; and for real pleasure, it's and to beat a good book. But for sheer emotional wallop of an evening, there's nothing to touch cleaning out a dresser drawer.

About every three years we have one of these orgies at our house. It usually begins when my wife is looking for something important. Like the ball of wool to finish my curling sweater, which she began knitting three winters ago. Or the shetland clipping which states that she once came in fourth of the class in grade 6.

She starts rooting around in our documents drawer — a big dresser drawer crammed with old orgasters, receipts for ancient bills, lapsed insurance policies, membership cards for the year 1950, single stamps of every shape and hue, newspaper clippings about the kids' first music festival wins, odd shoelaces, combs with missing teeth and photographs, hundreds of them.

Pretty soon I hear yelps of dismay, snorts of outrage, and chorties of amusement. Gruesingly I join her to make sure she doesn't throw out anything valuable, like my German company that doesn't work.

For a couple of minutes we work systematically, sorting the junk into piles, to be thrown out or saved. Then I catch her trying to chuck out a perfectly good picture of a WAAF corporal named Wendy, whom I knew well once upon a time. She retaliates by pointing out the indistinguished jerk in the class picture who we scrawy about her.

From there on, it's every man for himself, and within a few minutes we have about 12 different piles of stuff around us. "You don't want this silly thing do you?" she sniffs holding up a dance program vintage 1939, with the name of a girl called Sylvia written in every space. "Oh, don't I though!" I retort, salvaging it though I can't even remember when Sylvia looked like.

Then we get sobbing at pictures of the kids when they were little, and the years between leave and laughter. We linger over one of them in swimming in their here bottoms, fat, dimpled and delighted, and our thoughts go with awe to the great, walloping, expensive, lippy, ovary, characters they've become.

And we find a lump of ourselves on our honeymoon. We look at it, at each other, and shake our heads in disbelief and sorrow. "Never mind, dear," she reassures, "you look much more intellectual with a higher forehead." And gallantly I reply, "And you sweetheart, certainly have a lot more character in your face now."

Somehow, this doesn't hit the right note, and there's a slight frost in the air we go on sorting. But soon we're absorbed again. She is reading with intense admiration an old English essay on which she received an A-plus mark. I am contemplating wistfully an 18-year-old snap of myself, in which I had a vast fighter-pilot's handlebar moustache, and an evil glint in my eye.

"Why don't you throw those old monthly letters out?" I suggest, as she sits there, a big bundle of them in her hand, gazing dreamily at the wall. "Wouldn't you just love me to," she taunts. "Listen to this." And she reads me a purple passage from one of the craziest, most unsettling love letters I've ever heard, from some old flame.

Turns out his name was Bill. Turns out I wrote it. I got a cold chill down my spine, a red face, and must something about "getting this mess cleaned up. I've got work to do."

We fill a large oyster with discarded items. We look at all the piles we've sorted so carefully. We look for string to tie them into separate bundles. No string. We look for paper bags, to bag them separately. No bags, so we throw everything back into the dresser and in a few days we're more than we start ed with, and we can honestly get it closed.

PAUL ANKA AND WIFE. Canada's famous pop singer and composer, Paul Anka, 22, of Ottawa, embraces pretty 20-year-old cover girl Anne de Zoghbi after they were married in Paris. They chose Saint Moritz, Switzerland, for their honeymoon.

SHE'S A BOY? Pretty 17-year-old Sandy Aycock, of Houston, Texas, has a problem—the army, navy, air force and marines keep mistaking her for a boy. The curvaceous young lady is always getting brochures from them urging her to join the military—"the ideal career for young men." Why? She thinks it's because she has always been known as Sandy, rather than Sandra.

FOOTBALL STAR CHAIRS EASTER SEAL DRIVE

Football star Johnny Bright of Edmonton was officially appointed as honorary chairman of the Alberta 1963 Easter Seal Campaign, at the campaign luncheon held in Edmonton recently. He is pictured here with Lenny Wilkens, Edmonton's Easter Seal "Timmy" for last year.

Six foot one, 215 pound Johnny Bright, a tough competitor on the football field, is one of the last remaining players who joined the Edmonton Club in 1954 and helped lead the team to Grey Cup victory for 3 successive seasons. He has been named to the All Star Conference for 6 occasions, was outstanding player of the year in the 1958 Shrine Game & in 1959 was Schenley Award winner and Edmonton's Athlete-of-the-year.

A good all round athlete, not only in football, but in basketball and fastball, Johnny has a soft spot in his heart for children. He says he is proud and honored to have been chosen Hon. Alberta Chairman for the 1963 Easter Seal Campaign.

Boy! You should see it!

Yes indeed, you should. In fact, we invite you to drop in and see the attractive new premises of the Bank of Montreal's Daysland Branch at the corner of Main Street and Alberta Avenue. We're moving into our new home just in time for the coming week-end and we'll be ready to welcome you there on Monday morning.

Everything about our new premises has been arranged for your convenience. There's much more space than in our old office — a streamlined counter, with accommodation for three tellers for speedy service — two private coupon booths, for safety-deposit-box customers — a large steel-and-reinforced-concrete vault.

Add to these features fluorescent lighting, an acoustic-tile ceiling, colourful non-skid rubber-tile flooring, walnut woodwork and a pleasant colour-scheme, and you have the most modern in banking facilities in the most attractive surroundings.

In Daysland, as in hundreds of other communities across Canada, our aim is to provide the kind of helpful service Canadians in every walk of life have come to expect from the B of M over the past 145 years.

PARKING'S NO PROBLEM, EITHER...

Ample parking space will soon be available close to the bank and you won't have to spend time looking for a place to park your car. Our old building is being demolished to make way for a parking lot for customers' cars.

FARM MANAGEMENT MEETS!

Time is flying and we are all fairly busy during March. Nevertheless, if any group is interested in holding a meeting on farm management and or farm records, please contact me soon so we can work it in before the spring work starts.

FARM OPERATING AGREEMENTS:

In this era of high farm investment and mechanization it is most important to make plans early if the family farm is to be kept in the family. Here are some farm operating agreements and types of transfer agreements suggested by Dr. Glen R. Purnell, Director of Alberta's Farm Business Branch:

A fairly common operating agreement is the wage agreement where the son is paid his wages. This is all right for a temporary arrangement but should be replaced as soon as possible by a more permanent one offering more incentive to the future owner or owners.

In an enterprise agreement, the son has the main responsibility for one or more enterprises on the basis of their being self-sustaining. This should not however, be his only responsibility. He should share in other parts of the operation so that he can fully learn the farm business.

A rental agreement is another type of business agreement. In this case a share basis rather than a cash rent is usually better because the son is often not in a position to cope with the risk and capital investment.

If a father-son partnership is adopted it should always be in writing and cover the purpose of the agreement, the duration, the type of relationship, the contributions of each party, how and by whom the records are to be kept, how dividend is to be made, the limitations of each partner's actions and have provision for final transfer.

Incorporating the farm is still another type of business agreement. In Alberta a farmer can incorporate under the Companies Act. It is not, however, generally advantageous to incorporate unless the capital investment of the farm is between $75,000 and $100,000 and the taxable income around $10,000 a year.

Dr. Purnell says there are advantages and disadvantages to both partnership and incorporating. The advantages of a partnership over a corporation are that it is easily dissolved, less subject to legal problems and cheaper to use in annual reports, audits, etc. The disadvantages include unlimited liability of each partner in case of business debts, transfer of assets is not clear-cut & the death or withdrawal of one partner in the case of a corporation, it is perpetual existance, it facilitates an easy transfer by shares, there is limited liability, meaning participants are not liable for debts or actions of the company and there can be tax advantages on larger farms.

Regarding farm transfer Dr. Purnell points out that it can be done by will, gift, agreement of sale, lease and mortgage and by rental with an option to buy. However, there are several points which must be carefully considered before anyone of these arrangements is decided upon. They include provision for an adequate income for the parents, provision for an adequate income for the person taking over the farm, provision for compensation to other children, consideration of capital and provincial income and estate tax laws, approval of the plan by all the parties concerned and consultation with a solicitor on the legal aspects of the transfer arrangement.

Dr. Purnell strongly advises farmers with questions to consult their D. A. regarding the best arrangement for their particular circumstances. When this has been settled they should contact a competent lawyer.

F.U.A. Newsletter

Members of the Joint Game and Wildlife Committee, on which are representing the FUA, AFA, Western Livestock Growers and the Alberta Fis land Game Assn., met with Mr. Willmore, minister of lands and forests. The minister reported that the premiums for crop insurance would be reduced to 2 percent. He was disappointed about the lack of participation. If the fund is not used it may be discontinued. The committee took the stand that a change in conditions and increase in duck population could make this fund and the insurance policy very important. A change in insurance practice was suggested so that a farmer could insure any portion of a quarter section without designating the actual area. The minister agreed to take a look at this proposal after consulting with the Insurance Board. Basically the minister is opposed to compensation for loss of livestock. He considers the actual loss caused by accidental shooting by hunters to be very small.

The minister outlined a proposed hunter training program for young people. The basic idea was to train leaders, who in turn, would be available to instruct young peoples' and adult groups. The question arose as to whether granting of hunting licenses in the future would be dependent on successful completion of such courses. The minister felt this to be an interesting possibility, but plans had not been developed to the point where this had been considered.

Election activities have begun in many areas. One of the 14 FUA districts has announced that 9 forums have been arranged during March. At these forums all candidates are given 20 minutes each to present the platform. This is followed by a short question period among the candidates, after which questions are invited from the audience. It is expected 180 or more meetings will be arranged in Alberta by groups of locals.

MAINSTREET AT LOUGHEED

Miss Irene Pope of Edmonton was over in the week end.

Mrs. Minnie MacDonald and Jim of Edmonton spent the week end visiting in the district.

Mr an . Mrs Don McBeth and Mrs. Bertha Johnson of Camrose spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Lossens.

The social evening put on by the Lougheed Community Society last Saturday drew a very large crowd from Lougheed and district. To start the evening a few films were shown. Following this Mr. Tom Kenny acted as M. C. for the program in which Jimmy Macdonald of Edmonton, Mrs.

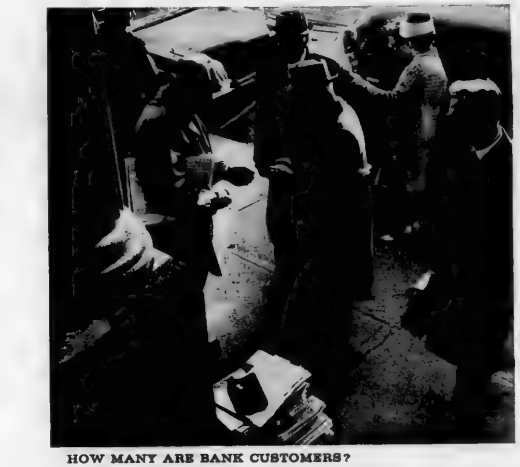
H. Ferrier of Sedgewick and a good number of very talented people from our own community took part. A delicious lunch was enjoyed by all. To finish off the evening Johnny Heron and his orchestra supplied music for a few dances.

The Women's World Day of Prayer was held at the Trinity Church on March 1st. There was a good attendance of 66. Mrs. McGee gave the message. Mrs. W. M. Routledge was the organist. Mrs. Art Leedham & Mrs Cliff Foster entertained with a duet. Lunch was served.

The home of Mr and Mrs Glen Rogg gemack was the scene of a lovely shower when friends from Groveland gathered to honor Miss Peggy McKinnon. A short program consisting of a reading by Mrs. John Johnson, song by Donna Roggemack, two readings by Mrs. W. Patterson, song by Darlene Freeman and Helen Roggemack, and a song played and sung by Mrs Glen Roggemack. Mrs. Rawlek conducted two contests. Peggy was then led to a lace covered table under a canopy of pink and white streamers. Norma Denham & Donna Roggemack wheeled in a pink and white filled basket with gifts. Peggy graciously thanked the guests, and a lovely lunch was served.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Stan Jackson, their daughter Lois, and Miss Shirley Penno of Coleinel.

A large number of people from the Lougheed district attended the Remembrance Night in Sedgewick Friday. They all really enjoyed the program and the dance which followed.



HOW MANY ARE BANK CUSTOMERS?

A safe guess would be every one of them / That's because, in Canada, practically everybody has regular dealings with a chartered bank / Deposit accounts number more than 12½ million—or better than one for every adult. And on the books of the banks at any one time are 1,800,000 loans for just about every personal and commercial purpose / Through 5,000 branches, from one end of the country to the other, the chartered banks bring a full banking service within the reach of everyone.

F. U. A. NEWSLETTER

With the federal election coming up on April 8th, the FUA will again have meetings, which will give the candidates of the different political parties a chance to appear before the rural people and talk about their platform. Those living in rural areas get through these non-partisan meetings an opportunity to learn in one evening what the different candidates stand for and to make a decision for which party they want to vote. In the past these meetings have been attended by thousands of people, and the FUA has received many favorable comments on them. The way they are organized and chaired in a strictly neutral manner has been a real service to the people of Alberta. The organization strives to keep its proud record unblemished in these meetings prior to April 8th. It is the responsibility of the FUA directors to organize these meetings in their district, and we advise rural people to watch announcements about such meetings in their local newspaper.

The members of the FUA tour to Eastern Canada visited the offices of the Ontario Hog Producers Marketing Board, and were shown how hog sales are conducted through the use of electronic bidding and recording machines. This was an impressive experience and upon their return these FUA members will be able to describe to their neighbors something of this new method of hog marketing which has attracted worldwide attention. This is a matter of considerable importance in Alberta, since the movement toward a producer marketing board for hogs is steadily attracting more attention.

In spite of the turmoil in Ottawa the National Farm Union met separately with all political parties and presented their brief on behalf of Western and Ontario farmers. This was well received in all cases. There is reason to believe that some political platforms will be taken from the N. F. U. brief.

The Farmers' Union executive meets each year during the sessions of the Provincial Legislature with members of all parties. It provides an opportunity for free and frank discussion of the problems and policies of the FUA and M.L.A's. The meeting will take place this month.

DENTIST VISIT. Barry Lee Rosenthal of Boston was only three weeks old when he made his first visit to the dentist. Here he's having a lower incisor tooth yanker which he was born with. It became loose and had to be extracted.—

"GET WELL" WISHES FROM HUNDREDS. Nurse Margo Herman finds it a big but happy chore to read all the get-well cards 5-year-old Gregory Elliott has received. Most of the cards and letters are from Nova Scotia, where $1,300 was raised to bring Greg to Toronto from his home town of Tiverton for a heart operation. Gregory is well on the road to recovery.

RED CROSS NEEDS YOUR HELP NOW

MRS. F. WEBER, Campaign Chairman

(By Kathleen Carney, Dis. H. Ec.)

Butter has become a veritable whipping post for a number of things. It is supposed to cause heart disease. We have a surplus of it, and it is much too expensive and way must better alone have that golden yellow color which many housewives would like to see in the margarine they buy? Why in the face of all this should YOU support butter? Is it any of your business, as about you just let it go hang?

Well, we all want a healthy rural economy and butter is an integral part of this. Butter itself brings in approximately $13 million annually to Alberta by virtue of the butter exported from the province. The value of milk and cream produced in Alberta in 1961 was 51. 8 million. The major portion of this was spent here in Alberta with a large number of urban people reaping the benefits.

The consumption of butter dropped by 25 percent in 1949 when margarine was introduced into Alberta. There are indications that it would drop still more if coloring of margarine were allowed. This would certainly have a depressing effect on the income of a large section of the rural population. If margarine colored, in the same way as butter were on sale with butter side-by-side on the same counter under the label of "Dairy Products" and at half price, would not many a housemother make a switch? She would appreciate the financial saving.

Heart Disease

Now what about the charges of heart disease that had been laid at the door of butter? It has been often said in the past that the saturated or animal fats may give rise to an increase in cholesterol (deposit inside the arteries) and that this would bring on heart disease. It has been claimed that the unsaturated fats (vegetable oils) do not have this effect. While it is true that margarine does contain vegetable oils, it also contains saturated fats. So it is not entirely in the clear.

The pamphlet by the American Medical Assn., "Latest Food Fad is a Wasted Effort," says: It is not known what type of fat if any may be beneficial in preventing heart disease, nor is it known that certain fats are harmful. The anti-fat, anti-cholesterol fad is not just foolish and futile. It also carries some risk."

Some authorities are of the opinion that overeating, lack of exercise and nervous tension have a greater effect on heart disease than any single article of diet.
